

Wizard 902

Chapter 902: Death of the Black-Eyed Crow! (5)

"Let's go in and take a look. The outside world is indeed rich. I reckon that this secret realm has a lot of resources. We don't have to go deep into this exploration. We just need to confirm the location and report it to the Cave Lord when we return," the Fourth-Circle Wizard said.

"Yes, be careful."

After resting for a moment, the two wizards lit up their protective force fields and stepped into the altar.

In the next moment, they appeared in the temple. At the same time, four terrifying attacks arrived.

"Lizardmen?"

The four Ancient Saints had been prepared for a long time. They attacked with their strongest attacks.

Although the third-circle array wizard was already prepared, he was still killed instantly.

The other Fourth-Circle Wizard was slightly better, but his protective force field was also shattered.

He was hit and was seriously injured. He hurriedly retreated to the other island through the altar.

"That was close."

He did not have time to rest. His force field and protective spells all lit up. He barged into the protective array and wanted to kill his way out.

This time, no array wizards were leading the way.

As he walked, he arrived at the King of Earth array.

Boom!

Spikes drilled out of the Earth one after another.

"Damn it."

With Bo Gang presiding over it, the King of Earth's array was extremely terrifying.

In addition, this Fourth-Circle Wizard was already seriously injured.

In the end, he died in the array in despair.

Bo Gang appeared in front of his corpse, took away his storage bags, and threw the corpse into the King of Fire's array to burn it.

"This human world is becoming more and more unstable... I wonder when Master will return." Bo Gang's expression was solemn.

Not long after the three wizards died, far away in the outer seas, on the other side of the Mortal Barrier, in the Forsaken Land of the God.

On the devastated land, dark and deep cracks were densely covering it.

Following the complicated cracks in the ground, continuing to descend a hundred feet, and a thousand feet deep.

Suddenly, it opened up and a huge underground world came into view.

Water flowed, and the roars of transcendent creatures could be heard.

This was the Black Light Crypt, a Level 5 Cave, built by the ancient wizard organization Black Light Tower.

Now, after a long time, the once glorious Black Light Tower only had one Fifth-Circle Wizard guarding it.

In the cave, the elemental power was much richer than in the outside world. It could also greatly reduce the corrosion of the dark power and avoid the attacks of the Cataclysm Beasts on the surface.

Cataclysm Beasts were also known as black beasts, calamity beasts, and so on.

Some of these guys were caused by the dark corrosion of transcendent creatures that were also left here in ancient times, and some came from the Land of Darkness outside Nora's plane.

In short, these creatures had completely adapted to the corrosion of the power of darkness. They were powerful, mutated, and ferocious. Even Cave Wizards did not like to provoke them.

The owner of the Black Light Crypt was called the Black Light Master by his subordinates.

He was a bald wizard wearing a black robe. There was an extremely docile-looking Flame Divine Bird standing on his shoulder.

"The team sent to explore the outside world was completely wiped out... A bunch of trash. Do I have to do it myself?"

"However, the tracking mark I left on one of them has taken effect. When I'm done here, I'll go and see who it is that can destroy my team."

"After lying low for so long, it's time to start exploring the new world. I've had enough of this lousy place... Don't you think so, little bird?"

The Black Light Master touched the head of the Flame Divine Bird on his shoulder.

"You're a bird. Your whole family is birds. I'm the Fire Element Avenger, Anvada!"

Anvada felt disdain in its heart, but it nodded on the surface.

The outer sea region, Area 9.

Black Fire Island.

In the wizard tower of the Black-Eyed Crow, there was a huge crucible.

There was a green potion in the crucible.

A corpse was floating in it with its face closed.

"The once high and mighty Star Supervisor can only become my Poison Fire Corpse Demon now. Tsk, tsk, tsk..."

Black-Eyed Crow looked excited.

Seven years ago, he made a deal with Master of Flames Claur.

Claur asked him to kill Riemann at the price of 200,000 Aether Stones and a Giant Tree Secret Realm.

He did as he was told, and succeeded.

With the fifth-circle Wizard Tool—Fire Ouroboros, his strength was naturally not something Riemann could compare to.

After killing Riemann, the Black-Eyed Crow went to look for Claur and realized that the trash had disappeared.

He asked the organizers and learned that Claur was already dead. He should have died at the hands of the righteous wizards.

Although he did not obtain the Giant Tree Secret Realm, the Black-Eyed Crow had already made a killing in this transaction, so he could refine his Poison Fire Corpse Demon, which was comparable to a Fourth-Circle Wizard.

Corpse demons were a powerful man-made monster. Many Intermediate Wizards of the School of Death knew how to refine such monsters. In addition to being a Burning Faction wizard, the Black-Eyed Crow was also proficient in some Death Sect spells.

What he refined was the Poison Fire Corpse Demon among the corpse demons.

Its power was much stronger than ordinary corpse demons.

The first step of refining this demon corpse was obtaining a powerful corpse. It would be best if it was a body-refining wizard. If not, he could use an ordinary wizard.

Riemann was not a body-refining wizard, but his cultivation level was at the fourth-circle, so it was more than enough to refine corpse demons.

The second step required the corpse to be soaked in special poisonous water for nine years. Among them, different incantations and solidification spell runes were needed to allow the poison to permeate the corpse and turn it into an invulnerable poisonous corpse.