

Widow 139

Chapter 139

"Mrs. Bowles..." Cold sweat broke out on Mr. Beardsley's forehead. "In that case, let's go and check the surveillance video directly..."

If Crystal called the police and the police got involved, it would bring a bad impact on him. But he didn't dare to offend Mrs. Bowles, and he only hoped that Mrs. Bowles could see the truth and stop making things difficult.

"Don't need to check the surveillance!" Mrs. Bowles put her arms around her waist and said, "I don't think you can solve this. Fine, I'll go and find the principal directly!"

She glared at Crystal, took out her mobile phone, and dialed a number. Her voice instantly became gentle and aggrieved. "Hey, honey, I was bullied... and your son! Do you know that your son was framed and beaten? The other kid is from an ordinary family, and I don't know where he got the courage from... Yes, our son may have said a few words about him, but what he said is the truth!"

"His mother actually divorced his father after being hit a few times. Isn't this irresponsible for her child? In my opinion, it's all her fault that the child has become like this... Yes, hubby, they keep saying it's our fault now and they're unwilling to give up. What's the use of this kind of child staying in kindergarten? I remember that you are a friend of the principal. Call the principal and let Bernard withdraw from the kindergarten..."
