Chapter 643: New Change in the Interface! Scarlet Dragon Breathing Technique! (5)

"You called me a foreigner. Have you met any other foreigners who are much like me?" Levi asked.

"I saw one a long, long time ago. When I was fighting outside, that foreigner seemed to be called Ash Knight."

At this, Levi's heart skipped a beat.

This world might be more complicated than he had imagined.

It was not just the Realm of the Unbelievers in the Wizard World. Even the human world could enter this place.

It was even possible that existences from other Multidimensional Planes could step into this place.

One of the ways to enter this place was to use the Ashen Power.

However, Levi's power of ashes had already fused with the power of the Undying Bird into the Death Ember Power.

Ash Knight was the ancestor of Hogg, a legendary knight of the East Pole Empire. Unexpectedly, he had also been here.

"Where did the Ash Knight go?"

"I'm not sure," Owens said. "He has about the same strength as you, but he's a lot weaker."

"What are those gray crystal cores that fall to the ground after death?" Levi asked.

When Owens heard this, he took out a rough cloth bag and carefully opened it.

A crystal core appeared in Owens' palm.

"This is a Fallen Crystal. After some dead people are killed, their power condenses with ashes as the core and turns into a Fallen Crystal. The Fallen Crystal can be used for cultivation. I can demonstrate it to you."

Owens held a gray crystal core in his hand and chanted a complicated incantation. Streams of gray airflow slowly surged into Owens' body.

"But we seem to be the only ones who can cultivate," Owens said. "I'm not sure you foreigners can use it."

Levi nodded. "Then what's the use of this copper coin to you?"

"This is the Coin of Life. If we Gray Swordsmen want to break through to a higher level, we need such things. Coins of Life can also be used for cultivation. The effect is better than Fallen Crystals. Unfortunately, in our world, there are too few Coins of Life. They are passed down from ancient times."

"I see. Thank you for clearing my doubts. Can you come back to my world with me now?" Levi asked.

Owens seemed to be used to foreigners like Levi. It seemed that many foreigners had been here before.

"Yes, I can use the Coin of Life as a medium to reconstruct my body. I can temporarily descend into your world. After the Coin of Life is burned, I will return automatically. I can't escape this world," Owens said.

After communicating with Owens, Levi knew that the better the Ashen Coins he used, the stronger Owens would be after his descent.

One silver coin was enough for Owens to descend to his world with two-thirds of his strength.

If it was a better Dollar, it could fully descend.

"Do I have to come to this world every time I summon you?"

Before leaving, Levi asked.

The Ashen World was too strange. He didn't want to come anymore.

"Of course not. All you have to do is hold the Coin of Life and say the name of my sword and my real name: Unyielding Silver Seat Owens. Then I can descend."

Owens said. There was a hint of anticipation in his eyes. He seemed to want to see the outside world again.

Levi nodded and waved with a smile. "Goodbye, the strongest swordsman in Windmill Village."

"Goodbye, foreigner. You can summon me more when you get the chance. I'm very free. Don't worry about disturbing me." Owens leaned under the windmill and waved.

Levi's figure turned into ashes and dissipated in front of Owens.

"The outside world..."

He muttered to himself, feeling down.

Lion King City.

In the wizard tower.

Levi opened his eyes and looked at the normal mansion and the fur clans training outside.

"Algerta!" Levi shouted.

"Master, I'm here." Algerta hurriedly jogged over.

"Did I do anything abnormal just now?" Levi asked, confusing Algerta. "Master, I don't know. You seemed to be in the wizard tower just now and didn't come out..." Algerta scratched his head in puzzlement.

Hearing this, Levi understood.

Ever since he entered the Ashen World in the wizard tower, he had stepped into an alternate world that was related to the original world but did not interact with it.

Therefore, although he was wandering around the Lion King City of the Ashen World, he would not be seen by the people of this world.

"That's fine, but that Ashen World is too strange. If it wasn't to experiment with the Ember Call, I really wouldn't want to stay for a moment longer," Levi muttered to himself.

Then, he held an ordinary iron coin in his hand.

"Unyielding Silver Seat Owens!"

Then.

The iron coin in Levi's hand began to burn like incense. White smoke surrounded the wizard tower.

Then, the smoke gradually condensed into a small person that was only 1.5 meters tall.

It was Owens, who had just parted.

"I say, foreigner, can't you summon me with silver coins?" Owens smiled helplessly.

He looked at his small body. Even his sword was taller than him. "I'm just experimenting. You can go back when it's time," Levi said with a smile.

He had held back. After all, he still didn't know Owens' background very well. If he harmed himself or brought disaster to the Wizard World, it wouldn't be the outcome Levi wanted.

He just needed to make sure that the Ember Call could be used.

Levi used the time to ask Owens some more questions..
