

Widow 409

Chapter 409

Mr. Reynes had never thought that a sc*mbag like him would be a love counselor for someone else one day

As for Crystal's question, he answered carefully, "I don't think so... I think he likes you a lot. Even if you don't end up together, he will arrange everything else for you for the rest of your life."

Crystal was silent for a while, and Larry quickly made up for it. "In fact, you can't say that. Why would he abandon you for no reason? No one knows what will happen in the future. You are still young, but those who made life-long promises in the beginning are actually real jerks."

Crystal looked at Larry, hesitated for a moment, and asked, "When you had a girlfriend, did you make a solemn vow as soon as you were with her?"

Larry said, "Am I such a person in your eyes? My girlfriend and I would agree to a peaceful breakup even before we get together."

"Then why did you have so many relationships before?" Crystal was confused. "I heard that you have many ex-girlfriends."

"Maybe I'm too nice. They didn't like anyone else after breaking up with me," Larry said, "I can understand."

Crystal, "..."

in from outside the door and said lightly, "If suddenly stopped, and the expression on his face was blank for a moment. He frowned and said,

Seeing her dejected look, he rubbed her hair and asked, "What's wrong?"

asked in a muffled voice, moment before saying, "Why did you ask that? Did someone tell you something?"

pair of misty eyes. "I just think that I don't seem to be needed smiled. "CoCo needs you. She waits for you to return

"Who is CoCo? Why do I not know her? This name sounds

the nickname of Devil," Harold said with Larry was speechless.

sounded nice but tacky.

"You will say that you need

also need

hair behind her ear and said, "You need to warm me

Crystal, "..."