

Wizard 881

Chapter 881: Dual Cultivation of Body and Magic! (2)

He had originally wanted to buy all the liquefaction and crystal phase techniques in one go, but he had been overthinking.

"I wonder what is the difference between third grade, second grade, and first grade?" This was the first time Levi had heard of such a division.

For an ordinary wizard, having one was already good enough. How could they have the qualifications to choose?

"A first-grade liquefaction technique is generally a more advanced method and is more suitable for the current era. The creator is usually more famous, and the efficiency and success rate of liquidizing will be slightly better than a second-grade or third-grade technique."

"Sir, I'm not trying to promote it to you. I sincerely suggest that if you have money, you should choose the best one without hesitation, especially the one with the endorsement of a Legendary Wizard. It's absolutely reliable."

"After all, once you choose a liquefaction method and start cultivating it, there's no way to change it. Some low-level techniques definitely have some shortcomings," said the witch.

Levi then looked at the spiritual force of the gasification technique and was surprised to find that he had once cultivated the Earth and Fire Gasification Technique. It was classified as second-grade gasification knowledge and was worth 30,000 Aether Stones.

"Forget it, I won't save money. I'll just fill it up."

Levi now had 600,000 Aether Stones on him, so he could definitely afford it.

"I only have succubus breastmilk left for the materials of my Succubus Potion. I don't have any expenses for now. 300,000 is enough for the materials of the Purgatory Ghost Killing Array."

Although Levi was rich, he had always been frugal.

He had painstakingly "taken" this money from the dark wizard. Every cent was hard to come by.

"I'll get the Extreme Cold Liquefaction Technique," said Levi.

"Alright, sign the confidentiality and sales ban agreement."

"No problem."

Although he had obtained the Extreme Cold Liquefaction Technique, he did not have the time to study it in detail. He only roughly read the basic introduction of the Liquefaction Technique.

"Hmm? The colder it is, the easier it would be to liquefaction one's spiritual force under the stimulation of the low temperature outside. As long as one unit of spiritual power is liquefied into one drop of spiritual power dew, it could be called advancing to the fourth-circle..."

However, this fourth-circle could only be described as a transition period. Only by converting all 200 units of spiritual force into spiritual force dew could one truly enter the fourth-circle. The length of this transition period depended on the talent of each wizard, the quality of the liquefaction method, and other factors. It could be as short as three to five years, or as long as it could be decades. In short, the beginning was difficult. The first drop was the most difficult, but the rest was much faster.

During the [transition period], the state of a wizard's spiritual force would be a little unstable, and it was best to avoid casting spells as much as possible. Otherwise, the spiritual power that had already liquefaction might also be vaporized again, and all previous efforts would be in vain.

Therefore, during this period, it would be best for the wizard to find a safe place and cultivate in seclusion peacefully. They would do their best to pass the [transition period].

After the fourth-circle, every additional unit of spiritual force required one drop of [spiritual force dew]. 500 drops of dew could be crystallized.

The quality of liquid spiritual force was also higher than that of gas. A drop of liquid spiritual power was equivalent to 40 points of spell power.

It was said that there were some extremely rare special potions and Truth Oddity that could increase the upper limit of one's spiritual force.

If he could increase the upper limit of his spiritual force before the crystallization, he would benefit greatly after the crystallization and when he breaks through to the primordial soul realm in the future.

Before the crystal phase, every 100 points of spiritual force increase would increase the success rate of breaking through to the primordial soul realm by 10%!

The limit of an ordinary fifth-circle wizard's spiritual force was 1000 points, while some wizards who had taken special potions or refined Truth Oddity might have an upper limit of 1100 points of spiritual force. That meant that their success rate of breaking through to the primordial soul realm was 10% higher than that of ordinary wizards.

There was even a Water Element Child who was already at the peak of the fourth-circle when he was two hundred years old. However, he accidentally obtained a Truth Oddity. In order to refine the Truth Oddity, he waited for three hundred years and increased his spiritual force to an unprecedented 1500 points in the Endless Sea. He only began to crystalize when he was five hundred years old. Now, this wizard was called... Deep Blue Sage Luther.

Therefore, some fourth-circle wizards who were interested in the primordial soul realm would deliberately stay for a while even if they had 500 drops of dew.

But at the same time, the Frost Witch also gave some advice to these deliberate "Cas level" phenomena:

"First of all, most wizards had to accept the fact that only a very small number of people were destined to break through to the primordial soul realm. Therefore, if ordinary wizards delayed the crystal phase and did not advance to the fifth-circle in order to increase the success rate of breaking through to the primordial soul realm, they might miss the best time to crystal phase and waste their limited lifespan. In the end, the gains would not make up for the losses, and they would not even succeed in the crystal phase!

Secondly, whether it was potions that increased the upper limit of spiritual force, Truth Oddity, or certain meditation techniques that claimed to increase the upper limit of spiritual power, they were either almost extinct or they would take a lot of time to digest and absorb.

Ordinary wizards should always have a fluke mentality and imagine that they were the lucky ones who were destined to be lucky!

Grasping what is in front of you, if you can get to the crystal phase, you should go ahead! Of course, if you have enough confidence and a treasure like the Truth Oddity, you could wait.

In short, this kind of deliberate delay in advancing is not desirable.”

After Levi finished reading it, it was as if he had opened the door to a new world.
