Chapter 334: High-Level Apprentice Wizard! (4)

In the sky above the Snow Capital City, it was snowing heavily. Snowflakes fell on the human world, announcing the birth of a saint.

Countless citizens of the Evernight Kingdom braved the blizzard and headed to the Snow Dynasty to pay homage to the god in their hearts.

The saint descended and traveled the mortal world to deal with the calamity of this increasingly intense Dark Wave.

Since ancient times, the battle between the gods of the astral world and the rulers of the Multidimensional Plane had never stopped.

In the Tulip Hill, Flower City.

Andrew, who had completed Levi's assessment this year, was playing chess with Anderson again.

To the long-lived Blood Clan like them, playing chess was a good way to kill time.

Suddenly, a beautiful owl landed on the castle wall. Anderson and Andrew said in unison, "Good morning, Miss Eve."

The owl transformed into a cold witch with a small storage bag in her hand.

"Letter from the Gray Tower. Delivered."

"Miss Eve, don't be in a hurry to leave. Drink some good wine here," Anderson said with a smile.

"Sorry, I'm very busy." Miss Messenger transformed into an owl and left.

The two Blood Clan members looked at each other.

"Quick, quick, quick. Open it and see what your master wrote," Anderson urged.

Andrew opened it silently.

Inside was a letter and a breathing technique inheritance diagram.

Andrew opened the letter and read it silently.

Andrew kept the letter after reading it.

Master asked Andrew to search for the Van Helsing family and the Duncan family's inheritance in the human world according to the clues he mailed.

As a member of the Blood Clan, he had some understanding of the Van Helsing family, but he definitely didn't know as much as Elder Anderson.

"Elder Anderson, have you interacted with the Van Helsing family or the Duncan family?" Andrew asked.

Anderson seemed to recall something.

"I've basically never come into contact with the Duncan family. It was only after I became a legendary knight that I learned some secrets about the Van Helsing family. This family is called the family of vampire hunters. Their heritage is very long, much longer than the history of the Emerald Kingdom. When I came into contact with the Van Helsing family, their family was no longer left with only one vampire hunter. His name was 'Di'. Di was a rare genius of the Van Helsing family. His cultivation talent was close to the ancestors of the family. He mastered the power called seals and cultivated it to the highest realm. It was a power infinitely close to that of a wizard. I fought with Di, and we were evenly matched. In the end, he saw that I was different from the ordinary Blood Clan, so he stopped. The two of us fought and became good friends.

"Later on, because of our identities, I didn't interact much with Di. I continued to be my Blood Clan, while he continued to be a vampire hunter.

"The last time I heard about Di was in the Shining Tavern. Di had trespassed the forbidden area of the Church's Heavenly Mountain and tried to steal the Church's treasure. He was killed by the guardian of the Church's Heavenly Mountain.

"At first, I thought that he wanted to steal the Church's Sealing Sacred Objects. Later on, I found out that what Di wanted to steal... was the remains of the previous saint."

Anderson recalled the past. If Andrew hadn't suddenly asked, he would have buried these things in his mind. He had lived for a long time and had seen a lot, so he had a lot of memories. He had to learn to bury some memories.

Andrew said, "The remains of a saint... Are there any more? I thought that thing had long disappeared."

Anderson said, "I think so. I'm not sure either. After all, saints are also divided into many generations. Didn't the various Churches claim that their saints have appeared recently?"

Andrew stopped talking. The clues given to him by his master did not mention any information about Di. They were all clues about the four great families that were older than Di. Many of them had lost their value with the passage of time.

From the looks of it, the legacy of the Van Helsing family might be with the Church, not to mention the Duncan family, the monster killer.

"Heavenly Mountain. Sigh, if it's here, then there's basically no hope for this inheritance." Andrew shook his head in his heart.

Heavenly Mountain was a forbidden area of the Church of Holy Light.

It was the place where the Church communicated with the Heavenly Father.

On Heavenly Mountain, there were many Sealing Sacred Objects that had been passed down from the Church since ancient times. This was a land of miracles.

It was also the place where the first saint of the Church of Holy Light had fallen.

The so-called Seven Knights of the Sky also came from here.

Of course, in Andrew's eyes, this was a lie to ordinary knights and mortals.

After all, there were a total of seven orthodox gods on this continent. The Heavenly Father was only one of them, and each family had their own opinions.

When Andrew was wandering in the East Pole Empire in his early years, he also received another version of the origin of knights there.

"The great and supreme King of Ten Thousand Dragons! He used his dragon scales and gold to forge the iron bones of a knight, his dragon blood and soil to forge the body of a knight, his dragon saliva and gems to forge the discerning eye of a knight, and finally, he used a passionate dragon breath to bestow the soul of a knight."

All in all, every Church had its own origins. They were self-centered in their own country. Andrew felt that the Church's actions were flattering themselves..
