

Wolfless 175

Chapter 175 Are You Falling for Her?

The next morning, Ethan drove his car to the entrance of Navoris High.

He kept his eyes on the outside until he saw a girl in a school uniform holding a burger at the gate of Navoris High. Immediately, Ethan opened the car door and got out.

At that moment, Ethan was wearing a police uniform, and he looked especially good in it. He truly embodied the appeal of a uniformed figure.

His presence at the entrance of Navoris High immediately attracted the attention of the female students.

It was almost time for class, but none of these girls were willing to go inside.

“Wow, he’s so handsome!”.

“Yeah! I used to think Nico was handsome, but compared to this man, Nico seems to be lacking something.”

“Mmm, I really want to marry a werewolf warrior.”

Watching Ethan stand before them, Tessa took a bite of her burger.

She chewed slowly, swallowed, then said, “Captain Simpson, coming to school dressed like this to see me will cause unnecessary misunderstandings.”

“Misunderstandings? What kind of misunderstandings?” Ethan asked, confused. “I’m here because I have a few questions for you.”

“What’s going on?” Tessa’s expression was lazy and uninterested.

“No way! The perfect guy in uniform is actually here to see Tessa.”

“No way! My perfect guy...

“Tessa is really shameless, one minute it’s Nico, then it’s Connor, and now another uniformed god. How can she flirt with every guy she meets!” someone complained angrily.

“But they’re all so handsome.”

As the time for class drew closer, the students who had gathered had no choice but to go inside, though they couldn’t resist turning around to glance at the tall, handsome Ethan.

“Is there something you need from me?”

The autumn sunlight was warm, and Tessa turned to look at him.

The man stood tall in his police uniform, while the girl wore a neat school uniform.

Yet the two of them together looked incredibly well-matched.

Nico, who had something to take care of, arrived late. When he saw the two of them standing together, it felt a little unsettling.

I may

“Last night, there were about a dozen mercenaries outside the Special Forces Division. Did you have something to do with that?”

Nathaniel actually brought those people to the Special Forces Division?

Tessa pretended not to understand. “I have no idea what you’re talking about.”

“Oh...”

Ethan studied Tessa’s expression carefully, but couldn’t read anything from it.

He was good at investigations, but his experience didn’t seem to work on Tessa.

“Well, of course, you probably don’t have anything to do with those international criminals.”

“If there’s nothing else, I should go to class now.”

Tessa got out of the car, and Ethan handed her a bag.

Tessa didn’t take it.

“What’s this?”

“Breakfast I brought you,” he said, having gone early to Jade Pavilion to buy it.

Looking at the cold burger in her hand, Tessa still accepted the breakfast he had bought.

“Thanks.”

Tessa went back to school.

As soon as class ended, a girl from the class ran up to Tessa.

“Tessa, who was that handsome guy at the school gate today? What’s his name? Do you have his phone number?”

Tessa frowned, clearly annoyed by the girl’s question. “No comments.”

Ethan’s identity as the werewolf police captain was already very sensitive. There was no way he’d easily share that with her.

The girl, embarrassed and angry, snapped, “Tessa, you’re just a useless human, what’s with the attitude? You’re only a little prettier than the others. Flirting with every guy you meet, don’t you find that disgusting?”

“Yeah! Looks like the rumors were true. She really is a horrible person.”

Ysabel was about to speak up, but someone beat her to it.

“Shut up.”

Nico had come to find Tessa and overheard the girls talking about her. His face darkened immediately.

As a werewolf noble, Nico had always been seen as a gentleman prince straight out of a fairy tale at Navoris

“If I ever hear anyone speak badly of Tessa again, don’t blame me for not being polite, Nico warned.

No matter what others said about Tessa, he only believed in what he had seen for himself.

Seeing how Nico was defending Tessa, someone couldn’t help but ask, “Nico, you’re not... falling for Tessa, are you?”
