

World Plot 1131

Chapter 1131 Fourth Violet Star - Separation

For those living in the futuristic world, the existence of God is unlikely. They have a stronger faith in technology and the energy that propels their ascension to higher levels. Thus, the idea that there are Gods in the Imperium Star is almost mythical. They haven't seen one, so they don't think it's true. So how do you think they'll respond when they find out that God is the one commanding the Zerg Race to wipe them out? Should the mortals pray for a miracle even if they are helpless or should they remain hopeful?

Even though the calamity in the Imperium Star had worsened, people on the worlds far from it continued to live in peace. An Imperium Star-connected couple appears unconcerned about the current situation at the Edge Star, where the Mystical Butterfly Clan resides. They were staying at the ice-built nest and enjoying each other's company without worrying about anything else.

Yara von Chrysalis is checking his Quantum Egg whose size had grown a hundred times its original ball-sized egg. He was surprised to witness such a huge egg. After all, it was still small before he took a nap.

Yara von Chrysalis asked the man behind him who was busy combing and braiding his hair. "Caesar, will this egg still grow bigger?"

"No. That's its final size. It's about to hatch instead. Before Roi was born his egg had also grown to that size. It seems that the baby's Quantum Beast might be a dragon shaped like mine." The Grand Marshal, Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian said.

Since his arrival on this planet, the two of them had been residing in this nest. Their meals will be brought by some people from the palace or sent by Mama Parvana or anyone free instead. They understood that their newest egg was crucial and required their master's aura before it fully hatched. After all, they had experienced the same thing.

Yara von Chrysalis said, "A Dragon is also good. At least it can accompany Roi." All of a sudden he felt something uncomfortable he couldn't explain and frowned unexpectedly which his lover noticed.

Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian asked worriedly, "Baby, what's wrong?"

"I don't know. I feel uncomfortable all of a sudden. Are you hiding something from me?" Yara von Chrysalis asked as he turned around and stared at the Grand Marshal with a serious gaze.

At first, Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian was a little perplexed and had trouble understanding what his lover was saying. Because he just cares about his beloved, he genuinely has no idea.

"Baby, I don't know what you are talking about."

The Grand Marshal's perplexed expression only served to further confuse Yara until he noticed a tiny moon cautiously approaching the Grand Marshal and being followed by a tiny sun as though they were inseparable. System Yue shifted uncomfortably when Yara von Chrysalis took the little moon and fixed him with her intense gaze.

Yara von Chrysalis said, "Speak. There is something you wanted to say, don't you."

[I... I....]

System Yue quivers in the presence of his Lord Hei's icy stare. No one can deny the parallels in temperament between him and Yara, despite the fact that he is merely his manifestation. He is horrified by that icily and piercingly frigid glance despite the absence of the normal mischievousness. He had only ever noticed those eyes when Lord Hei was getting irate.

The small sun moved closer to his Master and circled him. Nothing was kept from System Yang's Master.

[Master, the Imperium Star is under attack by the Zerg Race. Right now there are six Royal-ranked Zergs in the Capital with one of them seemingly looking like humans but feeling even stronger than the Royal-ranked Zergs combined.]

The Grand Marshal also didn't expect to hear this kind of news. He knew that the Imperium Star was under attack but there were two wardens in that place to stabilize the situation.

Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian asked, "Isn't the enemy only a Black Ant Zerg Queen? How come there are other enemies? And what do you mean by a creature stronger than the Royal-ranked Zergs?"

System Yue was eventually freed from Yara's grasp after receiving an answer to his query. He had just killed a royal-ranked Zerg on Planet Terra, which made him even more perplexed. Why did the Zerg Race have other king and queen duos?

System Yue answered his Lord's questions, [The Black Ant Zerg Queen had been killed by Adjutant Kir but a few unexpected situations are happening in Imperium. The Nova Clan's hidden Human Experimentation had been revealed. The Queen Mother and her clan had turned out to be artificially modified humans. Their genes had been mixed with the genes of the Zerg Race. So they were all either captured or killed. The source of parasitism seems to come from the Queen Mother but she does not answer anything about that. Instead, she will only speak if her son, the Crown Prince is found. Though she gave the Emperor the evidence of her Clan's Heinous means.]

[As for the three pairs of Royal Zerg Race, they seem to have planned together to invade the Imperium Star. The one who leads them or maybe asks them to invade is a masked man who calls himself 'Chaos'.] System Yang said.

"Chaos? Who is he?" Yara von Chrysalis asked.

System Yang responded, [No one knows who he is. As if he suddenly appeared out of nowhere and suddenly arrived in Imperium Star with those Royal-ranked Zergs. But there is one thing for sure, since the Wardens are asking for support it means that the masked man is a lot stronger than them and only the Grand Marshal can fight against him.]

Yara von Chrysalis was somewhat familiar with the dynamics surrounding the Grand Marshal. He is aware that these two little objects are referred to as Systems. They are not of this planet; they are inventions. It resembles the creature he previously destroyed on Planet Terra. In this tiny avatar form, they don't have a physical body, but they can also employ a physical vessel if they choose to.

But, System Yue and System Yang both let him know that they were not the same as the person he killed. They are the good guys, whereas the person he killed is the bad man, to put it simply. Also, he had grown accustomed to these two systems designating Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle as wardens. He found the sound strange, but he asked no questions. In the end, he is indifferent. Nonetheless, he is aware of their combined strength. Perhaps as powerful as his grandfather, the Emperor of the Butterfly Clan and a potential deity.

Yara von Chrysalis said, "Should we go together?"

"No. Your egg is about to hatch. You can't leave now. I'll go alone first. After your Quantum Beast is born you can follow me." The Grand Marshal said.

Yara von Chrysalis held his hand and asked, "It's not dangerous right? If it is then... You don't need to go. I will ask the Gretel Clan to abandon Imperium Star."

"Is that okay? Isn't your friend there too?" The Grand Marshal asked teasingly he knew that his wife's incarnation had been born in this world as a new being and had a certain attachment to the people of this world unlike himself.

Yara von Chrysalis gripped his hand and said, "You are more important than them." Because you are mine.

With such kind sentiments, the Grand Marshal can't help but embrace his sweetheart. He now comprehends why his beloved would steadfastly defend him even if he was without his original memories. This is due to the fact that whether or not they have past relationships, as long as they are in love, the other person is irrelevant.

He kissed his wife's hair and enjoyed the warmth of the hug the two of them shared and said, "Don't worry. I'm strong. There shouldn't be anyone capable of harming me in this world except for you."

"But you said that your vessel is human, if you died in that body you wouldn't be able to accompany me anymore." Yara von Chrysalis said.

Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian finds his wife's obsessiveness endearing. Hei Anjing is a fun person, but he enjoys being sticky with the people he cares about, especially his spouse. His most recent incarnation in the previous universe is somewhat emotionally disconnected from people and despises skinship. He can hardly ever give him a hug, let alone a kiss. He still cares about him, though.

Upon kissing his wife's forehead, the Grand Marshal whispered, "I will be alright. I will wait for you in Imperium Star. Don't worry, I will be careful."

Seeing that he can't stop the Grand Marshal from leaving, Yara could only reluctantly agree to what he wanted.

"...Okay. I will come there as soon as I can." Yara von Chrysalis said.

The Grand Marshal had to bid the Chrysalis Clan farewell after the choice had been made. None of them intervened because they were already aware of what had transpired to the Imperium Star thanks to the Gretel Clan's occupants. General Nimbus and his wife Zephyr von Gretel made the decision to travel back with him to Imperium Star. After all, their kids are still in Imperium Star. They can only take them away if required in case something unforeseen occurs.

Argus Blues von Chrysalis said, "Child, be careful. It is weird that the Heavenly Laws aren't responding to me. I don't know what is happening but it seems that you know."

"Granddad shouldn't worry too much. I can handle it." The Grand Marshal said.

Sigh~

Clodius von Chrysalis said as he pats the Grand Marshal's shoulder, "Watch your back. Your Clan has done well. There is no need to exchange your life for such a planet. Since you are already considered half-family of the Chrysalis Clan remember... Your life is the topmost priority."

"I understand, Grandfather." The Grand Marshal said.

Clodius von Chrysalis said to his little brother, "If it cannot be helped, return here. As long as I feel you near the planet I can support you anytime."

"Thank you, Brother. I will keep that in mind." Nimbus von Gretel said.

Mama Parvana and Papa Orion also bid their farewell to their son-in-law. Even Laurel Azure von Chrysalis and Titus von Chrysalis see him off. This is their future brother-in-law after all.

"Be careful, son!"

"Take care of yourself!"

"May the victory fall on you."

Titus von Chrysalis passed a space button to the Grand Marshal and said, "This is filled with potion. Use as you will. It might be as powerful as the ones Xiao Ya made but... It should help you a bit."

"Thanks. I will be back soon." The Grand Marshal said as he finally looked at Yara who threw himself into his embrace.

The pair clutched each other, oblivious to the other guests, who thought it was typical for them to be so clinging since they would be apart for an undetermined amount of time.

Yara von Chrysalis said, "I will be there soon. Wait for me."

"Okay. I will wait for you." The Grand Marshal said.

The Chrysalis Clan didn't leave until the starship had vanished into thin air after they had dispatched the Grand Marshal together with General Nimbus and Lieutenant General Zephyr. Yara's eyes grew dull as he continued to observe the empty sky.

Yara von Chrysalis mumbled, "Don't let anything happen to you. If you get hurt, those who dare do such a thing will all die in my hands."

Those members of the Chrysalis Clan who overheard him experienced a chill. Such harshness and indifference, even indifferent to the life and death of others, including himself, that it is like a thousand blocks of unmelting ice. None of the Clan members tried to dissuade him when they saw him in this state because they understood that their Clan could only have one eternal love. Such a fixation is ingrained in their blood and veins. It cannot be controlled.

Chapter 1132 Fourth Violet Star - The War

Back to Imperium Star...

Adjutant Kir von Giselle's ambush failed, therefore a barrier was built to keep the adversaries out of the Imperial Palace and the main city. The Emperor gave the order for all the survivors to shelter in the Main Palace where the major force is currently located because he knew that the enemies this time are different from the first wave. They couldn't, at the very least, allow the number of deaths that the human race had already experienced to rise again.

Dean Frey von Gregory was forced to float to the skies alongside Adjutant Kir von Giselle. He can only ride Kir's black hawk, as his quantum beast is a white snake, and that is what he does. They flew together as they looked up at the barrier above them. Their focus is primarily on the man in the red robe who is concealing his identity by donning a mask.

"If that person feels like destroying the barrier, it won't last long." Dean Frey von Gregory commented.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle said, "Milord is on his way but he can't use the Space Tunnel as he had General Nimbus and Lieutenant General Zephyr with him. With their mortal souls, their entity will be destroyed in the Space Rift. We can only hold them back until he returns."

"But would he..." Frey von Gregory glanced at the masked man beyond the barrier and didn't even need to complete his sentence for his lover to understand.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle responded, "Don't worry. He doesn't look interested in us. He might be here just to watch the fun or... He is waiting for someone to come over."

"You mean he is waiting for the Lord God?" Frey von Gregory asked.

His boyfriend shakes his head in agreement with what he says, but this just makes their predicament worse because it implies that the man with the mask is strong enough to compete with the Sovereign and that his strength is genuine. The man's identity is unfortunately unknown, and even his appearance is concealed. They experienced a familiar but different feeling after seeing those pairs of obsidian and silver iris.

Dean Frey von Gregory said, "Even so how come there are too many Zerg Kings and Zerg Queens? Fighting them isn't much but there are too many mortals behind us."

"We can only leave them to our Contracted Sentient Plants." Adjutant Kir von Giselle said.

Their second contracted beings had no choice but to call them. An enormous Banyan Tree and a Marigold Fairy emerged at the call of two Gods. Adjutant Kir von Giselle's Quantum World's banyan tree fully emerged and established itself in the middle of the city. Its status exceeded that of the Small Snow Lotus hidden in the pond of the Forbid Greenhouse residence at First Military Imperial Academy.

This Banyan Tree is a God level Sentient Being with a small amount of Divinity at their disposal. It complied with the order from its master and spread its branches to erect a barrier resembling a fence around the Main Palace. He left a few gaps for the mortals to pass through. On the other hand, Dean Frey von Gregory's called Marigold Flower Fairy also took root beneath the shade of the Banyan Tree and produced a sizable Golden-orange carpet of blooms that released a fragrant aroma that the bugs detested. It was sufficient to stop the Zergs on the land from arriving.

Very magical and gorgeous was the setting. In addition, two males who appear to be elves are standing next to one other on the ground and bowing to Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle. These are the Banyan Tree and Marigold Flower's humanoid forms.

"Masters, leave the protection of the mortals to us."

After leaving the greenhouse, Duke Claudius von Gretel, the Second Prince, Silvan von Rosegard, Jace Green von Imperlian, and the others saw this scene. Naturally, the Sentient Beings in the Greenhouse had also emerged to see the two holy presences—the Banyan Tree God and the Marigold Fairy God—that they had sensed and seen.

Claudius von Gretel, Duke, was astonished as well. He didn't anticipate that the Grand Marshal's deputies, Adjutant Kir von Giselle and Dean Frey von Gregory, would agree to a contract with these two Heavenly Sentient Beings. It may be argued that he had only ever seen these particular Sentient Plants in the Edge Star, which is home to the Chrysalis Clan. The majority of Divine Sentient Beings reside there.

"How are they able to command a Divine Sentient Being!? Even my father and Dad are incapable of doing such a thing!?" Duke Claudius von Gretel exclaims in shock.

Silvan von Rosegard asked, "Y-You mean those two are a Tree God and a Flower God?!"

"Yes, they are Land Gods. But I didn't expect them to sign a contract with a human before." Duke Claudius von Gretel replied.

Jace Green von Imperlian said, "M-Maybe Yara gave it to them."

"That is not possible. These Divine Sentient Beings choose their Masters. It wouldn't be surprising if they choose to sign with Yara but this is the first time they signed with humans outside of the Chrysalis Clan." Duke Claudius von Gretel said.

The Second Prince understood the rationale behind the Imperial Palace's defense. The Imperial Palace served as the last citadel, where the majority of survivors from other areas had relocated, and the branches of the Banyan Tree acted as a thick wall to stop the Zerg Race's advance. He identified the ideal locations for the army's deployment and battle support.

Christopher Klein von Imperlian stated, "The situation is quite urgent. We need to command the military to take a position before the barrier breaks. Once the barrier is down those zergs beyond the barrier will all attack us!"

"Let's go back. Make all the necessary preparation and prepare for war!" Duke Claudius von Gretel said. He glances at the youngest prince, "Prince Jace should stay in the Forbidden Greenhouse. They would most likely need you to play the role of the middleman so those guys can provide help during the war. Tell them that the Empire is willing to provide a wider land where they can live after the war."

"I understand!" Jace Green von Imperlian said as he ran back to the Greenhouse. A few of his subordinates stayed with him while the rest of the survivors were moved to the Imperial Palace behind the Banyan Tree. They are tasked to give support at the rear.

Under the eyes of the man in a mask and the Zerg Race, the Human Race and Sentient plants worked together as one. The man called Chaos watches this scene with a smile and only when he sees them finish all the preparation that he finally speaks.

The voice of Chaos resounds the whole planet, "Have you finished your preparations? That's good. Continue to entertain me~"

He delicately touched the substantial barrier that none from the Zerg Race could dismantle while everyone watched. With a light tap from his finger, the spot where the tip of his finger had landed suddenly turned a little white, as if it had been frozen, and a crack began to spread from where he touched. The cracks grew larger and broader until the only sounds resonating throughout the land were those of something shattering.

Crackles~ Cracked. BANG!

Everyone watched in disbelief as the barrier was demolished by this man in a mask with just one finger. Finally, the emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian and his minister realized the distinction between a human and a divine being. The mortals are identical to ants in the perspective of the gods. They can only endure helplessness and anguish repeatedly while we watch them struggle for their lives.

Chaos once again spoke, "Okay, the barrier is broken~. Mortals do your best to survive~"

KRRIEEKK! RIEEKKKKK!!!

"He destroyed a barrier from Vearth with such ease. He is not an ordinary God." Adjutant Kir mumbled.

The three groups of Zergs with Royal ranks gave the under their command bugs orders to attack. Adjutant Kir von Giselle and Dean Frey von Gregory made the first move to ambush the three Zerg Kings and three Zerg Queens after spotting the barrier broken. The mortals under them wouldn't have to suffer too much as long as they disturb their commands. Diverse zergs descended in waves from the sky, covering the earth and the heavens.

To combat these Zergs, the warriors pulled out their weapons and unleashed their quantum beast. To defeat their adversaries, they cooperated. The frail humans live in the Imperial Palace, which the Zergs were unable to fully approach. They had naturally retreated from that region since the powerful scent of the marigold flower made them queasy. Humans were able to prepare their weapons and effectively snipe a few huge Zergs in the sky because of this hesitation. The conflict between Humans and Zergs had re-emerged.

Chaos was observing the events that were taking place while he was somewhere in the skies. They had already seen his incredible strength when he shattered the barrier with a single finger, so nobody dared bring him into the conflict. He also casually observes their struggle and conflict, as if the deaths he is witnessing are merely a play for his amusement.

Chaos mumbled, "It's been a while since I've watched such a huge play. I wonder when the Main Characters will arrive~"

The human warriors rode in their mechas on the ground and in the air, driving through the army of bugs and killing in all directions. They occasionally lost the war because of the overwhelming number of adversaries. The warriors and their quantum creatures carry on fighting anyhow. They all enlisted in the war, regardless of their age. In the places no one can see, many deaths and victories are taking place.

Silvan von Rosegard and The Second Prince took the initiative and engaged in a survival battle. His bravery and power astounded many warriors. For this courageous guy, they would all sacrifice their lives. The Divine blessing they held was considerably stronger because they were the world's adored Heavenly Sons rather than Divine Sentient Beings like the Banyan Tree God or the Marigold Flower God. They were unstoppable by any Zerg.

Christopher Klein von Imperlian said, "Follow me. We will open a path to victory."

"Go. I will support you all I can." Silvan von Rosegard stated.

The Emperor and his ministers in the Imperial Palace had seen them leading a force of warriors and battling at the front to save those who were wounded. They truly desired to take part in the conflict, but the common people required the Emperor's presence in order to maintain their sanity. Because of this, Emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian decided to remain at the palace.

A minister commented, "The Second Prince had always been talented and no one had expected him to step down one day."

"Maybe we saw things wrong. He didn't exist to cause chaos in the Imperial Throne like the Crown Prince. He is... A great leader that can protect this planet."

"This is also great. After the Monarchy is abolished, he would also have a chance to sit in the leadership position. Only the strongest and the person chosen by the people can lead the Imperium Star." Emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian said. He sighed and added, "I am truly getting old. That I have to watch my children fight to protect the land while I can only stand here and support them from behind."

They have also witnessed innumerable sentient plants, flowers, and trees resisting the Zerg, led by Jace Green von Imperlian. They built a wall of vines and tree branches to provide a broader area that allowed the warriors to breathe and recover, and they surrounded the Imperial Palace with this wall. Plants and people collaborate and help one another. Nobody would have seen this scene if the world had been tranquil.

Chapter 1133 Fourth Violet Star - Chrysalis Psyche

The war continues...

The six Zergs with Royal rankings went up against Adjutant Kir von Giselle and Dean Frey von Gregory. As there are only two of them, it was difficult to repel every onslaught without utilizing their divine powers. The world itself normally forbade them from employing their original strength, but after getting approval from this World's Heavenly Laws, their constraints on their souls were lifted. The only thing they need to watch out for is their vessel overloading and collapsing from the extreme disparity between their body and soul.

Only by expertly managing the divinity housed within their body can they ensure that their vessel won't burst. The two of them were sufficient to repel the Royalty of these Zergs despite their restraint, but their bodies were unable to withstand a single blow that would have killed them.

The parasitic couple is the first pair Adjutant Kir von Giselle and Dean Frey von Gregory aim after. This is to stop their own side from falling under the grip of the Zerg race and being wiped out by members of their own race. It's enough that the Queen Mother be an ally of the adversary. They have already lost an entire noble tribe that upholds the earth with just her and her.

As soon as Dean Frey von Gregory entered the fray, his opponent was subtly restrained with a red-string weapon. Before capturing its prey, it was nearly undetectable and obedient to the orders of his Master. Yizhi, the soul weapon of Warden Yun, is this red string. The name Yizhi means Restrain. When he was the God of Fate, he used to have influence over something that tied up a mortal's fate, love, or even foes.

Even though the six Zergs struggled, it was nearly difficult for them to escape with their human forms once they were all entangled in his strings.

"What. This. String. Who. Dares!?"

The Zerg King had just finished speaking. The Zerg King Millipede was present, and although his natural impulse is to curl up when faced with danger, the thread is making him incredibly uncomfortable. These humanoid Zergs can only communicate by using fragments of words because they are unable to speak human language clearly.

Thankfully, Dean Frey and Adjutant Kir didn't have him in their sights. They began by attacking the Parasite King Zerg, a little Zerg King present in the group. Since all of these Zergs were in their human forms, even the Parasite King Zerg seems to be smaller than the other men, and the two wardens' brains are already preoccupied with the subsystem, it is impossible for them to misidentify him.

Subsystems of Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle both spoken, [Affirmative. The smallest male in the group. He is the Parasite Zerg King.]

The two wardens' assault is uncomplicated. Warden Lou attacks or captures while Warden Yun restrains. It's the same this time. While the Warden Lou flew in the direction of the goal, the Parasite King and the others were restrained. The Adjutant Kir von Giselle's hands held a dark spear. The majority of them believed it was concealed in his space button, although Chuankong is actually his Soul Weapon. Chuankong's name translates to Soul Piercer.

"N-No. Why... Me!? Gyaaa~"

The Parasite Zerg King's entire body erupted into a bloody mist. Everyone was in a state of shock and amazement. The Centipede Zerg Queen had lost her mind. It was she who lost a spouse and a partner.

KRIEEKYAAA~

"KILL. I. KILL. YOU!!!"

Next to the Parasite Zerg King, a female humanoid screamed inhumanely. The female humanoid was replaced by a huge spider monster as it turned into its true form, yet the red rope encircling it remained intact.

KRIEEKYAAA!!!

"Can't. Escape. This. What. Arghh!!!"

No matter how much the enormous spider monster flexed, the crimson string would not budge from its position. The other Zerg kings and queen saw the Parasite Zerg King die, and they believed they would follow if they didn't break free of this string. Adjutant Kir von Giselle, who recently dispatched the Parasite King Zerg, now turns his attention to the Mother Spider Zerg.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle mumbled, "You can't escape."

He raised his golden spear this time and flung it at the Mother Spider Zerg. The enormous egg sac that the dying Spider Queen Zerg gave birth to shattered in midair, allowing thousands of Spider Zergs to be produced from it. The baby spiders scatter after exploding into many pieces of flesh to consume their mother's corpse and rapidly increase in size.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle, upon spotting this, conjured a few tornadoes to destroy the spider zerg before they finished evolving. Many Sentient Beings also hunted these baby spiders, but many of them still managed to escape and flee to where the humans were.

Due to their recent birth, baby Spider Zergs are vicious and almost insatiably hungry. Even after devouring their mother's corpse, this wasn't enough to satisfy their need. Yet, the Second Prince's leadership prevented the human race from being exploited. He summoned all soldiers who had mastery over the elements of wind and fire. These young spiders were burned alive before they could pierce the Banyan tree branches.

Shrieks~ KRIEEKK~

Christopher Klein von Imperlian gestured in the frontlines, "Once more! Attack at the same time recall the balance of Elements! Fire!!!"

Adjutant Kir and Dean Frey turned their attention back to the other Zerg Kings and Queen after determining that the Baby Spiders were under control. The crimson string was still holding them in place, immobile. Chaos, who was taking in the performance and sipping his tea while using the clouds as his mat and table, remarked on the dull scenario.

"Yizhi's unique ability is that the more its target struggles the more it tightens. Be motionless and halt your heartbeat as you pretend to be dead that would let you go~."

The former God of Fate glanced at Chaos as if he couldn't believe that he understood the secret to his Soul Weapon and was astounded by his comments. Except for the one person who assisted him in improving this weapon, nobody else is supposed to know.

Dean Frey von Gregory exclaims, "IMPOSSIBLE! HOW CAN YOU KNOW ABOUT THAT!?"

But before he could respond, he only caught a glimpse of the masked figure grinning mischievously as the four Zerg Kings and Queens managed to escape the Yizhi (red strings). The four of them took on their former shape once more. A massive Zerg Queen Bee guarded the sky, but a Zerg King Wasp was flying. Two enormous Zergs sprang from the earth. The first is a Centipede Zerg Queen, and the second is a Millipede Zerg King. They are quite long, and if they wanted to, they could even encircle Imperium Star's capitol.

Although they had just witnessed Adjutant Kir von Giselle instantly kill the Mother Zerg Queen, which turned into a small rain of flesh and blood that was immediately consumed by the Baby Spiders, the Human Race regarded this scene with pale faces as if they couldn't believe seeing such four enormous creatures. The auras the four Zergs are releasing, however, are reminiscent of the Grand Marshal's presence, and they are all greater than the other three.

Emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian muttered in shock, "Four SSS-ranked Royal Zergs?"

"Four!? Including the two who were killed by Lord Giselle, there are six of them! How come there are too many SSS-ranked Zergs!? Didn't the Grand Marshal kill the Royal Pair a few years ago!?" An old minister exclaimed he himself couldn't believe that there were six existence that can contend with the Grand Marshal who is the only SSS-ranked warrior in Imperium Star.

An official commented, "Hold on. Just now Dean Frey and Lord Giselle killed two Zerg King and Queen. Doesn't that mean their strength is also SSS-ranked or even above?!"

"If so... How powerful is the Grand Marshal right now? Beyond SSS-ranked is God's Level."

Emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian noticed the changes on the battlefield and immediately sent more support to drag and heal those who were injured.

"Send more Mediators on the frontline! Follow the command of the Second Son of the Rosegard Clan. Have the Royal Knight protect the Mediators!"

"But Your Majesty who will protect you!?"

"I don't need it! The Main Palace is the safest palace unless that wall falls! Follow this Emperor's command, and support the warrior on the front. Make sure to keep them alive!!"

"Yes, Your Majesty!!" The Royal Knights led by Stephen von Rosegard kneeled before the Emperor and took the lead of the rest of the Royal Knights to support the warrior in front.

The other low-level Zerg that were attacking without a strategy and merely using their sheer numbers as an advantage abruptly stopped after the other four Zerg Kings and Queens revealed their real selves. The next battle would be different from the last one now that there is a commander among the Zergs.

The other low-level Zerg that were attacking without a strategy and merely using their sheer numbers as an advantage abruptly stopped after the other four Zerg Kings and Queens revealed their real selves. The next battle would be different from the last one now that there is a commander among the Zergs.

The Divine Sentient Banyan Tree and Heavenly Marigold Fairy God stood before the Old Oak, Little Bing'er, Old Pine, and other Sentient Beings capable of becoming human. They respected them since they were older and stronger than them, but they weren't as subservient to them as they had been to their King.

They've collectively said, {We art willing to hark to the 'rd'rs of the divine ones! prithee giveth us thy commandeth!}

The Banyan Tree God responded, {Scatt'r. One to attacketh and one to supp'rt. Focus on the low-level'd ones. The kings and queens of z'rgs shall beest handles by our mast'rs.}

Heavenly Marigold Flower Gold gave a few of his flowers and said, {A bawbling blessing to thee all. This shall preventeth any z'rgs below SSS-rank'd to did approach and block one attacketh from an SSS-rank'd pow'r. May the vict'ry beest ours!}

Only Jace Green von Imperlian was a human when he stood before the Sentient Being, yet the two Gods didn't reject him. Instead, they were a little taken aback. This human infant and the Venerable Lord have a karma connection. The King allowed them to select their masters, and this Venerable Lord is even more powerful than their Masters. They were compelled to bow down before this human child.

"This Banyan (Marigold) greets the young lord who has a fate with the King!"

The two God-ranked Sentient Beings' remarks shocked everyone who heard them. Even the Emperor and his ministers were taken aback by the circumstances; how could two Exalted Beings who had been oblivious to them suddenly bow in front of the youngest prince? Only the Second Prince and Silvan von Rosegard among the crowd understood the reasoning. It's because Lord Yara's only buddy is Jace Green von Imperlian.

Jace Green von Imperlian panicked for a bit and said, "N-No. I'm weak and just a human. N-No need to act like this. Yara and I are friends that's all."

Little Bing'er spoke, "Greenie, you should be proud! The King only has you as his friend."

Nonetheless, some people did pick up on a few things after hearing this exchange. The Emperor is aware of the secret history of the previous Royal Family and the Pact his Older brother made with that Mystical Clan. Finally, he remembered the skills of that Clan.

Emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian mumbled in shock, "The ability to command nature even though they aren't plant ability users. Unique Ability that no one possessed except himself. As well as the collective indifference towards both the Human and the Bug Races."

"Don't tell me! Yara von Chrysalis is from that Mystical Clan?" He murmured in silence.

Only a few ministers were present when the Emperor began mumbling, but what they heard astonished them. These were elderly men who had formerly worked for the Imperium's founding Royal Family. They are aware of the Mystical Clan, a formidable group that the Zerg Race greatly fears. Simply said, this clan is too secretive, and nobody is sure if it still exists.

"Chrysalis Psyche. The Mystical Butterfly Clan of the universe. They still exist!!"

Chapter 1134 Fourth Violet Star - In a Ruined Star.

At some ruined planet which was under the Nova Clan...

There were no trees or even a blade of grass found on this planet, which was completely desolate. On this planet, all that can be discovered are rocks and red sand. Although it appears to be a fading star, there is unexpected moderation and technology hidden beneath the crimson sand. There are white walls, supercomputers, high-tech devices, and some life capsules containing unknown creature parts that can be found. Even a living Zerg is currently housed in one of the dedicated prisons for it.

At the main laboratory,

A group of white-clad scientists were studying a young man who was asleep inside one of the life capsules while it was upright in front of them. This young man possessed the distinctive blonde hair of the Imperium Star's royal family. He is Cain Nova von Imperlian, the vanished Crown Prince who lost communication with the Main Star. A human-like creature's husk with enormous wings was nearby. Their wings resemble those of a butterfly.

The DNA recovered is extremely little because the husk appears to be comprised solely of the winged creature's skin. But they understood what kind of animal this shape represented. The Mystical Butterfly Clan is the world's most secretive and restricted clan and is thought to have the strongest lineage in the cosmos.

They last saw them when Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian, the previous crown prince, brought them to the Imperium to sign a treaty fifteen years prior. On that day, a contract was secretly signed with an alien race that was similar to the Zerg but not at the same time. The Mystical Butterfly Clan initially had little butterfly wings on their backs when they were born. They are really attractive, and there is a scent of nature in their aura.

Their powers are greater than those of a human of the same rank, and their wisdom can even compete with that of a human. The strongest of them is referred to be God-ranked, while the worst is S-ranked. The Butterfly Emperor himself visited their Imperium Star that day. He is a young man who has a despondent look on his face. Only a select few people were aware of their encounter, as he desired to maintain his anonymity.

Everyone who attended the signing was at the pinnacle of their abilities on the Imperium Star. The Royal Family, the Gretel Clan, their Nova Clan, and a few old ministers who were at the moment still loyal to the royal family. Even the Grand Marshal, a young man in his twenties, did not personally attend; rather, Clodius von Gretel accompanied the distinguished guest to the door.

The Patriarch of the Nova Clan, who is also one of the veteran scientists working in the lab at the moment, is one of those waiting inside. He had yearned for their fortitude and longevity ever since he had that day's encounter with the butterfly emperor. Then he discovered a husk with a similar appearance among the planets he possessed. He started using it right away. Since then, he has conducted studies on humans. He is currently waiting for the outcome of their experiment as he stands in front of his grandson. The test involves combining the bloodline that was collected from that husk.

Using this husk, they had conducted a number of trials, but none of the volunteers had made it out alive. When the DNA from this husk was transferred into another animal or human, they would develop a wing on their backs and pass away relatively immediately. Only the human race appears to be capable of merging with it, yet there will always be a rejection because the bloodline from that husk's DNA is stronger than other human bloodlines.

The Mystical Butterfly Clan member must be the person's chosen partner in order for their bloodlines to merge, which the Old Patriarch of the Nova Clan was unaware of. Unless they discovered a perfect body that is compatible with the blood of the butterfly, all further mergers would result in death for everyone.

"Patriarch, shall we begin the bloodline merging? Are you sure we are going to use his highness for it?"
A scientist in a white gown asked.

He was curious as to whether their patriarch would be open to subjecting their strongest descendent to an experiment. Those present in the lab were aware of the bloodline's immense power within that husk. After using it several times, they realized that it was too strong to be combined with another bloodline.

Their Nova Clan is represented by the Crown Prince. He carried both the Nova Family and the Royal Family bloodlines. It may be stated that the Grand Marshal, a pureblood prince, is the only other person of his bloodline. The Crown Prince, in his opinion, may also blend with it successfully. Even then, the success rate is just 30-70, with 30 being a success and 70 being a failure, much to how the Queen Mother had successfully combined with the DNA of the Zerg Race.

The old Nova Patriarch said, "Do it. Cain'er will definitely survive."

Before acting, the other scientists exchanged glances with one another. When the Crown Prince was sleeping in the life capsules, they took out a gadget that was packed with DNA that had been harvested from the husk and controlled another device to slowly inject it into his body. To avoid cross-bloodline rejection, they were only able to inject slowly.

The blood from the husk is entirely white, in contrast to the Bug Race's green blood. It even had a hint of gold shimmering on it. The lineage is stronger the more gold there is in it. The husband who was transformed with his blood had red blood with a golden tint, unlike the Butterfly Emperor who had silvery gold blood. Only Yara von Chrysalis' body contained pure gold blood because of how completely his soul's divinity changed it into a God's body. He therefore rarely sustains injuries because his skin is resistant to most weapons.

Everyone waited till there were clear effects that came out or shown on the Crown Prince's body after the white blood with a little bit of gold was infused into his body. Cain Nova von Imperlian, who was unconscious in the life capsule, abruptly awoke and slammed his hands against the glass wall in front of him. It took two hits from it before the glass began to fracture, stunning everyone in the lab.

Bang! Bang! Cracked!

However, the Old Patriarch of the Nova Clan was preoccupied with his grandson's altered appearance and paid him no mind. Scales appeared suddenly on a portion of his skin that ran from his nape to the side of his neck. Instead of fish scales, it was a glittering shape that transformed into scales that were a light brown color. As he curls and keeps banging the life capsule, his blue eyes begin to take on a yellowish tint, and he appears to be in some degree of discomfort.

Bang! Crackles! Splurts~

The life capsule's nourishing solution spouts out like a waterfall, enlarging the gap until one side of the capsule entirely breaks. The Crown Prince tripped and fell to the ground, but no one picked him up; instead, they watched as a pair of tiny wings appeared on his naked back. Cain Nova von Imperlian felt something coming out of his spine and was in excruciating pain.

The butterfly's wings have a dark brown border that gradually fades to light brown. The Crown Prince's body is completely covered in a white silken cocoon after the brown butterfly wings with dark brown borders form on his back. Before the Elder Patriarch's and the scientist's eyes was a pupa the size of a human. They found it difficult to believe what they had just seen.

"This is a butterfly cocoon. Is His Highness completing his evolution inside!?"

Upon hearing these words the Patriarch of the Nova Clan issued a command, "No one is to touch or rip the cocoon. Let it stay here and wait for it to hatch. Make sure to keep an eye on and observe all the changes. If my Grandson completes his evolution we will finally have a Hybrid with the Bloodline of the strongest race on our side!"

"Yes, Old Patriarch!!"

The silky cocoon caught the Patriarch of the Nova Clan's eager and greedy attention. This is his device to usurp the Imperlian Clan's throne. He wouldn't tolerate becoming a simple duke since he wants the greatest power on the planet. He is a member of the last Royal Family to rule before the Imperlian, although he was chosen to be the Grand Marshal's father rather than the heir to the throne. Instead, he received the title of duke, which he did not feel was adequate or worthy of him.

With the passing of his parents, he plots against the Grand Marshal and uses his adopted brother, Cale Meijer von Imperlian, as a puppet monarch for his Nova Clan to rule. Who would have known that Cale wasn't as simple to manage as he believed? He eventually had to employ his daughter to take over the palace, but she was incompetent and couldn't even get the puppet emperor to submit to him. His last remaining option was this grandson.

He was already aware of the Zerg invasion in Imperium Star and was confident that the Grand Marshal would prevent it from happening. Since he possessed the greatest race's bloodline on his side, as long as the Grand Marshal perished in the conflict, the rest would be simpler to handle.

"My dear grandson, you will be the best tool for me to get the crown. Hehehe~" The Old Patriarch of the Nova Clan mumbled as he chuckled at the future that he was dreaming of was his.

On the other hand, the situation in outer space was pretty routine while the conflict on Imperium Star had intensified. The starship the Grand Marshal was traveling in had not encountered any Zergs while traveling to Imperium Star. Usually, they would run into a tiny troop by accident that they would have to subdue. Nonetheless, the area's unexpected calmness gives it a slightly creepy and eerie.

Lieutenant General Zephyr commented, "Seeing how we didn't even bump into any Zergs on the way makes the situation in the Main Star gloomy. This just means that the main power of the Zerg Race is all in Imperium Star right now. We need to hurry!"

"Wait, something is approaching. It seems to be a civilian spaceship but was attacked by the space bandit. We should save them!" General Nimbus von Gretel said.

System Yue said in his head, [My lord, that transmigrator called Megan Shelley (Zane Lin) was on that ship. He is preparing to take action as soon as the Space Bandit enters the spaceship.]

The Grand Marshal commented, "Do as you fit."

He keeps using his communicator to communicate with Yara and hands up control of his ship to the two Seniors who came before him. The majority of his troops, along with his adjutant and Dean Frey, returned to Imperium Star when he sent his wife back home. He enters his office to carry on his call with his wife because he has no interest in saving others.

The two had grown accustomed to his extraordinary egotism toward his lover. His role as Grand Marshal is completely useless while Yara is nearby. No matter what is going on around him, his priorities will never alter.

General Nimbus asked, "Is this the Grand Marshal I remembered as a cold-hearted and cruel madman I heard before?"

"Hmp! Don't expect too much. Didn't your elder brother even throw the title of the duke to you to marry his majesty?! It's the same thing. In the future, there wouldn't be any Grand Marshal in Imperium Star anyway. Just get used to it." Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel said as he controlled the ship and weapons on it to scare the Space Pirates planning to hijack the Civilian spaceship.

He then glances at his husband, "Get on your mecha. Make them go away. There is no need to capture that we cannot bring them to the Main Star anyway."

"Yes, Wife!" General Nimbus as a whipped husband brought out his Mecha and approached the Civilian Spaceship. They save the ordinary people on the other ship and made the Space Pirates run away.

Chapter 1135 Fourth Violet Star - Space Pirates

A few hours before they were found by the Space Pirates...

A spacecraft carrying passengers was traveling to the Imperium Star as usual. Before reaching the Main Star, they would go from one Star to the next. Megan Shelley, who had just concluded his vacation and was getting ready to go back to school, was one of the passengers on the Civilian Spaceship. Since the majority of the communication equipment needed to convey messages to other worlds was targeted and destroyed by the Black Ant Zerg Swarm, no one was able to spread the word about the unexpected invasion on Imperium Star.

Because of this, the students who left the Main Star were unaware of the invasion but nonetheless made preparations to return to the Imperium Star as scheduled. The most of them perished before they even reached the Imperium Star, and Megan Shelley was unlucky enough to be targeted by a space pirate even before they reached the coordinates before the final space jump to the Main Star.

The ship's announcement: [Ding. Dong. Ding... We are about to enter the last space jump for the last destination. Please prepare for a bit of the shaking of the ship during the Space Jump.]

[I repeat. We are about to enter the last space jump for the last destination. Please prepare for a bit of the shaking of the ship during the Space Jump.]

Megan Shelley recognized his belongings in one of the first-class cabins on the spacecraft since his family had given him a lot of trinkets to bring with him when he went back to school. His visit with the Shelley family went well, and despite the fact that he appeared a little awkward while there, they didn't say much to him. His ideas for the Shelley family were also completed.

After leaving the modest apartment with only two rooms, where the kitchen and bathroom were shared with other occupants and the space was actually quite limited for their family, he purchased a new mansion and a substantial amount of land for the family. Also, he gave them the terminals he purchased for each member of the family as well as some upcoming presents. The Shelley Family initially expressed disbelief and refused to accept any of his gifts; it was only when he explained his line of work that they reluctantly agreed to take everything.

His time spent with the Shelleys was wonderful. He would have preferred to remain at home had his vacation not come to an end. Finally, he was unable to comprehend why the original Megan Shelley felt ashamed of his family. Hard effort can earn money, but a loving family is something you're destined to have till the end. He was certainly not fortunate to have such a family since he spent his entire childhood in an orphanage. He therefore found it difficult to comprehend why the first Megan Shelley severed his relationship with his family.

After finishing his contact with his parents and going over his stuff, (Zane Lin) Megan Shelley, experienced a severe shake that caused him to fall to the bed. He unexpectedly had a horrible feeling about this happening, and as predicted, as soon as he peered through the windows, he spotted an unknown spaceship and realized that they were the Space Pirates, the bandits of the galaxies.

"It seems this ship was eyed the whole time. Defeating the one that entered is easy but if those in mechas outside become desperate, the whole ship will be put in danger," mumbled Megan Shelley (Zane Lin). "There is no other choice but to coat the whole ship with Defensive Magic."

He sat on his bed and used the mana in his body, albeit the majority of it had been converted into qi, which has the same properties as mana thinking but is simpler to control because its source is the world and cosmos. He cast a defense spell that covered the entire ship covertly using wizardry. Yet it was also necessary to apprehend the bandits who had entered the apartment. He used a spell to make himself invisible and made a covert strategy to apprehend these space pirates.

His door was violently kicked down by a few men who were casually clothed, had their faces covered, and had a pirate mark on their skin as soon as he and his possessions became invisible.

BAM!!

"RAISE YOUR HAND! WE ARE HERE TO TAKE AWAY YOUR BELONGINGS!!"

These pirates didn't expect to see anyone in the VIP room as they were told that a young student from Imperium Star was staying in this place.

"What the hell!? The room is empty! Are those bastards lying to us!"

"Do they need to lie? Where can they even run to? We are in space for God's sake."

"Check the other rooms. Maybe it wasn't this room."

These pirates entered Megan Shelley's (Zane Lin) room unguarded. They opened the wardrobe in the room and rampaged through it. Unfortunately, it was empty and not even a piece of rug was found.

"Shit! How unlucky! There is really nothing in this room!"

All of a sudden, the terminal connected to their main ship contacted them unfortunately as if the signal was jammed they couldn't understand anything.

[Crizzz. Rizz~ Mar... Come... Lea-ve... Rizzz~]

Click!

"This is group 4. This is group 4. What is happening outside, over!"

[Crizzz. Rizz~ Crizzz! Rizzz~]

BANG!

"Fuck! What the hell man!? Why did you destroy our communicator?"

"Stupid! It wasn't me! Someone else is in this room with us!"

The team's communicator suddenly erupted. It was destroyed by Megan Shelley using his mental qi. A Mediator is the original owner of his body. He has greater power over Mind Energy than an Adjudicator. These pirates became aware that they were being played with as soon as his mental qi spread over the space. Aside from them, there is another person in the space.

CAWWWSSS~

But, a large white dove soared in their direction before they had a chance to respond, killing them. It is the Quantum Beast of Megan Shelley (Zane Lin), which mutated when he gained control of the former Megan Shelley's body. He uses his spells to murder the other pirates as well, and he doesn't briefly lose his invisibility until all the pirates in his room are dead.

"Three... I need to kill the rest of the pirates as well!"

The people on the Civilian spaceship suddenly heard a loud explosion and a clash, which caused the civilian ship to tremble. When Megan Shelley (Zane Lin) gazed out the window, he noticed another ship. This obsidian-colored space ship, particularly the black dragon insignia on it, seems somewhat familiar.

"Black Dragon. This is the Grand Marshal's Ship! Thank God someone can clean up the bandits outside. I should hurry and kill the rest who were inside this ship to prevent the hostage taking situation." Megan Shelley (Zane Lin) mumbled.

He once more cast an invisibility spell on himself and walked around the spaceship after keeping all of his belongings in his space button. He cast a spell to locate the other pirates, then crept up on their backs and swiftly and mercilessly dispatched them. He had either killed or captured every pirate in less than 30 minutes. He is assisted in tying them up by some citizens who also inform them that they would be saved by the Grand Marshal's ship.

The space conflict is still going on. (Zane Lin) Megan Shelley, remained in the hallway with the other Civilians to keep an eye on the arrested space pirates.

A pirate suddenly said, "Keke~ your destination is the Main Star, Imperium Empire right? You had just wasted your time. That Star is currently being invaded by the Zerg Race made the rest in there is already dead!!"

"You're lying!!!"

The Imperium Star was the final stop for the majority of the people aboard this Civilian Ship. They reside there, along with their families. They are currently being informed of an invasion of the Imperium Star by these terrible Space Pirates. Despite their best efforts, they denied it. Only Megan Shelley (Zane Lin), one of the passengers, scowled. He was aware that the Grand Marshal had accompanied Lord Yara home and that he wouldn't leave without Lord Yara.

But there were just three presences there when he checked on that black ship. The Grand Marshal is the first since he exudes the ship's strongest aura. He is also somewhat familiar with one of the other two. It's Nimbus von Gretel, a general from Planet Terra. As Lord Yara's aura is not present on that ship, he is certain that he is not with them. They really took a similar route, indicating that they also intended to get to the Imperium Star.

Megan Shelley's (Zane Lin) thoughts, 'Maybe something really happened in the Imperium Star.'

When he noticed that the fleet of the Space Pirates had fled, Megan Shelley (Zane Lin) lifted the spell he had cast around the ship. The Black Spaceship's crew entered their Civilian Ship through a door that their pilot had unlocked for them. Megan Shelley (Zane Lin), as anticipated, saw nothing amiss. They were visited by General Nimbus and a handsome man who appeared to be close with him. The latter appears to be his pair and resembles General Nimbus in terms of a soldier.

General Nimbus spoke, "I would like to meet the pilot and officers of this ship. Do not enter the Imperial Star. There is a war going on there. The Zergs had invaded!"

This news came abruptly and some passengers couldn't believe what they'd heard. Some reacted quite violently and were controlled by the General immediately.

"Calm down. There is news of survivors. We cannot bring you there and put you in danger. Turn back. We will do our best to kill the Zergs!" Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel stated.

Even after Lieutenant General Zephyr's address, just a small percentage of the populace had managed to do so. Unexpectedly, someone entered the room, and just his entry alone silenced the entire space. The Grand Marshal is as stern as ever, especially considering that his wife isn't present.

"Go back. This is an order! Leave the rest to me!"

"Your Highness! Your Excellency! Wuwuwu~"

"Please... Please kill all those Zergs!"

"We believe you! Grand Marshal, we believe in you!"

The Grand Marshal keeps a deadpan face and nods his head before preparing to leave. "Go somewhere safe first. Once the war is over you can return."

The civilians in the spaceship including the pilots and the officers in it kowtowed towards the Grand Marshal, leaving Megan Shelley who stood his ground a bit awkward.

General Nimbus recognized the child, "Child, aren't you a student of First Military Imperial School? You also should go home."

Megan Shelley (Zane Lin) was about to answer when the Grand Marshal suddenly said, "Zane Lin, you follow me."

"Yes, Grand Marshal."

Before following the Grand Marshal out of the hall, Megan Shelley saluted General Nimbus and Lieutenant General Zephyr who were standing nearby. He readily followed because he was aware that the Grand Marshal could want to exploit his skill in the conflict. His professors and pals are still there, after all. He also wants to save them if they are still alive.

General Nimbus and Lieutenant General Zephyr returned to the Black Spaceship after giving the Civilian Spaceship Pilot a few more instructions and searched for the Grand Marshal. They readied their ship for a space jump to their intended location after the Civilian Ship left. The Imperium Star.

Megan Shelley (Zane Lin) casted two spells to protect the passengers before the Civilian Spacecraft departed. both a protection spell and an invisibility spell. This ship was able to reach the closest planet in three days, which is how long it can last. But, the black ship carrying the Grand Marshal and the others swiftly jumped into the Space Tunnel and space travel. The Imperium Star should come into view once they have reached the end of the Space Tunnel.

Chapter 1136 Fourth Violet Star - Self destruct

Edge Star is owned by the Chrysalis Clan...

Yara von Chrysalis is still accompanying the enormous egg that hasn't hatched yet in the nest made of Ice. The nest appeared a little crowded when the Grand Marshal and the Black Dragon, Roi, were still present. The abrupt appearance of the nest being particularly vacant after they left has a negative impact on Yara von Chrysalis' attitude.

He only stares at his egg with an expressionless face and even mumbling, "Just when are you going to hatch? I want to leave this place soon and follow Caesar."

The enormous egg shook as though responding to his lord. Sadly, there are no voices coming from the enormous egg. Every hour, it wiggles a few times as if to get the attention of its owner. He appears to sense the mood changes in his owner. It also noted that his other father and his partner had vanished.

Sigh~

For Yara von Chrysalis to hear what his unborn quantum beast was trying to tell him, he had to bump his forehead against the white silvery egg's surface. They can only communicate with one another in this manner.

{Master. Where is the other Master? Where is Roi?}

Yara von Chrysalis responded, "They left to do some work. I was supposed to go with them but I need to see you hatch first."

{Master, let's go together! Soon. I will be born soon. Wait for me, Master. Reine wants to go with you.}

"Reine? Is that your name?" Yara von Chrysalis asked.

{Yes, it's the name the Master gave me!}

"I gave you that name?"

{Yes. The Master just can't remember but this isn't the first life you spend with the other Master. We have always been together.}

"..."

Yara von Chrysalis abruptly became silent. That was hardly what he anticipated hearing from his quantum beast. Yet if what he said is accurate, many things become clear. When we first met, why was that black dragon attached to me? I sense something when Caesar is around, and once they meet, a lot of things change for the better.

"Little one. You have to be born soon. We need to find Caesar as soon as possible."

{But Master I lack too much qi. I can't gather much in this form.}

"Lacking qi is it? Should I make a Qi Gathering Formation for you?" Yara von Chrysalis mumbled as he stood up to make the Qi Gathering Formation for his unhatched egg.

The Chrysalis Family, who live close to the Nest of Ice, is keeping an eye on their youngest. They were concerned that he could feel alone or something because his partner left so abruptly. They are Sister Laurel, Mom Parvana, and Papa Orion.

Mama Parvana asked, "He stood up. What do you think, Papa? Will our baby be okay?"

"He doesn't seem to be in a bad mood. But suddenly hugging that big egg, are they communicating?" Papa Orion said.

Sister Laurel said, "What are you sneaking around for, Mom, Dad?"

Papa Orion pulled her down with them while making a silent motion to her daughter. The couple snuck a glance at their child while squatting on the ground. Mother Parvana became aware that her oldest son had vanished once more.

Mama Parvana asked, "Laurel, where is your twin brother?"

"He sneaked into Brother Caesar's Spaceship. He said his fated pair is a student at First Military Imperial School. He came to pick him up. Don't worry Mom, Dad, I've asked him to leave a Chrysalis at home for assurance." Sister Laurel said.

Papa Orion said, "So Titus found his fated pair."

Mama Parvana looked a bit helpless when she glanced at her daughter and compared her to her two younger brothers who found their pair. "That aside our dear eldest daughter, when are you going to bring home a son-in-law? Our Baby brought him already while Titus will come over soon to bring his future wife as well. Daughter, where is yours?"

"Mama, don't do that. Don't you know most of her blind dates had failed as they were all afraid of her? Maybe we can find someone weaker who will be protected by our daughter." Papa Orion said.

Mama Parvana's eyes lit up when she heard such a nice suggestion from her husband and kissed him as a reward. "Darling, that's a good idea. I will go ask around if there are cute boys who want to marry in the family."

"Mama, one more kiss please." Papa Orion said.

Sister Laurel rolled her eyes and moved away as she watched her parents prepare to spread their wings and flirt with one another. Going on patrol is preferable to watching her parents display their PDAs.

Somewhere in Edge Star's dense woodland...

Chess buddies Argus Blues von Chrysalis and Clodius von Chrysalis were having fun playing when the Butterfly Emperor abruptly received word from the Holy Laws. Above Argus, a pillar's light dropped, and he could hear the voice of the Heavenly Laws.

The Heavenly Laws had spoken, {Mine own protecteth's bid the dram god from thy family yond someone hadst alt'r'd a few fates of this w'rld. Anoth'r protecteth'r aside from thee, mine own issue, hadst been list'd. Bid those folk to beest careful.}

Once the pillar of light vanished, Argus Blues von Chrysalis experienced some lightheadedness. A mortal brain cannot handle the rapid connection from the memory of all worldly wills. Receiving the gods' prophecy has the unintended side effect of making you feel queasy and dizzy.

Before Clodius von Chrysalis tumbled to the ground, he quickly grabbed his wife. He had repeatedly seen the Heavens conversing with his wife, so he was accustomed to this circumstance. He gives Argus a cup of warm mint tea and allows him to lean on his chest as he tries to get his balance back.

"Drink a bit of tea, Wife. It will help you calm down."

Hm~

Instead of prodding his wife to talk, Clodius von Chrysalis waited until he could do it at his own pace. He was aware that a mortal would find the sudden link to the heavens to be quite taxing. Even though their family was more divine than actual Gods, it is still impossible to compare.

Sigh~

"I'm okay now, Husband. I was just caught off guard as I've been trying to contact heaven these few days. The message I received just now is a bit weird." Argus Blues von Chrysalis said.

Clodius von Chrysalis asked, "What do you mean?"

"The Heavenly Laws said someone added another protector of this world. It was supposed to be only me and our family. They also said to pass this message to Yara and told him to be careful. It's a bit strange right?" Argus Blues von Chrysalis said.

Clodius von Chrysalis had a guess but this guess of his made him frown which his wife noticed. Argus asked, "What's wrong?"

"We had long known that Yaya was different from the rest even to us. That's why he lived an indifferent life all this time until he met the new soul in the Grand Marshal. Don't you think like Yaya, that brat is truly a God and their future enemies are Gods as well? That's why they are capable of conversing with the Heavenly Laws without side effects and... Why has the fate of this world been changed?"

Clodius shares his thoughts with his wife. After marrying the Butterfly Emperor, his knowledge goes beyond what mortals had to learn and he also knew the existence of other worlds and outsider Gods.

Argus Blues von Chrysalis also thought of some things and said, "If so then this is their destiny, we can no longer interfere. Have someone pass the message to him."

War in the Imperium Star...

Dean Frey von Gregory was still unable to accept that the mysterious figure known only as Chaos was aware of the capabilities and effects of his soul weapon, Yizhi. The passive impact of the Red Strings on his seized targets is what he just mentioned. Only two persons are aware of the passive function of his soul weapon. He is the owner of Yizhi, and Lord Hei, who assisted him in developing this weapon, is the second.

Moreover, his weapon was created when he was still the God of Fate. Also, Lord Hei is not going to gossip about anyone because he was not bored enough to spread false information. He doesn't frequently stay in Vearth; instead, he regularly travels to the lower worlds to carry out his duties as an Executioner. in addition to

Moreover, his weapon was created when he was still the God of Fate. Also, Lord Hei is not going to gossip about anyone because he was not bored enough to spread false information. He doesn't frequently stay in Vearth; instead, he regularly travels to the lower worlds to carry out his duties as an Executioner. in addition to

He initially looks bewildered, then confused, then disbelieving as if he has suddenly comprehended something as he stares at the man who called himself Chaos.

Dean Frey von Gregory exclaims in disbelief, "No way! Are you...!!"

Buzz~ Krieeek!! BUZZ~~

Frey von Gregory was attacked by a few Zerg wasps before he could finish his sentence. He spreads the red strings with a wave of his hands, swiftly trapping and dismembering everyone who attempted to harm him.

"I'm thinking. Don't bother me."

Dean Frey von Gregory appeared to have guessed in his heart because he abruptly relaxed. His eyes, which were fixed on the guy known as Chaos, were filled with meaning. He made the decision to hold off on further discussion of what he had just realized.

He initially concentrated on the current war. He managed Yizhi, his soul weapon, and subdued the Centipede Queen Zerg once more. The Red String became harsher and sharper than piano strings this time around when he added qi to Yizhi. He also focused on the spaces between the Centipede Queen Zerg's carcass to render him immobile.

"Kriek~ Human. I. Know. How. Escape. Eh? What. Happen? Hiss! H-Hurts! I. Cut. shrieks~" The Centipede Queen Zerg said with broken words.

Unlike before, the red string would cut its body as soon as he relaxed his body. As these strings infiltrated his armor, it sliced through his flesh. To prevent the scarlet string from slicing deep into his flesh, he had to tense his body.

Dean Frey von Gregory said, "If it is to restrain before now it is to capture and eliminate. Of course, you can escape the same way."

This presented an opportunity for Adjutant Kir von Giselle, who killed Centipede Queen Zerg. He launched his spear directly into the Centipede Queen Zerg's wide-open mouth, and his attack sliced through the Zerg Queen ruthlessly. It detonated in the same manner as the previous Spider Queen Zerg.

SHRIEKS!!!

There were still three of the six Royal Zergs. As they saw the outcome, the Honey Bee Queen Zerg and the King Wasp Zerg thought the two humans were too powerful, and the Millipede Zerg King, who had lost its mate, went wild. It charged the castle with the intent to destroy itself. An SSS-ranked monster can lose half of its total stat by self-destructing. The Millipede Zerg King made the decision to drag everyone to their deaths after losing his mind over the loss of his queen.

Millipede Zerg King said, "Death. To. All. For. Killing. My. Queen!!!"

The mortals on the guard noticed the approaching huge figure of the Millipede Zerg King.

Duke Claudius von Gretel shouted, "RUN! RUN BACK IN THE CASTLE! THIS ZERG WANTS TO SELF-DESTRUCT!!!"

"Retreat! RETREAT NOW!!!" The second prince and the rest also shouted.

Behind the Banyan Tree Fortress, the entire human species escaped to the Great Palace. The Earth was colonized by Sentient Trees, Plants, and Flowers, all of which stretched their branches and tendrils in an effort to impede the Millipede Zerg King. When Dean Frey von Gregory noticed this, he summoned all the divinity within their current vessel.

In order to keep blocking the explosion, Dean Frey von Gregory utilized his soul weapon to build a wall of crimson strings and ran his qi through it. Adjutant Kir von Giselle, on the other side, used his qi on Chuankong, his soul weapon, and it began to glow with golden light. Since it was still far from the Grand Palace, he planned to nailed this Millipede to the ground.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle flung the golden spear he was holding with all of his power towards the Millipede Zerg King.

"ARGH! STAY HERE FOR ME!!!"

Chapter 1137 Fourth Violet Star - Heaven's Blessing. Sudden Upgrade.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle released the golden spear, which flew rapidly in the direction of the target before making a solid landing at the body's median. It shrieked in agony and pain as it fought to get away, but the spear had trapped it on the ground and prevented it from moving.

SHRIEKS~

Such an attack badly wounded the Millipede Zerg King who was about to die. It self-destructed when it approached its intended target, the main palace, but the blast's radius still extended to the Banyan Tree Walls. There was a massive explosion there. The Wasp Zerg King and Honey Bee Zerg Queen flew away from the blast to escape its effects. All of the local low-level Zergs were completely destroyed. Chaos sipped his drink while casually glancing towards the nearby explosion. He was surrounded by a barrier when the explosion happened.

Even though they were hit and fled, Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle made every effort to stop such massive explosions. The walls of the branches of the Banyan Tree also developed a few holes.

COUGH!!!

{Master!!!}

A marigold flower vine and a banyan tree limb reach out to their respective masters who were knocked unconscious by the blast. The two of them in front made sure to reduce the harm to those behind them by blocking the majority of the explosion. The two wardens are Gods, but because of their mortal bodies, their powers are constrained. Their might is demonstrated by their capacity to withstand such a strong explosion.

Seeing such a scene, the man behind the mask, Chaos narrowed his eyes and commented, "The two wardens are indeed powerful Gods, sadly their temporary mortal vessels had dragged them down."

He knew that if these two didn't wake up or someone else came to save them then the human race would be over. Even though only one single Royal Zerg Pair exists as long as the Zerg Queen is alive, they would be able to multiply as much as they want. That's why warriors tend to target the Queen first instead of the King. The King is only capable of Strength and command but his source of power is their unmatched numbers which were given birth by the queen.

The Wasp Zerg King and Honey Bee Zerg Queen didn't waste this opportunity, as was to be expected after seeing the two defenders of the human species down. The Queen Bee hatched as though right away after laying thousands of eggs. The sky is covered in countless wasps and honeybees, which creates a carpet of darkness in the otherwise clear sky.

The Youngest Prince Jace Green von Imperlian, the Second Prince Christopher Klein von Imperlian, Duke Claudius, Emperor Cale Meijer von Imperlian, and the Royal Knights all gave the order to attack after spotting this. The area's most powerful Mediators were commanded by Silvan von Rosegard, who went straight for Dean Frey von Gregory.

The Dean, who is the pair of the adjutant, can heal his companion if he wakes up, and they will be ready to engage in combat once more. To buy Silvan and the others some time so they could carry out their plan, those who raced to the front to fight the Zergs were there.

Silvan von Rosegard was in charge of a small band of Mediators as they hurried towards the combat. They were searching for Dean Frey von Gregory, who they noticed had fallen after he and Adjutant Kir von Giselle had stopped the explosion.

Silvan von Rosegard shouted, "Follow me! Find Dean Gregory! We need to heal him and wake him up as soon as possible."

Silvan von Rosegard and his medical team finally arrive where Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle had fallen as the warriors are battling the newborn low-level Zergs. They were under the protection of the Heavenly Marigold Flower God and Holy Banyan Tree. Adjutant Kir was on the edge of going crazy when Dean Frey von Gregory passed out. He developed madness as a result of the explosion, which damaged his mental state.

He snarled in fury and madness, but the limbs of the Banyan Tree held him back. He appeared fierce and enraged, wanting to assault everyone nearby. His eyes grew bloodshot. Fortunately, his wounds had made him weaker; though it had been difficult, the Banyan Tree Sentient Being was able to restrain his master.

Grr~ Argghhh~ growls!!!

The Divine Banyan Tree and Heavenly Marigold Flower God saw Silvan von Rosegard and his men coming and knew they had come to save their masters. Due to the fact that neither of their primary skills lean toward healing, they are unable to heal their masters. The Banyan Tree has the power to control and protect. These are his best abilities. The marigold flower has the ability to both attract and divert. He can cleanse as well, but not heal injuries.

Silvan von Rosegard approached the Dean, "Please restrain Lord Giselle for a while. We will do our best to cure Dean Frey!"

"Okay. I'll leave the master to you," the Heavenly Marigold Flower God nods his head at Silvan and his team. Even the Banyan Tree was kind enough to pull away his crazed master to not affect the healing of the other person.

His Quantum Beast was called forth by Silvan von Rosegard. Before them, a large white tiger materialized and moved toward the conscious Dean. He plucked a white snake from Dean Frey's sleeves after scanning the area around the unconscious guy. In an effort to save his Master, it had wrapped itself around his arm.

A white light emanated from the forehead of the white tiger as it dropped its head. It is a healing force similar to the Light Elements in the upper world. The remainder of the Mediators, including Silvan von Rosegard, made every effort to help the Dean get better. After fifteen minutes, the unconscious dean can only be healed by Silvan von Rosegard. The rest of his team was worn out and yearned to pass out with their Quantum Beasts.

Dean Frey von Gregory awoke groggily thirty minutes later to see his student Silvan von Rosegard's pale, white face. He felt the healing energy surrounding him and knew what was going on.

Silvan von Rosegard exclaims happily, "Dean! You woke up! Thank God!!" He felt his sight turning black and fell on the top of the dean who immediately supported him.

Dean Frey von Gregory took out a bottle of an SSS-ranked Healing potion feeding it to Silvan von Rosegard who immediately felt his energy refilled and refreshed.

Silvan von Rosegard was stunned, "An SSS-ranked potion!?"

Dean Frey von Gregory passed 3 potions to Silvan and said, "Student Silvan, share a few drops for your team and use the rest to heal the injured warriors in the Main Palace. This war would take a bit longer unless the Grand Marshal returned."

Silvan von Rosegard asked, "Is the Grand Marshal returning?" He doesn't look interested in the life and death of us.

Dean Frey von Gregory said, "Don't worry. He is already on his way. Thank you for healing me. I need to cure my pair. I will leave the rear to you."

"Please leave it to me!"

The energy in Silvan's body had suddenly increased. It stopped at S-ranked after moving from B-ranked to A-ranked. He had received the approval of the heavens. Everyone there was astounded by what they had seen, and the individual who had increased his strength was even more perplexed. He did nothing just now, and now his strength has increased.

Silvan von Rosegard mumbled, "What is happening?"

"You are blessed by the Heavens. Your pair should be as well."

When they suddenly observed a burst of light in the middle of the humans and Zergs fighting, the Dean had just finished speaking. Christopher Klein von Imperlian was directly exposed to the light. After receiving a blessing from the skies above, his A-ranked strength skipped S-ranked and reached SS-ranked.

As the Second Prince experienced a surge of divinity, Duke Claudius von Gretel, who was present, observed it.

He muttered, "SS-ranked. Heaven's Bestowment!"

"I... I didn't do anything!?" Christopher Klein von Imperlian said in disbelief as he looked at the energy powerful enough to refill what he had used up before.

Stephen von Rosegard said, "Congratulations, Your Highness!"

"Brother, that's amazing!!" When the light suddenly fell on his head as well, Jace Green von Imperlian uttered these words. Rozen quickly pulled him back after he was about to fall off his Liger. His initial strength was S, but with the help of the world, he improved to SS, and his Rozen improved to SSS like Little Bing'er. A miniature Rose Fairy has now materialized in front of Jace Green.

Rozen was stunned and stared at his master, "Master, what did you do!?"

"I didn't do anything!!!" Jace Green von Imperlian said as his Liger abruptly stopped, making him bump his forehead directly on Rozen's small face.

THUD!

OWIE~ ($\pi^{\wedge}\pi$) ($\pi^{\wedge}\pi$)

Due to the sudden mishap, the two idiots had to support their head and face. They are functioning in such a way that no one would think that one of them is an SS-ranked warrior and the other is an SSS-ranked Sentient Rose Plant. These two also benefit from the laws of heaven, however not because they are Heaven's Favorites but rather because of their association with a figure that the heavens fear.

The Second Prince was forced to sigh helplessly in response to this scene. Although his younger brother is strong, he is too naïve and uninterested in anything to care.

"Stop, playing around. We're at war."

"Wuwu~... Okay, Second Brother." Jace Green von Imperlian said.

The battle against the Zerg had become simpler with the two warriors achieving SS-ranks and another SSS-ranked Sentient Rose Plant. The Wasp Zerg King and Honey Bee Zerg Queen noticed this and decided to attack the Human Race's warrior leaders. The Human race is governed by three leaders, and a human child freely directs the Sentient Plants. They didn't think twice before going after the leaders.

"Krieks~ Human. Children. Shaa~ Kill!"

The younger princes were taken by the Royal Zergs because they were after the older princes. The wasp and bee Zerg siege had abruptly changed course. There are the two Imperial Princes.

Jace Green von Imperlian commented, "Woa~ why are they targeting me? I haven't done anything yet!? Brother, what should we do?"

"Prepare to attack. Stop fooling around!" The Second Prince said as he pulled out his sword and gathered as much qi as possible in the blade.

On the other hand, Jace Green von Imperlian thought differently. He just grabbed Rozen's fairy form and grinned at him, "Rozen, I chose you. Go kill one of them!"

He tossed him with all of his strength while also enclosing him in a qi barrier. It crushed everything in its path and flew straight to the Zerg King and Zerg Queen, as if a cannonball had been fired. Everyone was shocked to see what he had done because they had not anticipated it. They can just make out a tiny male fairy cursing its master and flying like an arrow.

Rozen screams as he flies, "Master, you Goddamn Bastard! I hate you so much! Ahhhh!!!"

"Are you crazy!?" Little Bing'er exclaimed in disbelief. While the other senior Sentient Beings couldn't help but just sighed at this scene.

When he watched this scenario, the Second Prince's hand trembled in shock as he wielded the Qi Sword to slay the group of bugs that were flying towards them. He couldn't help but twitch the corner of his mouth as he watched his younger brother chuckle. While Duke Claudius suppressed his laughing because he thought the youngest prince's personality was too similar to his eldest nephew, Titus von Chrysalis, both need to be spanked for being too misbehaving. Meanwhile, Stephen von Rosegard was left dumbfounded as he observed this scene. The second prince's sword qi destroyed the waves of insects, while Rozen, who was expelled, destroyed everything in its path. Being caught off guard, the two royal Zergs failed to defend. Rozen unleashed a Thorn Rain just a few meters distant from the Zerg King and Queen Zerg. Thanks to his upgrading, his thorns have grown more acute and resilient. The Wasp Zerg King barricaded everything for his queen after sensing a bad omen from the thorns. The Zerg Queen is the most significant member of the Zerg Race.

The Wasp Zerg King took a full brunt of the thorns, hundreds of holes appeared on his body and wings. He is barely alive after such an attack.

"Kriek~ Retreat. Escape. Hide. Sur--vive."

The Wasp Zerg King was covered with holes that plummeted to the ground from the sky. Many low-level Zergs tried to save him but were slain by Rozen who was returning to the master who had just thrown him. This impromptu ambush strike was successful, but Rozen was too exhausted because he had just spent almost all of his thorns.

"Ah~ so tired." Mumbled Rozen as he flew back to where Jace Green von Imperlian was.

Duke Claudius stated, "Good Job!"

Chapter 1138 Fourth Violet Star - The Egg Hatches

Abandoned Star, Underground Laboratory of the Nova Family...

The sticky cocoon that has engulfed Cain Nova von Imperlian has grown in bulk. The pulsating and noises of his heartbeats indicate that he is still alive. Around the white cocoon, there are monitoring and recording devices, as well as a few scientists in their white robes silently studying any changes that occur on the subject. The Old Patriarch, who opted to utilize his own grandson as an experimental subject, is the most prominent of these scientists. Of course, he did not have the Crown Prince's approval, nor was the Queen Mother informed. In actuality, they were unaware that the Imperium Star was at war, or perhaps they didn't care and simply waited for the outcome.

Old Patriarch Nova said, "What do you think? When do you think this Cocoon will hatch?"

"There are indicators that the Crown Prince was about to wake up soon but there is no exact period of time when he would come out of it. Fortunately, his state is currently stabilized." An old man in a white robe responded to the Old Patriarch's question. To these scientists, the senior is their superior, and the sponsor cannot afford to offend.

They had no idea that a malevolent creature was monitoring their plight from the Void. One of its favorite meals was the hard labor and greed of these eternal people. He also enjoys feelings of melancholy, despair, and hatred. Such emotions were tasty to him and increased his hunger.

Somewhere in the Void...

Previously, a dark entity the size of an eye possessed a humanoid shape. The form resembles humans in particular, but it is difficult to notice in the dark. It keeps an eye on everything that can pique his attention or fill him up. Even though one of its corporeal vessels has yet to be born and his power has been substantially reduced, he is still an Evil Existence that even Gods fear.

"I can't eat worlds so obviously or those hypocrites of Vearth would once again hunt me down. I was already cautious enough to split my soul after my vessel was destroyed by the God of Chaos. That damn lunatic, who doesn't care about his own life and death!"

"Hm~ interesting. The heart of the little one in the cocoon seems to be full of pure rage and hatred. It wanted to destroy everything in its path. Unfortunately, even though its soul is a bit compatible with that bloodline it seems that his vessel wouldn't be able to hold on. Interesting~ I wonder If I can use him to annoy that damn God of Void who destroyed one of my soul fragments."

In the void, the evil entity mumbles. This Evil one had granted a special power to the Crown Prince, who was silently waiting for him to finish his transformation within the white and sticky Chrysalis, but no one in the laboratory observed.

"Wake up soon, little one~ hehehe..."

In Yara von Chrysalis's Soul Domain...

He sat alongside his Quantum Egg after creating a Qi Gathering Formation around it to assist it absorb as much qi as possible. He went into a meditative condition to direct the qi toward the shape. He entered his soul domain, not expecting to see anyone there.

Long, silky light brown hair, pure white robes with a black snowflake pattern, and a pair of alluring silver eyes full of mirth. This man has perfect and exquisite features. His aura emits nobility, gracefulness, and coldness.

Despite the wicked smirk at the corner of his cerise lips, his argent irises are filled with indifference, aloofness, and coldness. Those Phoenix-shaped eyes, in particular, exuded inherent seductiveness and grace. He can sense this man's aura of rejection for anything he isn't interested in, but he doesn't feel hatred flowing from him against himself.

After all, the man in front of him may appear to be smiling, but his character is chilly. He is the sort to reject anything until he likes it. Because he and the guy had the same personality, he rejected him automatically, but Yara knew this man's appearance in his soul realm had to be for a purpose, and this man's presence had to be exceptional because he didn't feel anything towards his entry.

Yara von Chrysalis asked, "Who are you?"

"You are you and I am you. Our origins are one, it's just that I am the Main Soul and you are a Soul Fragment." The man in pure white robes said.

Yes, the man in the white robe is none other than Hei Anjing. Ever since he merged with the soul of Cassius Ambrosia from the last world and took one whole star's world, his soul was slightly repaired. Even though he can remain awake for too long, a moment is enough for him.

Yara von Chrysalis approached him with urgency and sat not far away. A table with a tea set appeared before them.

"Just as I thought, no wonder I reject you. Are you here to merge with me?" Yara von Chrysalis said as his face turned cold at such a thought.

But Hei Anjing remains calm and responds nonchalantly, "No. If I take you away, our lover will die here."

When the premonition death of Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian was mentioned, Yara von Chrysalis was shocked.

"What the hell do you mean?! Speak properly!"

"Sit down!" A stern and cold tone comes out of Hei Anjing's mouth. Heavy pressure forced Yara von Chrysalis to sit down.

Yara von Chrysalis did his best to reject it. But the authority of the main soul over the soul fragments is absolute. So Yara von Chrysalis was forced to return to his seat, making him give the man in front a deadly glare.

"I'm here because of this. Of course, I will tell you about it." Hei Anjing said only then that Yara von Chrysalis had calmed down. "Your memories are still sealed as you haven't fully awakened yet. Once your wings fell and fully awakened the memories we shared would return to you and you would understand our real relationship with Caesar or the soul in that body."

"So I need to awaken first." Mumbled Yara von Chrysalis understanding the explanation of the man before him. He believes that he is this man's reincarnation as he finds a photo album with his face on it together with countless other faces and children.

Hei Anjing said, "Reine is about to wake up. He can use Space Elements so you don't need a spaceship to travel to space. He can protect you all the way. I only came to warn you. Be careful of the man called Chaos. He came to this world wanting to kill our chosen pair. Remember, he will do anything to harm or kill him."

The soul domain became enveloped in mist, and Hei Anjing in white robes vanished. Yara von Chrysalis awoke in reality to the sound of an egg shattering next to him. When he turned to face the source, he noticed cracks on his Quantum Egg spreading in a circle. He is relieved to witness the end result of his efforts to assist his quantum beast in gathering enough energy to be born.

When the egg was fully opened, a silver Phoenix-Dragon hybrid soared out. Unlike Reine's last mixed-color reincarnation, he was reincarnated with only one color in this world. This was due to Hei Anjing's soul fragments gradually reviving his original soul. Because he has authority over all elements, the God of Chaos' primordial aura is silver. As a result, he followed the hue of his aura as his Quantum Beast.

Hei Anjing was previously in someone else's body, which was also not his soul pieces. Reine was born with the elements of fire, ice, and space, but Yara, his Hei Anjing's reincarnation, and his strength were the same, causing Reine to be reincarnated with the Silver shade.

A massive silver Phoenix with dragon blood flew out of the egg. It grows in the sky, demonstrating its owner's might. The greater their Quantum Beast, the more powerful their master. That's why Roi, the Grand Marshal's Black Dragon, can wrap itself around a massive edifice.

Roi's initial size in the God of Void's true body is that of a regular star. Long enough to encompass the entire world. Fortunately, Caesar Mitchell von Imperlian and Yara von Chrysalis' mortal status keeps their true power hidden and merely reveals the world's peak strength.

CAA WWWSSS~ CCAA WWSS~

Most monsters in the Edge Star had prostrated before the sky where the Divine Phoenix was soaring around in joy after seeing a gigantic silver Phoenix with the presence of a dragon. The emergence of such a massive silver phoenix drew everyone's attention and caused all members of the edge star to congregate around Yara von Chrysalis.

Papa Orion who was holding a newspaper said, "Such a huge quantum beast. Even larger than Xiao Lau's Hydra."

"Is that a phoenix? How come it's larger than what Father has?!" Mama Parvana commented while holding a spatula in her hand. She was cooking lunch when she heard the commotion.

Meanwhile, Sister Laurel glows and tugged her baby brother's arm, "Baby, let me fight with your bird. Just a short spar, I promise I won't hit it too hard."

"Sis, you... Be careful. Reine, play with my sister!"

Yara von Chrysalis ordered the Silver Phoenix Dragon to fly down and take Laurel Azure von Chrysalis, who had just completed summoning her Eight-headed Hydra, and play her by tossing her in the air and catching her. Flew to the highest point in the sky and let Laurel Azure free fall through the skies.

"Give. Give. I GIVE UP!!! BABY STOP YOUR BIRDIE!!!"

The screams of Laurel Azure von Chrysalis resound throughout the Star as her Eight-headed Hydra travels about the ocean and land seeking to grab her; however, Reine isn't even allowing the Hydra get its master and dives down to her and performs the same motion. Reine let the Hydra grab her only when Laurel Azure von Chrysalis yelled that she had given up.

Her entire appearance was disheveled, her long hair had become a bird nest, and her garments had been crumpled by her during her free fall in the sky. Her legs were shaking and she was short of breath. This small female general was never frightened of flying, but she is suddenly terrified of free falling from near outer space to Earth.

Pants~ pant! Hah~

Laurel Azure von Chrysalis complained to her baby brother, "Baby, your Quantum Beast is mean."

Reine who landed near its Master spoke, "No. You are just too weak. As an SSS-ranked Adjudicator, you wouldn't die from such a height."

"Baby, your birdie is snobbish!" Laurel Azure von Chrysalis remarked, making the huge Phoenix spread its wings, obviously planning to throw her up and down in the sky for the second time.

CAAAWWW~

Yara ignored his Quantum and his elder sister, glaring at each other, and turned to his parents and grandparents. Who was inspecting his Quantum Beast and noticed its Hybrid Bloodline.

Clodius von Chrysalis said, "This is the first time I've seen a Phoenix with Dragon Bloodline. Surprisingly, the two high-level bloodlines didn't suppress one another."

"Must be the roots of Orion's Clan. I heard his quarter dragon from his grandmother's side. I guess Yaya took all the good bloodlines into account and mixed both your phoenix and the dragon bloodline." Argus blue von Chrysalis said.

Yara von Chrysalis said to his family, "I want to go after Caesar."

His family didn't stop him and said, "You may leave after lunch."

Chapter 1139 Fourth Violet Star - The Sky turned dark followed by Lightning and Thunder.

Yara von Chrysalis eventually left his family's Edge Star and went into space on Reine's back. Yara von Chrysalis, whose body is still deemed mortal, was able to travel through space even without the starship thanks to Reine's protection. They are currently on their way to the Imperium Star to track down the Grand Marshal who departed before them.

Meanwhile, in the Abandoned Star, where the Experiment Laboratory was housed under the Nova...

The enormous cocoon that encased Crown Prince Cain Nova von Imperlian was throbbing with light. The alterations in the cocoon drew everyone's attention in the laboratory.

An old scientist remarked, "Ah. Ah. Hatching. It's finally hatching. The Crown Prince is awake! Hahaha~ The Experiment to merge the bloodline of the Mystical Clan with the human bloodline is a success!"

"Patriarch Nova, Congratulations!"

"Congratulations! We finally have a Mystical Descendant in the Nova Clan!"

"This is amazing! Truly fascinating!"

"Look. Look. A hand comes out of the Cocoon but what is that black layer? There is another Chrysalis inside the white Cocoon?"

Everyone sees Cain Nova von Imperlian emerge from the Cocoon and discovers that, in addition to the Sticky Cocoon, they knew there was another Chrysalis inside the aforementioned cocoon. Butterflies, on the other hand, only have one Chrysalis when they pupate, but Moths have two layers, a Sticky Cocoon and a Chrysalis. Butterflies' wings are usually folded vertically up over their backs. Moths hold their wings in a tent-like posture, concealing the abdomen. Butterflies often have bigger wings with more vivid designs. Moths are usually smaller and have drab-colored wings. Most scientists see Cain Nova von Imperlian emerging out the cocoon with a tent-like brownish pair of wings.

"My Dear Grandson! You've been through a lot. Don't worry, Grandfather made you stronger, you won't be bullied at home anymore."

The Nova Clan's Old Patriarch approached his grandson and hugged him. Cain's appearance hasn't changed much, save for his blue eyes, which have become fully black at this point. His irises and pupils, however, were the same hue.

Cain Nova von Imperlian tilted his head as if he couldn't recognize his grandfather and said, "G-Grandfather?"

"That's right. It's Grandfather! Haha~ Good Child!!" Patriarch Nova said as he chuckled.

He considered himself fortunate that his son did not despise him for using him as an Experimental Subject without his permission. He was so pleased about the good experiment that he didn't notice the strangeness of the other persons in the laboratory. The scientist's unusual silence and surprised look were combined with horror.

The Old Patriarch of Nova Clan asked when he noticed the awkwardness in the lab. "Everyone, what's wrong?"

A trembling voice reaches his ears saying, "W-Why...? Butterflies aren't supposed to possess Tent-like gloomy colored wings!"

"H-His Highness... His eyes... He... He. It turned completely black including his p-pupil."

"So is the experiment a success or not?!"

"Wait! I heard... Interstellar Moth Clan is all... Carnivorous!!!"

Cain Nova von Imperlian bit the Old Patriarch's neck, quickly murdering him, as if making that scientist's words a reality. Blood shoots like a fountain from the bitten neck section, and the sound of raw meat and bone being eaten reverberate throughout the space. Only the Crown Prince, who was colored in blood, appeared to be delighted, as if he had discovered something delectable during his hungry condition. Crunches~ munches! Chew~

"YOU!?"

When the Old Patriarch of Nova turns around, he sees his grandson's monster countenance eating on his own meat with a joyful look, and he dies with that image being the last thing he sees. He felt guilt and rage for failing his life's experiment and dying without accomplishing anything. He was filled with remorse till the end of his life. THUD! This is the sound of the Old Patriarch's body dropping to the ground. Cain Nova von Imperlian squats and eats his Grandfather's body as if it were a delicacy.

"Um~ it was delicious at first but it got a bit chewy. Is it because this prey is a bit old? gulps*" mumbled the Crown Prince. Or should we say the monster that controls the body of Cain Nova von Imperlian?

Only when he lifted his head to gaze at the other people in the room and smiled evilly did the others awaken from their stupor, and terror quickly engulfed their hearts. Nobody could tell who was the first to shout. "AHHH!! RUN IT'S A MONSTER!!!"

However, the remainder of the individuals in the laboratory had fled as a result of this cry. Cain Nova von Imperlian extended his wings and pursued those meals that was fleeing from him. The laboratory was in a state of madness. After all, none of these scientists intended to build a monster from that husk, which they all assumed was the residual skin of a Mystical Butterfly Clan. They were given a Moth Clan instead of a butterfly.

This Moth Clan on this Interstellar world is regarded as a unique old creature. The Butterfly Clan slaughtered them owing to their murderous character. They will even devour one another if there is no more food available. They were regarded giant pests in the interplanetary globe and were even dreaded by the Zerg Race owing to their voracious appetite.

"Hahaha~ there is more food~~," Cain Nova von Imperlian said as he chased after all the humans in the laboratory. They had all ended up in his stomach after his rebirth.

In the basement laboratory, a stream of blood, flesh, and bones emerged. Cain Nova von Imperlian, who had transformed into a monstrous moth, had slaughtered all living beings in the Abandoned Star. The one who had allowed him to life is a greedy entity, and therefore he inherited the same traits as its creator. Uncontrollable hunger, such that you wouldn't feel satisfied even if you ate the entire world.

Cain Nova von Imperlian completely wrecked the subterranean laboratory and even ate that abandoned world while floating aimlessly in the cosmos. His flat tummy rumbled. Even consuming the Abandoned Star, as well as the planet itself, didn't satisfy his desire. As he is still a human, he has developed into something resembling a pseudo-world eater.

Cain Nova von Imperlian mumbled, "Not enough. I am still hungry~" then he disappeared in thin air and no one knew where he had disappeared.

On the Imperium Star...

The war is still going on, but the Human Race is winning. Only the Honeybee Zerg Queen remains of the six Royal-ranked Zergs; the other five were slain by Adjutant Kir von Giselle, Dean Frey von Gregory, and Jace Green von Imperlian's Rozen. Even still, the humans do not believe they are winning because of the existence of the masked man known as Chaos.

Dean Frey von Gregory was preoccupied with curing his lover's madness. Despite the fact that they were initially Gods, the vessel they were in was not. So disease, mental illness, and other conditions can afflict individuals even if they do not die. The impact is genuine. Dean Frey can only enter Adjutant Kir von Giselle's soul sphere to rouse him up since he is suffering from Mental Contamination.

This procedure takes some time. As a result, when the Adjutant awoke, they missed a few scenes. They did detect the decreasing aura of one of the final two SSS-ranked Zergs, however. Meanwhile, Silvan von Rosegard and the others were relieved to see Adjutant Kir von Giselle awake.

Dean Frey asked worriedly, "How are you feeling? Drink a Healing Potion just to be sure."

Adjutant Kir drinks the potion his lover placed near his mouth and the dizziness and fatigue in his body and soul diminished. Then he looked up in the sky and commented,

"Only one Royal-ranked Zerg remains. Who killed the Wasp Zerg King?" He asked.

Dean Frey von Gregory answered, "The friend of Lord Yara."

"No wonder. We should kill the last Zerg Royalty. Only then can we focus on the man who is wearing a mask." Adjutant Kir von Giselle said as he slowly stood up and prepared for battle.

What occurred next, on the other hand, was unexpected. The last Royal-ranking Zerg perished. No, it's more accurate to say he was murdered.

The Wasp King Zerg perished under the rain of thorns from the Sentient Rose Plant, Rozen, just minutes after Adjutant Kir von Giselle awoke from his mental distortion. The spectacle of the Wasp Zerg King's disfigured body filled with holes falling from the sky was observed and cheered upon by the whole human species. This implies there is just one Royal-ranked Zerg remaining in the sky. The amount of low-leveled Zergs has significantly dropped, and primarily honey bee-shaped Zergs remain. They exterminated the others.

"Only one. Just one last more!! We can do it!! Survive. We can survive!!!" The humans collectively said with tears in their eyes.

The Honey Bee Zerg Queen flew towards the masked man while her eyes were filled with rage and sadness. The scene of her Pair's death is too overwhelming for her.

"Shrieks~ L-Lord. Help. Last. Time. Kill. Kill. All. Them!!" The Honey Bee Zerg Queen said. But the man seems to be bluntly ignoring her as he enjoys a cup of his tea. The drink in it was strawberry mint milk tea.

"My. Lord?" The Honey Bee Zerg Queen calls. She currently looks like a lady abandoned by the world.

On the other hand, the Second Prince poured cold water on them and said, "Not yet. The war is not over yet. There is still that man. The man with the black mask."

Everyone's eyes awoke from their enthusiasm and turned to gaze at the man sitting casually on the clouds with a cup of tea in his hand. A cheeky smirk hung from the corner of his thin lips, but the depths of his eyes were filled with contempt and hatred. He appears to be bored right now.

Chaos whispered, "Boring~"

SHRIEKS~ BANG!

The Zerg near him burst with a single wave of his hand. Everyone had seen his casual action, but it was lethal, as it killed the Honey Bee Zerg Queen without a trace.

Everyone was astonished and speechless. The low-level Zergs who would disperse blindly once their King and Queen were killed all died instantly. They murdered themselves, as if terrified by the aura Chaos had emitted. Chaos spoke as if he were speaking to his pals. His tone is warm, as if he were speaking to an old friend.

"I truly wasted my time. What could you have expected of the bugs? Even giving the brains wasn't enough. How useless~"

"I'm bored too. What can I even do with playing with ants? You understand what I mean right? This Lord had no time to play with you. I had enough right now. So why don't you guys just all die?~"

The man with the mask eventually rose up from his chair. He gently fell from the sky, with a small cloud functioning as his stairwell at each step. Everyone was horrified as they watched him fall.

The Second Prince shouted, "Re... RETREAT! ALL OF YOU RETREAT!!!"

Everyone on the front lines was forced to return to the main palace. They couldn't sit motionless waiting for him to descend down to where they were since they knew the wooden fortress couldn't stop him. The Second Prince and the rest of the human race's leaders all ordered a retreat. Chaos grinned as he saw everyone scurrying away from him as if he were a virus.

"Hahaha~ this scene doesn't look that bad~ I wonder if you can outrun the thunder I am going to summon."

Chaos snapped his fingers and lifted his hand. He didn't need to say anything; all he needed was a thought. With his finger cracking as a catalyst, the sky abruptly darkened as the clouds went gloomy, with thunder and traces of lightning visible above their heads, and only a handful knew what it was.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle was so shocked that his eyes widened and mumbled in disbelief, "Tribulation Thunder and Clouds. How is it possible for him to control the world to this extent!?"

"Run back to the Castle. Marigold and Banyan Tree dragged as many humans as you could. We can at least erect a barrier around the Castle to block those deadly lightning!" Dean Frey von Gregory commanded.

Those with strength and swiftness save whoever they can. They are only able to return to the Imperial Palace. Dean Frey and Adjutant Kir's barrier will be their final hope of survival. If even that barrier couldn't keep the lightning from striking... They have no choice except to embrace death.

Chapter 1140 Fourth Violet Star - Life and Death and the Arrival of the Grand Marshal

The black sky was filled with thunderous roars and menacing streaks of light. As lightning struck the countryside and struck the ground many times, mortals on Earth were helpless. Some were fortunate enough to avoid death, while others were killed by the pure brightness of lightning. Even though their vessels and spirits disappeared with that one bolt of light, the latter were burnt alive and converted to ashes.

During the random, there is no specific safe location. It might fall on anyone or nothing at all, whether you're jogging in front or at the back. Everything will be determined by chance. With each lightning blow, the Divine Banyan Tree's wooden castle sounds fragile. It shattered into bits and burnt to ashes. Every time the terrible light from the skies fell, the country was roasted to black and burnt down.

Lightning hit the Imperial Palace's roof, causing a large portion of it to collapse. A massive hole erupted out of nowhere, terrifying the small children who were sheltering beneath. Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle did everything they could to preserve the Imperial Palace's standing. They concentrated their divinity on this piece of covering, but it could only protect the Main Palace in the city's center; even the roof was unprotected and was struck down to rubble by the tribulation lightning over their heads.

BOOM. CREAKS. BOOM. BANG.

Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle both raised their hands in support of the Heavenly Tribulation. Only Cultivators who wish to climb may block this type of punishment. They can hardly stop two purple lightning strikes as they fall to their knees and blood drips from the corners of their lips. As Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle boost the production of their qi in the barrier, the Barrier flickers, fading with each stroke and blazing gold.

Chaos who stood above the Imperial Palace looked down on them with a mischievous smile on his face and said, "I wonder how many more strikes can you two block~ Maybe you should abandon the mortal's vessel and leave as soon as possible or perish with your soul gone to nothingness."

The two wardens shared the same sentiments at first, but their mission was to assist the Imperium Star before their Lords arrived. Furthermore, Lord Hei's Incarnation considers Jace Green von Imperlian to be a friend. If they don't safeguard him properly, the consequences might be even worse than the lightning.

Dean Frey von Gregory said, "N-No, we cannot leave. One of Lord Yara's friends and family in this universe is behind us. We cannot fall!"

"If I took those guys away will you leave then?" Chaos asked teasingly.

But this one question was enough to render Dean Frey silent. He didn't know what to say to this question, "..."

If he were the previous him, an Exalted God in his own right, he would have chosen this, but as he turned around, he saw the familiar faces of the pupils from the First Military Imperial School he used to own. Seeing their begging eyes full of tears and concern for him and Adjutant Kir von Giselle, he couldn't help but think it was a little unjust to let them die in front of their eyes.

"No. It's against my conscience to leave the children to die." Dean Frey von Gregory said.

Chaos mumbled, "You are a bit similar to him in this sense."

"What do you mean? Who is this 'him' you are talking about?" Dean Frey von Gregory asked. His main point was the 'him' he mentioned. For some reason, he felt that this Chaos was someone related to them or something.

Knowing that Dean Frey von Gregory is guessing his identity with a few questions, Chaos grinned evilly and said, "Don't guess. I will not tell you~ But I'm already so bored, so let's end this!"

The dark clouds in the sky darkened, the thunder sounded like booming drums near their ears, and the rest couldn't stop themselves from covering their ears as they bled. The light lines within the clouds became brighter, from purple to burning black. Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle both saw the black lightning strike. It is more strong than the Heavenly Tribulation's lightning.

Only in Space Tunnels between planets and the cosmos can you find Void Storm Lightning. It is uncommon, yet most Gods fear it. This Black Lightning, according to the two wardens, Dean Frey von Gregory and Adjutant Kir von Giselle, is capable of killing a star with a single strike. It is a world and space destroyer. It obeyed the rules of annihilation, space, and nothingness.

Adjutant Kir von Giselle darkened and shoved Frey von Gregory behind him into the Imperial Castle, where he was apprehended by Duke Claudius and the other warriors. They also stopped him from flying back to where the Adjutant was.

"No! What are you doing!? Lou Wuye, get the hell back here!? That's a Void Storm, not a mere Tribulation. You will die for real!!!" Dean Frey von Gregory yelled as he attempted to free himself from the arms that were pinning him down. As he extends out a hand to his sweetheart, tears stream down his cheeks. The crimson rope merely grabbed his beloved's ring finger as he witnessed the black Lightning strike Adjutant Kir von Giselle.

"NOOOO!!!"

Adjutant Kir von Giselle turned around at the last second and grinned at Dean Frey von Gregory. The black lightning struck Kir von Giselle straight in front of everyone's eyes. As the golden barrier around the Palace cracked, he deflected the lightning with his body. The blackness in the sky continues to roar, but Adjutant Kir von Giselle's form has vanished.

The spectacle of Adjutant Kir von Giselle turning to nothing left no one or even ashes behind as if he had been obliterated utterly left everyone breathless. Chaos became expressionless for some reason in this scenario, while Dean Frey von Gregory eventually struggled free of the mob and hurried out to search for any evidence of his sweetheart on the other end of the red rope. He disregarded the fact that he stumbled several times and focused solely on the other end of the red string.

He shivers and grabs for the other end of his scarlet string. Only one finger remains, which was shielded by his remaining fate energy and connected the man's fate to him. It was analogous to the award from the Marriage Trial. But, as a result of this decision, he will no longer be able to return as the God of Fate in the future, as he gave up all to save this one man's soul.

His tears streamed down his cheeks as he held the small finger he could use to regenerate Adjutant Kir. He was so thrilled that he was sobbing and smiling at the same time. Meanwhile, Chaos, seeing that he couldn't entirely eliminate that man's subordinate, caused him to lose his pleasant mood. He now stares down at Dean Frey, who is embracing that thread of soul left behind by that man's subordinate.

Chaos spoke, his voice this time is colder and full of anger, "Do you not see me? Do you think I am blind?"

He lifted his hand once more, attempting to direct the Heavenly Lightning to hit the God in the mortal's vessel. He appears to be able to use the Void Storm Lightning just once on this planet. After all, this is only a middle-class world. Dean Frey von Gregory sensed his fury and defended the thread of soul his beloved possessed, even curling down on the ground, oblivious to his position as a God. All he can do is concentrate on preserving the strand of soul that his beloved left behind.

But before he could lower his hand, a chilly and ominous voice resonated throughout the star, followed by the roar of a massive dragon.

"Don't you think you have done enough?"

ROOOOAR~ The Heavenly Tribulation above the Imperial Palace was consumed by a Black Dragon that dropped from the skies. It merely had to open its mouth to suck in all the dark clouds till the sky was clean of them. The light dropped from the skies once more and settled on the guy dressed in military uniform while floating in front of the Imperial Palace and above Dean Frey von Gregory.

The Grand Marshal and his Quantum Beast, the Black Dragon King, Roi had arrived. Not far from them a black spaceship also descended near the Imperial Palace, General Nimbus von Gretel and Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel climbed down the Spaceship.

"We have returned! Your Majesty, Everyone is at ease." General Nimbus von Gretel said.

Everyone who expected to perish following Adjutant Kir von Giselle's sacrifice did not expect their Grand Marshal to return after what they had done to him. Their emotions were filled with sorrow and shame, and tears from the pleasure of surviving caused them to fall together, regardless of their rank.

His Majesty, Cale Meijer von Imperlian, trembled as he clutched the hands of General Nimbus von Gretel and Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel. The fear of death overpowers them, especially after trying all possible but still failing to survive the mysterious monster in the sky.

Cale Meijer von Imperlian said, "Thank you. thank you for coming back!"

"Let's not waste time. Please move the survivors to the spaceship. The spaceship is safer than the Imperial Palace," Zephyr von Gretel suggested.

"Where are your brothers?" Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel asked.

Two more handsome men appeared behind Claudius von Gretel. They look a bit younger than Claudius and they were siblings.

"Good. You are all here. We got permission from His Majesty the Butterfly Emperor about immigration. Prepare to leave the Imperium Star. This star is no longer livable." General Nimbus von Gretel said.
"Your Majesty, please..."

After instructing the survivors to board the spaceship, General Nimbus von Gretel and Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel wished to transport the survivors to a secure location first, but the spaceship refused to move even when the controls were engaged.

Frowning, General Nimbus questioned, "What is happening?"

"General! The spaceship had been frozen under and was unable to fly!" A soldier who checked through the cameras of the ship answered.

General Nimbus von Gretel said, "Who did it?"

"Maybe... That masked man in the sky did." Claudius von Gretel said.

When General Nimbus von Gretel glanced up, he met Chaos's frigid eyes, which ignored the fact that their gazes had met. But just by looking at him, they know they won't be able to flee unless the Grand Marshal defeats him.

Lieutenant General Zephyr von Gretel said, "It seems that we can leave. Tell everyone to stay in the Spaceship. Don't get out without permission!"

Meanwhile, the Grand Marshal noticed a faint trace of his subordinates inside Dean Frey von Gregory's grip from above. He realized what had happened when he saw Warden Yun's bloodshot eyes filled with sadness. Despite his lack of sympathy for him, he thinks he cannot abandon this man in his current situation. He would be accused of bullying his subordinate if his wife saw this.

The Grand Marshal spoke, "Don't despair. Lou is still alive. He signed a life-and-death contract with me. His life is connected to mine, he wouldn't disappear as long as I exist."

Dean Frey von Gregory saw a little space ripple develop in front of him with a wave of his hand, the space in front of him shattered, and a hand stretched out to wipe his tears. A figure in a black robe wearing pure black armor and his head covered behind a helmet emerged from the vacuum. Warden Lou in his original Nether System appearance. Dean Frey von Gregory was shocked when the other end of his crimson string vanished from his hug and emerged on the armored man's right ring finger.

Warden Lou whispered, "Don't cry, Xiao Ming. I'm still alive."

"Wuye! Wuwuwu~, please don't do that again!"

"Okay, I promise I won't."

When he heard his master's familiar voice, the tears that had stopped in his surprise began to pour again, and he clutched the man's neck while crying loudly so that everyone could hear. Everyone couldn't figure out why Adjutant Kir von Giselle, who had died right in front of their eyes, was still alive. They realized these four men's identities weren't easy just because he emerged from that strange spatial distortion.

One is a Grand Marshal who is supposed to die from Mania but instead becomes stronger than predicted. The two warriors who follow him: one is an Adjutant who died in front of their eyes but resurrected unhurt and in a completely altered figure. The Dean of the First Military Imperial School and a top-tier Mediator capable of wielding strange talents such as the golden barrier that shielded them and the red thread capable of confining and killing Royal-ranked Zergs.

Finally, there is an adversary whose face cannot be seen but who wields immense power that commands even the sky. Even if they didn't know their true identities, the horrors they had witnessed were proof enough that these four guys were no longer mortals like themselves. Instead, Gods descended from somewhere else.