

Widow 324

Chapter 324

Alda was so frightened that she took a step back. Luckily, Eric had helped her up in time. Otherwise, she would have fallen to the ground this time. Her forehead was covered in a cold sweat and her voice was trembling. "You... you can't be impartial. She was the one who pushed me..."

Harold seemed to be too lazy to say anything more to her. He tilted his head slightly and said, "Luke."

"Yes," Luke responded and slowly walked out. He smiled politely at Alda and said, "Hello, Mrs. Coombs."

"What... what are you going to do?"

Luke smiled. "Don't be nervous, Mrs. Coombs. I won't hit a woman, much less a pregnant woman."

Before Alda could heave a sigh of relief, she heard Luke say again, "But we also have many other means. I always think that spiritual destruction is much more terrible than physical torture. I wonder if Mrs. Coombs agrees with my words or not."

Alda was about to burst into tears because of the strong pressure.
