

Weak B 51

Chapter 51: Do you believe that I will tank deliberately?

Kang Li: "...” Okay, she really hadn’t thought of that.

With a slight purse of the lips, Kang Li’s thoughts drifted back to the days before she set off for North City, remembering the words her mother had held her and said... If anything happened to her, her father, mother, and brothers...

She quickly reeled in her thoughts, not wanting to continue down that path.

Because she knew that given her family’s affection for her, along with the original narrative’s description of the cannon fodder “Kang Li” and the fated end of her relatives, should she follow the same trajectory as the original protagonist, her family would probably return to their predestined fates.

Did she want to see that outcome?

Of course, Kang Li did not.

Her gaze fell on the English letters in the book, and she didn’t move for a long time.

“Miss, the body strengthening pill and gene repair liquid can grant you long life and good fortune. They are well worth owning!”

Sensing that Kang Li's mood had softened, Dwen Dwen continued its effort: "The more Points you have, the more body strengthening pills or gene repair liquids you can exchange for in the future. Miss, perhaps your relatives need them too!"

Kang Li: "You..."

There was no follow-up for a long time.

Dwen Dwen: "Miss, have you ever heard: Youth does not come twice, nor does the dawn of a new day; seize the moment, for time waits for no one; the past is like that husband, unceasing day and night; life between heaven and earth is like a fleeting white colt; though the sky can be patched, the sea can be filled, and the South Mountain can be moved. But once the time has passed, it cannot be reclaimed..."

Kang Li: "Are you done?"

Dwen Dwen: "Not yet, listen to me, Miss, I'll continue: The most painful thing is not the tears of failure, but the regret of not having tried; not knowing how to cherish leads only to regrets; every moment of not striving..."

"You're climbing up the pole, huh?"

Feeding her soulful chicken soup—dispensing wisdom from both ancient and modern times—this little thing that calls itself a newbie from the Unified Realm is truly no ordinary mutt!

Not working hard today and regretting tomorrow, is that it?

Kang Li's lips curled up with a nearly imperceptible smirk that seemed a tad mischievous.

"Believe it or not, I might just throw in the towel?"

Dwen Dwen immediately became as quiet as a chicken.

Kang Li: "Scared now?"

Dwen Dwen: "... " Quite at a loss.

Kang Li: "You're very noisy, you know that?"

Dwen Dwen: "Miss, I think I am quite okay!"

Kang Li: "Is that so?"

Dwen Dwen: “Miss, you must have misunderstood me, I’m not talkative at all.” According to the collective wisdom of the seniors from the Unified Realm, the most effective weapon when dealing with a difficult but animal-loving host is to act cute and coquettish.

Yes, to act cute and coquettish, throwing away all dignity if necessary!

After all, their ultimate goal is—to complete the mission!

“You think I have a problem with my brain?”

Was she a big fool?

The little thing kept chattering away in her mind—how was this not noise?

Dwen Dwen shook its head like a bobblehead: “Nope, nope, Dwen Dwen never thought that! In my eyes, Miss, you are like a beacon in my life, the epitome of beauty and intelligence. Without you, my life would lose all its luster, just like a fish out of water...”

“You’re really quite a piece of work!”

Kang Li was amused by the System, though she did not laugh out loud.

“Blowing rainbow farts quite skillfully, Dwen Dwen, you’ve grown up!”

Dwen Dwen: “Are you praising me, Miss?”

Kang Li: “What do you think?”

Dwen Dwen: “Dwen Dwen thinks you are.”

Kang Li: “Then it must be so.”

Dwen Dwen beamed, its face breaking into a happy smile: “Miss, you look so beautiful when you smile, like the flowers of spring, blowing away all worries and sorrows, and like...”