Chapter 189 I Will Take Full Responsibility

Several girls had been escorted out by the principal's assistant. Inside the principal's office, the atmosphere was thick and suffocating.

Hamilton stood to the side. He truly didn't know what to say this time, but he still believed in Tessa.

"Mr. Lambert, there must be some kind of misunderstanding. I trust Tessa's character. She wouldn't do something like this."

Sharon, who had been silent the whole time, stood up from the couch and walked over to stand in front of Tessa.

Tessa looked at the elegantly dressed woman in front of her. Her eyes were calm, fearless.

"What more is there to say? Keeping her at this school will only bring harm. And this student has a history. doesn't she? Just expel her, Mr. Lambert. She's already full of bad records, there's no need to go through the board, is there?"

"Madam Dawson, we haven't gotten to the bottom of this yet. It wouldn't be right to expel a student so rashly." Lambert still didn't dare make a decision that big without due process.

"What hasn't been made clear? Don't you know how well Nico performs at school, Mr. Lambert? Let me make myself very clear. Whatever did or didn't happen between them, this has already affected Nico. The only way to fix it is to expel her. Nico still has to apply to Ivy League schools, to enter top-tier research institutes. Isn't that enough reason? As for her—so what if she's second in the whole school? She's just a useless girl with no pack. She'll never accomplish anything." Anything that stood in Nico's way, Sharon would sweep it clean.

“Madam Dawson.” Lambert knew as principal, he shouldn’t go against a board member. But Tessa had been recommended by Beta of the Nightshade Pack, he really couldn’t act carelessly.

“Mr. Lambert, have you been in this position too long? Thinking it’s time for a change?” Sharon’s tone turned impatient. What’s the point of dragging out just a piece of trash? Why waste time talking to someone like her?

Lambert was growing increasingly frustrated, but there was nothing he could do. She was a board member. He had to keep smiling.

“Madam Dawson, I know Nico is outstanding. But Tessa isn’t weak either. They’re both signed up for the physics competition. Maybe the two of them..”

“Mr. Lambert, there’s only one spot for Navoris High in this competition. What are you trying to say?” Sharon’s voice turned sharp—she was ready to throw Lambert out of his own office.

Lambert had no idea what to say at the moment.

“They both want to compete. Since there’s only one spot, of course there should be a fair competition.” Hamilton couldn’t stay silent any longer. Is Madam Darson seriously implying that only Nico could participate?

“And who are you? Is this your place to speak?” Sharon’s expression turned dark, and the pressure of a high-ranked werewolf radiated from her body. “Let me repeat myself. Nico must compete in this physics competition. How can a student expelled from Navoris High represent Navoris High? Are you joking?”

Just then, Nico burst into the principal’s office.

The moment Sharon saw him, her expression changed. "What are you doing here? Whatever it is, I can handle it. You go back right now."

"I'm already an adult. I want to make my own decisions Please, stop interfering, okay?" noveldrama Nico walked to Tessa, took her hand, and tried to lead her out.

"Tessa, don't worry about this. I'll take full responsibility. I was the one who told you to go to the lab. It has nothing to do with you."

No matter what the outcome was, he could take it. Even if someone had to be expelled, it should be him. Besides, they hadn't done anything in that lab.

"Nico, am I still your mother in your eyes?" Sharon was furious. "You treat me like this for the sake of this little tramp? I've planned everything for your future, and you? You fool around at school and humiliate the Dawson family!"

Tessa frowned.

Nico's mom is unbelievable. She never listens to a word he says Does she really think that just because she makes a decision, it has to be the right one?
