

Widow 392

Chapter 392

The reason why the other party dared to blow up the amusement park was that they were sure that Harold would help them deal with the aftermath.

Harold didn't intend to tell Crystal about these things.

"Are you going to the studio today?" Harold asked.

"Yes." Crystal said, "The dress is about to be completed. I'm going to do some finishing work today, and then the client will come to check it."

Harold asked, "This should be your first income?"

Crystal thought for a moment and said, "I don't think so. When I was little, I secretly added two cents to the eggs I sold on the streets. In the end, I earned fifty cents. I saved it and bought an ice cream to eat. Strictly speaking, that was my first income."

Harold was speechless.

Crystal added, "And blackmailing Jacqueline previously..."

She was momentarily stupefied after she said that. When she thought of Jacqueline's death yesterday, she pursed her lips, brought a mouthful of porridge into her mouth, and then said, "I earned some money. Do you want me to treat you to a meal?"

"Do you think that you shouldn't invite me to dinner?"
