Chapter 88 Kang Li Becomes Suspicious

“Ruirui, you can play by yourself for a while,” Kang Li said, “Vivi and Hanhan stay, I have something to say to them.”

Clearly, she was talking to Ming Rui Baby.

And Xiao Ming Rui moved his lips, but in the end, he didn’t make a sound and went back to his room.

“Tell mom, why did you suddenly run ahead by yourselves?”

Kang Li asked in a gentle voice.

However, the twins both bowed their little heads and remained silent.

Kang Li found it amusing in her heart and occasionally thought to herself: It’s just like the twins to have such an understanding, neither of them willing to speak first when she asked a question.

But Kang Li wasn’t in a hurry, the corners of her lips slightly upturned. After about two or three minutes had passed, she directed the question to Milk Bun: “Hanhan, you speak.”

Unexpectedly, it was Cute Baby Weiwei's childish voice that chimed in: "Second Brother and I wanted to go to Sister Lulu's house to play, we were afraid you wouldn't agree, so..."

Cute Baby Weiwei didn't finish her sentence, but her meaning was clear.

Kang Li: "Is that so?"

"Yeah, that's what happened."

Cute Baby Weiwei nodded her little head vigorously, and without waiting for Kang Li to speak again, she opened her black grape-like eyes wide and asked in a childish voice, "Don't you trust us? Do you think Second Brother and I have been naughty? But we only wanted to play at Sister Lulu's for a little while, you won't spank our little bottoms for this, will you?"

Standing up, Cute Baby Weiwei instinctively protected her own little bottom and moved a couple of steps to the side, readying herself to run away.

Milk Bun Ming Han followed suit.

Kang Li: "Did I say I was going to spank your little bottoms?" She said, her beautiful face adorned with a faint smile, glancing at Cute Baby Weiwei and then at Milk Bun Ming Han, she slowly continued, "Running off on your own, do you know that's very dangerous?"

Cute Baby Weiwei was clever and wilful, puffing up her cheeks: “There’s no danger at all in the courtyard.”

“Nothing is absolute. Do you know what ‘nothing is absolute’ means?” Kang Li asked.

The twins shook their heads.

Kang Li: “Then you’d better listen carefully, ‘nothing is absolute’ means that there is nothing absolute in this world. You may think the courtyard is safe, but what if an accident happens?

For example, if a bad person tries to sneak into our courtyard, and they happen to see you two kids running around without any adults, and they notice how good-looking you are,

they might drug you to knock you out, then take you out of the courtyard, and sell you to a place far away...”

Cute Baby Weiwei “hmmphed,” interrupting Kang Li from continuing, then she turned her head away, refusing to look at Kang Li and raised her voice, “I am very smart, and I won’t be caught by any bad people.”

Kang Li: “No matter how smart you are now, you are still just a child. When confronting an adult, can you beat them or run back home with your little short legs?”

Cute Baby Weiwei: “Are you trying to scare Second Brother and me?”

Kang Li finally realised something; she noticed that from the moment the twins entered the house until now, they hadn't called her 'mom' once.

They started with "you" when addressing her.

With confusion in her heart, Kang Li wondered: Could it be that the twins' previous display of understanding and politeness was all an act?

Could it be?

Ever since Ruirui first saw her until now, he's been the same — quiet and hasn't called her 'mom' once.

There was no question of putting on a facade.

But the twins...

Were they that cunning?

They are just cubs, only two and a half years old, probably don't even know what 'pretending' means, so how could they put on an act in front of her?

If the twins weren't pretending, then how could they explain what happened today?

"Scaring you?"

Kang Li murmured softly, then shook her right index finger: "I'm not trying to scare you. If you don't believe me, you can ask Granny Qi later and hear what she says about it."
