Chapter 561: Change in the Interface! Meditation Art Fusion! (2)

Levi's arm was torn open and bleeding profusely.

But soon, Blood Ember flew everywhere and countless flesh buds grew out. In the blink of an eye, this hideous wound healed as before.

As for him, he had not used the Golden Snake Scales from the beginning to the end.

"As expected, the defensive strength of the King Kong Rock Body has increased."

Levi's King Kong Rock Body had advanced on the foundation of the Rock Body. It was only at level 6 now, and the limit of this spell should be level 7.

The defensive strength of a level 6 King Kong Rock Body was originally only at Grade C.

After being augmented by the Underground Fire Dominator, the defense of the King Kong Rock Body had clearly reached Grade B, similar to Levi's current Golden Snake Scales.

When he cultivated King Kong's Rock Body to the maximum of level 7, the defensive strength of this passive spell should be at the level of Grade A, far surpassing other passive defensive spells and comparable to some top active defensive spells.

The defensive strength of passive defensive spells was generally lower than active defensive spells.

"This way, my defense is even more abnormal. Unless a Second-Circle Wizard has some trump cards like the Blood Imprisonment Awl, not many can break through my defense.

"If you want to break through my defense, you have to use a spell with very strong penetrating power. This kind of spell with very strong penetrating power is often concentrated on one point, so it's very difficult to cause damage to my powerful constitution."

For example, the assassin's Shadow Blade had very strong penetrative power. It Could actually break Levi's Golden Snake Scales and King Kong Rock Body.

However, the cost of this was that the power was too concentrated. It would be fine if it was against weak wizards, but it could not cause fatal damage to a blood bull like Levi.

Even if the Shadow Blade pierced through Levi's heart, Levi could still survive with the Undying Bird Breathing Technique's Blood Ember and Resurrection Special Effects. Then, he could quickly heal the injuries on his heart.

To a certain extent, Levi's current self-healing level was no weaker than that of ordinary Primary Blood Clan.

Unless the vital organs such as the head and heart exploded in an instant and turned into ashes, Levi could self-heal.

Levi looked at the remaining Meditation Arts. According to the current pattern, he might be able to fuse the Deep Sea Meditation Art and the Gale Meditation Art after he reached level 6.

"Sea Gale Meditation Art... It feels a little strange."

"If I combine the Sea Gale Meditation Art with the Earth Fire Meditation Art, wouldn't that be... the Earth, Fire, Wind, and Water Meditation Art?"

"Earth, Fire, Wind, and Water are the beginnings of all elements. They are the source of all things and the power of Aether! Once I master Earth, Fire, Wind, and Water, I don't have to care what school it is or what type of spell it is. I can learn whichever spell I want. Everything I learn would be amazing."

Levi was thrilled at the thought.

Levi only needed one more water element affinity to verify whether this idea could be realized.

He decided that in his future cultivation, he would first cultivate the Gale Meditation Art to level 6.

At that time, when the water element affinity came out, he would cultivate the Deep Sea Meditation Art to level 6 and directly fuse it.

Wind and water gave birth to ice, and water and fire gave birth to lightning!

The Elementalist School that mutated from Earth and Fire was known to Levi as the Bronze School, also known as the Metal School.

This school was similar to the School of Alchemy, but not completely the same.

The School of Alchemy focused on researching alchemy creations, while the Bronze School was an ancient traditional school whose goal was to master rare metal elements.

However, compared to the Elementalist Schools such as Earth, Fire, Wind, Water, Lightning, and Ice, the Bronze School was relatively weak. Currently, there was no Legendary Wizard as the leader.

However, this did not mean that the Bronze Sect was weak.

On the contrary, the Bronze School was rather powerful in both attack and defense. It could be said to be both offensive and defensive.

Condensing metal elements and sharp metal blades to form a terrifying Sword Blade Storm.

Or he could superimpose the metal elements on his body to form a terrifying Indestructible Shield.

There were also All-Metal Maniacs who directly poured metal elements into their bodies and solidified spell runes all over their bodies. They walked the path of alchemy monsters like the Tower Master.

The Bronze School was undoubtedly very powerful, but in the past 10,000 years, the Bronze School had never produced a true genius.

After the death of the former Legendary Wizard, Platinum Wind Roger, who had been the chairman of the Pan-Plane Wizard Council.

This school had stepped into a deficient situation. Without a Legendary Wizard as its successor, its influence in the elemental faction kept decreasing, forming a vicious cycle that kept declining.

Now, among the Elementalist Schools, the four traditional factions of Earth, Fire, Wind, and Water were respected, followed by Thunder and Ice. It seemed like they would catch up later.

The Bronze School, which had once been glorious, finally declined. Now, it had Retreated to a second-tier position in the Elementalist School and could only be compared to juniors like the School of Alchemy.

After seeing the Special Effect of the Underground Fire Dominator, Levi was a little tempted.

He felt that at his second-circle stage, he could give it a try before the Earth, Fire, Wind, and Water fused.

In any case, he was the Underground Fire Dominator. He could learn whatever he wanted.

Now that he had advanced to the second-circle, his strength had increased again. Levi's desire for revenge became stronger and stronger.

He picked up the potion he had refined during this period of time and went to look for Huffman.

As soon as he came out, he met Grimm.

"Oh my god, Sir Levi, you've advanced to the second-circle?" Grimm couldn't help but exclaim..
