Chapter 1041: Invincible Might! (5)

After tallying up all the spoils, Levi withdrew his attention, sensing the lingering danger.

In the mountains, the occasional roar of black beasts sent shivers down one's spine.

Meanwhile, at the entrance of this lost secret realm, on the side of the bottomless lava pit, a seductive figure in a red robe sat cross-legged. Beside her, the Holy Flame Twins stood obediently.

"Lord Red Bone, should we go in and take a look?" the elder twin asked.

"No need. Going in might only give them a chance to escape. By staying here, they can't elude my sight," the red-robed witch replied with a smile, her teeth eerily crimson. And so it went.

A day passed.

Red Bone remained focused and calm, showing no signs of impatience.

The Holy Flame Twins spoke, "Lord, what if they were killed by the black beasts in the secret realm?"

Red Bone pondered this possibility. It was indeed plausible.

Otherwise, the battle should have ended by now, and the victor would have left immediately.

“Wait for three more days. If they don’t come out, we’ll go in. The Black Flame Meteorite Iron is invaluable to me, and I won’t allow anyone else to obtain it,” she said coldly.

“I wonder how the battle inside is going? That darn Fire Wolf and Eman actually schemed against us. If not for the Endless Sea body-refining wizard who happened to break their array, we might not have seen you again, Lord,” the elder twin pouted, speaking with a pitiful tone.

“If they could break Fire Wolf’s array, they must be a fourth-circle array wizard. A combination of array wizard and body-refining wizard is rare,” Red Bone’s gaze shifted slightly.

The next day, just as Red Bone continued to wait, she suddenly looked up.

“Someone’s coming. It’s also a fifth-circle, from the Fire Bull family,” Red Bone said.

“Oh, Lord, should we go in?” the twin asked.

“Let’s go in first.” Red Bone leaped into the air and flew in, followed by the twins.

Before long, a fifth-circle wizard with a leaf-patterned face descended.

His spiritual force was vast, comparable to Red Bone's, and he had a continuously growing and withering leaf-shaped wizard tool beneath his feet.

"It seems someone I know just went in... Why is she here too? This is troublesome," the fifth-circle wizard, Raphael, who was under Lady Green Robe's command, frowned.

Upon hearing from the Fire Crow Witch's minion that there was Black Flame Meteorite Iron here, he hurried over.

After a moment's thought, his force field shimmered, and he entered the secret realm.

A green leaf fell onto the lava floor at the entrance, disappearing into it.

The long-dormant secret realm once again became bustling.

...

Inside the secret realm, deep within the Black Mountain Range, Levi opened his eyes.

“The sense of danger is getting stronger. That person must have entered... If this fifth-circle wizard is meticulously probing with spiritual force within the secret realm, staying still here will eventually expose me. But if I move around, it’s even easier to be detected. I need to think of another way.”

Soon after, under the guidance of the Holy Flame Twins, Red Bone arrived at the mining hall.

However, the hall had already collapsed, buried under rubble.

With a snap of her fingers, a crimson octagram summoning array appeared in the void behind her.

Then, a hundred-foot-tall pink skeletal undead appeared.

Red Bone was actually a strong practitioner of the School of Death.

“Remove these!” Red Bone said casually.

With a breath, the red-pink skeleton exhaled, and a strange red wind blew, carrying the sound of children’s laughter.

Looking closely, it was a myriad of small skeletons busily carrying stones, bustling around in a comical yet eerie manner.

“Heave-ho, heave-ho.”

They worked diligently.

In no time, all the piled-up boulders were removed.

On the ground, various spell fluctuations indicated the intense battle that had erupted here.

Apart from that, everything was gone, seemingly obliterated by terrifying flames.

“It seems Fire Wolf and Eman won, then they used combustion spells to destroy the evidence and left,” Red Bone said.

“Lord, I don’t think it’s certain... That outsider, although a wizard from the Endless Sea, from his performance, he also seems to use Burning Faction spells. It’s possible he emerged victorious in the end,” the elder twin said.

“As a body-refining wizard from the Ocean School of Thought, dabbling in array magic is one thing, but also practicing the Burning Faction?” Red Bone was slightly astonished.

If it were dual cultivation in other factions, she could understand.

But practicing both water and fire, or even ice and fire, was hard to comprehend.

As the saying went, fire and water were incompatible.

As far as she knew, someone had tried this dual cultivation method of water and fire before. They barely reached the fifth circle, but their spiritual force crystalized, and due to instability... they exploded.

So even if some geniuses succeeded later, very few dared to attempt dual cultivation of water and fire.

“What do we do now, Lord?” the Holy Flame Twins asked.

“I’ll lend you two a wizard tool temporarily. It’s called ‘King’s New Clothes.’ After putting it on, you can conceal your presence. Under the fifth circle, it’s impossible to be detected. If the fifth-circle wizard doesn’t investigate carefully, it’s also difficult to notice. After putting it on, you must not move, let alone fight. You will hide at the exit of the secret realm. I will search the entire secret realm and find them.”

Chapter 1042: Invincible Might! (6)

“Regardless of who it is, they will try their best to escape to the exit. I’ll give you another fifth-circle summoning scroll. You can instantly summon Madam Red out, let her capture them alive. If it’s not possible to capture them alive, then kill them. We must obtain the Black Flame Meteorite Iron!” Red Bone said.

“Understood, Lord,” the elder sister said, spreading her hands.

Red Bone extended her bony hand with red nails and placed something on the sister's palm.

After a while, the sister looked at her empty hand and asked, "Lord... did you give me something?"

Red Bone's lips curled up into a smile. "If you could easily perceive it, what's the point of calling it the King's New Clothes? After you arrive there, just recite the following spell... But this garment can only be worn by one person."

The elder sister chuckled. "That's fine."

The Holy Flame Twins embraced and spun around, like two beautiful snakes entwined with each other, eventually transforming into a witch with hair of both blue and purple colors.

Her breasts, one large and one small, looked particularly strange.

"Lord, we're off. Please be careful. There might be fifth-level black beasts inside," the Holy Flame Twins said.

Red Bone watched the departing figures and began a thorough search.

A powerful spiritual force, even stronger than Sorrett's, suddenly surged, covering an area of several hundred miles.

Disturbed by this spiritual force, a blind level four black beast stealthily attacked Red Bone.

It opened its gaping mouth, ready to devour Red Bone.

However, behind Red Bone, suddenly split open, flesh and blood flew, countless ribs turned outward, like a black hole, emitting terrifying suction.

The long black beast was instantly sucked into it without a sound.

A moment later, Red Bone opened her cherry-like mouth and stuck out her tongue.

Black skeletons spewed out from her mouth, falling to the ground, spinning around and chattering.

“Let the cat-and-mouse game begin. I must find that person before Raphael does.”

After a while, since no one was leading the way, Raphael took some time to find the mining site.

“Red Bone has been here.”

His spiritual force spread out, sensing everything. At the same time, he extended his hand, a mini hurricane brewing within it.

The green leaf wizard tool under his feet shattered into countless tiny leaves.

“Wind!”

As he recited the spell, these leaves were swept into the sky, spreading in all directions.

“Haha, Red Bone, it seems I’m going to surpass you,” he said.

He already regarded the Black Flame Meteorite Iron as his own. As for the tragic death of the Fire Crow Witch, it had long been forgotten.

The Black Mountains.

Levi’s figure kept advancing deeper.

He could feel that as he delved further, the sense of danger grew stronger.

This indicated that there should be fifth-level black beasts lurking in the depths.

He was now certain that someone had entered here.

Because amidst the rubble of the blasted mining site, he had set up a simple cantrip array.

Once the array was destroyed, he would sense it.

“I wonder if it’s one fifth-circle wizard or two...”

He needed to find a place where fifth-level black beasts nested and hide himself within.

Compared to wizards, these transcendent creatures’ perception abilities were weaker, and they were not as cunning and astute.

After a while, accompanied by an increasingly intense intuition of danger,

Levi arrived at the heart of the mountains. From afar, he could see a group of black beasts floating in the sky, resembling some kind of giant whales.

Among them were three hundred-meter-long beasts with astonishing momentum, obviously fifth-level black beasts.

Above the group of whales was a grim crack in the sky, possibly the Land of Darkness.

The corrosive power of darkness began to intensify here.

Levi's Deep Blue Sage armor covered him, countering most of the erosion.

"Thank goodness I assembled the Deep Blue Body, otherwise, it wouldn't be pleasant to stay here for long with my flesh..."

This erosion was the terrifying aspect of the Land of Darkness.

So generally, only primordial soul wizards would dare to traverse the dark void and travel between planes.

Levi concealed himself with Hermit Runes and silently infiltrated the ground, turning into a blood fog. He remained hidden until he reached a distance he couldn't get any closer.

...

The next day, Levi opened his eyes.

“They’re here, that was fast.”

In the distance, a figure approached, with green leaf patterns on the forehead, it was the wizard Raphael.

“I’ve set up a trap spell at the exit. So far, no one has gone there... It seems he must be hiding in the most dangerous central area, trying to use the black beasts to cover his tracks.”

The group of whale black beasts ahead was too large in number, and with three fifth-level ones, Raphael didn’t dare to provoke them casually.

Before long, the figure of the wizard Red Bone also appeared here.

“Raphael, nice to see you’re safe,” she smiled.

Red Bone nodded. "The kid who got the meteorite iron is quite clever. He's hiding here, trying to scare us off with the black beasts."

"I've noticed too. How about we work together? Let's drive away those black beasts together. After that, we'll split the Black Flame Meteorite Iron and other loot in half, how does that sound?" Raphael suggested.

Red Bone thought for a moment and said, "That's acceptable."

They continued to explore forward, getting closer to the group of whales.

Suddenly, a figure emerged from underground.

He was clad in blue armor, his palm striking out a scarlet divine dragon.

Its attack direction was none other than the hovering group in the sky!

Chapter 1043: Invincible Might! (7)

Boom!

Fire erupted around the group of beasts!

Such a commotion woke up many sleeping black beasts.

They all looked towards the culprit, the tiny figure that was now running away.

The giant beasts emitted whale songs as they flew through the void, quickly catching up, their imposing presence terrifying.

Red Bone and Raphael had already seen what the person was up to.

Their fifth-circle spells were ready, terrifying waves brewing as they launched towards Levi!

But the next moment, a blue teleportation portal appeared beneath the figure's feet!

"Oh no! He has a teleportation scroll!" Raphael exclaimed.

Red Bone's expression changed too. She extended her hand, conjuring a huge white bone claw, reaching towards Levi.

However, it was too late.

Thousands of miles away, Levi stepped out of the teleportation portal!

He looked at the silhouette of the giant beasts in the distance.

The spells cast by Red Bone and the others hit the center of the beast group, killing many smaller beasts and driving the three giant beasts into a frenzy.

He smirked, his crimson cloak billowing as scarlet power surged!

Swish!

He turned into a blood light and flew towards the exit of the secret realm!

Meanwhile, on the other side.

The two fifth-circle wizards quickly turned back to chase, throwing spells behind them as they pursued. Giant whales fell occasionally.

The speed of the giant whales certainly couldn't match that of Red Bone and the others. However, with the thunderous fifth-circle spells echoing throughout the mountains, more and more black beasts began to emerge.

This inadvertently slowed down Red Bone and Raphael.

Realizing this, Red Bone transmitted to the Holy Flame Twins:

“Twins, the man is heading towards the exit of the secret realm. Get ready to use the summoning scroll to deal with him with Madam Red!”

As a fifth-level undead spirit, Madam Red was one of her proudest summoned creatures and also the reason for her title “Red Bone Wizard.”

She had killed more than one fifth-circle wizard, and there was no way that person would escape!

After transmitting to the Holy Flame Twins, Red Bone breathed a sigh of relief.

Looking up at the sky filled with cracks, it seemed that more black beasts were descending.

“The crystal wall of this secret realm has cracked...”

That kid used a teleportation scroll, instantly thousands of miles away.

Then he activated some kind of extremely fast escape method, seemingly burning his own life. So much so that she and Raphael couldn't catch up with him temporarily.

"I don't believe that you can keep using this life-burning escape spell forever!"

Another group of black beasts rushed towards them.

"Die!"

Red Bone slapped out, and the white bone giant claw tore through everything in front of her.

Whether it was fourth-circle or third-circle, they were all killed in seconds!

This was the terrifying strength of fifth-circle perfection!

Raphael found himself surrounded by a group of black beasts, countless green leaves turning into blades under the force of the hurricane, raining down on the black beasts.

In the mountains, a black wind howled, and from it flew a black giant bird.

The bird's eyes were fierce, with a comb on its head and white patterns on its wings, emitting a "cackle" sound!

Another fifth-level black beast!

Raphael's expression darkened as the black beast came towards him.

"D*mn it!"

He wasn't afraid of not being able to defeat the black beast, but he didn't want to waste time being delayed by it, letting Red Bone get the upper hand.

Red Bone was overjoyed to see Raphael being delayed by the fifth-level black beast, and she quickly headed towards the exit.

On the other side, under the influence of the Scarlet Shadow, Levi's speed was unprecedented.

He was flying at full speed now, occasionally encountering some low-level black beasts that were too reckless.

He didn't dodge or evade, directly crashing into the black beasts, which were killed instantly, turning into blood fog and bone fragments.

Soon, he arrived at the exit.

“With the arrangement of a fifth-circle wizard, there must be an ambush at the exit, but I can’t worry about that now. As long as it’s not personally arranged by a fifth-circle wizard, I can force my way through!”

At the exit, the assembled Holy Flame Twins watched the blood light flying towards them.

“Attack!”

In an instant, they tore off the King’s New Clothes, and the Holy Flame Twins split apart again, turning into twins.

They spun quickly, tearing open the scroll. A giant pink skeleton creature, towering a hundred meters high, spanned the exit, blocking Levi’s path!

“A fifth-level undead spirit... and even stronger than the Scythe Demon Spirit!”

All the protective force fields around Levi lit up!

The Crimson Emperor Dragon coiled behind him, with the Golden Snake wrapping around its body!

Horns grew from his head, and his body expanded enormously.

In the void behind him, the shadow of the Nine Swords Asura appeared!

The Crimson Dragon Slash, like a world-destroying flame sword, was held in Levi's Bloodline Dharma Body!

At the same time, the sky suddenly darkened, covering everything!

The Giant Dragon Warrior, the Furious Dragon Lord, the Bloodline Dharma Body, and the Nightmare Descend!

At this moment, Levi's attack power reached an unprecedented peak!

The level of battle in the mine earlier was just a warm-up for him.

Annihilation!

He swung his sword!

A black sword qi stretching a thousand meters tore through the void, endless flames engulfing it, turning into a long river rushing relentlessly, washing away everything in front of him!

The Holy Flame Twins felt the unparalleled power of the attack, their hearts filled with uncertainty and fear of death!

“Fifth-circle?!”

Boom!

Accompanied by a deafening explosion.

The pink skeleton was directly shattered.

Countless bones flew around, reassembling into a humanoid skeleton in the distance.

It looked at its rapidly reforming body, clearly puzzled.

Its giant claw reached out towards Levi again.

But it was blocked by a small creature, a humanoid insect with a human face.

It looked extremely ferocious, howling as it gnawed at the pink aura on its body, causing it to instinctively feel fear.

The pink flames in its eye sockets flickered, and it seemed to hesitate for a moment.

Levi's cold eyes stared at the Holy Flame Twins, a fierce killing intent brewing within him.

But with the powerful protection of the undead spirit, he couldn't kill them for the time being!

There was also a Fifth-Circle Wizard behind them, who could catch up at any moment.

He no longer wasted time, his blue arm stretched out, grabbing Leon's tail and stepping into the exit.

As soon as he emerged, Levi found himself in a realm surrounded by green leaves and gentle breeze.

This wasn't an array, but rather a trap of some fifth-circle spell, comparable to a fourth-circle trapping array.

"These old guys are really f*cking cunning! Just wait, one day I will settle all of this!"

He took a deep breath, and the Golden Snake Divine Palace and Crimson Emperor Divine Palace emitted a dazzling light, activating the breathing technique explosively!

Unmatched sword qi tore through the barrier!

He quickly broke free and turned into blood light, flying out of the fire pit.

He recited an incantation in his mouth, and at the same time, each item of the array was swiftly inserted into the surroundings of the fire pit, clean and neat.

Then, he chose a direction and left without looking back.

Flying for who knows how far in one breath, even with top-tier endurance, using Scarlet Escape for so long, his Scarlet Power was running low.

With his remaining spell power, he activated Thunder Dragon Flash in an instant, enveloped by a purple divine dragon, turning into a thunderlight and disappearing without a trace!

Meanwhile.

At the exit of the secret realm, Red Bone looked at Madam Red and the Holy Flame Twins, her expression dark.

“Didn’t catch him?”

The younger sister trembled, silent, while the older sister, with trembling courage, said, “He’s too strong. He might be a Fifth-Circle Wizard hiding his true power...”

“Useless! Fifth-circle my foot, he’s just fourth-circle!”

Red Bone, with Madam Red in tow, had just stepped out of the entrance to the secret realm when they were trapped by a green barrier!

“D*mn Raphael!”

Madam Red tore apart the spell trap, while Red Bone soared into the sky.

“You stay here and stop Raphael. I’ll go after him!”

She commanded, and Madam Red nodded, obediently waiting aside.

As soon as Red Bone burst out of the fire pit, beams of light lit up around her, forming an indestructible cage.

Fourth-circle array: Demon Cage!

“I hate array wizards!”

Red Bone violently tore apart the array. As the array was destroyed, all the array items suddenly trembled.

Boom!

A terrifying explosion engulfed Red Bone!

This was a small modification Levi made to the Demon Cage, triggering automatically upon destruction!

Such an attack naturally couldn't harm Red Bone.

She emerged unscathed, her face twisted with anger.

She didn't pursue further.

Looking around, the kid was long gone without a trace.

Chapter 1044: Fourth Divine Weapon, Indestructible Armor! (1)

In the vast Gobi Desert, at the exit of the fire pit, Red Bone stood here, her face cold and no longer as calm as before.

She put away Madam Red. It was pointless to block Raphael now.

Before long, Raphael's figure also appeared here.

"Red Bone, does our previous agreement still stand?" Raphael asked.

"What's up?"

"If you've obtained the Black Flame Meteorite Iron, should I get a share?" He chuckled.

"I didn't get it," Red Bone said flatly, already too lazy to argue with Raphael.

"Really?" He frowned, clearly not believing her.

"Believe it or not, the kid escaped," Red Bone said.

"A Fourth-Circle Wizard managed to escape right under your nose? I find that hard to believe," he remarked.

"As if you caught him. You were the first to spot him, and you..." Red Bone sneered.

Raphael's face darkened, indicating that Red Bone had indeed failed.

Before long, Raphael's figure also appeared here.

"Red Bone, does our previous agreement still stand?" Raphael asked.

"What's up?"

"If you've obtained the Black Flame Meteorite Iron, should I get a share?" He chuckled.

"I didn't get it," Red Bone said flatly, already too lazy to argue with Raphael.

"Really?" He frowned, clearly not believing her.

"Believe it or not, the kid escaped," Red Bone said.

"A Fourth-Circle Wizard managed to escape right under your nose? I find that hard to believe," he remarked.

"As if you caught him. You were the first to spot him, weren't you..." Red Bone sneered.

Raphael's face darkened, indicating that Red Bone had indeed failed.

"Interesting. Even a genius wizard from Nine Cities like us, Children of the Elements, would find it hard to escape from both of us. This kid is something else," Raphael said with a wry smile.

"Holy Flame Twins said he's from the Ocean School of Thought in the Endless Sea. How about we team up again, go to the port and intercept him... Aren't you from the Fire Bull family? Use your connections to contact the teleportation portal management and check the recent arrivals from the Endless Sea," Red Bone suggested after some thought.

"You believe he's from the Endless Sea just because he said so? I observed the battle traces over there. He seems more like from the Burning School of Thought. Plus, to avoid being caught by us, he might intentionally avoid going to the Endless Sea... Besides, I'm not a primordial soul wizard. I don't have the energy to access the entire teleportation portal's entry and exit records. You know how strict the Nine Cities Alliance is about these things," Raphael replied.

Upon hearing this, Red Bone couldn't help but furrow her brow.

Since the war between the dark and righteous wizards, the Wizard World had descended into chaos, with personnel movements becoming extremely frequent. Additionally, due to the destruction of the Central Realm's legendary wizard tool, the Heart of Skynet, the registration of wizard identities could no longer be managed as uniformly as before.

Until now, she had only learned from the Holy Flame Twins that his name was Geralt, a body-refining wizard from the Ocean School of Thought, and an array wizard... Nothing else.

Geralt was most likely an alias, making finding him as difficult as climbing the heavens.

"Are you going to inform the Fire Bull family about this?" Red Bone suddenly asked.

She was a nomadic wizard, solitary, with only herself and a few subordinates.

But Raphael belonged to Lady Green Robe.

“Whether I do or not is my affair... It’s just fifth-level elemental metal, something Lady Green Robe wouldn’t care about,” Raphael sneered.

No one else was aware of his actions this time.

Naturally, he intended to keep all the Black Flame Meteorite Iron for himself.

Upon hearing Raphael’s response, Red Bone breathed a slight sigh of relief.

She didn’t want too many people to know about this matter.

Even among primordial soul wizards, fifth-level elemental metal wasn’t easy to come by.

With such a large quantity of fifth-level metal, even primordial soul wizards might be slightly interested. If they joined the competition, she would have even less hope.

“Let’s go, from now on, it’s every man for himself,” Raphael waved his hand, and the green leaf wizard tools gathered at his feet. He turned into a streak of green light and disappeared from there.

Red Bone glanced at the Holy Flame Twins, who were bowing their heads, the twin sisters dared not to raise their heads to look at her.

“I never said I wanted to kill you. Don’t act like you’re about to die!” Red Bone whispered softly.

The elder sister lifted her head, pulling her younger sibling down with her to kneel.

“Thank you, my lord. It’s all our fault this time, we messed things up,” the elder sister sobbed, like a porcelain doll that cries at a mere touch.

“It’s not entirely your fault...” Red Bone said softly as she summoned her beloved summoned creature, Madam Red.

A petite pink skeleton appeared in her palm, bowing its head in silence.

“What’s wrong? Even a fifth-circle senior wizard isn’t necessarily your match. How could you fail to capture a mere fourth-circle?” Red Bone’s tone softened slightly as she asked.

The little skeleton gestured back and forth with its hands, mute like a mute.

“You’re saying that person’s pet frightened you? What kind of pet?” Red Bone inquired.

The small skeleton gestured again.

“An ugly... big bug?” Red Bone suppressed her emotions, sighed, and said helplessly, “Let’s not dwell on it.”

She withdrew the pink skeleton and then turned to the Holy Flame Twins.

“You two, take this token and go to the Endless Sea. In the Star Sea, in the Nether Capital, there is an old acquaintance of mine, a wizard named Wildbone. Tell him to find his senior sister and bring her here. I need her help to find someone’s whereabouts. Once the task is done, I will reward her.”

As a wizard of the School of Death, Red Bone had heard of the famous Painful Banshee, who excelled at questioning the “dead.”

As the most favored disciple of the Painful Banshee, Mistress Cruel should also be capable.

Since she wasn’t close with Mistress Cruel, she needed an intermediary.

Coincidentally, the reclusive Wildbone wizard in the Endless Sea was an old acquaintance with an unusual relationship. It was better to let that old guy make the trip.

The Holy Flame Twins nodded repeatedly. “Yes, my lord, we will surely accomplish the mission perfectly this time.”

“Nonsense! If you can’t even pass on a message properly, you might as well just die in the Endless Sea!” Red Bone threw a red ribbon with two cute skull heads drawn on each side, one pink and one black, to the twins.

Chapter 1045: Fourth Divine Weapon, Indestructible Armor! (2)

Then, the aloof witch left the area.

Leaving behind the Holy Flame Twins, who sat on the ground with legs crossed.

“It’s all because of that guy, making us look bad in front of the lord,” the busy twin sister complained.

The younger sister remained silent.

She thought that if it weren’t for that person, neither she nor her sister might have made it out alive.

“But I wonder if this Wildbone wizard could be... the lord’s... old flame? This token doesn’t seem like Red Bone’s style,” the elder sister said, looking at the bow with curiosity.

Suddenly, the pink skull on the bow spoke up, “Hurry up and go, stop dawdling here!”

This startled the Holy Flame Twins. They quickly got up, spun around in a whirlwind, and left the area.

...

On the other side, Raphael returned to the Fire Bull family and pondered.

“Regardless, let’s assume he’s an outsider. In that case, he should try to leave the Realm of Crimson during this time.

“If only I knew someone at the teleportation portal management, from the Ocean School of Thought, fourth-circle body-refining... with these conditions, I can narrow down the search range.

“Come to think of it, I actually know a manager of the teleportation portals, but he oversees the channels to the mortal realm. The possibility of that guy coming from the Endless Sea is the highest.

“But he might also travel through the mortal realm to reach the Endless Sea. Either way, let’s give it a try.

“The Fire Crocodile City Master once opened the trading channel to the Flaming Mountain for his Fire Crocodile Chamber of Commerce. He gave me a lot of trouble back then, but now, I’m asking for a small favor. He shouldn’t refuse.”

With this thought, Raphael quickly sent a message to the Fire Crocodile City Master.

The next day, after waiting all night with no response, Raphael’s face darkened.

Just as he was planning to find an opportunity to “pay a visit” another day,

Finally, there was a response. It said "Okay".

He breathed a sigh of relief and smiled.

"Whether it works or not, let's give it a try."

He didn't hold any hope of finding that guy.

"Let's continue preparing for the trip to the Dark Ancient Tower... if I can break through the primordial soul in my lifetime, that would be the endgame. I won't live for ten thousand years."

...

Fire Crocodile City.

Inside the City Lord's Mansion, the "Fire Crocodile City Master," who had been possessed by the Blood Demon Tower Master, was in meditation.

"Lord, here is the list of wizards who have been transported from the mortal realm to Fire Crocodile City in the past decade." A subordinate entered and handed a slate to the Fire Crocodile City Master.

Most Fifth-Circle Wizards did not have the qualifications to access these lists.

But the Fire Crocodile City Master was different. He was essentially a “civil servant” under the Nine Cities Alliance, responsible for maintaining order in this port city.

“You may leave.”

After the subordinate left, the Fire Crocodile City Master browsed through the list on the slate.

There weren’t many wizards who had been transported from the mortal realm to this side, apart from a few wizard talents.

Soon enough, he found a name.

“Levi, Ocean School of Thought, fourth-circle body-refining wizard, external wizard for the Witch’s Family.

“It seems this person is probably the one Raphael is looking for. Why would a Fifth-Circle Perfection Wizard like him want to find someone like Levi, unless there’s something important or secretive about him that Raphael is concerned about.

“Well, I’ll just reply to him to avoid him coming knocking on my door. Revealing my identity as the Fire Crocodile City Master poses a risk, and I can’t afford to offend Raphael for the time being.” He thought.

With this thought, the Blood Demon Tower Master immediately replied to Raphael: [Apologies, no such person found!]

After sending the message, the Blood Demon Tower Master looked at the list and muttered to himself:

“If that person returns from here to the mortal realm, I’ll find an opportunity to kill him and see what valuable things he’s hiding.”

The Flaming Mountain Range.

Red Tower Mountain.

This mountain was named after the red bone tower at its summit.

The Red Tower was the wizard tower of Red Bone.

Inside the tower, Red Bone finished her meditation.

Beside her, a pink little skeleton sat meditating in a mimicking manner.

“Do you think Wildbone will be heartless enough not to help?” Red Bone asked.

The little skeleton tilted its head, unsure how to respond.

“That guy has been planning the Dark Ancient Tower for a long time. He’ll definitely enter this time when it opens. Maybe I’ll even run into him inside. If he doesn’t help me this time... well, then I won’t be polite about it. Hmph!”

...

One month later, on the edge of the Flaming Mountain, somewhere thousands of feet underground.

A figure was sitting cross-legged in a shelter, meditating. It was Levi. Suddenly, he opened his eyes and took a deep breath.

“Finally healed. Overall, this exploration of the secret realm was without much danger. With my strength and pre-planning, I can’t beat wizards below the primordial soul level, but I can escape.

“Whether it’s Red Bone or another fifth-circle, they’re even stronger than Sorrett and Blue Dragon Lady, probably having practiced for six or seven hundred years or more.”

The spiritual force range of a fifth-circle wizard was from 500 to 1000 points. The gap between their spiritual force and spell power was significant.

After the fifth circle, innate spells began to take shape. Even a regular fifth-circle, even if perfected, only had six innate spells compared to the nine of a full nine-circle wizard.

Also, with the differences between fifth-circle wizard tools and other variables, the gap between fifth-circle wizards was even greater than Levi imagined.

With his current strength, he felt he can handle one or two blows from Sorrett without harm.

But facing those two fifth-circles, he feels like even his nine-layer protection would be instantly shattered.

Chapter 1046: Fourth Divine Weapon, Indestructible Armor! (3)

Their attacks might only be around three to four hundred Cas.

Normal fifth-circle, senior fifth-circle, perfected fifth-circle, those who master seven, eight, or even nine innate talents.

“I still need to be careful in the future. Just because I killed a Madam Ghost doesn’t mean I can relax. Even though they are all fourth-circle, Red Eye and blood vampires are third-rate, Holy Flame Twins are second-rate, while Fire Wolf and Eman are first-rate. As for me, I should be beyond first-rate... Hmm, I could call myself the strongest gatekeeper under the fifth circle!”

Levi analyzed the gains and losses of this battle and found it quite fruitful.

Apart from the meteorite iron and loot, he also learned more about the strength of fifth-circle wizards, which would help him in his future trip to the Dark Ancient Tower!

“My injuries have healed, it’s time to leave this place.”

Levi left the shelter and flew towards the direction of Molten City.

Molten City had a teleportation portal leading to the Earth Realm.

After careful consideration, he decided to go to the Earth Realm first and then return to the human realm from there.

Fire Crocodile City was too far away, and if the enemy found out, they could easily guess that Levi came from the human realm. His safety in the human realm would be further compromised.

As for other realms of non-believers, if he went to the Endless Sea, his primary identity as a body-refining wizard of the Ocean School of Thought exposed by Levi might lead to the enemy setting up an ambush there to continue pursuing him, risking being discovered.

Considering all options, the Earth Realm seemed most suitable.

After all, there were Saint Ape Knights, Goddess Knights, and Black Knights there, so he wouldn't be completely in the dark.

Considering that continuing to let Knight Hogg stay here might involve him, three days later, Levi, accompanied by Knight Hogg, successfully arrived in the Earth Realm.

...

Time flew by, and a month had passed.

Endless Sea.

Star Sea.

Nether Capital.

The aftermath of the auction incident in the Sea Capital years ago gradually subsided.

With stricter enforcement by the Star Tower, the security in Nether Capital had improved significantly.

Inside a wizard tower in the city, Anya left the table filled with models and experimental data.

He couldn't hide his excitement.

"Fourth-Circle Talent, achieved."

Just now, he finally mastered his first Fourth-Circle Talent, also his fourth innate spell.

"The Armor of Verdant Bronze!"

As mana surged, a verdant aura enveloped Anya, eventually condensing into a sturdy and majestic green armor.

"The Dagger of Aurous Bronze, the Sword of Azure Bronze, the Patrol of Crimson Bronze, the above three third-circle talents focus on offense.

"The Armor of Verdant Bronze emphasizes defense, versatile in offense and defense, standing invincible!"

Anya remembered Levi's admonition. "Spells are unpredictable, there's no absolute offense without defense, only defense won't go wrong."

So he chose defense as his first Fourth-Circle Talent spell.

"In a dozen years, the Dark Ancient Tower will open, and now my strength should be enough to protect myself in the tower.

"It's a pity Levi can't go. Otherwise, with one offense and one defense, our collaboration would be unmatched... That Phantom Witch would probably be stunned."

Anya felt content.

Indeed, silent ones often had hidden depths.

"I wonder what strength Levi has now and where he's traveling. Lonely as snow."

Little did he know, Levi had already obtained three keys to the Dark Ancient Tower and was pondering which to take along.

“Young master, they’re calling you over at the Witch’s Family to prepare for the combat array rehearsal!”

The butler’s voice came through.

Anya sighed.

“Coordinating with these women is so dull... And I’ll be the only warlock in the Witch’s Family team. Just thinking about it gives me a headache.”

Anya left the house.

The streets were bustling with activity.

Two witches swirling around each other caught people’s attention.

“They’re... hugging and kissing in the middle of the street.”

“Twins, probably practicing some special spell.”

These two were none other than the Holy Flame Twins.

Anya glanced at them.

“Their strength surpasses mine. I’m still not strong enough... I need to master the Second Talent before entering the ancient tower!”

On the other side, the Holy Flame Twins met with the Wildbone Wizard in a black wizard tower.

In the Wildbone Wizard’s home, black clouds loomed, filled with undead skeletons, resembling a haunted house.

He looked at the butterfly bow in his hand, memories flooding back.

“This woman always troubles me... Oh well, it’s been a long time since I visited those two senior sisters. A trip to the mortal realm might be a good idea.”

...

Star Sea.

The teleportation portal could lead to the Realm of All Things.

On this day, the teleportation portal shimmered brightly.

A blue-robed witch with a troubled expression appeared.

Soon after, one wizard after another emerged from the portal.

These wizards varied in strength, mostly consisting of low-level wizards and apprentices, but there were also a few Third-Circle Wizards among them.

After registering, they made their way to a private room in a tavern in Nether Capital.

“Melina, what do we do now?” asked a Third-Circle Wizard.

“We’ll stay in the Endless Sea for now instead of returning to the Realm of All Things. When my father served as the deputy minister of the Breeding Department, he made many enemies due to his strong personality. It’s safer for us to stay in the Endless Sea than in the Realm of All Things. Let’s find a place here and start anew,” Melina said softly.

At the mention of her father, her eyes welled up. Her father, a Fifth-Circle Wizard, should have had a bright future ahead, but three years ago, he died during the Thousand Spirits Day.

Chapter 1047: Fourth Divine Weapon, Indestructible Armor! (4)

The outlaw not only stole many rare creatures from the transcendent creature breeding base but also killed her father.

In just three years, Melina had experienced what it meant to be abandoned by the crowd.

“Alright, let’s start over. Let’s establish a new organization in this endless sea and continue our work here,” she said.

“Agreed.”

Everyone was passionate and eager for the new life ahead.

Melina’s hope was reignited.

Some of them were disciples of her father, while others were employees of the breeding base.

Regardless of who they were, they all shared a love for transcendent creatures.

They just wanted to find a place free from intrigue, power struggles, and treachery.

A peaceful life with transcendent creatures, deepening the bond with their spiritual beasts.

“I know a transcendent biologist who is a senior teacher in the appraisal department at the Starfire Wizard Academy. The Endless Sea hasn’t been very peaceful lately, so you all stay in the city for now. I’ll go find him; perhaps he can provide us with some help and guidance,” Melina said.

“Understood.”

Starfire Wizard Academy.

Newt finished his class, feeling troubled.

He worried about Rose, trapped in the jar.

If it weren’t for these cursed nightmares, he planned to have a grand wizard wedding with Rose and invite their friends.

“Professor Newt, someone is looking for you outside the school.”

Newt went to the door and found a witch standing there.

“Melina? Didn’t you return to the Realm of All Things?” Newt asked.

Melina smiled bitterly. “Newt, let’s find a place to talk.”

After hearing Melina’s words, Newt couldn’t help but say solemnly, “You have my condolences. This is truly unexpected.”

“I came here to thank you for your guidance before. If it weren’t for you, I wouldn’t have been able to find the whereabouts of the Ten-Winged Sky Sea Dragon King and advance my spiritual beast to a Six-Winged Sea Dragon. I also wouldn’t have been able to advance to the third circle so quickly.

There’s another matter. I want to find a quiet place to establish a small School of Spiritualism organization, but I’m not familiar with the rules and customs of the Endless Sea. I’d like you to enlighten me.”

Newt listened attentively and then said, “Establishing a small wizard organization in the Endless Sea shouldn’t be too troublesome procedurally, given your financial resources as a Third-Circle Wizard. However, I don’t recommend it.”

“All ears.”

Newt pushed his glasses up and said, “Firstly, the dark wizard factions in the Endless Sea are deeply rooted. Over the past century of the dark and righteous wizard wars, hundreds of small wizard organizations have been wiped out. Although the war has temporarily ended, the situation hasn't improved much. Especially in the outer sea region, it's practically dominated by dark wizards. The inner sea region and the Star Sea are a bit better, but with your level of power, you won't be able to establish a wizard organization here."

Melina listened, feeling somewhat disheartened, and remained silent.

Newt cleared his throat and continued, "I have two suggestions for you, Melina. You can consider them based on your circumstances. Firstly, you could join the Starfire Wizard Academy. Although the academy currently doesn't have a department for spiritualism, the academy's ideology is inclusive and open-minded. It's likely they will establish one in the future. The second option... is to go to the human realm. With the convergence of the Heavenly Spheres and the Dark Wave Revival, the elemental power in the human realm, though not as strong as in the wizard world, is enough for wizards to practice and gradually move away from the realm of the last days. As far as I know, many places in the human realm are beginning to show signs of transcendent creatures, which would be highly advantageous for the development of your School of Spiritualism. Moreover, apart from the Church, there are only a few major organizations with branches there, and the number of wizards is extremely low. This means less competition, and similarly, because of relatively scarce resources, dark wizards rarely cause trouble in the human realm. It's a place more suitable for the establishment of your emerging organization."

"The human realm? That's something I hadn't considered... After all, many wizards, like my father, have struggled to come from the impoverished realm of the last days to the wizard world. I never thought I'd return there one day. Thank you, Sir Newt. I'll go back and think it over."

...

Earth Realm.

The dojos of the four major traditional schools.

The Ocean School of Thought, located in the Endless Sea, forced wizards to settle on islands, with the combined land area possibly not even equal to one percent of the ocean.

The Burning School of Thought, found in the Realm of Crimson, consisted mainly of scorching deserts, volcanic clusters, and catacombs, with a harsh climate unsuitable for habitation.

The Storm School of Thought's Realm of Divine Wind, shrouded in perpetual storms, was equally inhospitable.

Only the Earth Realm resembled the Seven Kingdoms Continent of the human world the most.

Here, the land stretched endlessly, with mountains, rivers, snow-capped peaks, lakes, dense forests, and oceans, providing a variety of terrains.

The entire Earth Realm was situated on a continent known as "Midland."

Thanks to these unparalleled geographical conditions, the Earth Realm was the most suitable place for human survival.

Every year, the Earth Realm would send the largest number of wizard apprentices to the Wizard World, more than all the human realms and other realms of the unbelievers combined.

Therefore, it was also the most valued place by the Wizard Council.

On the continent of Midland, there were thousands of human kingdoms, large and small.

Chapter 1048: Fourth Divine Weapon, Indestructible Armor! (5)

Behind these human kingdoms, there often lurked the presence of wizard organizations.

They provided shelter for humans, while humans produced and gathered basic resources for them.

However, with the outbreak of the dark and righteous wizard war, the sporadic conflicts in these countries gradually evolved into widespread chaos.

During this period, countless humans were injured and killed.

To protect the future soil of the Wizard World, the congress allocated the most troops and resources to the continent of Midland.

Eventually, the war between dark and righteous wizards here was basically quelled.

Now, after the fires of war, there was a resurgence of prosperity, as humans and wizards together rebuilt their homes upon the ruins.

On the westernmost edge of the continent of Midland lay a desert, where red sands blanketed the earth, earning it the name "Red Soil Continent," a land of drought and scorching heat.

Here, oases dotted the landscape sporadically.

On one such oasis, spanning thousands of miles in circumference...

Three thousand years ago, a mortal named "Armor King Tai Kula" established the "Tyra Kingdom" here.

Today, the kingdom, after the turmoil of war, had gradually returned to normalcy.

At the heart of the Tyra Kingdom stood a towering white tower, revered as a sacred site by the kingdom's inhabitants.

It was The Tower of Singing Sands!

It was said that the ancestor of the Tower of Singing Sands, a powerful third-circle wizard, had aided King Tai Kula in establishing the kingdom.

Afterward, he erected a wizard tower here, founded a wizard organization, and passed down his legacy for three thousand years.

On this day, two rugged swordsmen dressed in casual attire strolled down the streets of the Tyra Kingdom.

It was Levi and Hogg.

They had arrived at a port city in the Red Soil Continent a month ago and had stayed hidden for a while for safety reasons.

Once they confirmed it was safe, they contacted the Black Knight and his companions.

Emperor Mu and his wife were far to the south of the continent of Midland, distant from Levi and his companions.

The Black Knight, currently training as an apprentice wizard at the Tower of Singing Sands, was much closer.

The Black Knight had a triple affinity for earth, fire, and wind, and was practicing the Earth Faction. He was likely still striving to become an official wizard.

Levi used the Hermit Rune to make himself look similar to Hogg, appearing as an ordinary human swordsman.

He had previously investigated and found that the strongest man in the Tyra Empire, the Tower Master of the Tower of Singing Sands, was only a third-circle wizard.

He had come here to meet the Black Knight and didn't want to attract attention from the local power player.

In a dilapidated tavern, they encountered the Black Knight.

"Commander, what brings you here?"

"We're just taking a stroll," Levi replied.

In reality, they were fleeing from those who wanted to kill them and seeking refuge here.

But as the commander, it didn't sound good to say so.

He had to maintain a friendly demeanor while still commanding respect and authority among his team members!

"Still haven't become an official wizard yet?" Levi asked.

“Almost there. Once I become an official wizard, I plan to leave the Tower of Singing Sands. It’s located on the fringes of the Midland Continent, with scarce resources and a rare lineage of wizards. The entire wizard tower, except for an aging third-circle wizard, consists mainly of low-level wizards lacking vitality. But it’s safe. Currently, I’m just an apprentice wizard, but in this country, apart from the Tower Master, I am the second strongest,” the Black Knight chuckled.

“Alright, it’s good to explore other lands,” Levi said.

“Yeah, I’m staying here for another reason. From my observations, there are many knight families in the human kingdoms of Midland Continent. These families may have originated from knights who migrated here from the mortal world for various reasons. In some kingdoms, there are even tales of ‘legendary knights’. Commander, should we establish a small branch of the temple here to recruit more outstanding knights to strengthen our organization? We’ll conduct regular selection and trials, forming a group of excellent individuals and bringing them to our headquarters for the oath ceremony. To maintain secrecy, apart from us formal members, no one else will know about the temple’s existence until after the oath ceremony. I’ll establish a small knight mutual aid organization in the legendary knight’s name, the ‘Midland Knights’. This way, we’ll have two fronts advancing together. Eventually, one day in the future, the ‘Midland Knights’ of Midland Continent will grow under the nurturing of this land and become an indispensable force for the Dusk Holy Temple!”

After contemplating for a moment, Levi responded, “This idea is feasible. Relying solely on the mortal world, progress may be slow. The mortal world has experienced the Doomsday Era for too long, with shortages of secret medicines and the path of knights withering away, turning into historical dust. Although Midland Continent is known for wizards, it surprisingly retains some soil and heritage of knights. Let’s make use of it. The name ‘Midland Knights’ is also good.”

“Indeed, I agree. So, I’ll stay here as well, and together with the Black Knight, build the Midland Knights... Anyway, with our strength, we can’t do much for the commander in the mortal world,” Hogg chuckled bitterly.

“Agreed. Opportunities in Midland Continent are more abundant than in the Endless Sea, of course, the competition is fiercer too. But you’ll grow faster here.

The Saint Ape Knight and the Goddess Knight will also stay here. The four of you will form the ‘Midland Squad,’ with the Black Knight as the team leader, and establish the organization. Provide more excellent blood for the Dusk Holy Temple.”

Chapter 1049: Fourth Divine Weapon, Indestructible Armor! (6)

“If we could encounter knights with wizard talents, that would be the best... As for Children of the Elements, I doubt we’ll have a chance. They’ve probably been snatched up by various wizard organizations big and small. But if you happen to come across any, contact me immediately!”

“Understood, Commander!”

At this moment, both the Black Knight and Hogg were visibly excited, evidently full of hope for the future of the Midland Knights.

Next, Levi gathered the Saint Ape Knight and the Goddess Knight to the round table and convened an impromptu meeting.

The impromptu meeting marked the birth of the Midland Squad and outlined the development plan for the Midland Knights for the next decade.

Before leaving the Tyra Kingdom, Levi gave the Black Knight some Aether Stones. To him, these were just a drop in the ocean. However, as the initial funding for the Midland Squad, they were sufficient.

Now, it was up to them to make their own way.

“If we could find more research-oriented geniuses like Andrew, the development of the Dusk Holy Temple would be much smoother,” Levi concluded, ending the meeting.

Levi headed eastward across the Midland Continent. To the east lay the sea.

There, were sub-dimensional portals leading to the outer sea region and the Ocean School of Thought’s Endless Sea.

During this time, although his danger perception occasionally gave slight warnings, they were all within normal fluctuations.

He had basically escaped the crisis and now had the leisure to explore Midland Continent.

“I rarely come here. I should buy some knowledge of the Earth School of Thought to take back... It’s a pity that I was in such a rush to leave the Realm of Crimson last time and didn’t have time to purchase knowledge of alchemy.”

Although Midland Continent was not as vast as the Endless Sea, it was still much larger than other sub-dimensional portal locations.

Here, Levi encountered races such as dwarves, elves, and halflings, which were relatively rare in other places, broadening his horizons.

Stopping and exploring along the way, he found himself wandering through wizard markets without realizing it.

In the year 1149 of the Holy Brilliance Calendar, the Month of Harvest arrived.

In the central part of Midland Continent, there was an empire thousands of times larger than the bordering kingdom of Tyra—the Modo Empire!

The capital of the empire was the city of Sauron.

In the city stood a statue of Sauron.

Levi stood before the statue, gazing into the wise eyes of Sauron.

“It’s my first time in Sauron City...” A white-robed wizard with gray hair approached Levi, leaning on his staff.

Like Levi, he was also a Fourth-Circle Wizard, but it seemed that his time was running out, as there was a faint aura of death around him.

“Yes,” Levi smiled. “Why is the city named after Sauron?”

“It is said that Sauron founded the congress here originally. Later, when the Central Realm was discovered, the congress moved there. After three hundred thousand years of changes, the people here still commemorate Sauron.”

“I see.”

“I’m a Fourth-Circle Wizard of the Modo Eye. May I ask where you’re from?” the White Robe Wizard inquired.

The Modo Eye was a high-level wizard organization behind the Modo Empire and served as the guardian of Sauron City. However, it was not among the top-tier organizations like the Nine Cities or the Six Towers. The towering wizard tower atop the Montenegro Mountain range in the distance was the headquarters of the Modo Eye.

“I’m just a nameless nomadic wizard traveling around,” Levi replied with a slight smile.

“I have some spells that allow me to sense age, and it seems you’re quite young. Do you have any intention of joining a high-level organization?” the White Robe Wizard asked. He wasn’t here to be Levi’s tour guide; rather, he was passing through Sauron City and noticed this young Fourth-Circle Wizard, thinking of recommending him for membership in the organization so he could also receive some rewards.

“Sorry, but I currently have no intention of joining any organization. I’m just here to admire the legacy of Sauron and then leave,” Levi chuckled.

The White Robe Wizard shook his head in resignation and left.

Levi continued to explore discreetly throughout the Midland Continent, purchasing local herbs and knowledge.

During his travels, he inadvertently reached a new year.

In the year 1150 of the Holy Brilliance Calendar, on the first day of the Month of Beginning, the 160-year-old Elder Levi convened the 50th round table meeting.

The Black Knight successfully advanced to the realm of official wizardry and left the Tower of Singing Sands.

The Midland Squad had selected a secret base and begun recruiting knights on a small scale.

Their base was located at the southern end of the Midland Continent, where Emperor Mu and the Goddess Knight were doing quite well. Moreover, due to the hospitable climate, there were many human kingdoms in the south.

As for the central region of the Midland Continent, although it was better, there were too many middle-level and high-level wizard organizations, which were not conducive to the clandestine development of the Midland Knights.

Seeing their enthusiastic efforts, Levi felt reassured letting them handle it.

Meanwhile, Levi wandered around various places in the Midland Continent, spending nearly three million Aether Stones before satisfactorily using a teleportation portal to return to the mortal realm.

Thanks to the gains from the exploration of the secret realm, even after spending so much, Levi's Aether Stone reserves were still above seven million, enough to prepare for his upcoming journey to the ancient tower.

Back in the mortal realm, Levi hurriedly made his way towards the Ancient Saint plane.

In the Inferno Hell, a Poison Fire Corpse Demon sat amidst the sea of flames.

"Master, you're back."

"I'm back. Nothing happened while I was away, right?" Levi asked.

"Nothing."

Levi nodded. He released Red Eye and the blood vampire from Alice's ring and admonished them, "As I mentioned before, I'll provide you both with employment. Here is where you'll work from now on. As guardians of this grand array, you can avoid unnecessary detours... Don't try to play tricks. My contract is not like ordinary contracts. Focus on guarding here, and each year, you can receive some resources for cultivation from me. It's better than engaging in illegal activities outside, right? Follow the rules of the congress, be a law-abiding wizard, and don't disappoint the late Sauron. Do you understand?"

"We understand, Master. We'll definitely mend our ways and start anew. Rest assured, with the two of us guarding the gate, no one can enter!" the blood vampire and Red Eye assured.

"If there's any situation, contact me promptly." Levi waved his hand, returning their wizard tools and the trash from their storage bags to them.

"Thank you, Master!"

Watching Levi disappear, the blood vampire and Red Eye also found a place in the Inferno Hell and sat down, looking at the silent Poison Fire Corpse Demon.

"He's stronger than us even though he's just guarding the gate. Is he really a Fourth-Circle Wizard?" the blood vampire exclaimed.

"Who cares? This place is quite good anyway. It's the era of the Dark Wave Revival in the mortal realm. His strength far exceeds that of an ordinary Fourth-Circle Wizard. He's definitely not an ordinary person; he must be a representative sent by the Lord of the Wizard World to the mortal realm. We've inadvertently seized an opportunity. In the future, he might become a great figure in the mortal realm. By then, the two of us will also be esteemed elders... Being a nomadic wizard is nothing compared to being a head figure in a great organization."

“Yeah, you’re right. This array looks extraordinary. Even if a Fifth-Circle Wizard comes here, we won’t benefit.”

Back at the Emperor’s Palace, Levi began forging divine weapons. Time flew, and six months passed.

On this day, in the alchemy chamber, a brilliant light emanated. A heavy black knight’s armor, after Levi dripped blood onto it, integrated into his body and appeared in front of the Death Ember Dragon’s seed.

“The Fourth Divine Weapon, since it’s a physique type, let’s call it the ‘Indestructible Armor.’”

Chapter 1050: Twin Dragons Playing with Pearls

Emperor’s Palace.

In the secret room.

“Indestructible Armor!” thought Levi.

The Death Ember Dragon seed shone brightly, and pitch-black flames surged out of Levi’s limbs and blood vessels.

Boom!

Black Demon Flames rose and Levi bathed in it, giving off the evil and arrogant aura of a dark wizard.

Beneath the raging flames was a rough, heavy knight's armor made entirely of Black Flame Demon Iron!

As a rare level-five elemental metal, the density and hardness of Black Flame Demon Iron were much higher than ordinary iron or even Luminant gold, resulting in its extremely heavy weight!

This knight's heavy armor had consumed 5,000 kilograms of pure Black Flame Demon Iron. This was not an ore, but the final essence extracted!

With so much Black Flame Demon Iron, it should be enough to forge three fifth-circle top-grade Wizard Tools.

If he cut corners and used fewer materials, he could make five or six of those standard Wizard Tools.

However, Levi gave all his cards to the divine weapon.

Divine weapons could grow and advance with him. He won't lose out by investing in it and he won't be tricked either!

Indestructible Armor.

The main functions were as follows:

First, defense. Needless to say, as an armor-type divine weapon, it definitely had a defensive function. Moreover, because it was made of level 5 elemental metal, even if Levi did not solidify any fifth-circle defensive spell, its defensive strength was far higher than most fourth-circle defensive Wizard Tools.

With this calculation, Levi's armor had reached the tenth level! This could no longer be described as a turtle. This was a thousand-year-old turtle!

The second was to strengthen his physique. The Indestructible Armor, which was designated as a divine weapon by the Death Ember Dragon seed, could amplify the physique boost of the Inferno Dragon Breathing Technique. Its effect was significantly improved, and along with the increase in physique, Levi's self-healing ability was even more exaggerated.

He even felt that as long as his head was still there, without any external interference, it would not take long for his body to grow back on its own. Of course, even he did not dare to try such an exaggerated experiment.

The third was the "Black Flame Void". The Black Flame Demon Iron contained a unique fire elemental power, which had mutated with Levi's Death Ember Dragon, giving birth to a unique flame.

Levi called it "Black Flame Void". Black Flame Void was extremely powerful and could burn the enemy. Once the flames come into contact with the enemy, it would be like maggots in the bones that could not be shaken off or extinguished. It could also suppress the enemy's self-healing ability. It could be called a "Reduction" divine skill!

These three abilities combined to form Levi's most expensive and possibly most powerful divine weapon.

The Crimson Dragon Slash he used was only Level Four Heavenly Fire Meteoric Iron, while the Scarlet Shadow was Level Four Blood Demon Crystal. Although the two materials for the Golden Dragon Heaven Defending Shield were both Level Five, the amount of materials used was not as luxurious as the current Indestructible Armor.

Scarlet Flame Longsword, Scarlet Cloak, Golden Dragon Round Shield, and Black Demonic Armor.

The appearance of the four-piece set made Levi quite satisfied.

“Although a wizard spellcasting and robe are more elegant, for a man, the most handsome one is still mine,” Levi commented in his heart.

The Crimson Dragon Slash in his hand stretched out. The Crimson Emperor Dragon Flame and the Black Flame Void intertwined and fused...

Boom!

As the secret room collapsed.

The reinforcement array that Levi had set up... It cracked open, and the Emperor’s Palace above the secret room shook.

“It can explode? Fortunately, I only used a trace of it. Otherwise, it would have caused an experiment accident.”

Levi's layers of force field were removed, and he walked out of the smoke unscathed.

“If it's like this, I can develop it. I can fuse the Crimson Emperor Dragon Flame and the Black Flame Void to create a terrifying explosion to destroy the enemy. What should I call this move? I might as well call it... ‘Twin Dragons Playing With a Pearl!’”

Levi left the secret room and went to the open space.

This time, he stood on the ground and pointed his sword at the sky.

“Twin Dragons Playing with Pearls!”

The two special flames converged on Levi's Crimson Dragon Slash, turning into two fire dragons, one red and one black, that intertwined.

Accompanied by crackling sounds, an extremely unstable feeling came.

Levi suddenly slashed out with his sword, sending out a Destruction Sword Qi.

As the pitch-black sword qi rushed into the sky, the red and black dragons trembled violently and soared into the sky.

The sword qi continued to weaken as the distance increased and it finally disappeared.

However, the flames continued to react and fuse.

With a bang, it exploded!

Art was an explosion!

Black and red flames that were hundreds of meters in diameter exploded. The shockwave covered a radius of several miles.

Within the radius of the attack, rocks and plants were turned into ashes.

A terrifying wind blew against Levi's force field, but it was not broken because it was far away.

Levi tested it out, and the explosive power was 160 Cas!

“The Crimson Emperor Dragon Flame is a level 4 flame... The Black Flame Void was formed by the combination of the power of the peak level 3 Death Ember Dragon and the fire elemental power contained in the level 5 elemental metal. It could be considered a level 4 flame.

“The fusion of two completely different level 4 flames could actually produce such a terrifying explosive reaction.

“Without buffs, its power has reached an astonishing 160 Cas. This is already the attack power of a fifth-circle spell, even though it was at the lower level. Let me try again to see if there is any change in power after transforming.”

In the next moment, a horn grew out of Levi’s forehead, and his body expanded. Runes flashed, and a nightmare descended!

After all the major forms were stacked, he used Twin Dragons Playing with Pearls again!

As the fireball exploded in the sky, the power this time was a little stronger than the last time.
