Chapter 815: Mother Nest's Will, Blood Qi Transforming into Wings (2)

However, it would take at least a thousand or even ten thousand years to recover the strength of his main body.

This period of time was enough for the wizards to make preparations.

However, the reason why Luther's brows could not relax was not because of the Father of Plagues, nor was it because of the Plague Divine Power that was eroding his soul and will.

It was an unknown danger from the Land of Darkness.

The crystal ball in front of him was completely dark.

"Hiss hiss... Rustle..."

Like a cassette recorder, a certain voice came from the crystal ball.

This voice was terrifying, crazy, angry, hungry, and savage, as if it wanted to devour everything.

Suddenly, there seemed to be a vast willpower pervading the wizard tower. The level of this willpower was so high that even Deep Blue Sage, who had just defeated the Father of Plagues, could not help but change his expression.

He did not know who the owner of this will was.

However, he could sense the endless malice towards all living beings.

Cracks began to appear on the crystal ball.

With a bang, the Wizard Tool that he had been using for a long time shattered.

He arrived at the top of the wizard tower, and his voice spread throughout Sky City like a yellow bell.

"This is an emergency. We will no longer return to the Wizard World. Sky City's route has changed. Everyone, prepare for battle!"

Hearing the voice of the Legendary Wizard, the wizards of the battle group, including Herman, became nervous.

They had never seen this Legendary Wizard's tone carry a trace of panic and helplessness.

They believed that even if the angels of the gods or even the gods themselves descended from the astral world, this calm and wise top expert of the Ocean School would still fight against the gods with a determined expression.

Luther took a deep breath and looked helplessly at the Land of Darkness in the distance. On the other side of the deep space was Nora's plane, the Wizard World.

Originally, according to the set flight schedule, he would be able to return in a few years.

But now, he could not go back.

The level and status of the will just now made him know that if he returned to Nora's plane at this time, he might bring back the terrifying existence lingering in the Land of Darkness.

"Deep Blue Sage, bring up the plane closest to Sky City," Luther said in a low voice.

An old but gentlemanly voice sounded from the wizard tower, as if an old butler was speaking.

"Retrieving..."

"The transfer is complete. The planes closest to Sky City are the Tide Plane, the Stardust Plane, and the Grey Eagle Plane..."

Deep Blue Sage's voice was heard.

"This won't do. Some of these planes are Federation Planes under the jurisdiction of wizards. Some planes don't even have level 9 existences. They have to be at least at the legendary level to be able to compete with this will... Deep Blue, this time, directly extract the information of planes with level 10 and above existences. Don't care about the distance. The stronger the plane, the better," Luther said.

"Retrieving... planes with level 10 and above are the Traveler Plane, the Wilderness Plane... the Abyssal Plane..."

"Wait, how far is the Abyssal Plane from us?" Luther suddenly interrupted Deep Blue and asked.

"The Abyssal Plane is 20 years away from us. If we push it at full speed, it will take 10 years. If we push it too far, it will take 5 years... Lord Luther, are you going to do it?" Deep Blue Sage asked.

"That's right. Now, turn around and head to the Abyssal Plane. Go forward with all your might and prepare to enter a state of overload at any time."

"But, Lord, if that's the case, Sky City might also be destroyed after reaching the Abyssal Plane. At that time, returning will be a problem. Moreover, there are too many level-10 existences on the Abyssal Plane... After evaluation, if we barge into the bottom of the Abyssal Plane alone, the chances of survival are not high. It's less than one-third," Deep Blue said.

"This is an order. Just carry it out. If it's a critical moment, I'll put Sky City and these battle group wizards into my Demiplane and sail alone in the Land of Darkness. I won't let everyone make meaningless sacrifices," Luther said.

"Will do."

Not long after, the massive Sky City began to change direction, heading towards a certain place in the Land of Darkness.

"I wonder where we're going?" Herman asked.

"No matter what, let's trust the Legendary Wizard Lord's decision," Stella said solemnly.

They traveled in the Land of Darkness for an unknown period of time.

Suddenly, a tremor came from the barrier outside Sky City.

The wizards looked in the direction of the tremor and saw a super-large creature that was about the same size as Sky City appear in the Land of Darkness.

This giant creature looked like a worm. Its entire body was covered in a thick metal shell, and its sides were filled with scarlet eyeballs that were constantly moving.

Its entire body was covered in dense pits, like a beehive.

In these deep pits, various aberrations were flying out of the beehive tunnels on huge fly-like worms.

Not only that, but on the back of the giant creature, there were also several strange powerhouses with auras that were not inferior to the Grand Wizards. All of them looked at the wizards in the sky city with bloodthirsty eyes.

These strange insects had a clear division of labor and were in an orderly manner. They were comparable to a well-trained wizard battle group.

A blue gel-like breath shot out from the mouth of the giant worm and landed on Sky City's defensive barrier.

Accompanied by the breath landed on the defensive barrier were strange-looking insects that were small but had sharp mouths.
