

Wizard 694

Chapter 694: The Dao of Humanity! (2)

"Teacher, I understand." Dinos smiled.

After showing off to Dinos, Emperor Mu went back to consolidate his realm.

He had always thought that he needed the Golden Spine Bone to break through the shackles of legendary.

From the looks of it, it was the Golden Spine Bone that restricted him and trapped him.

Now that he had broken free from the shackles and gained enlightenment, it was refreshing.

"Hahaha!" Emperor Mu's laughter rang, giving off a carefree feeling. "This is really something worth laughing about. I can't fall behind either."

When Dinos returned home, he immediately went into seclusion.

Holy Brilliance Calendar Year 1075, Month of Germinal.

To the Endless Sea, there were no four seasons.

However, in the Peacock Kingdom in the human world, it was the month when the grass grew and the birds flew.

About 50 years ago, in the year 1038 of the Holy Brilliance Calendar, a terrifying dark event happened in the Emerald Kingdom.

Because the faith of the people of the kingdom was not loyal enough, the Seven Deadly Sins were born and rampaged in the world, causing demons to arise and blood to flow like a river in the Emerald King City.

The arrogant and extravagant Emerald Kingdom had died in the demon invasion, and the kingdom's fortunes had run out.

Later on, the Church of Holy Light took over the government until a grand duke family in the south defeated many competitors and took over the capital. In 1040 of the Holy Brilliance Calendar, the era of the Peacock Kingdom began.

The founding monarch of the Peacock Kingdom, the Great Duke of Peacock, died of a serious illness in 1070 of the Holy Brilliance Calendar.

The eldest son, Boyka, succeeded to the throne until today.

The Emerald King City had long been renamed the Peacock Capital. The statue of the Emerald Dragon in the middle of the capital had also been changed to a Five-Color Peacock that spread its wings and soared into the sky.

This was the symbol of the Peacock Family.

Five-Color Peacock.

In the legends, the Five-Color Peacock's body shone with a sacred five-colored light. Wherever it passed, it illuminated everything.

Even the Emerald Dragon known as the Multi-element Green Light was not worth mentioning in front of the Five-colored Divine Light.

It was obvious that this was a myth adapted by the Peacock Family to promote their orthodox position as the replacement for the Jade Dragon Family.

There was no need to say whether it was true or false.

The Peacock Family was the most talked about family. Ten years ago, a legendary knight appeared.

This might be the only legendary knight born in the past hundred years, from the end of the Emerald Kingdom to the establishment of the Peacock Kingdom.

Besides, this legendary knight was also a female knight like the Goddess Knight who went missing next door.

This legendary knight was Denise, the sister of the Peacock King.

The legendary Divine Light Knight.

Unlike her brother, the Divine Light Knight, Denise, was not in the mood for politics.

Since she was young, Denise had traveled around the seven kingdoms with a grand knight master to cultivate the path of a knight.

It was precisely because of this seriousness and talent that Denise was able to break through to the legendary level and become the only legendary knight in the history of the Peacock Family.

At this moment, the sun was setting.

The faint golden afterglow shone under the city wall of the Peacock Capital, looking dreamy and charming.

On a small road in the suburbs outside Peacock City, a group of people was sending him off.

King Boyka, who was dressed in casual clothes, looked at his valiant sister in front of him and sighed.

"Sigh, if it weren't for my lack of talent as a knight, I would rather let you be the king and let me be the legendary knight. As a great man, it's a good thing to become a legendary knight."

Boyka's expression was complicated. There was envy and unwillingness.

Denise was wearing the mithril armor called Immovable King by Master Golden Warhammer. At her waist was the scimitar Flying Yaksha made by Master Golden Warhammer and mixed with Luminant gold.

She patted her brother's shoulder and said, "Brother, govern the country well.

The Peacock Family has never had its current glory. I believe in you."

"Sister, are you really going abroad? It's said that there are terrifying existences from the outer realm lurking in the sea. Danger lurks everywhere. Even a grand knight might die in the sea if he rashly steps into the sea," Boyka asked.

His position would be even more stable with a legendary knight, so he didn't want his sister to leave.

However, from the looks of it, his sister was still unwilling to stay in the capital for another moment.

"When I traveled around the seven kingdoms, I heard many stories about legendary knights. Snowflake Knight, Flower Knight, golden knight, lionheart knight, Ash Knight...

"These names shone like stars in the history of the seven countries. I have followed in their footsteps since I was young.

"I long to become a legendary knight. It wasn't until I reached this level that I realized that being a legendary knight doesn't seem to be the end.

"My brother, you were born to be a king. I'm different. I'm just a woman. My ambition is not here.

"Father left the country to you. I hope you won't disappoint him and become a great king supported by his people!"

Denise, the Divine Light Knight, turned around and rode away without any hesitation. She turned her back to the king and waved.

"Your Majesty, please leave."

Denise's teacher had been a knight since she was young. After an unknown top-notch grand knight finished speaking, she rode her horse and chased after him.

Looking at his sister's back as she left, King Boyka looked a little sad.

"Let's go. Leaving this place is also a form of protection for sister." He looked at the cathedral in the center of the Peacock Capital with a complicated expression.

In the wilderness, Denise and the old knight passed by Flower City. After disguising herself, she went to the Shining Tavern and rested for the night..