Chapter 733: Ancient Saint! (2)

After the Lizardmen reacted, they panicked and fled in all directions.

Amidst this terrifying apocalyptic scene, accompanied by the rain of lava that fell from the sky, a huge scarlet object fell to the ground with a bang.

The Earth split open, cracks spread, dust flew, and a deep pit appeared.

When the dust settled, a burly middle-aged man shook his head and stretched his muscles before climbing out.

His majestic body slowly appeared in the smoke, and his golden scales shone brightly in the fire.

Heavens, his body was emitting flames. Was he human?

It should be some more powerful Lizardman.

Kelvin's heart fell into the valley.

Could this be the evil god that these Lizardmen wanted to sacrifice to?

That wasn't right. He hadn't even enjoyed his offerings and the evil god had already descended?

He no longer cared. He embraced the destruction. He was tired.

"Thank God I'm back!"

Levi was dizzy. Without the protection of the spatial door, this teleportation was too dizzy.

However, just as he expected, he successfully passed the sub-dimensional portal node.

The power of space distortion dissipated as soon as it touched Levi's golden scales.

This proved that his self-created Heavy Water Barrier was handy.

However, he did not expect the exit of this node to be in the volcano.

Moreover, perhaps because of Levi's teleportation, the volcano erupted.

He was directly swept into the sky by the terrifying lava flow. Then, he fell onto the island in a daze.

Levi exhaled a cloud of volcanic ash. Lava rained down on Levi's naked body and splattered everywhere.

He was like a demon god that had crawled out of hell, bathing in the rain of fire without any scruples.

"What kind of monster is this?" Kelvin's knowledge was overturned. A hot breath came from above his head, and he saw a huge rock that had been burned red by the magma fall. If it hit, Kelvin and these sacrificial sailors would not survive.

Levi leaped up and lashed out with his leg.

Boom!

Perhaps a hundred tons of rock was sent flying and fell into the sea in front of him in a perfect parabola.

"Such a familiar aura... You are the descendant of the Silver Mountain Knight, right?" Levi tore open the ropes.

After carefully sizing up Kelvin, Kelvin didn't dare to make a sound. He only reacted after a while.

"Yes, Lord. I... I'm Kelvin Silver Mountain."

"I see," Levi said calmly. He looked at the sailors and sighed. He waved his hand and sent these people into Alice's ring.

He turned around and left the volcanic island.

He had just sensed that a group of strange guys seemed to have jumped into the sea to escape.

Levi released Tyrant II and Mountain Giant Bo Gang.

"Go and catch those little bugs that escaped," Levi said.

Levi, on the other hand, found an uninhabited island and rested for a while. Then, he judged his current location so that he could make plans.

He naturally had to bring the descendants of the Silver Mountain Family to the Twilight Knights Hall.

As for the sailors, Levi planned to use the Maximum Dream Infiltration Wind spell to modify their memories and erase the traces of their appearance in their minds.

He looked at the endless sea and waited for Bo Gang and the others to return.

"What's on the other side of the sea?"

Levi suddenly had a thought.

From the geography knowledge obtained by the Church, the human world was centered on the vast continent where the seven kingdoms were located.

He called the place outside the Seven Kingdoms Continent the "outer sea region"

However, just how big was the outer sea region? What was on the other side of the sea?

The Church's knowledge was not involved. They only said that the deeper one went into the outer sea region, the more violent the sea would become. If ignorant mortals stepped into it, their ships would definitely be destroyed and they would die.

In the history of the Jade Kingdom, many navigators had tried to explore the borders of the outer sea region.

Some navigators even raised their guesses that the human world was a super huge ball.

The Seven Kingdoms Continent was just a small piece of land on the sphere.

Of course, this guess was mercilessly shattered by the Church. The navigator was even listed as a heretic by the Church and burned.

"The place where the light of a benevolent father shines is the human world. Other than that, it's all the domain of darkness. If an ignorant mortal casually abandons the light of a benevolent father, what will greet him will be demons and devils, countless dark creatures."

The pope said at the meeting where the heretics were burned to death.

After that, very few navigators went to explore the outer sea region.

That place had become a forbidden area in the eyes of mortals. A destructive storm, an indescribable horror, and the corpses of countless adventurers were hidden there.

However, in the Wizard World, Levi obtained another version of geographical knowledge.

In the human world, there was indeed only one continent in the past. That was in ancient times, before the parliament was established and before the rise of Sauron, the ancestor of wizards.

At that time, mortals, wizards, the Church, the transcendent creatures of the human world, and the creatures from other planes that came along with the convergence of the Heavenly Spheres all lived on a boundless continent.

In the Church of the Holy Light's words, this continent was called the Land of Divine Light. In the Church of the Dragon God's words, it was called the Land of the Soaring Dragon. In short, the Seven Gods Church, who competed with each other and argued, had their name for this continent. It was easier to deceive the world and harvest faith..
