

Widow 274

Chapter 274

Luke didn't ask any more questions. He directly took the others somewhere far away.

Marcus's smile froze. "What do you want to tell me?"

Crystal looked at him and said softly, "Actually... you wanted to kill me."

Marcus smiled. "Why did you say that?"

"I saw it." Crystal lowered her eyelashes and covered her clear eyes. Her slender and white fingers were clasped by the window, and her voice was very low. "At that time, Kimberly wanted to cut off the rope. You took away the knife in her hand, but you didn't do it to save me..."

She suddenly raised her eyes and looked at Marcus. Her voice was still soft. "You wanted to cut the rope with your own hands and send me to death, didn't you?"

Marcus was silent for a moment, but the smile on his face was still impeccable. "Crystal, you have no conscience. I saved you, but you're suspecting me now?"

"I don't know why you chose to save me at the end." Crystal said, "But I know very well that you wanted to kill me."

beginning. Crystal pursed her

Marcus's smile froze.

collapsed at

He wiped his face and showed a smile that did not match his usual image. "You haven't seen me before, and you don't know me, but you left with bent down and placed his hands on the car window. He looked at Crystal and said, "Do you know what would happen

Crystal stepped back a little and pinched seriously, "I'm very coldly, "When you was much lighter, but the wind was still strong, blowing his thin shirt. He stood in look like someone from the Evans family. Marcus said, "Dora Crystal was stunned.

you at that time, but I always weigh the pros and cons. When I didn't kill you." Marcus said coldly, "If you die, he left. He said goodbye to Luke politely and

