The sun was too bright Crystal stood in the sun for a long time, with a drop of crystal-clear sweat on her eyelashes. She blinked her eyes, and for a moment, her vision blurred Harold's figure only had an outline. A stack of square tissue was sent in front of Crystal. Probably because they were in public, Harold did not directly take action.

Crystal took the tissue and wiped her eyes. The smile in Harold's eyes grew even wider. "You're crying when you see me. Why are you so emotional?"

Crystal, "..."

She stuffed the tissue ball into the pocket of her pants and did not reply to Harold.

He continued teasing Crystal. He leaned over slightly and looked into her bright eyes. A smile lips. "The instructor is talking to you. Didn't you hear me?"

The bottle of water fell into Crystal's arms.

Harold stood up straight and said, "I'll take my leave first, fellow student CoCo."

He was tall and had long legs, so he soon walked far away. Crystal held the water in her arms, and later, she realized that Harold had flirted with her in public.

"...Crystal." Annette approached her and said worriedly, "Have you really offended the instructor?"

Natalie laughed and said, "I don't think so in my opinion, Instructor White should be tolerant."

Annette asked, "Is that so?"

"Of course!" Crystal said firmly, "Just by looking at his face, I can tell that he is a kind and generous person! Look, he gave me a bottle of water."

Crystal whispered, "Then what do you want to do?"

"Since I've already kidnapped you, it'll be a pity if I don't do anything to you," Harold said as he started to untie his belt. Crystal's eyelids twitched and she quickly reached out to hug his neck. "Let's kiss."

Harold's fingers were still on the belt buckle, and he said calmly, "How should we kiss?"

Crystal's fair face turned red. She struggled for a few seconds and made a great concession. "French kiss." Harold was barely satisfied and said, "You should take the initiative."

Crystal, "..."

She hesitantly leaned over and kissed the corner of Harold's lips. In a low voice, she said, "But I don't know how."

"You're really the stupidest child I've ever seen." Harold's eyes darkened and his voice was a little hoarse. "I've taught you so many times, but you still don't know how to do it."

Before Crystal could argue, he had already taken the initiative to kiss her as he clasped the back of her head. Crystal didn't know how long the kiss lasted. Maybe a few minutes, maybe a dozen minutes. Anyway, when he let her go, she was already sweating a lot. Harold pushed her wet hair aside, stood up, and untied his belt with a click. Crystal was shocked and said, "Haven't we kissed already?"

Harold looked sideways at her and said, "It's too hot. I'm only going to take a shower. What are you thinking about?"

Antony didn't know that his younger sister had slandered him behind his back. He just sneezed loudly.

After the afternoon's training was over, Crystal happily followed her friends to the canteen for a meal. Dora looked at her from afar with an unhappy expression.

She was surrounded by a few people who were flattering her. Seeing Crystal and her friends, someone said, "Do you know Crystal's background? I heard that she came back unscathed after an illegal drug was found underneath her pillow."

She deliberately did not mention Matilda's frame-up because she wanted to please Dora.

Dora said coldly. "No matter who she is, she is quite capable of seducing men."

* Dora, why did you say that?"

"Didn't you see it?" Dora sneered. The instructor never looked away from her."

"In that case, it seems to be like this..."

The next day, it rained heavily.

The students were overjoyed. Annette said, "What the f*ck, I saw them praying for rain yesterday. Did it really work?"

Natalie said softly, "Did you ask them to use other ways to ask for rain?"

"It doesn't matter." Annette looked at the heavy rain outside happily: "We can't train in such heavy rain. We can lie in bed in the dormitory for a day... I prayed for the rain yesterday too. I have to go to pay back my wish later."

Natalie, "..."

The students of Princeton University were all superstitious and the reason behind was heartbreaking.

However, the bad news soon came.

They couldn't train in the rain, but they could check their beddings.

At ten o'clock in the morning, there was a notice from the higher-ups that they were going to check their beddings at half past ten. There were male instructors, and they specifically asked all the girls to pack up their personal belongings and wear their uniforms.

Crystal lowered her head and watched Harold unfold her quilt. She didn't know why the quilt was so obedient under his hands.

Harold deliberately slowed down so that Crystal could see the steps clearly. When the quilt had been folded neatly, he looked sideways and asked, "Do you know how to do it now?"

"Probably... yes..." Crystal took a deep breath, took two steps forward, and began to fold the quilt seriously.

"What do you think?" Harold turned his eyes and asked the servant.

"Passed" The servant smiled and said, "There's still room for improvement."

Crystal's face turned red. "...I will continue to work hard."

"Crystal!" Natalie frowned and quickly pulled Crystal. However, the fruit knife in Elvira's hand still scratched Crystal's arm. Immediately, fresh blood splattered everywhere. Elvira, however, seemed to be even more excited by this fresh blood. She raised the knife in her hand and rushed over.

Crystal was stunned for a moment, but she was good at running away. When she was a child, she would run all over the mountain when she was beaten by Debbie. At this moment, she didn't hesitate and quickly ran outside. As soon as she arrived at the door, she heard Elvira scream, and then the sound of the fruit knife falling to the ground. Crystal turned his head and saw Elvira being pinned on the ground by Natalie.

Her face twisted with a ferocious expression, and she was still screaming crazily. Natalie's expression was very cold, and her thick eyelashes covered the emotions in her eyes. However, Annette, who was standing aside, was still in a daze. She trembled and said, "Natalie, you... you are going to strangle her to death."

Natalie said lightly, "Sorry, I used too much strength."

She let go of Elvira's hand and kicked her away. Annette quickly stepped forward and picked up the knife.

When they arrived at the infirmary, Crystal was placed on a chair. The doctor hurried over and asked, "What's wrong?"

"Her arm is injured," Harold said in a deep voice.

The doctor untied the cloth that had been used to stop the bleeding, revealing the ferocious wound. Crystal had been able to comfort Harold before, but now she felt miserable when she looked at the wound.

This kind of injury was actually nothing to the military doctor who had been staying in the base all year round. She had dealt with a lot of wounds for the students of the military academy, so it was inevitable that she would be a little rough when dealing with wounds. When she used a cotton stick to disinfect Crystal's wound, Crystal's eyes were already filled with tears. She looked up at Harold pitifully, and the tears on her eyelashes were about to fall.

"..." The corners of Harold's lips tugged upwards. "Didn't you say you were fine before?"

Crystal sniffed and said, "I feel that I'm not fine now."

Harold took the cotton stick from the doctor's hand and said, "I'll do it."

"... Eh?" The doctor knocked on the table. "Did you keep what I said in mind?"

Crystal, "... No." She tugged on Harold's hand. "But he kept it in mind!"

The doctor looked at her and then at Harold, revealing an understanding smile. "Oh, I see."

She handed the medicine to Harold. "Then you have to take good care of her."

"Hmm," Harold replied.

The rain outside was getting smaller. Harold received a call from Antony. First, he asked about Crystal's situation anxiously. When he learned that she was fine, he heaved a sigh of relief and said, "I'm in the temporary detention room now... If it weren't for the fact that Elvira was a woman, I would have beaten her up miserably."

Harold said, "I'll leave Elvira to you."

Crystal was stunned and said, "Then come back before eight o'clock." After saying that, Harold hung up the phone. Crystal was looking at him.

Crystal bent down to pick her up and said, "I've asked Luke to drive in freedom?" Harold said calmly.

Crystal rubbed her head and rubbed it against Harold's neck. In a muffled voice, she said, "Let's order

Crystal got up, he saw Freud put away his umbrella and walk out of the rain. He looked at his face and said, "Someone was supposed to accompany her, fearing that she would do something. But today, the rain was too heavy, and that person wasn't there." Freud said, "There's no need to worry." Freud said gloomily, "Something happened to Crystal right under our eyes." "Be so crazy?" Antony irritably put out the cigarette butt and said, "I'll go in and take care of her." "I didn't do anything, did you? I'm telling you, it's against the law." "I'm as stupid as you to beat someone up in front of so many people?" Antony scoffed. "Besides, can Elvira, with her physique, take two punches from
