Chapter 65 Kang Li: Stubbornly Not Letting You Have Your Way

Yet, when the female protagonist chose to call out to her in public, bringing the child along to apologize to her face-to-face, even the deepest of calculations could not be hidden from her.

After all, through the content of the books, she clearly knew what kind of character the female protagonist was.

Su Man had no idea what Kang Li was thinking. She tugged at the corners of her mouth, enduring the awkwardness as she said, "Comrade, you're really kind, so magnanimous, not holding a grudge against my two children."

"I've already said that your little girl did nothing wrong. Since she's not at fault, why would I be angry with a child? Besides, even if the little girl had said something amiss, I, as an adult, wouldn't stoop so low as to be petty about such a trivial matter and take it out on a child."

White lotus flowers and green tea bitches, as far as Kang Li herself is concerned, she makes no judgment, as long as these kinds of women do not entangle with her.

Otherwise, she wouldn't save their face.

Bending down, Kang Li looked straight into Wen Yi's slightly red eyes. She rubbed the little girl's head, her smiling voice sounding both gentle and friendly, "Behave, you said nothing wrong in front of Vivi. Don't worry that auntie will get angry."

“Are you really not angry?”

Wen Yi held back the tears falling from her eyes as she asked cautiously.

Kang Li shook her head, “No. But auntie hopes you won’t say such things in front of Vivi in the future, okay? Because auntie’s Vivi is still small, and hearing that would make her feel uneasy and unhappy.”

“Okay, I won’t say it anymore.”

Wen Yue nodded.

“What a good child!”

Rubbing the little girl’s head once more, Kang Li’s other hand reached into her pocket and then pulled out several White Rabbit Creamy Candies, “Here you go, auntie is treating you and your sister to some candy.”

Alright, the candies were actually exchanged temporarily from the System with points.

“Thank you, auntie! I was wrong. I’m the older child; I shouldn’t have said those things to my sister Vivi, causing her to be sad and upset.”

Clutching the White Rabbit Creamy Candies Kang Li gave her, Wen Yue bowed slightly to apologize.

“Fairy Aunt, can my sister and I still play with Vivi?”

Wen Yi asked with her baby voice at this moment.

“Of course, you can.”

Gently rubbing the little girl’s head, Kang Li’s bright, fox-like eyes smiled like crescent moons, “All right, you should go home with your mom. Auntie has things to do at home and can’t chat with you for long.”

With that, Kang Li nodded toward Su Man and then turned to walk into her own courtyard.

She didn’t care what kind of face the other party made; she simply followed her own heart in speaking and acting.

“Let’s go back.”

As much as possible, Su Man tried to maintain her gentle expression. She glanced at the Wen sisters before attempting to take their hands to head home,

Unexpectedly, Wen Yue and Wen Yi simultaneously avoided her. With a tense face, Wen Yue said, “My sister and I will play outside. When we want to go home, we’ll go back by ourselves.”

Bad woman!

Going out in the afternoon, she somehow heard about the incident with her and her little sister, Wen Yi, upsetting Vivi. When they got home, the woman began nagging at her and her sister to tell everything about what happened. Against their will, she demanded they go to the Luo Family to apologize.

If they didn’t comply, she threatened to tell their father.

To avoid their father’s displeasure, she and her sister could only obediently follow the bad woman out of the house, filled with uneasiness.

Unexpectedly, Vivi’s Mother didn’t blame them at all, even clearly stating she was not wrong.

“Alright, just remember to come home early.”

With a smile on her face, Su Man spoke warmly as she walked away under the obvious repelling stares of the Wen sisters.

She had not expected that the plan she had thought through before leaving the house would turn out entirely against her expectations.
