

Widow 452

Chapter 452

Anaya naturally remembered that she was in the orphanage. The dean said that she had been abandoned at the gate of the orphanage when she was still a baby. It was snowing heavily. If it weren't for her tough life, she would have been frozen to death.

When she got into the university and was about to leave the orphanage, the dean warned her not to ask for anything that didn't belong to her. In the end, it would only hurt people and herself.

A few years ago, the youth's heart was higher than the sky, and she felt that there was nothing in this world that could not be obtained with effort. But now, when she looked at it again, it was just a joke. Now she was lying on the hospital bed, looking at Alan's face, and there was a slight chill in Alan's tears on her cheeks.

She was 26 years old this year, and the best years of her life had been given to the person in front of her. Whether it was love, pain, or dreams at midnight, it was all his.

"Alan." Anaya sighed softly. "We have missed too many years."

"We have missed too many years, so don't want to miss you anymore." Alan held her hand and said in a hoarse voice, "If I can live to 70 years old, there will be only 44 years left for me to be with you. This is very rare."
