

Wizard 319

Chapter 319: Saint Ape Emperor Mu, Black Snake Levi,

Supreme Knight, King of the Century! (1)

Blacksail Island.

Blacksail Wizard Market.

The Blacksail Enforcement Union was the official organization that maintained the order of this market. All along, it had been led by Whale Song Island, with other second-circle wizard organizations participating. They each sent their own apprentice wizards to participate in the enforcement union.

Theoretically, the president of the enforcement union was a rotation role. However, because there were not enough First-Circle Wizards in other organizations, the president had been a First-Circle Wizard on Whale Song Island for a long time.

Although the other wizard organizations had some complaints, Whale Song Island's strength was here. In the end, they could only silently agree.

Syracus' face was gloomy. "Have you not found Colo's body yet?"

The law enforcer in front of him, a young apprentice wizard, lowered his head and said, "No."

Syrus looked at the Soul Jade representing Colo in his hand. It had completely cracked.

This meant that his eldest disciple, the high-level apprentice wizard whom he had raised and trusted, the captain of the Whale Song Island's law enforcement team, Colo, was actually dead.

"Continue searching and expand the scope. Investigate the people who are closer to Colo. I want to see who it is. They actually attacked our law enforcers!" said Syrus coldly.

"Alright, Lord Syrus. I'll send someone to investigate now."

Syrus looked at the apprentice's departing figure with a gloomy expression.

Colo was his apprentice and also his minion. Naturally, he knew that Colo and the others were up to something in the Blacksail Wizard Market.

However, this was all tacit agreement. After all, Colo would give him Aether Stone every year to show filial piety.

The reason why he, Syrus, stayed away from Whale Song Island and came to this market to be the president of the enforcement union was so that he could get some benefits here.

He swore that if he knew who the murderer was, he would definitely make the other party regret coming to this world.

Just as the Blacksail Enforcement Union was secretly investigating the murderer...

Levi had already left Blacksail Island.

He took a long detour to the sea and sat on the Dragon King Whale in an uninhabited area.

He looked at the flame mark on his chest with a grave expression.

It was obvious that this was some kind of tracking mark. It should also be a type of spell, but this kind of spell was very unorthodox.

Usually, only those wizards with important children would be willing to waste a spell slot to learn such a spell to protect their descendants.

With this mark, wizards could sense the location of their descendants. If their descendants were killed, the mark would be transferred to the perpetrator, allowing the wizard to lock onto the perpetrator's location and avenge their descendants.

Other than this function, this spell had no other use.

Therefore, normal wizards would not learn these unless they had someone they cared about.

Obviously, this Burning Faction apprentice killed by Levi was most likely someone that Fireplay Master Kane cared about.

In the beginning, Levi was a little flustered.

However, after investigating Kane's qualifications at the Blacksail Wizard Market, he was slightly relieved. The other party was not a Second-Circle Wizard and was still within his range of response.

Fireplay Master Kane.

An experienced first-circle wizard, the master of the Black Fire Island, a member of the Azure Fire Alliance, and a guest mentor of Whale Song Island...

He had a lot of honors. Although he did not join a wizard organization, he was still considered an influential figure in this sea area.

Levi did not expect that the mentor of the Burning Faction that Manla had found for his daughter was him.

At that time, he heard Manla complain that in order to pay for his daughter's tuition fees, he had paid 200 Aether Stones alone. And the apprentices under the Fireplay Master basically entered like this. Many of them paid more than Manla's daughter's tuition fees.

After all, Levi had joined the Gray Tower. Not only did he not pay the tuition fees, but he had also earned some points from the tower.

It couldn't be helped. The rarer something was, the more precious it was. In the territory of the Realm of Azure Cloud, there were too few wizards from the Burning Faction.

The Fireplay Master Kane naturally used this identity to earn a lot of money.

"That person probably already knows that his son is dead. He should also know my location. It's useless to escape. There are only two paths in front of me. One is to remove this mark, and the other is to get rid of Kane.

"I don't know how to remove the mark... I've never studied this spell before, and the mark left by a First-Circle Wizard shouldn't be something a mid-level apprentice wizard like me can resolve. Therefore, I can only choose to kill Kane. This way, the mark will naturally be removed."

"However, if I take the initiative to attack an official wizard, I'll face the risk of being judged by the Wizard Tribunal of the Pan-Plane Wizard Council. This will be a little troublesome. It's really difficult..."

Levi was a lawyer in his previous life, so he had specially researched all kinds of laws in the Wizard World, especially the Charter. He basically knew what would break the law and what would not.

Outside the Shadow Realm, the life of an official wizard could not be taken away easily.

If there were any grudges between the two sides, they would be handed over to the Wizard Tribunal for trial.

That was why Levi couldn't take the initiative to hunt Kane yet.

All official wizards were members of the Pan-Plane Wizard Council. Except for the Shadow Realm or dark wizards, the Pan-Plane Wizard Council might send people to investigate the cause of death. By then, Levi would be in trouble..
