

Widow 531

Chapter 531

Debbie and Mia were still in City W. It was rare for the Hays family to be peaceful. It rained last night, and there was water accumulated everywhere. In addition, there were no crops to grow in July, so Dan sat under the eaves and smoked.

He often sat here. Sometimes, he sat there for a whole day and would not feel bored. The tobacco in the pipe was about to burn out. Dan took out his tobacco bag and was ready to change for a new pack of tobacco. Suddenly, a group of people appeared in the corner of his yard.

The leading girl was wearing a white dress, which was quite different from when she left. But after all, she was the girl whom he had raised for more than ten years. Others could not recognize her, but how could Dan not recognize her?

His hands trembled, and his eyes were watery. He shouted, "Crystal."

Crystal sniffed and threw herself into Dan's arms. "Dad..."

Dan first hugged his daughter tightly, and then suddenly pushed her away. He used the pipe to hit her. "What did you promise me when you left?! I told you not to come back, and you just ignored me, didn't you?"

Crystal dodged twice. Dan was reluctant to really hit her. He wiped his tears and said, "You brat, why are you so disobedient!"

Crystal hugged his arm and said, "I miss you. I want to come back and see you."

Crystal said, "You've seen me now. You can go back." "Dad..." Crystal pursed her lips and said, "I'll have something else to
