

Wizard 725

Chapter 725: New Home

"No problem, Sir Levi... Right, I'll get my men to prepare a new wizard tower for you." Varil said as he looked at Levi.

"Thank you very much."

A month later, Garcia rushed back from Star Sea and returned to the wizard market.

When he heard about the demons causing a ruckus in the market, he quickly called the Black Pearl's four wizards for a meeting.

The five wizards sat together and were discussing an important matter.

"That demon must have been completely dealt with. This thing is the hardest to deal with. It has many strange abilities and is impossible to guard against," said Garcia.

"Lord, we saw the demon disappear with our own eyes. We then checked the entire market again. The demon should be completely dead," said Sparrow.

"That's good. This demon's origins are strange. It's intriguing." Garcia muttered.

"Lord, in my opinion, that demon is definitely related to Sorrett. There's no doubt that the Thunder Dragon Family is determined to take our market away. Not only that, but they also want to poach all the low-level wizards and Third-Circle Wizards from our market!" Sparrow said angrily.

"Sparrow, there's no evidence at the moment. Don't talk nonsense," said Garcia. "Lord, what evidence is needed? Anyone with eyes can see it."

"In short, don't jump to conclusions without evidence. Otherwise, if someone catches you saying that and claims that you're slandering and insulting him, wouldn't you be falling into the enemy's trap and giving him an excuse to make a move? At that time, the villain can complain first... After all, colluding with the demons and joining the Abyss is a great crime that betrays the entire wizard civilization. If this is made public, even many dark wizards will mock this person." Garcia said calmly.

"What Lord said is reasonable. I was rude. Sigh, I just can't take this lying down." Sparrow's heart burned with anger when he thought of those who were killed by the demons.

He was a rogue cultivator who grew up in the Black Pearl Wizard Market, so he still had some feelings for this place.

"If those people want to leave, we can't do anything about it. The market was originally a trading center for rogue cultivators. There are not so many restrictions and rules. This is also the original intention of our Black Pearl Wizard Market. If the Thunder Dragon Family wants this market, then he can have it."

"If the four of you want to follow the Thunder Dragon Family, I won't stop you. I, Garcia, have already exhausted my life's hard work, luck, and potential to cultivate and attain the fifth-circle realm. It can be said that the hope of becoming a primordial soul is slim."

"Perhaps for you, the Thunder Dragon Family is a good place to go. Sorrett is the first person in thousands of years who has the highest possibility of breaking through to the primordial soul stage in the Thunder Dragon Family. There is no problem for him to become a primordial soul cultivator in the future. If you follow him, you might be able to advance further.”

"As for me, I plan to head to the Star Sea and establish a true wizard organization there to continue my legacy," said Garcia.

"Lord, I, Sparrow, will never join any wizarding family no matter how poor I am in this life, even if I am so poor that I don't have a single piece of Aether Stone!" Sparrow said firmly.

"We, the four Black Pearl wizards, have always advanced and retreated together. If you don't mind, Sir, then the four of us will also join your wizard organization," Varil added.

"It's a good idea to establish a wizard organization. If we want to improve our strength, a loose wizard market is not enough. We need to establish a wizard organization. There will be more low-level wizards collecting resources, and we will provide knowledge and protection. This will form a good cycle," said

Sparrow.

"That makes sense. I want to establish a wizard organization that is similar to an academy. Then, I want to recruit some wizards from various large guilds who are good at research. Whether it's a popular guild or a small guild, as long as they have the ability and talent, they can join and become teachers of the academy..."

Garcia spoke of his idea. In general, it was to add some details and perfection to the traditional wizard organization system to prevent the academy from becoming the same as a wizard family in the later stages of development.

Sparrow and Varil nodded in agreement and began to discuss the plan to leave Area 5 and head to Star Sea.

A month later.

Inside the wizard tower, Levi looked at his new home and sighed.

He originally wanted to leave the Black Pearl Wizard Market, but after thinking about it, in this situation, if he were to go to other places, there was a high chance that it would be the same. It would not be any better.

Therefore, he continued to settle down in the Black Pearl Wizard Market.

Just as Varil had said, Levi had regained his wizard tower and territory on the other side of the mountain.

This was a gift from Varil to Levi as a reward for killing the demon in secret. "It's a pity that it won't be so convenient to visit Old Xavier's house in the future."

After moving into his new house, Levi remembered Old Xavier who was still living there.

The new house was very far from the previous place, but with the speed of a Third-Circle Wizard, it was only a few minutes away.

'After the battle with that Level 4 demon, it can be seen that in my current

Furious Dragon Lord form, I already have the strength to fight against a Fourth-Circle Wizard by relying on the accumulation of attributes in the hexagon.'

'Of course, this was only the initial confrontation. That Level 4 demon was only an incarnation, and his Strength was almost exhausted. If he hadn't automatically dissipated in the end, I might have become a lunatic and wouldn't have been able to kill him..'
