

Widow 561

Chapter 561

Sacha was nearly 50 years old this year. Although she was teaching in a remote town, she never gave up on dressing herself up. At this time, she was wearing a soft gray dress. Her hair was coiled up, revealing her smooth forehead, which made her look very gentle. Hearing the students' questions, she put down the teacup and said, "Crystal will be here soon. Why don't you ask her yourself?"

The girl with glasses pursed her lips and said, "She got such bad grades. She must be too embarrassed to talk about it. After all, she was someone who went to high school by cheating..."

Sacha frowned and said, "Vanessa, I've told you so many times that Crystal got into high school with her own ability. She didn't cheat."

She felt a little regretful that she taught Crystal to hide her ability. She was afraid that Debbie would not allow her to continue to study. Who knew that the rumors would be so ridiculous? It was as if everyone had seen Crystal cheating in the exam.

Vanessa said, "Sacha, since junior high school, you've been partial to Crystal. Of course, you will speak up for her... Forget it, it's up to you to believe in her. Anyway, I don't believe it."

The atmosphere was a little stiff for a while.

"Why did you buy so many things?!" Sacha hurriedly said, "Take them back and return them."

"I didn't spend much money." Crystal pulled Sacha to sit down on the chair and said, "Besides, I ate so many free meals at your house in the past. It's nothing."

Sacha sighed. "You."

She glanced at Harold again and said in a low voice, "Crystal, I know that you are already an adult. I don't object to your relationship, but you should protect yourself. Do you understand?"

Crystal thought that Sacha asked her to be careful so that she would not be fooled by some jerks, so she nodded and said, "I know."

Now that all the people had finally arrived, Sacha asked the waiter to start serving the dishes. There were no fancy dishes that could be served in the town, and they were all home-cooked food. Unfortunately, at this moment, among all the people at the table, only Crystal was in the mood to eat.

Vanessa clenched her chopsticks and forced a smile on her face. "Crystal, you've only been away for less than two months, but you've changed a lot. I almost failed to recognize you just now."

Crystal was straightforward. "We're not familiar with each other. It's normal that you can't recognize me."

"You..."

“What about me?”

Bella quickly made peace. “Don’t quarrel. It’s not a big deal.” After that, she looked at Crystal and said, “Crystal, since Vanessa wants to know so badly, just say it. We are all classmates, and we won’t laugh at you.”

Crystal was eating some dessert, which was covered with a layer of brown sugar. It was crispy and sweet. It was quite delicious, but the sticky rice powder made her almost choke. It was Harold who fed her half a glass of water before she finally swallowed it.

When she came to her senses, she saw that everyone at the table was staring at her.

“...” Crystal asked, “What did you say just now?”

Vanessa was pissed off. “Do you need to play dumb? We’ve already said that we won’t laugh at you. How bad is your result that you need to keep hiding it?”

Crystal thought for a moment and said, “... I made a little mistake, but it’s not bad.”

Vanessa crossed her arms and said coldly, “Then tell me about it! Which university did you get into? How many points did you get in the college entrance examination?”

Sacha smiled and said, "Crystal is a low-key girl. When the TV stations wanted to interview her, she refused all of them. She didn't even participate in the school's propaganda. I was actually very surprised when I received the call at that time."

Bella clenched her fists.

Crystal kept a low profile, which meant that she, Bella, was arrogant, wasn't it?

Bella's face darkened for a moment, and then she put on a smile. "This is a good thing, and everyone should know... Come on, Crystal, let me toast you."

She picked up the glass beside her.

Because they were all students, they didn't order wine. Instead, they ordered non-alcoholic drinks. Crystal felt that Bella was very strange. She picked up the glass and clinked it with hers. She found that this drink was mixed with essence and it tasted awful.

The atmosphere was relatively harmonious after that. In the beginning, everyone was curious about Crystal's life after she returned home. However, Crystal only focused on eating and only answered occasionally. It was extremely perfunctory. No one dared to ask Harold, so they could only talk about other things.

Standing in the sun, Bella closed her eyes and took a deep breath.

When she was in junior high school, she knew that Crystal couldn't drink alcohol, and she would get drunk if she took a sip of alcohol.

But she didn't expect that things would go so smoothly today. Her hands were still trembling-

She trembled with excitement.

Whenever she thought of how Crystal would be hated and abandoned by Harold, she was extremely excited.

It would be a good thing if she could take the opportunity to get close to Harold, but it didn't matter if she couldn't get close to Harold.

In fact, the girl who spoke was making malicious guesses. It didn't matter whether there was such a possibility or not. She was just a little depressed.

Crystal, who was inferior to them in every aspect in the past, had transformed from an ugly duck into a white swan. She had beauty, a prominent family background, and a handsome and rich boyfriend...

How could anyone bear such a huge difference?

Bella was so grateful to her for saying those words. On the surface, she said, "Crystal and Farley used to be a little... but that can't be the case. After all, she already has a boyfriend. Well, since we're almost done with the meal, shall we go and wake her up together?"

Speaking of this, she carefully peeked at Harold, only to find that the man's face was cold, as if he didn't care.

Bella, on the other hand, was at a loss. "... What's wrong?"

Sonia frowned and said, "What does this have to do with Crystal?"

Bella blurted out, "Aren't Crystal and Farley-"

Before she could finish her words, she heard a moan coming from the bed. "Hmm... why are there so many people?"

Then there was a scream, "...Ah!! Why am I naked?! I..."

Even though Bella couldn't see the person on the bed clearly, she could tell that the voice was definitely not Crystal's. On the contrary, it sounded like...

Perhaps sensing Bella's gaze, Harold raised his eyes and looked at her.

At that moment, Bella only felt that she was frozen by his gaze. Her whole body was shaking, and every cell in her body was screaming and trembling.

- "What kind of pair of eyes is that? It's so beautiful, but it seems to carry an entire abyss. It's so dark that as long as someone falls, there will be no bones left."

Bella froze on the spot and couldn't take her eyes off him.

She couldn't even control her own body in this extreme fear.

Harold stood up straight and looked away indifferently. He said, "It's not appropriate for me to be here, so I'll take my leave first."

Sacha said, "Where's Crystal? Where did she go?"

"My assistant told me that she has been taken to the car." Harold smiled and said, "She has minor heatstroke. There is an air conditioner in the car."

The sun was shining brightly outside. Even though the temperature in the mountain was much lower than that in the city, the leaves were dried up by the sun. The air conditioner in the car had been turned on. Crystal, who was lying beside the car door, looked like a vigilant little animal.

She was on guard and tried to protect herself with her soft claws

Harold closed his eyes and said, "I'm not with them."

Although Crystal was drunk, her logic was still very clear at this time. "Dad said that I can't believe what a stranger says."

The stranger, Harold, was speechless.

Crystal was a little confused... However, I feel that you look a little familiar."

She slowly crawled over and moved her face close to Harold's. The tip of her nose almost touched the tip of his nose. As long as Harold lowered his eyes, he could see her eyes, which were covered by the thin curtain of her eyelashes.

Harold had no choice but to ask someone to drive the car to the Haye family. Crystal covered her ears for a while and then secretly came to see him. After a while, she moved closer to him and whispered, "You are really handsome."

Harold raised his eyebrows and said, "Don't you refuse to talk to an unfamiliar man?"

Crystal looked confused. "Did I say that?"

Harold was speechless.

Wow, she could be drunk intermittently and talking incoherently.

"You look like someone, Crystal said firmly.
