

Widow 183

Chapter 183

“Miss Bolton.” A young woman quickly walked into the room with a serious expression. “Have you seen the trending news?”

Christy was sitting on the sofa watching TV. When she heard this, she said, “What trending news? Don’t get frightened easily.”

The woman said, “Yesterday was the fashion show, but there was an accident at the last minute. Someone ruined the cheongsam you embroidered.”

Christy frowned. “So, the show was ruined?”

“That’s what surprised me.” The woman said, “Not only was the fashion show not ruined, but it also won the cheers of the whole audience. That cheongsam has been made up!”

“What?!” Christy instantly stood up. “How is that possible?! No one can mend my embroidery technique!”

The woman handed the tablet to her and said, “Look, the embroidering technique used to repair the cheongsam is really the same as your technique!”

Christy looked at the picture and her pupils constrict. “How... how could it be!”

that the silk ribbon’s embroidering technique was more miraculous than his own. It instantly reminded her of a person who should have managed to calm down and asked, “Do you

woman said, “She seems to relief when she heard that it

it couldn’t be that by her a long time ago, and had already become crazy. How could she still use the needle acupuncture technique! Christy slowly sat down and said,

to meet

“Okay, Miss Bolton. I’ll arrange it looked at an

the pictures of the Thousand Carp. Each carp had different movements and patterns. Its scales were shining, and the lotus that grew out of the mud were clean. There were no tendrils and dewdrops on the lotus leaves. At first glance, it was amazing. No matter how hard national master of embroidery. The purpose of her going abroad this that this was Christy's best work, but only Christy herself knew- She had tried her best but could not come up with this Thousand Carp embroidery. This was cold after waking