Chapter 731: 'Saint' (8k)_2

After Yan Bingxuan established his foundation, Chen Mobai had no other concerns in the immortal sect.

He began to devote himself fully to the creation of the Formless Puppets.

At the beginning of the school year, Chai Lun came over with various tools.

They then went together to the Heavenly Tool Factory. Zhou Tiangong arranged a small workshop for them, similar to the place where Chen Mobai and Chai Lun had made the illusion puppet.

Chen Mobai began to assemble various parts and guided Chai Lun on some achievable tasks.

The Formless Puppet was a peak in the fields of machinery, electronics, and bionics in the immortal sect. Chai Lun could understand about a third of it, so Chen Mobai left the simple pre-assembly of machinery to him for final checking.

The remaining electronics and bionics had to be handled by Chen Mobai himself.

Luckily, Wenren Xuewei came by shortly after. She was an expert in bionics. Although she did not specialize in Puppet Dao, she could keep up with Chen Mobai's thought process.

Together with Zhou Tiangong, who was proficient in artifact refining, the four of them discussed for a long time. After ensuring that every aspect of the blueprints had been comprehended and no doubts remained, they began their respective tasks in cooperation.

"I'll take my leave now. In about three months, I'll bring over all these bionic materials."

Wenren Xuewei smiled and took the custom blueprint from Chen Mobai. These materials cost about eight million Good Deed Points in the immortal sect market. But because only the Jumang Daoist Academy could cultivate them, they set the price.

As one of the four signatories of the works, all these expenses were covered by Wenren Xuewei, saving Chen Mobai a great deal.

The rest of the mechanical and electronic parts were taken care of by Chai Lun and Zhou Tiangong. The only thing Chen Mobai had to pay for was the Rank-3 core chip.

Even so, the price was not cheap, as it cost ten million.

This was because of Che Yucheng's favour. Otherwise, he wouldn't be able to buy it even if he had the money.

The core chip of the Formless Puppet was also custom-made and could not be mass-produced.

For this matter, Chen Mobai specifically made a trip to the West Profound Cave Heaven to sign the core chip order contract and also paid the full amount for the chip.

As a result, the account of the Flying Talisman Factory was once again emptied of funds. It was even insufficient, and a loan of three million was taken from the Immortal Sect Bank.

Chen Mobai was used to this. Running a company without debts is not called a company, right?

After settling the business at the Immortal Sect Bank in Danxia City, Chen Mobai stayed at home for a few days.

Because it was springtime, it was time for sowing at Xiao Nanshan.

Every year at this time, if he had the time, he would personally plant two acres of land.

This time was no exception.

However, compared to the usual trio of master and disciples, this time there was an additional Xue Ting, a Qi cultivation female cultivator from the Snow-blowing Palace.

“This Fire Spirit Rice doesn’t require high-quality earth energy, but it cannot encounter cold weather when it’s sprouting, otherwise, the Spirit Rice that grows will be the same as common rice...”

“If you really encounter extremely cold weather, then you need to set up a formation early or cover each seedling with a bag...”

“Pest diseases are also a major issue. In addition to the protection of the formation, we at Xiao Nanshan also hire mortals to watch over them, ensuring that each person can inspect their Spirit Field every day. If there’s a problem, they’ll contact us directly...”

Chen Mobai, who was loosening the soil at this time, saw Zhuo Ming patiently teaching Xue Ting on the Rank-1 Spirit Field not far away, and nodded in satisfaction.

“Master, aren’t you going to let senior sister keep some secrets?”

At his side, Luo Yixuan, wearing a straw hat, came over and whispered.

It’s customary in the Eastern Wilderness to keep half of their real skills secret when teaching, even if it’s their own children.

“The first rule of being under my guidance: Treat people with sincerity, and establish oneself with trust.”

Chen Mobai knocked on his little disciple’s smooth forehead again, admonishing her.

He was aware of the customs of the Eastern Wilderness, and he had no intention of changing others, but at the very least, he wanted his disciples to understand the meaning of the words “honesty and trustworthiness” and uphold them as principles.

Among them, Zhuo Ming was simple-minded and after several years of education, her actions and mindset had completely aligned with his, so he regarded her as his successor.

As for Luo Yixuan, she was greatly influenced by her family when she was forming her own viewpoints, and having joined later, there was still some residual poison in her thoughts that hadn't been purged.

On the contrary, his eldest disciple, Liu Wenbo, despite being born in a noble family, was perhaps due to his down-to-earth nature, or the decent moral climate of the Liu family, he was also an honest person.

"Master, are there any other rules? I'll remember them all at once."

Luo Yixuan covered her forehead, looking a little aggrieved.

"Not for now. I'll tell you when I remember."

Chen Mobai's words made Luo Yixuan pout, but she didn't dare to say anything and could only lower her head in acknowledgement.

"Bring over the seedlings."

At this moment, Chen Mobai started sowing.

Today he was sowing the Green Jade Spirit Rice. This new type of Spirit Rice, after several rounds of catalysis, could now basically ensure that all the grains grown would be Rank-2.

However, he was still a little worried, so he personally came over to complete the first planting of Green Jade Spirit Rice.

Zhuo Ming had already learned how to do it a long time ago, so she was teaching Xue Ting how to plant Fire Spirit Rice on the side, while Luo Yixuan took this opportunity to help Chen Mobai in place of Zhuo Ming.
