

Wizard 518

Chapter 518: Level 12! Dragon Body Born, Red Lotus Hellfire! (3)

Before Levi left, he asked the Black Knight if the latter wanted to follow him.

The Black Knight also had the talent to become a wizard. He could follow Levi into the Wizard World. Under Levi's care, it would be easy for the Black Knight to become an official wizard!

Moreover, if the Black Knight wanted to improve his Black Devil Blade, he would have to increase his spiritual force to the level of an official wizard. Levi had also told the Black Knight about this.

However, the Black Knight turned down Levi's offer. He was already used to life in the human world. If he went to the Wizard World, he would have to climb up from the bottom. He would not be used to it.

The Black Knight believed he could devise a solution to improve his Black Devil Blade after breaking through the shackles of the legendary realm.

Seeing that the Black Knight had made up his mind, Levi naturally would not force him. Everyone had their own aspirations, and if they followed their own path, they would surely succeed!

The Black Knight could also take care of Anderson in the human world.

In Black Water Valley, Levi stood alone at the foot of the Black Snake Castle, which had been abandoned for many years and buried in snow. He was overwhelmed with emotions.

Due to the invasion of the blue frost, the temperature of the entire Northern Territory had dropped drastically. It was as though they had entered an ice age.

It was winter, and the temperature in the Northern Territory was freezing. Black Water River was frozen solid.

It was snowing.

After realizing there was nothing to see, Levi sighed and left Black Water Valley.

He went to Icewind City.

Before he left the human world, he planned to visit the places he remembered.

Currently, the population of Icewind City was sparse. Those still living here were either minor nobles reluctant to part with their ancestral land or people who could not leave.

Levi sensed that Icewind Church had evacuated the city. The few priests who stayed behind to guard the place were also in dire straits.

Inside Silver Mountain Castle, a silver-haired knight with a well-proportioned figure was training his soldiers.

He was the new Earl of Silver Mountain, the son of the old Earl.

Under Andrew's protection, he had already become a grand knight, and now he had the strength to protect his family.

The soldiers under his command wore the mithril equipment Levi had made for them decades ago. This equipment had endured battles and the passage of time. They were marked with battle scars and permanent blood stains.

Although the invasion of the blue frost had been contained, it had not left the Northern Territory.

The new Earl of Silver Mountain looked determined. His handsome face had indeed inherited the merits of his father.

Levi found the tomb of the Silver Mountain alone. The former Northern Seven Flying Cavalry were now skeletons in the grave.

"I suppose watching old friends pass is a unique cultivation experience," muttered Levi as he smiled bitterly.

He bought a glass of Snow Beer at the Shining Tavern and poured it in front of Silver Mountain's grave.

"We were acquainted, after all. May you always bear the courage of the Snowflake Knight and rest for all eternity!"

Behind Levi, the young Earl of Silver Mountain looked at the man who had appeared before his father's grave. He looked nervous as he asked, "Who are you? Why are you in my family's graveyard?"

Levi detected the young Earl of Silver Mountain the moment the latter arrived.

He turned around and smiled. He explained, "I came to see an acquaintance."

"Are you a friend of my father?" the young Earl of Silver Mountain heaved a sigh of relief. However, he was extremely shocked. The man before him looked like a middle-aged man, but the young Earl could not gauge the former's strength.

"Friend? You can say that," Levi said slowly as he reminisced about the old times. He patted the young Earl of Silver Mountain on the shoulder and turned to leave.

Levi's voice echoed, "Your father was a noble worthy of respect!" In the blink of an eye, Levi's figure had disappeared entirely. "An absolute expert! Is he a top-tier grand knight? Or a legendary knight?" The young Earl of Silver Mountain's worldview was shaken.

After leaving Icewind City, Levi headed north. With his current speed, he soon arrived at Montenegro Mountain City.

This was the city of the Duke of Montenegro, his archenemy. It had now become a city of the dead.

Blue Frost Undead were everywhere. There were even a few grand knights among them.

The Blue Frost Undead cores were valuable, and Levi planned to collect more. So far, Blue Frost Undead cores could only be found in the human world.

Although the summoned creatures from Hell had similar energy cores in their bodies, in terms of quality, they were not as good as these cores.

Levi did not collect the cores himself. He released his living dead and sent them to Montenegro Mountain City.

Not long after, a large pile of Cores of the Undead appeared before Levi.

He put away all the cores and looked at the blue light in the center of Montenegro Mountain City that was tearing the sky apart.

He had once encountered such a thing in Bluefeather Castle.

He suspected it was a rift in the human world from where the blue frost had invaded.

During his last encounter with the blue light, its aura made his heart palpitate, so he did not go up to check it.

"Should I take a look?" he thought to himself.

Levi tried to approach the light. He had become much stronger, so he might be able to inspect the rift.

As soon as he got close, his Spider Sensing began to react. When Levi was about 100 meters away from the blue light, a sense of danger made Levi stop.

Levi thought out loud, "I'm a level 12 Golden Snake, and I'm also a senior first-circle wizard. Yet, my Spider Sensing indicates that there's danger. It seems that I'm still not ready to face the blue frost at my current level."

The unknown was the greatest terror and danger. Levi did not know what was behind the blue rift. It could be the plane that the blue frost originated from, or maybe even something else..
