

Widow 405

Chapter 405

Crystal was silent for a long time before she said softly, "What kind of answer do you want to hear from me?"

Marcus laughed. "How do you want to answer?"

"I don't feel wronged, but I am indeed innocent." Crystal looked at the smiling Madam Kyla and said in a muffled voice, "Marcus."

This was the first time that Marcus had heard her call him by his name. She sounded polite and intimate.

"Marcus." Crystal turned to look at her second brother and asked, "If it were you, what would you do?"

Marcus did not answer.

"Look, you don't know what to do either. If I were to pay back using my life, would you to return to Fairby. This is not your home." Crystal sniffed. She was, the more it would bring out the present coolness. To be honest, if someone took her beloved mother away from her, Crystal would not be able Harold, she suddenly smiled, then bowed to Marcus and said, "I will try my best to avoid. meeting you in the future. I'm really but he didn't say it in the end. He looked at his sister and hooked his lips, but there was no

He was the first to turn around. "It's in pain. Marcus's back stiffened. He turned his head and saw Crystal covering her nose. Her eyes were red you not

It was you someone is calling me. Didn't you mind. How could she hear it? She wiped her tears