Chapter 472: The Black Knight! (4)

Levi nodded. After all, the Jostar family and the Al Hidd Family did not have a good relationship, so Dinos' words were inevitably a little subjective.

"Oh right, a few days ago, the Colin family that you investigated was destroyed. The murderer is the Black Sun Flame that you just asked about," Dinos looked at Levi and said.

Levi's heart skipped a beat. This was indeed beyond his expectations. It seemed that dark wizards entering the secret realm was not a coincidence, but rather premeditated.

"This organization is a little arrogant," Levi said. It was no small matter to slaughter a family in broad daylight.

"Yes, dark wizard organizations that can survive in the Wizard World all have some power behind them," said Dinos.

"If you know more about the Black Sun Flames, you must tell me in the future. After all, the Colin family is the family of the Tower Master's wife," Levi looked at the sea and said calmly.

"Understood," Dinos nodded and said.

Knowing that the Black Sun Flames might be related to the Al Hidd Family, Levi did not continue asking.

He remembered that the Tower Master's wife, Stella, had refused to marry the current family head of Al Hidd, Lehman.

In that case, there was indeed some enmity between the Al Hidd Family and Grey Tower.

Therefore, after Levi, a wizard of the Gray Tower, went to the Colin family, there might have been spies of the Al Hidd Family who made a report.

Of course, these were all Levi's guesses. The real situation might not be what he imagined. At that time, the situation was so urgent that he could not capture them alive for questioning.

Furthermore, with the Al Hidd Family's methods, these people probably would not tell the truth.

"Forget it, I probably won't go to the Yellow Earth Continent before I reach the second ring anyway. No matter how powerful the family is, they won't be able to reach Area 9."

Along the way, Levi and Dinos often chatted on the deck when they were not cultivating. Levi also learned a lot about the grudges and disputes of the three major families on the Yellow Earth Continent from Dinos.

All in all, the Jostar family and the Al Hidd Family were like fire and water. If not for the restrictions of the law, they might have already started the Third-Circle Wizard War.

On the surface, there was nothing going on between the two families, but in the dark, the conflict was very serious.

As for the Wham Family, the Storm Faction was relatively neutral, but they still had some conflicts with the two major families from time to time. In short, the Yellow Earth Continent was basically a three-legged situation that restricted each other.

The other small forces were more or less dependent on these three magnates.

"After I find out who harmed me, I will settle this score one day," Levi muttered.

Along the way, Dinos was in a good mood, because he felt that the communication with Levi these days was better than training for a month.

Therefore, in order to become a legend as soon as possible, Dinos was determined to stay in Area 9 for a while longer. That way, he could spend more time with Mr. Levi and learn more about the experience and techniques of breaking through to a legendary knight.

Levi had already found a more suitable teacher for Dinos.

That was Emperor Mu.

Emperor Mu was so poor that he was dying. His talent as a wizard was average. After so many years, he had barely stepped into the realm of a high-level apprentice wizard. Compared to Levi, he was far inferior.

In order to save up for the travel expenses and tuition fees for the Life School of Thought, Emperor Mu had been working himself to death every day.

Therefore, Levi was determined to help his guild member by giving Dinos, the silly son of the landlord, to Emperor Mu so that he could be Dinos' tutor.

Emperor Mu became a legendary knight through his own efforts, so he had more say than Levi in breaking through to the legendary level. With Emperor Mu teaching Dinos, the outcome would not be bad.

Also, he could let Dinos participate in the establishment of the Twilight Knights in the Month of Flowers every year so that he could experience the battle of a legendary knight.

Levi did not want to take in any disciples, but he wanted to turn Dinos into a real legendary knight. That way, his Twilight Knights would have new blood and indirectly have the Jostar family as their backer.

It was the year 1034 of the Holy Brilliance Calendar, Month of Harvest.

In the human world, it was a moonlit night.

The streets of Flower City were quiet and peaceful.

A patrolling soldier was dozing off against the city wall.

Suddenly, a black shadow flashed past. A pair of bat wings seemed to cover the moon.

A thin humanoid monster that was about ten feet tall descended from the sky and gently crushed the head of the patrolling soldier before pouring the remains of the soldier into its deformed mouth.

"It's really not bad. Its juice is really delicious."

The human-shaped monster spoke in a very substandard human language.

Its language became more and more fluent, and its figure began to change. In the end, it turned into a thin and tall young noble who was about to leave.

"So it's you, dog, who's causing trouble."

Unknowingly, Andrew had appeared here. His face was gloomy and his body was afraid, but he still stood up.

Recently, there had been dozens of murder cases in Flower City. The heads of the dead were all forcefully pulled out cruelly.

As a Secondary Blood Clan member, Andrew knew that it was the Blood Clan's doing. During this period of high-intensity patrol, he had finally found the culprit.

It was a Primary Blood Clan member..
