Chapter 148: Book of Kungu, Level 5 Hell! (3)

"This grandmaster named Kungu is knowledgeable. Many of the prescriptions he mentioned are very valuable. Unfortunately, with the church's existence, it was destined that it would not be popularized."

"Most of the prescriptions are useless to me. With my grand knight physique, although I am not immune to all diseases, I will not get common typhoid and other diseases."

"On the other hand, these prescriptions for treating external injuries are beneficial. I can refine some in the future and keep them with me just in case."

One of the formulas for the sacred medicines was one Levi had bought for Fred. It was called the Sacred Blood Potion.

Its effect was to quickly heal some significant internal and bone injuries and accelerate the healing of wounds. It was comparable to the "Black Jade Intermittence Cream" in Wuxia novels.

Levi discovered a material he had seen before in the recipe of the Sacred Blood Potion.

"The blood of the Earthly Dragon Beast."

"How miserable for Earthly Dragon Beasts. Their entire bodies are highly sought after.."

Levi mourned for the Earthly Dragon Beast and memorized the formula.

He would refine some Sacred Blood Potions for himself if possible.

He did not plan to sell the medicine to earn money. That would be stealing money from the church, and he would be easily targeted.

Moreover, he was a Blacksmith Master, so he was not short of money.

He would make the medicine for his use.

Levi found a safe place and let Magic Shark guard him while he finished reading the booklet with great interest.

It was already early the following day when he finished reading it.

He found that on his proficiency panel, his Pharmacy skill which was previously stagnant at level 3 for a long time, was already at level 4.

Apart from that, there was also a new skill. [Pharmacy: Level 4 (346/20000)]

[Medicine: Level 2 (33/5000)]

"The fourth level of the Pharmacy skill is not the limit. Moreover, the fourth level does not have any special effects." Levi looked at the skill, his heart calm.

He had a lot of experience in life skills.

But now, it seemed that the potential of his Pharmacy skills was much more significant than he had imagined.

"It seems that wizards also need Pharmacy skills to make medicine. Part of the daily work of a wizard apprentice is to assist the teacher in making medicine. If I can build my foundation now, it will be much easier for me to become a wizard."

As for his Medicine skills, Levi ultimately left them to fate.

He did not intend to save the world or heal the wounded. With his physical fitness, the medical skills of mortals were probably useless to him.

Satisfied, Levi put away the booklet and appeared on the street with Magic Shark.

This Book of Kungu could be considered an unexpected gain.

From Master Kungu's tone, Levi felt that this master seemed to have some understanding of wizards. Perhaps he was an apprentice or a wizard himself. With the knowledge and wisdom of ordinary people in this era, it was still tough for them to master so many prescriptions, recognize so many medicinal herbs, and even crack the sacred medicine formulas of the church.

Levi did not venture deeper into the city for the next few days.

He had done his homework before coming here. There were a lot of Snow Demons in the center of the city, especially the Bluefeather Castle in the center of the town. It was a forbidden area.

Every time Levi got close to the Bluefeather Castle, his Spider Sensing would show signs of danger. His hair stood on end, telling Levi that there was an unknown danger within the castle.

Although this was less dangerous than the Fist of the Empire, it was slightly more complex than the evil spirit Naiad.

After all, Levi was now a grand knight.

The Bluefeather Castle still gave off such a dangerous feeling.

That meant that the castle was not simple.

However, just the Snow Demons at the city's edge were enough for Levi to kill.

He had the strength of a grand knight, and his equipment was invincible. He also had the help of the Magic Shark. As long as hundreds of Snow Demons did not surround him, he had nothing to fear.

Levi's hunting efficiency was ten times higher than the others.

Ordinary Snow Demons were no match for Levi.

He did not even need Frostmourn. With the black gas, armor, and brute force, he could hold Snow Demons down and forcefully open their skulls to retrieve Frost Heart.

No matter how hard the Snow Demons attacked Levi, they could not break through his defense.

On the first day, Levi killed over 100 Snow Demons at the city's edge. When he came here, he had set a target of 1,000 Cores of the Undead and immediately completed one-tenth of it.

On the second day, he only killed 60 Snow Demons at the city's edge because finding them at the border was getting harder and harder.

On the third day, there were even fewer.

Levi could only continue to venture deeper. Under his demonic claws, the number of Snow Demons in the city was visibly decreasing.

However, as he went further, the Snow Demons Levi came into contact with became stronger and stronger. From the beginning, he could kill one with a single sword strike, but later on, it became difficult.

These Snow Demons had the strength of Knight Attendants when they were alive. Their tolerance for mithril was higher than Levi had imagined. He frowned.

This degree of difficulty was still beyond his imagination.

This was only a Quasi-Knight-level Snow Demon. Killing would be even more troublesome if it were an Official Knight-level Snow Demon.

However, there was no risk to Levi as long as it was not a Snow Demon at the grand Knight level.

With his unlimited supply of Cores of the Undead, Demon Shark fought endlessly, and the proficiency of the Seal of Hell soared rapidly.

To quickly increase his proficiency, Levi would often let the Demon Shark do the fighting instead of himself.

Just like that, ten days later, the proficiency of the Seal of Hell was directly raised to level 5. [Seal of Hell: Level 5 (1/30000)]

"It's not the limit?"

The Seal of Hell could now summon five living dead at the same time.

There were three more slots besides Magic Shark and Demon Mountain.

However, Levi did not have a grand knight's corpse, so it was temporarily empty.

Five grand knights were already mighty.

However, this was not the limit of the Seal of Hell, which piqued Levi's curiosity.

"Come on, let me see where your limit is!"
