Chapter 621

Dora's expression immediately changed. "You can't even do such a simple thing?!"

When she heard the news of Dan's death, she did not feel sad at all. On the contrary, she felt that it was a heaven-sent opportunity.

Dora did not feel that she was indifferent. After all, she had never seen Dan before. They were just related by blood. If she was really sad, it would be strange.

Dora had a good plan. She thought that Mia and Debbie could cling to Crystal since Dan was dead and Sunshine Village had been burned. Dora knew very well how annoying these two women could be. If it weren't for the fact that they were still useful, she would have fallen out with them.

Dora was very confident that they would succeed today, but she didn't expect that these two idiots couldn't even handle such a small thing.

"What kind of expression is that?" Debbie was already full of anger. When she saw Dora's reaction, she became even angrier. "Is this how you treat your elders!?"

Mia quickly tried to persuade her. "Mom, don't argue with the child... Dora, your grandma is just angry now. Don't take it to heart."

Dora was extremely disgusted.

Crystal nodded. "Okay."

In fact, she could get along with Sadie well. Sadie would not let others feel any pressure and was thoughtful about everything. When Crystal ate ice cream, she even wiped her mouth for her when she saw that Crystal's face was dirty. Her movements were very skilled, which made Crystal's ears turn red. ... "Don't worry. I just want to catch up with you." The woman in the passenger seat spoke in a soft voice. She wore a large wide hat, covering most of her face. Sadie could only see her wearing bright lipstick.

Who are you?"

The woman said, "Sadie, you are so strange."

"What?"

"The previous you, who used to have memories, desperately wanted to forget things. And the current you, who have lost memories, desperately want to remember things."

Sadie immediately confirmed that she had known this woman before, or that she was very familiar with her. "I just came here on behalf of myself. Don't worry." The woman said slowly. "For so many years, you are the first one to escape. I came to see you living freely."

Sadie could not understand what she was saying, but there was a surge of sadness in the depths of her heart. "Since you have already left, don't investigate it." The woman handed over a bag. "This is your pathology report. The hospital records after the car accident have been dealt with, and there is no record of your condition."

Sadie's heart skipped a beat.

She reached out and took it, only to see a thick stack of reports.

The woman said, "For this short period of freedom, you went all out. I'm indeed not as brave as you. I shouldn't have come here, but we've known each other for so many years, so I'd better come and remind you. Don't lose your life for no reason."

Crystal found that after Harold finished his work, he became very idle.

He hadn't gone to work for several days.

Crystal was happy and worried at the same time.

She was glad that Harold was able to keep her company. However, she was worried that Harold would put all his attention on her since he didn't go to work now.

Crystal asked Harold worriedly. "Has your company gone bankrupt?"

Harold, "It's not that serious."

Crystal breathed a sigh of relief before hearing what he said next. "It's just that there's a new person in charge."

Today, Dana had changed a new blanket for them. It was a light yellowish color that Crystal had chosen. It did not match Harold's room, but Crystal liked it very much.

She used her own things to fill Harold's room bit by bit. On the small table, there was her fairy tale book. On the balcony, there was her toy, and in the bathroom, there was her hairpin.

Even the whole room seemed to be filled with her unique sweet fragrance.

The hormones secreted in humans unquestionably pointed to sex and fertility.

Crystal was placed on the soft bed, which was as soft as a cloud, and she fell into it. Before she could tell her story before going to bed, Harold kissed her.

He kissed her slowly.

Crystal's slender fingers unconsciously grasped the sheets, and there was a little sweat on the tip of her nose. Harold kissed her on the eyelids and said, "Go ahead."

Crystal thought that he had let go of her. Before she had time to rejoice, she saw him kiss her on the neck and went all the way down, bringing a tingling sensation.

On the day Crystal started school, Harald sent her to school.

The century-old Princeton University had a long history. It was located on the edge of City W. It occupied a vast area and was surrounded by many stores. It was always the most convenient to buy things outside the university. There was almost everything here.

There were a lot of students in the new semester. Most of them carried a lot of things with them. Crystal only brought a suitcase, and it was Dana who packed it for her.

She leaned against the window and looked at the crowd outside. "There are so many people."

Harold put his hand on the steering wheel and was in a bad mood.

At the thought of being unable to see Crystal for fifteen days, his mood became even worse.

Crystal was quite happy. It was boring for her to stay at home all the time. Going to school meant that she could make more new friends.

Harold pinched the little ungrateful girl's chin. "How can you still smile?"

Crystal replied, "I'm not."

Crystal was not lying to Harold. As soon as she entered the school gate, she was surrounded by enthusiastic seniors. They rushed to help her get her luggage. The senior who stood at the back rushed out of the crowd. She grabbed Crystal’s suitcase and said, “TW take this junior to sign up. You can welcome other juniors.” The group of boys looked at each other in dismay. Finally, someone said, “No way, class monitor, why are you fighting with us over this? Can’t you give us a chance?”

Senior, “There’s no chance. You don’t deserve it.”

She turned to Crystal and said in a much gentler voice, “Junior, don’t think that they are all very attentive. In fact, they all have ulterior motives. Don’t believe men’s words. You’ll end up miserably if you do!” Crystal nodded after being taught a lesson.

The senior felt that she was very obedient, so she reached out and pinched Crystal’s cheek.
Immediately, she received a bunch of envious, jealous, and hateful eyes.

“Ahem, ahem.” The senior said, “Let’s go. I’ll take you to the dormitory. It’s very sunny. Don’t get exposed to the sun too much.”

“Class monitor.” One of the boys said, “If I remember correctly, this junior’s dormitory is on the sixth floor. Her suitcase...

The senior picked up the suitcase with one hand expressionlessly. “What about the suitcase?”

Crystal thought she had arrived quite early, but when she arrived, her other two roommates were already there. “Nice to meet you.” Crystal greeted politely.

The dormitory in Princeton University was a typical dorm that could accommodate four people with two double-decker beds. The balcony was quite spacious, and the lighting here was good. At the moment Crystal pushed the door open, it seemed that even the light favored her. It outlined her face and made it appear more beautiful.

Facing Crystal, the girl who was packing was stunned, and then said, “Nice to meet you.”

They were almost done unpacking their belongings, so it was easy for Crystal to find her own bed. It was close to the window, and the bed next to hers belonged to the girl who responded to her.

The girl on the opposite side of Crystal’s bed just twitched her lips and said, “I saw you outside. I thought you were from the film and television department.”

Crystal felt that her words were a little weird, but she didn't think much about it. She opened her suitcase and began to tidy up.

"?" No matter how good-tempered Crystal was, she knew that this girl was just here to pick on her.

"What's the matter? If there's nothing else, you can leave. I want to eat."

The girl sneered and said, "I've seen so many vixens like you. Stay away from Bound and I won't make things difficult for you, otherwise..."

She stared at Crystal and said, "Let's wait and see."

Natalie said, "Tell me about it."

During the meal, Crystal heard a lot of gossip about the leader of the student union. After the meal, she went back to the dormitory and continued to unpack. It was almost two o'clock in the afternoon when she was finally done. Natalie sat on the chair, holding her chin and looking at her seriously. "... Crystal was quite embarrassed. "Why are you looking at me?"

"You look good." Natalie smiled. "It's the first time I've seen someone as good-looking as you." Crystal, "..."

Crystal's ears turned red.

"Thank you." She whispered, "You're also very good-looking."

She was not lying. Natalie was indeed good-looking, and her facial features were extremely beautiful. When she smiled, she was even more attractive.

"Come on, you two beautiful women are praising each other. How can ordinary people like us live?" Annette sighed and said, "We are all human beings, and we are made in the same way. Even if we are burned, we will all turn into ashes. How can there be such a big difference?"

Annette's words were filled with kind mockery, but to Elvira's ears, they were extremely ear-piercing. Since she was a child, she had been striving to be outstanding and strived to get the first place in the
