

Wizard 478

Chapter 478: Great Expedition Era! Level 12 Golden Snake!(4)

Levi did not have the time to learn the Rune Language right now. He had to prioritize cultivating breathing techniques.

When he was done with the Tyrant's matters, Levi looked at his current storage bag and saw that he still had nearly 20,000 Aether Stones.

It was enough for Levi to cultivate quietly for a period of time.

Before he went into seclusion, the seagull from the Star Tower landed on the island, left some newspapers, and left.

"That's strange. It's not the time to deliver newspapers now."

Puzzled, Levi picked up the slate and checked the information inside with his spiritual force.

[Emergency Notification]

"The Dark Wizard Army led by the Dark Wizard Emperor Asta and the Chaos Army led by the four Evil Gods under the Lord of Chaos split into five groups and invaded the five most distant plane consortia managed by the Pan-Plane Wizard Council, and set off a rebellion in the five major consortia!

"The evil forces were menacing, and the Pan-Plane Wizard Council would not sit still and wait for death!

"Now, the entire Wizard World had entered a state of war, preparing for a new round of plane expeditions.

"The Congress decided that five Legendary Wizards would lead the army to start a new round of Dimensional Expedition to quell the rebellion.

"Due to some objective reasons, the original expeditionary force was insufficient, so the five Legendary Wizards started the first wave of recruitment in the entire territory!

"The number of wizards recruited this time was 10,000!

"All the official members of the Pan-Plane Wizard Council could participate in the registration. A total of ten new expeditionary forces would be formed, and they would definitely eliminate the five federal rebels and invaders.

"Anyone who participated in the expedition would be able to obtain a Wizard Tool that matched their level. They would also activate the War Legion Merit System and complete their respective legion missions to obtain the corresponding merit points. They could exchange for cultivation resources, Wizard Tools, knowledge inheritance, and so on in their respective legion stores.

"Those with outstanding military achievements would be awarded the corresponding position in the Wizard Council after the war!

"Those who refused to participate in the recruitment had to pay a corresponding amount of military expenses according to their realm.

"We have been living in peace for too long, and the illustrious reputation of the Wizard Ancestor Sauron is gradually being forgotten. If this rebellion is not successfully suppressed, then the 50 Plane Confederation under the Pan-Plane Wizard Council will definitely set off an even greater rebellion.

"This operation is codenamed the Five Sector Expedition! The Pan -Plane Wizard Council, first-year announcement!"

After reading it, Levi could not calm down for a long time.

All along, he had thought that such a large expedition was something very far away from him.

It was the background of those history textbooks.

He did not expect that in such a situation where he was completely caught off guard, without any warning, the sudden era of the Great Expedition had arrived.

"Sigh."

That's true hell..."

At the same time, Levi's membership card beeped with a warning.

He took out his membership card, and the contents began to appear on it.

[No. 9527 Levi, please choose "Expedition Registration" or "Military Fee". If you want to register for an expedition, please go to the Star Tower's "Battle Group Preparing Committee" to register within a year. If you want to pay military fees, you will have to pay 2000 Aether Stones in one go according to your current membership level.

[According to the 'Pan-Plane Wizard Congress Military Service Act,' everyone has a responsibility to protect the wizard civilization. Refusing to enlist or pay the fees will result in the most severe punishment. Please make your choice in time.]

"It's alright. I can still afford 2,000, but it's hard to say for those ordinary First-Circle Wizards without any background."

Levi thought of Winnie and the others. He did not know if they had the money to pay for the military expenses. He believed that Ms. Marlene would not let everyone go to the battlefield. There were only a few official wizards in the Gray Tower. If they went to the battlefield, it would be a problem for them to operate normally.

The consequences of refusing to pay were very serious. Levi did not want to become a dark wizard who hid his head and tail just because of this little money.

In fact, in the early days of the establishment of the Pan-Plane Wizard Council, the sorcerer civilization was not as prosperous as it was now. The number of official sorcerers was not as high, and the power of the enemy was stronger than the previous one.

At that time, if there was a large expedition like this, other than the necessary wizards who stayed behind to guard their homes, everyone had to join the army. There was no option to pay military expenses instead of joining the army.

The current military service bill was already very humane.

In general, according to the bill set by the ancestor of the wizards, Soran, within a certain range, the higher the level of the wizard, the higher the price of refusing to serve in the military.

In a civilization war of this level, the main force would be those intermediate and even high-level wizards. A low-level wizard like Levi would be cannon fodder on the battlefield, or in other words, logistics personnel.

Soran fully considered that some powerful but cowardly wizards might use their power to escape the call, so he set such a rule.

No matter what, this recruitment was mainly voluntary. They would use military merits and cultivation resources to lure more wizards to participate in the war. If they did not want to go, they could pay.

In short, under the management of the Pan-Plane Wizard Council, except for those dark wizards who were not afraid of trouble, there was basically no way to escape military service.

"I wonder how the Tower Master is doing."

Levi suddenly remembered the Tower Master who was still resurrecting his lover.

In the following days, Levi cultivated while paying attention to the development of the situation.

Levi did not care about the other wizard organizations. He only hoped that the wizards of the Gray Tower would try their best not to participate in the Expedition..