

World Plot 1391

Chapter 1391 Second Red Star - It's Working!

After Hei Anjing descended in the body of Titania Ambrosia, the whole hive had been turned upside down. According to the history of the Zerg Race, the discrimination between the two genders hasn't completely changed yet. So in the eyes of the older generation bug, the authority of the Zerg Empress despite his current level of strength is still below the Zerg Emperor.

This is because they haven't met a henpecked husband before. The God of Void has always placed himself below the authority of his beloved at all times. He would never order his wife to do something and do it on his own. In the Insect Race's culture, the pair of a Male Zerg and a Female Zerg is like a master-servant relationship.

The Male Zerg is called Lord by their Female Zerg mate and the latter calls himself the female servant. All the assets of the latter would fall on their Lord and they could never be allowed to harm their Lord serving them like their Master.

It was because of this culture that the original Augustus Kaiser wasn't able to completely free Titania. A divorced Female Zerg can never remarry unless their former Lord is dead. Augustus never wanted Titania to live in solitude so he can only let him stay in the palace with him.

At least as his queen, he would be above all Female Zergs and Male Zergs wouldn't be allowed to bully him. But who would have expected, that Augustus Kaiser will be possessed by a devil's soul. In the end, the suffering of Queen Titania in those previous lives cannot be erased.

The God of Destruction wanted to try this kind of relationship and ask his husband to act in a way a real Male Zerg would do towards their Female Zerg mate. Left baffled, the Zerg Emperor had no other choice but to act like a proud Male Zerg.

For example like this morning, during breakfast...

The couple just woke up and went to the dining hall together. There were palace servants in the hall and yet none of them made a move to serve their masters.

Emperor Augustus glances arrogantly towards Empress Titania and says, "Why are you still here? Aren't you going to cook my meal, my empress?"

"But there are palace servants..."

"I'm telling you to cook for me!" The Zerg Emperor said.

Empress Titania looked so innocent when he was bullied and heads to the kitchen to cook his husband's heartfelt breakfast. He made half with something his husband loves to eat and another half which he doesn't like to eat. The moment the first half of the dishes was served Emperor Augustus was delighted until he saw the latter half which is made of ingredients he didn't like to eat.

When he turns his head to look at his wife with a mischievous smile on his face, he can't stop sweating. He can sense that his wife is teasing him again. His wife is currently feeding him, it should be a sweet moment, but the thing on his spoon is a scoop of a tofu brain soup which he hated eating. He didn't like eating tofu and brain.

"Lord, this empress shall feed you. Open your mouth. Ah~" The Zerg Empress said.

With every servant looking at them, declining would mean looking down on his wife in these zergs' eyes. They might make rumors about him bullying his empress and making it worse the more the news is passed down.

Even though he agrees to play the role of the Male Lord, anything else that might drag down his wife's reputation beyond repair is something he isn't willing to do. He could only monotonously open his mouth and get fed. He chewed the tofu as if he was eating wax and tried to remain expressionless, but the fingers in his sleeves were slightly trembling.

Gulped!

Empress Titania asked with a loving, smiling face and playful tone of voice, "How is it my Lord is it delicious?"

"It's... acceptable," said Zerg Emperor, Augustus while trying his best to swallow the rest of the tofu to his stomach.

Seeing his husband wanting to cry but couldn't, he couldn't hold back laughing.

Pft-hahaha~

The Zerg Empress said, "Okay, that's enough. No need to play this kind of role playing if it makes you that uncomfortable."

Empress Titania commanded the palace servants, "Take away the latter half of the dishes. You can have it if you want to."

He gestured for the servants to take away the latter half of the dishes for them to enjoy. Even though he enjoys teasing his man, it is not to the point he would have him finish a whole meal of dishes which hates. After the servants took away the other half of the dishes on the table, the dishes on trays not too far from them were served instead.

This time the only dishes the couple can enjoy were prepared in the dining hall.

The Zerg Empress was using his own chopsticks to put some dishes in his husband's bowl, while the Zerg Emperor was peeling some shrimp for his beloved. Though they are flower-eater Zergs in this world, they are still Gods who love to eat and cook meals similar to humans.

As someone from the butterfly race, eating flowers is normal, but for their current bodies to house their original souls as gods, it was enhanced to the point all disadvantages of a mortal were resolved. So eating human food in this body is possible.

Zerg Empress Titania said, "My love, this world is a bit boring~ I wasn't even here when there was war. Should we return to Vearth? But it's not possible as the lifespan of the Zerg Race is quite long. This body should be able to live one until 500 years or more."

"Don't worry, baby. If you are bored we can go all over this galaxy to check the other planets." Zerg Emperor Augustus said.

Titania opened his mouth as he let his husband feed him some peeled shrimp dipped in slightly salty vinegar sauce.

"We can't leave yet. Your successor is a bit too young. I can't believe that the other planet's protagonist will come to the Hive Star to become the next Zerg King just because Titania saves him. He had most likely been replaced by the Heavenly Laws of Federation Star."

"Doesn't that mean possible entertainment for you? Eat more," said Emperor Augustus while constantly feeding his wife.

Zerg Empress narrowed his eyes with an unknown meaning and mumbled, "I hope he lasts long enough."

"Hm, what do you mean?" Asked the Zerg Emperor.

Zerg Empress chuckled and said, "Nothing much. My love, let's go visit the flower garden. I want to do some gardening."

"I will go with you." Emperor Augustus said.

In the Federation Star,

Ice Mountain Region

The Hybrid Fire Elemental, Leng Jun, trespassed in the icy mountain region which is under the control of the Ice Elemental Fox with nine tails. He had to fight his way up to the icy Mountains with the intention of meeting the overlord of the Area. He was besieged by countless low-tier elemental on fox form on his way up.

They are quite strong, but for someone with a king bloodline like Leng Jun, he only needs to let out a coercive aura to press them down. Now as he climbs up the mountain and on the side are a group of foxes who could only crouch down under Leng Jun's aura. At the near peak of the tallest ice mountain, a towering white ninetailed fox was looking down on him.

There isn't any anger on its face as if his presence at this moment was something this fox has been waiting for.

Like the Ice Elemental Wolf King, this Ice Elemental Ninetailed fox speaks human.

[You've finally come over, transformed little one. I know you will come over here. You with the protection of the Fire Elemental Viper King.]

Leng Jun didn't look surprised as the Ice Elemental Wolf King informed him about this elemental king's unique ability to divine things. So his arrival at this moment might be something this Elemental King had witnessed with his ability.

"Then Senior, you should already know why I came here." Leng Jun said.

The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox nods its head. After moving about for a while, a light blue orb with the size of an adult human fist was held under this huge white fox. The Ice Elemental Ninetailed fox only hesitated for a while but in the end threw the light blue orb to Leng Jun.

Leng Jun was dumbfounded when an orb-like stone was thrown towards him. He didn't even ask for anything yet but why would the Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox would give this weird thing.

"What is this?"

"That's my energy core. Every time an Elemental creates their physical body, most of our energy is stored in the Energy Core or Jindan." The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox explained.

Leng Jun frowned and said, "Impossible. Aren't you in front of me right now? Why give me this thing?"

"The 'me' right now is just a soul form left behind after the Elemental's physical body dies. As long as there is nature or this world or the spirit world, we the elementals will truly not die. Your elemental is on the same form, but he over used his spirit when he helps you transform to your current state. You would have died if he didn't protect your soul in progress, but be careful.

Once you die, he will also die. That result is true death. No reincarnation, no rebirth. Simply returning to nothingness." The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox said.

The protagonist was shocked by how his death would greatly reflect on Chuchu, but he is more interested in the answer in his mind.

Leng Jun said, "That's not what I want to ask of you? I wanted to know if that man's words are real. Am I able to revive Chuchu if I become a God and head to the Upper Realm."

"The Upper Realm possessed all possibilities. But for you, unless you received the interest of that Exalted being, entering the Upper Realm is impossible." The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox said.

Feeling uneasy, Leng Jun asked, "Who is that Exalted one?"

"When you come to meet them, you will understand. You only have two kinds of future. Destruction and Rebirth. You should leave. You eat that energy orb to increase your strength."

"I just want to warn you, that being who approached you. You should return his power as soon as your Elemental wakes up. That is the power that eats up his host's sanity. Even the original Supreme one fell to madness due to that power."

"You should leave. You got everything you needed."

The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox drops down its head as if it was going to sleep. In reality he needs long rest after the loss of his energy core. It would take a long time for him to rebuild his physical body and wake up.

"I'm not done asking yet!" Leng Jun exclaimed.

Unfortunately, a thick white fog covers the whole mountain peak. When he opened his eyes, he was directly transported from the peak of the mountain to its feet. Leng Jun opened his eyes and he is back to the entrance of the Ice Mountain region. He looked at the light blue orb in his hand and felt an indescribable feeling of hunger. Just looking at the Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox's energy core.

He could help but drool.

Gulps~

That irritating voice once again entered Leng Jun's mind, inciting to do what he had never done before.

{What are you hesitating? Just eat it already. You wanted to get stronger didn't you? Hehe~}

Leng Jun said, "You are back. Just to annoy me again. This thing is so hard and you want me to eat it!"

{Haha~ fool! Use the aura I gave you to devour it. Who told you to directly eat it? Do you want to die? That is quite interesting to watch as well.}

Leng Jun annoyingly grit his teeth at this man and used the purplish black aura that resides in his body to devour the energy orb. The life energy in the energy orb was converted directly and run through Leng Jun's body. Most of this energy fell on Chuchu's sleeping soul inside of him. Seeing Chuchu's aura gets stronger, the happier Leng Jun gets.

"It's working. It's really working!"

Chapter 1392 Second Red Star - Frozen Sea to a Dead Sea.

Leng Jun was ecstatic to observe that the dormant spirit of Chuchu appeared to have become more powerful within him. Chuchu's soul had become translucent when he assisted him in becoming a hybrid elemental, and it had become nearly transparent when he shielded him from the hazardous purplish black power that the unidentified God had given him.

Given how that power behaved, Chuchu believed that it had to be a malevolent one.

Chuchu's nearly transparent soul is now gradually becoming a more solid tint. It has returned to its translucent hue. Maybe his Chuchu could actually wake up if he consumed more of that energy orb. Leng Jun was filled with hope just by considering this possibility. This was sufficient evidence in and of itself to convince him that whatever he was doing at the time, good or bad, could save Chuchu.

Leng Jun mumbles, "One energy orb is far from enough. I need more for Chuchu to wake up. There are four elemental kings. The one in the ice mountains had given his energy core to me. Three more to go, then I can try reaching Godhood once Chuchu wakes up. I can do this."

This young man was ignorant of the fact that gluttony corrupted his spirit more the more he consumed. If this keeps on, his body will eventually go insane and remain starving even if he returns this wicked power. Since this was the outcome he had been hoping for, Tun Shizhe chose not to tell him about this negative effect.

Tun Shizhe murmurs, {I wonder how long this brat can last. That last one ended up dying, even though I made him my clone. That one was this world's destined villain. In the end, he died under the hands of the God of Void and not because of his mortal enemy, that former protagonist, Cid Warlock.}

This young man would be able to exploit his body as a tool for his own purposes, as long as he disobeyed the heavenly laws of his universe. The rules of the planet's heavens closely guard a protagonist's physical form. He will always prevail; therefore, in that universe, it is difficult for anyone to oppose him.

The majority of the descended foreign gods had limited abilities and were rarely able to use their divinity in the mortal realm. Ultimately, the world will not be destroyed if they are able to contain their skills, which are too strong.

Additionally, some Gods possess the ability to alter things to fit their own desires. However, in order for such a God to exist, he would have to be superior to the Divine Laws that govern all other gods. It has been argued that the one God who created the Divine Laws is also the only one who can enforce them. The name of that god is Xue Hunluan, the God of Chaos.

Sadly, millennia had passed since the disappearance of this Almighty God.

Leng Jun, in the end, decided to head to the former sea area of the Federation Star. After the Frozen Apocalypse had fallen on their planet, the blue areas of their planet, which are supposed to be filled with water, had all been frozen. No one knows if the whole seas and oceans were turned to ice or if it was just the surface of the water that was frozen.

Despite the fact that there are tales of inhabitants who once lived beneath these waters evolving into Elementals. The reason is that ice elements are a mutation of water elements, which is where ice first formed. For this reason, the elements in the ocean are far more potent and plentiful than those on land.

At the nearest frozen seaside...

It was said that when the Frozen Apocalypse had arrived, the land was covered in snow while the seas had turned into ice. It was iced to the point where one could walk above the surface of the sea. But that thought itself was absurd, as those elementals that live under the sea would attack anyone who appeared above the surface.

There are some humans who try to walk through the frozen sea to reach another country.

Sadly, none of them had survived. It was said that a gray-white shark would open its jaws from under the sea and crush the ice above its head, eating everything that entered its mouth, or a whale would break through the ice to jump on the surface from time to time and fall back down into the sea, crashing everything on its path.

What was terrifying about the iced sea surface was that no matter how much it was broken, it would repair itself, and the fragmented ice would be once again frozen as if patching the holes in it.

Leng Jun, the former special forces agent, was informed about the sudden changes in the world. He heard of another group of agents like them who were sent on a suicide mission. Carrying a satellite camera, this group of agents had a mission to check the surface of the sea, but in the end, no one survived.

Instead, they had witnessed the appearance of a huge octopus, as if mystifying the existence of Kraken from those legends. The satellite camera had caught everything. From the stalking figure of those monsters under the ice and when it broke through the ice to capture all humans that appeared on the sea and ate them on the spot.

The government tried to save the agent by sending some military helicopters. Those attempts to save people had just ended with an even more tragic fate. Even the soldiers on the aircraft were caught by the long tentacles of the huge octopus. Only when they heard it spoken did the humans realize it.

This wasn't a Kraken, but instead an Elemental with King's bloodline. The Elemental King of the Seas is also its overlord. After this one failure, the humans had given up the waters. As compared to the land, the creatures of the sea are much more populated than those on the land.

Upon seeing the serene scenery of the frozen waters, what Leng Jun noticed wasn't how gorgeous the scenery was. Instead, he felt an unknown danger lurking under those thick ices. The frozen surface in the eyes of Leng Jun was more like a cage. The surface of the sea being frozen must be to prevent those elementals who were under the sea from going on the land.

It was as if this iced water surface was there to maintain the balance of the world.

Leng Jun tried to feel the presence around him. There are a few hidden ones from where he came from, but there are more coming under the sea. Compared to the few watchers on the land, the presences under the sea gave him a horrible feeling. He felt more than hundreds of eyes on him when he peeked inside the frozen sea.

What's worse is that all of them are looking for him as if watching and waiting for their prey to come near the frozen sea.

"There are a lot more of them than I thought," Leng Jun mumbles.

{What are you so afraid of? You don't need to fight. You only need to use that power I gave you and eat all of them! Haha~}

The voice of Tun Shizhe is irritating to Leng Jun. He had no way to prevent the man from talking in his head. This time, he listened to his advice. Since there is a way to get what he wants without getting hurt, he will do it. He no longer wishes to waste time and wants to wake up his Chuchu as soon as possible.

Leng Jun asked, "What should I do then?"

{Place your hand on the ice above the sea and control the power I gave you. Command it to eat everything!}

As if hesitating, Leng Jun didn't make his move right away. He thought silently for a moment before walking near the frozen seashore. At each step forward he took, he could feel that those who were watching him from under the sea looked excited. It's the same feeling of sensing someone seeing you as their prey. This feeling made Leng Jun uncomfortable and annoyed.

He even failed to notice the sporadic fluctuation of his emotions. Ever since that weird purplish-black aura entered his body, Leng Jun could hardly control his mood, and he would easily get irritated and annoyed.

Naturally, Tun Shizhe observed the shift in this once-calm man's disposition, but he chose not to tell him since, in his opinion, Leng Jun is no more than an ant in his eyes. This ant can be kept as long as he is interested. Otherwise, he can end it whenever he wanted.

Leng Jun stretched his right hand about to touch the corner of the frozen sea, but his hand, which was going down, suddenly halted and didn't touch the ice. He stayed in this position for a few seconds. Clearly, I'm hesitating whether to eat those things in the sea or not. He once again heard that man's annoying voice taunting him as usual.

{It seems you didn't want to help your little one wake up, or else why would you hesitate like this?
Haha~}

"I want to wake Chuchu up. I'm hesitating because your power is so evil! That's all!" Leng Jun said as he pressed both of his hands above the ice.

As soon as his hands touched the frozen sea, those who were quietly watching him from under the sea. Each of them made a move, reaching out to Leng Jun and trying to touch him. After all, as long as they grabbed Leng Jun into the sea, he would be nothing, but a delicacy for them to enjoy.

However, a ferocious and demonic purplish-black aura emerged from Leng Jun's hands and extended toward those creatures beneath the sea before their claws and tentacles could touch him. A massive black dragon that resembled Roi, the Black Dragon of the God of Void, appeared as a result of this odd aura.

The sole distinction between Roi and this black dragon is that Roi has a spirit and is capable of independent living, but Leng Jun's body has merely developed gluttony.

Leng Jun observes as the black aura transforms into a dragon and consumes everything in its path. It was such a brutal, gory, and horrible scene. The majority of those currently submerged are elementals, but if they are consumed by gluttony, they will vanish from existence. After all, this power is the capacity for consumption.

This power can devour anything and transform everything into power, including living things, various forms of energy, and even the stars themselves.

"What the hell is this power? How could it be overpowering?"

{You should call it back, or it wouldn't stop until he ate the sea itself.}

"It can even eat the sea! That's impossible! How can that be?"

{Hmp! Then just wait and watch it eat the sea. Just call it back before it eats even the land or this planet will be no more.}

Fearing that the waters might disappear as well, Leng Jun closed his eyes and attempted to feel where the black dragon had vanished. Unless he ran over the sea, he would not be able to detect that the waves in front of him were too wide. Leng Jun ceased his hesitation and ran through the surface of the ice, taking a step above the iced sea. He was tracing the paths the black dragon had taken.

This purple-black aura was eating everything in its path, just as the man in his mind had said. It refused to even let go of the sea's plants and corals. That dragon's insatiable appetite devoured everything, leaving only a road devoid of life.

"That thing truly ate everything. Now this place is no different from a dead sea."

Leng Jun fully comprehended the terrible nature of that power in this scene. He appeared to have gone to a region of the water where the sea was dead. Its route was cleared of all living things, leaving only the water and the dirt.

Chapter 1393 Second Red Star - The Octopus King's Ending.

The scene mirrored like a dead sea, which made Leng Jun uncomfortable. It's not like he hasn't seen death of any kind. Due to his former job as a Special Forces agent, death is already common in his eyes. Even the death of humans is something he is used to, but witnessing this kind of massacre with his own eyes is a different story. He had witnessed that evil power devouring everything alive.

It ignores their screams, cries of pain, and even their distorted expressions at the end, as they were eaten alive. There was not even a trace or a drop of blood left behind.

Everything was eaten together with all the other living things in the vicinity. It ate all the things with life in the sea. This includes the plants in the sea and some creatures who were only there to watch. After the feast had ended, there were no longer any traces of life in the part of the sea where Purplish Black had feasted. There is only silence and a feeling of emptiness and desolation.

The kind of silence that made one's ears deaf.

Leng Jun, who chased after the power of gluttony he had released, was dumbfounded at the site of emptiness on the way, and when he reached the location where the power was still feasting upon something, he was shocked to see the aura split into a dragon-shaped purplish black aura, and it was not only stronger but also bigger than when he first released it.

At this moment, the power of gluttony he has released is fighting with the overlord of the Frozen Sea. The illusionary Kraken, the Ice Elemental Octopus King. The latter looks completely miserable. The power of gluttony increases the more it eats. On the way, this power had eaten almost half of the sea elementals and sea creatures living under the sea.

Now its size had grown to be huge enough to fight against a colossal being like the Ice Elemental Octopus King.

[What the hell is this thing?? The more it is cut, the more it increases in number. It doesn't even die. Hiss! It's eating me! Argh!

You damn hybrid! What the hell did you release into the sea?]

The Ice Elemental Octopus King shouted when he noticed Leng Jun watching from above the surface of the frozen sea. He himself was terrified by the scene he was witnessing. He couldn't understand why those small dragon-shaped auras he had released would suddenly get this big.

Frowning, Leng Jun mumbles, "Does it get stronger the more it eats? Just how much has it eaten to get this big?"

Even though Leng Jun felt sympathy towards the Ice Elemental Octopus King's state, it didn't stop the gluttony from feasting on it. This is an Elemental King who abhors the human race, much more than the other Elemental Kings on the land. It was born with a cruel personality, and its ability is similar to that of the gluttony that was eating him slowly but surely.

He had eaten a lot of his kind before he was transformed by the ice aura that entered the Federation Star, turning him into an ice elemental king.

[I don't accept this! Why would those weak humans stand above us who live in the sea? Their territory is bigger than the land, and their only advantages are the weapons they wield. So, I killed all those humans who trespassed in the sea after I became an elemental and used them as food to increase my strength. Why is this power stronger than my eating ability? I can't accept this!

I cannot!!!]

The Ice Elemental Octopus King struggles with the gluttony that is hovering over him. He lost at least half of his eight tentacles, and that damn aura still continues to feast on its body. He noticed Leng Jun's direction and stretched out his remaining tentacles, wanting to capture him alive. He was, after all, the one who had released such evil power.

Leng Jun noticed the hidden moves the Ice Elemental Octopus King had made. He had the feeling of being targeted. So as soon as he saw the tentacles moving faster towards where he was, he made a move to live. After living in this body for a few weeks, he noticed that he had full control over the power of fire in his heart.

It could change shape by his will, but he never tried it before, as a lot of things had happened before he could explore his abilities that came from Chuchu's bloodline.

[You damn Hybrid! Even if I am going to die, I will drag you with me!]

Leng Jun runs above the frozen ground as the tentacles around him move around, destroying the ice. That enraged elemental wanted to drag him under the sea, which is his territory. The Ice Elemental Octopus King had already realized its impending death, but he was not willing to die without a fight.

Since this aura around him cannot be killed, murdering the one who releases it in his territory should be enough to ease the anger in his heart.

Unfortunately, Leng Jun had already expected it. It was observing the aura of gluttony on the Octopus King. He wanted to know if this power was willing to protect him as its current host. Unexpectedly, the purplish-black aura's focus was only on eating. It took a few seconds before it reacted and restrained the attack of its prey on its host.

As for Leng Jun, he controls the fire elements in his heart and shapes them into a pair of wings, which allows him to temporarily gain the ability to fly. He flapped his wings and ascended to the sky, avoiding the tentacles targeting him.

The Ice Elemental Octopus King had gotten angrier at this scene. Leng Jun had flown faster than the aircraft those humans had before and comparing their sizes was also done. A big aircraft in the sky compared to one human is completely different. The latter is smaller and more agile than the vehicle, making it harder for the Octopus King to catch Leng Jun.

It can only thrash its four tentacles on the iced surface of the sea, making countless holes and cracks in it. Leng Jun watched the whole scene from the sky.

[Argh! This cannot be! Why do I have to die for this hybrid's sake? Ahh!!]

During the last struggles of the Ice Elemental Octopus King, Leng Jun only watched coldly from the sky. To revive his Chuchu, he is willing to sacrifice what is needed. When the power of gluttony finished eating the Ice Elemental Octopus King, its other split parts merged, leaving only one humongous dragon-shaped aura staring at him.

Those pair of violet eyes staring at him made Leng Jun feel chills all over his body.

Leng Jun felt fear towards this power of gluttony in a true sense. Now, the warning of the Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox lingers in his mind. This power that was given to him was extremely dangerous, and he couldn't trust it at all. Only now has Leng Jun believed the words of that diviner. This power is indeed beyond his control, but he couldn't use it.

This is the only thing he can use to wake up his Chuchu, and for the sake of his goal, he is willing to accept the danger this power brings to him.

"Return for now. I will feed you again after I rest enough. There are at least two more demigods left and one god. If you want to eat them, you have to at least listen to me," Leng Jun said.

He tried to talk to the aura with the shape of the dragon in front of him. Even though Leng Jun didn't know whether this thing could understand speech or not, at least he was willing to communicate with it. Leng Jun didn't know if he was hallucinating or not. But for some reason, he felt that the aura in dragon shape smirked at him.

Before he could clearly see anything, that purplish black aura had returned in his body, filling all parts of his body and soul with powerful energy, which he had only felt once when he ate the Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox's energy core.

Leng Jun spread the qi that suddenly appeared in his body and guided most of it toward the location where Chuchu's soul was asleep. The translucent form of Chuchu's soul slowly solidified, and it was no longer see-through like before. Seeing this result, Leng Jun's tears pooled, leaving lava teardrops falling into the iced sea surface.

Now that his Chuchu's soul had completely formed, it wouldn't take long for him to wake up.

A voice in his mind poured cold water over his head, saying, {This little one wouldn't be waking up soon, even after its soul had solidified.}

"What do you mean!?"

Leng Jun exclaimed as he couldn't accept the words this man had just said. Why wouldn't his Chuchu wake up? Obviously, there are no longer problems with his soul. That's why he denied the not-so-good words this evil god had said just now.

{Don't get angry. Aren't I just telling you the truth? His soul had formed, but the insides were weak. He had not only given you his blood essence and bloodline but also protected your soul twice. Once you transform into an elemental, human souls are too weak for the elemental qi to merge with. It was he who used his soul as a bridge for that elemental energy to soften a lot before passing it to you.

It was the feeling of squeezing one's soul to weaken its attributes. Doing it for a few minutes doesn't have much effect, but didn't your transformation last for a few hours?}

Leng Jun was speechless this time around. He had no recollection of how he was transformed, and he only woke up as a hybrid but didn't understand the process. Now that he knew, his face turned pale in guilt and disbelief.

"Then he... when will he wake up?"

{You need to eat the big one. That Snowman had a drop of divinity inside him. Once that divinity was transformed into energy, your elemental will have enough to completely heal himself. He will be able to wake up for a short time after you consume the other two energy cores of the remaining energy cores. But you should hurry; a weakened soul can only get weaker as more time passes.}

Tun Shizhe didn't only urge Leng Jun to do the mission he gave him in exchange for lending his powers, but he also made sure he would feel that the time of the one he wanted to save was running out. This way, he will be forced to choose only one side in the end and even forget his roots just to save his elemental, Chuchu.

Leng Jun thought for a while and decided to no longer hesitate. This time he chooses to head to the south; it would take a few weeks of travel if he forced himself to fly without stopping for too long to rest. As for why he chose to leave the Ice elemental Wolf King, it was because he owed him a favor for telling him about the special ability of the fox in the ice mountain.

If possible, Leng Jun didn't want to kill that wolf, so the only thing he could do is take away its energy core, forcing it to slumber until it rebuilt its strength like the Ninetailed Fox from the west.

Leng Jun mumbles, "I need to hurry to the south and find the Elemental King of that region. Two more as long I've got two more energy cores, Chuchu will open his eyes." He unfurled his wings made of fire once again and flew to the sky, heading to the south, which is the territory of the Ice Elemental Penguin King.

Chapter 1394 Second Red Star - Remaining Two Elemental Kings

South Region, at the Glaciers

The two overlords of the north and south had learned of the demise of the Ice Elemental Octopus King. The two's responses are entirely dissimilar from one another. Anger filled the Ice Elemental Penguin King, also known as the South King. He found it incomprehensible that people who had formerly served them would turn against him.

This Penguin King appears to be a penguin from the zoo in the area. He was accustomed to being fed and lavished with care by people. He was unaware that those previous humans had been his caregivers rather than his servants, and that he was actually an animal who looked after the zoo.

It collected female penguins from the wild, and the zoo once it became elemental, building a massive harem for itself.

The Ice Elemental Penguin King said, [That servant dares to kill not only the Fox in the west but also that damn Octopus in the east. That octopus serves him right. He is nothing but a brawl anyway. Hmp! That hybrid should just become my servant. This King is kind to his people.

Anyway, if you guys see a hybrid human-elemental, go capture him alive for me. He must have some use.]

As if responding to the Penguin King's remarks, the elementals and penguins surrounding him began to squeak. For Leng Jun's amusement, it made the decision to capture him.

North Region, at the Iced Forest...

Within the gang had assembled a band of ice wolves, among them the ominously familiar-looking Ice Elemental Wolf King, dubbed after the mythological creature Fenrir. These ice wolves possessed light blue fur, which is thought to resemble the color of an ice elemental.

While common or lower-tier Ice elements are unable to speak human, they are nonetheless capable of communicating through other means. There are many scouting wolves in their domain, and it is been said that that previous hybrid elemental killed a great deal of mutant monsters.

Only their king was able to communicate with humans among this pack of wolves, although other elementals can also communicate through sound and thoughts. It appears that a few wolves on scouting missions visit to inform their monarch of the latest developments in their domain.

[King, in the past few months, the mutated beasts in our area had greatly increased. For some reason, those humans who secretly go to our forest have stopped coming over.]

[But there was a time when almost all mutated beasts were hunted by someone else. Some cubs said it was that hybrid, but they didn't know where he had sent those preys.]

[Should we trail where the humans are and massacre them, King!]

The largest wolf in the pack was listening to the report from its subordinates while it leaned on its paws and closed its eyes. Even if he appeared lethargic and disinterested, his regal appearance as a king remained unaltered.

The Ice Elemental Wolf King spoke, [Have you heard anything about that young hybrid?]

[As per orders of the King, we've sent some scouts to follow him. But after he entered the Ice Mountains, we lost sight of him. After waiting for a few hours, he came out unharmed, but the borders of the Ice Mountain's territory had been closed down. Now no one is capable of entering the west region.]

The sleeping Ice Elemental Wolf King opened his closed eyelids slightly to glance westward, as though he were trying to peer through something. Every Elemental King has the ability to direct their senses by themselves. Examining the Nine-Tailed Fox's Ice Elemental realm was the Wolf King himself.

The thick white fog that has descended upon the entrance to the ice mountain has totally obscured what is going inside, just as his subordinates had reported.

The Ice Elemental Wolf King mumbles, {It is in locked down. Just what happened in this place after that brat came over. There is no other choice but to force my way through.}

Just as the Wolf King tried to peer through those thick white fog, a familiar voice entered his mind. It's the voice of the Elemental King of the West Region, the Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox.

{Wolf, what are you trying to do? You want to trespass on my territory!}

{Tsk! If you are around, why are you pretending to be dead? You've met that Hybrid brat, haven't you? Did you see something? Also what is that news about the Sea Region?} The Ice Elemental Wolf King inquired.

The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox responded, {That child's business with me is done. Sooner or later, he will come for you as well. As for the Octopus King, he is gone for good.}

{Didn't you ask before when you would meet someone who could force you to fight with everything you had? Soon, you will be achieving your dreams. When you have spared that child's life, the wheels of fate between you two have connected. You both will get what you want.}

{I want to give you a warning, though. Those who are greedy for power will be the cause of death of your tribe. Resolve the brewing danger before he comes over or there will only be endless True death that would fall into the Ice forest} The Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox said.

{The vicious Octopus King got what he deserved. The Penguin King shouldn't force one to stay. It was the result of their own actions. I've said what I wanted to say. Just remember, there is no real death for elements unless they are wholly eaten by something unknown. You should go back.}

Ice Elemental Ninetailed Fox cut off their discourse and sent the Ice Elemental Wolf King's senses back to his body. The Ice Elemental Wolf King gave him a troubled look when he actually woke up. As the fox forewarned him, there is one with concealed malice. He decides to ignore this one for the time being.

[There is no problem with the west. The Elemental King of the West had entered seclusion and they decided to close their borders because of it. I have new orders for you.]

[Check the situation of the Elemental King of the East for me. Go ask around if something happened at the sea region. I also sent a few to check the south to see if there were any changes as well. [The ones who will lead will be you and you.]

The Ice Elemental Wolf King sends that little one with hidden malice towards him to the south. If he wanted to make some moves, being away in the pack would be safer, at least for his group.

Though he didn't know what that one planned to do, he was not willing to have his pack affected by it. Sending it away to the south was the last mercy he could do. If he still did things that shouldn't have done, he would have to end him with his own hands.

Two small groups of elements in wolf form left the Ice Forest. One Group heads to the east sea region and another group heads to the south glacial region. As for the Wolf King, he decided to look after his territory for a while, waiting for that child to come over him as the Fox divined.

[If I wait long enough, will I get what I want?] The Ice Elemental Wolf King mumbles before once again closing his eyes to sleep.

Back to the Hive...

As of now, the hive had never been stable. Cid Warlock was in charge of the throne. He would trained day and night under Marquess Conrad and Colonel Bailey, and now he had grown strong and knowledgeable enough to take the throne of Zerg King. The present Zerg Emperor and Zerg Empress are supposedly able to assist the Zergs in reaching their next stage of evolution.

The resources are limited, thus they were unable to assist everyone in entering evolution.

Thus, it was determined that the inhabitants of this star would learn the art of pill refinement from Zerg Empress Titania Ambrosia and Colonel Bailey, Marquess Silver's wife. Because gods descended on this planet, it has a very strong global qi and is incredibly fertile.

This is the best planet for growing herbs and other unique ingredients for producing pills. However, the entire procedure has been updated; special pots are now used in place of a furnace. The two systems—Yue and Yang— had imported some data about pill making into the database of this universe allowed for the modernization of pill manufacture.

However, only Zergs who awoke a gift for cooking and medicine would be able to learn Pill Refinement; not just anybody could do it. Only individuals with extensive medical and culinary understanding will be able to acquire this unique skill due to the stringent talent requirements.

As pill-making became more and more popular, a few schools were established for individuals who were interested. The first group of instructors consists of a group that Colonel Bailey personally trained and the slaves of the Zerg Empress, whom he instructed himself.

Owing to the captivating curriculum, several nearby planets made treaties with the hive. The treaty's provisions let the planets that signed it to at least become business partners, and these partners will be able to send a restricted number of people to learn how to make pills, which will be one of the most difficult and sought-after careers in the future.

In the Imperial Palace...

It was a rare and peaceful afternoon for the Zerg Empress and the Zerg Emperor. They lodged in the Nest Garden, which is currently the beehive's holiest site. The insect race will only be able to successfully evolve at this location. There is only one cocoon in the nest now, and it is going to hatch soon.

It is none other than Cid Warlock, who is evolving into the future Zerg King, that is discovered inside the cocoon.

The pair Titania and Augustus are sipping tea not too far from the cocoon. Zhi Yue and Zhi Yang are serving food and tea next to them, behaving as though they are their butlers. Well, aside from the foolish little moon, Yue, who is drooling over the food on the table.

Sigh!

Empress Titania said, "Stupid Yue. If you are hungry, just eat on the other table with Yang."

"Really! Thank you, Lord Hei. You truly love this little moon a lot," Zhi Yue said, but a sugar cube hit him directly on his forehead.

Owie~ (TT ^ TT)

The one who flicked a sugar cube to hit his forehead is none other than the vinegar jar called Emperor Augustus.

The God of Void retorted, "The one Jing'er loves can only be me."

"Tsk! Cheapskate!" murmured Zhi Yue while pouting. He became fearless ever since Lord Hei had descended. He knew that his Lord wouldn't lose his temper with Lord Hei around. He wouldn't be as scary as before.

"Okay. Stop talking nonsense, Yue'er. Let me see your forehead." Zhi Yang pulled him over and helped put ice over Yue's forehead. No one knows how the God of Void made the sugar cube become as hard as rock when it hit Zhi Yue's forehead.

"How is it? Is the bump big?" Zhi Yue asked worriedly.

Zhi Yue wanted to touch it, but a contact with his bump made it painful so he stop himself. He mumbles, "Really?! Why do I feel its a bit big?"

"Yue'er~ it will hurt a bit," Zhi Yang said with a soft and comforting voice. He took a few ice cubes and covered it with a towel. He was careful place it over

Hiss~

The Zerg Emperor, who was covering his wife's ears, said coldly, "Shut up!"

"My love, heal him. My eardrums are about to burst. That one will not stop crying unless you heal him," the Zerg Empress said.

Without any other choice, the God of Void had to use light elements to heal Zhi Yue's forehead while saying, "Tsk! How delicate. He is more annoying than before."

"Isn't it good that he hasn't changed much? He is better like this anyway," said the Zerg Empress, Titania.

They were so focused on their work that they failed to notice that a cocoon nearby had begun to tremble, as though something was about to burst out. The couple and the two systems did not realize what was going on until the Heavenly Laws had blessed Cid Warlock's cocoon.

Chapter 1395 Second Red Star - Zerg King Cid Warlock

Hive Star, Nest Garden,

The place where every Zerg is born again after evolving to the furthest extent of their abilities is called the Nest Garden. Genetic error is innate in all Zergs. Their previous generation's ceaseless experimentation, whose goal was to change or grow into something akin to the Zerg Emperor of the first generation, is to blame for this.

It was stated that the Zerg Emperor was just a regular junior member of the Blue Morpho Butterfly Tribe before to his birth. He is of average strength, but because of the tribe he was born into, his attractiveness is above average. The first-generation Zerg Emperor, however, is also known to be odd despite being amiable and well-informed. He has a big heart and is very open-minded.

The Apollo Butterfly Tribe of the first-generation Zerg Empress, was once considered an outcast group. Born out of the Hive, they were space criminals who prowled the galaxies. They have attempted to pilfer from the Zerg Emperor of the first generation's entourage. The Zerg Emperor spared the lives of the space bandits, although they were usually executed immediately.

They have invited them to move into the hive and live with him.

Many Zergs from the Hive Star disagreed with the Zerg Emperor's choice, but on this particular day, their leader—who seldom exercised power over them—used it. All it could do was welcome the Apollo Butterfly Tribe inside the colony.

The Apollo Butterfly Race takes some time to integrate within the hive. The Apollo Butterfly Race did not fully merge into the Hive until its leader married the Zerg Emperor. Using ice components, the Apollo Butterfly Tribe is a unique race. They had evolved into the front line, defending the Hive Star.

Following their marriage, the first Zerg Emperor and Zerg Empress went on an unidentified planet for a honeymoon. After a few months, they unexpectedly go through evolution when they return to the hive. They allegedly consumed food from another world. The fruit that aided in the mutating of their genes and allowed them to reach their race's maximum strength.

That is when the first tribe of monarch butterflies appeared. Despite not having a Monarch ancestry, the first Zerg Empress's ice elements were the purest in his tribe, and it was rumored that the Zerg Empress could predict winter by simply flapping her butterfly wing. The Zerg Race was superior to all other races for the first time during this era.

However, the First Zerg Emperor is a pacifist, which is why he personally traveled across to make a peace pact rather than waging war against the human race that is continually agitating their Hive Star. He departed that day with no intention of returning unless he reached his goal, but little did he know that he would never be able to return.

The current Zerg Empress, the lover of the deceased Zerg Emperor, had lost her mind after his death, and the human conspiracy had infuriated the entire hive, leading to ceaseless warfare between the two races.

Only when the Zerg Empress decided to implode herself in order to draw down a sizable contingent of soldiers from the Federation Star did the conflict come to an end. This means that the conflict between the human and insect races has temporarily come to an end. This marks the start of the insect race's transition as well.

The old generation of Zerg used their DNA, which was kept in the hive, to generate a new Zerg with a monarch lineage after the first generation of Zerg Emperor and Zerg Empress died. Regretfully, their genes are too strong to be directly passed on, which results in a great deal of death and mistakes in the current generations' genes.

Since this flaw cannot be fixed, the Hive will likely become much more chaotic. The physical body of the male Zerg race grew weaker and weaker as their mental powers strengthened. For the female Zerg race, increased reproduction resulted in stronger physical bodies but inferior mental powers.

Men believed that women's dominance could never advance because they felt inferior to women's physical appearance. Because of their fragile mental powers, female Zergs are unable to repair injuries in their spiritual domain, which ultimately results in their death.

This circumstance offered the male Zergs a chance to dominate the females once more; but, because of their inferiority complex toward the female Zergs, they began controlling these females, which resulted in gender discrimination that persists to this day.

The God of Void had descended, and everything had altered in that instant. He was indifferent to the discrimination that existed between male and Female Zergs at first. Anyone who disobeys his directives and policies will face consequences.

The day Ye Xiajie assumed possession of the Augustus Kaiser's body, the Male Zergs, who headed the nobility faction, realized they would never be able to hold one of the thrones. As a result, the Zerg King's power over the hive diminishes and he begins to rule like a despot who only issues commands and never takes no for an answer.

The two races engaged in another war, but this time there were more factors at play, such as foreign gods that had no business being here, such as the god's avatar, and other beings that the realms had declared to be wicked. The battle between the Zerg and human races was won by the bug race because of Titania Ambrosia, the current Zerg Queen.

But, Titania was also put in peril since he attracted the notice of an evil god and an evil creature. Fortunately, the Zerg King arrived on schedule to end his seclusion and rescue him. Additionally, the Zerg Race has begun anew as they have ventured into the age of evolution.

At the Nest Garden...

With the addition of the world's benediction, the enormous cocoon that encased it was now bathed in a golden radiance. The garden's plants had all expanded quickly, sustaining the cocoon that holds the son of the skies. As of right now, Cid Warlock is the current protagonist of the Hive Star and the former protagonist of the Federation Star.

Titania's status as the protagonist's world was broken when Hei Anjing combined with Titania Ambrosia's soul, so making him a God of the Upper realm.

The two Exalted Gods would not be in the Lower Realm for very long, the Heavenly Laws understood. It can only select one person to be the protagonist of its world; Cid Warlock was selected, and the blessing he got would grant him an unstoppable advantage within the Hive. However, he remains insignificant in the face of High-tier deities such as the God of Void and the God of Destruction.

The Zerg Empress and the Zerg Emperor were sitting at a table, observing the spectacle with composure. They watch Cid Warlock evolve under the light of heaven's benediction, but this time, his evolution stopped short of making him become the original Monarch Butterfly. Only the Morpho Butterfly Tribe crowned him king.

The reason for this is that in the insect world, there can only be one emperor at a time. Only when the current Zerg Emperor dies will the next Emperor be born. The one destined to become the next Zerg Emperor is Cid Warlock.

Cid Warlock emerges from the cocoon, still wearing his birthday suit. His hair, which had been black, had turned blue and grown to his waist. Huge blue Morpho butterfly wings with gold accents around the edges rest on his back. It appears beautiful and artistic to the eye. His eyes opened slowly, showing two light blue irises that gave the impression that the sky was hiding behind them.

As the Zerg King, Cid Warlock has attained his first evolution.

The Zerg Emperor, Augustus Kaiser, commented, "This is his evolution as a Zerg King. Once we are gone, he will complete his evolution as the Zerg Emperor."

"Hm. Indeed, it's not that big at all~" The Zerg Empress, Titania Ambrosia, mumbled with a teasing tone.

Zhi Yue said, "Lord Hei, what are you looking at? Which is not big enough?" He wanted to follow the line of sight of the Zerg Empress, only for Zhi Yang to cover his eyes.

Zhi Yang whispered, "Don't look!"

Not far from them, the Zerg Emperor urgently stood up to cover the eyes of his wife and bellowed at the naked Cid Warlock in the sky.

"Damn, brat! Wear your clothes this instant!" shouted the Zerg Emperor, Augustus Kaiser.

Upon hearing the Zerg Empress's words, everyone in the area who was witnessing the birth of the new Zerg King felt compelled to follow him, and there was... The newly evolved Cid Warlock's exposed portion. They finally were unable to contain their laughter when they heard the Zerg Emperor's reprimanding tone and remembered what the Zerg Empress had muttered.

Cid Warlock, on the other hand, awoke instantly, stunned, to hear the Zerg Emperor reprimanding him. The snickering amusement from the spectators let him comprehend what was wrong at last. He could only hide himself with his wings as he plummeted onto the land. He screamed for his minions to aid him, his face a scarlet tomato.

Cid Warlock screamed, "Someone, get me some clothes!"

It was in this joyous setting that Cid Warlock's growth came to a conclusion. Dressed, Cid Warlock went over to the Zerg Emperor and Zerg Empress, who had stayed in this garden on purpose to watch over him. If the cocoon was destroyed, the individuals going through their most vulnerable stage of evolution would fail and experience a severe reaction that might potentially damage their future lives.

Cid Warlock said, "Cid Warlock gives his greatest gratitude to the esteemed Zerg Emperor and Zerg Empress."

"It's okay. I'm just bored anyway. I just dragged my husband here to have some afternoon garden date. You are just... a second though?" The Zerg Empress had become more straightforward in his words, but Cid Warlock had gotten used to it.

It is a little obnoxious how the Zerg Empress talks these days, but the more irritated you are, the more he will mock you. Colonel Cyril Bailey stated that the Zerg Empress's jocular nature is part of his natural personality. If the Zerg Empress stops being playful, it is likely because he is angry or upset, and most of such situations can end tragically.

Cid Warlock raised his head to meet the Zerg Emperor's angry gaze. He was so astonished that he immediately started to hiccup.

Hic!

Empress Titania felt entertained but felt that his husband was scaring the kid too much. He lightly pinched his man's waist, making the latter look at him pouting. "Stop glaring at him. It's not like he can evolve with clothes on! This jealous man, no one is bigger than you are. Hahaha~"

Almost everyone in the vicinity, including Cid Warlock, covers their ears in embarrassment at these remarks. As soon as they connected the dots between the previous statements, they realized the significance of the Zerg Empress's comments. They steal a quick glance at the Zerg Emperor, believing the remarks have embarrassed him.

Who would have thought that this shameless man would smile so confidently, as though the Zerg Emperor's remarks were a compliment to himself?

Everyone collectively thought: 'Ah, this shameless couple!'

"Milord, Lord Empress, a report from the scouts outside had arrived."

An unexpected arrival had arrived, They are the other famous couple in the hive, Marquess Conrad Silver and Colonel Cyril Bailey. They came over to report something to the Zerg Emperor and Zerg Empress and didn't expect Cid Warlock to have completed his evolution.

The Zerg Emperor asked, "What does it say?"

"The people of the Beast Planet had made their move," Marquess Conrad said.

An excited smile appeared on the Zerg Empress's face as he said, "That's good. I've been getting bored lately after all~"

Chapter 1396 Second Red Star - The Enraged South Elemental King

The news about the movement from the Beast Star gave the people of the hive a different kind of reaction. There are those who are calm even if the world is ending, like Marquess Conrad, Colonel Bailey, Zhi Yue, and Zhi Yang. There are those who are a bit uneasy, like Cid Warlock and the other aborigines of this planet.

There is also the current Zerg Emperor, who doesn't care if the world crumbles before his eyes; and there are also the excited ones, like the current Zerg Empress, who can't wait for the fun to start.

The report from Marquess Silver is a bit sudden, but thanks to the preparational plans of Emperor Augustus three months ago, their race was actually prepared for invasion compared to when the human race caught them off guard.

The Zerg Empress, Titania Ambrosia, had a look of anticipation on his face. "Let them come. As long as I exist, the Hive will never fall!"

"Wife is correct," said the Zerg Emperor, a certified henpecked man. "But baby, let the young one go first. You can play after they can no longer hold on. This way only the powerful will remain."

"That seems reasonable, but..." The Zerg Empress turned around and stared at the bewildered Cid Warlock. The young man is trying to think through why the Zerg Empress was looking at him. "Throwing him to fight foreign god seems interesting in a way. Okay, I will let them get ahead in this incoming war. Since I am bored right now, I will train you guys instead~"

Cid Warlock was somewhat taken aback, since he had never imagined himself at the forefront of this impending struggle. The Zerg Empress made the decision to train him and his subordinates himself, just to make sure he would be helpful at that time.

Before the Zerg King was born, he and his followers were hauled to the rear mountain for training, where the Zerg Empress materialized in front of him with a smile on his face. Their group must withstand an attack from the Zerg Empress as a training exercise.

Voices coming from the back mountain:

"Ah! Help me!"

"Run. Let's just run!"

"Oh my God!"

"How can he be this strong!?"

"Is this hell!?"

"Hahaha~ little brats! Be sure to dodge this well~" the voice of the Zerg Empress was heard with hints of laughter.

"N-No. no. no, that's' impossible! Ah! Spread out!"

"Why the hell there's an avalanche out of nowhere?"

But it was already well known that the current Zerg Empress is the strongest in this era; thus, starting today, screams and explosions can be heard coming from the back mountain. This training, in the end, dragged all the soldiers into the Hive. With only the Zerg Empress as the sole opponent, small hills of beaten insects would appear after training.

Beating up the young generation in the name of training. This became Empress Titania's source of exercise and fun every day until the war began. Those older generations—the Zerg Emperor, Marquess Silver, Colonel Bailey, and the two systems—watch this scene of torture. Ahem! Training with helpless expressions.

But this allowed all the soldiers to greatly increase their experience with fighting, using tactics and formation, as well as moving in groups. So, the older generation was completely satisfied with the result and started ignoring the screams of help coming from the back mountain every day.

On the other hand, in the green planet called the Beast Star,

The Beast race is a lot stronger than the human race when it comes to physical abilities. Their raw strength, speed, grip force, bite force and claws are the types of possible weapons for this race. But at the same time, the beast race isn't an intelligent race like humans. They mostly rely on their instincts alone instead of using their brains.

Because of this, they didn't know much about war tactics or the reason why they allied themselves with the human race. Unfortunately, after the human race fell, it made the Beast race weaker compared to the other races, which they couldn't accept. This is the reason why they want to wage war against the Insect Race.

To prove to the other races that the Beast Race never depended on humans when fighting against others.

The Beast Race was already destined to lose in this war without their knowledge. It was just that there was a sudden, unexpected variable that appeared on the Beast Planet. A seed of chaos. A corrupted soul fragment from the dispersed soul of the God of Chaos, Hunluan.

It's the pure energy of Chaos, Chaos had always been a very unstable energy in the world. It can cause distortion, madness and endless conflict. This is the reason why the World Eater, which was created with this power, went mad in the end.

Only the God of Chaos is capable of wielding this power, and for those who try to approach it, their mind will become unstable, becoming a being that only wants war and chaos.

Somewhere in the Beast Star...

In some cliff hidden from other's eyes, a small cluster of silver Star flowers had appeared. Some animals and bugs ate it, instantly evolving into a monster and the effects spreads quite fast, It can spread through simple contact, my eating something that ate it, etc.

It took only a whole month for the Beast Race to be affected by this Chaos energy, and almost everyone from the Beast Race had evolved.

They've gained intelligence and unparalleled power, making them no worse than the human race when it comes to intelligence. It was just that this energy made them want to constantly fight and a commotion in the Beast Star was almost never-ending. The power of Chaos is an energy that makes one mad for battles, flesh and blood.

The beast race became accustomed to battles, but fighting against each other had gone from being enough. The original preparations they made to fight against the Zerg Race were used for another. The Beast people became a Warmonger race. They started attacking planets for no other reason than to start chaos and this affected all livable planets on the current galaxy.

"War, flesh, and blood!"

"Fight. Fight. Fight!"

Meanwhile, in the Federation Star...

The hybrid elemental, Leng Jun, had finally reached the south region after journeying in the sky for half a month. Unlike the other regions, the south can be said to be the coldest area on the planet. As this is the location, the aura of the Eternal Ice has directly hit. This is the only part of the world that completely turned to ice.

No humans are capable of living in the south and it become the region with strongest ice elemental qi.

The owner of this territory, the Ice Elemental Penguin, might look the weakest among the four elemental kings when it comes to size. It didn't even increase in size and remained in the same form of an ordinary penguin, except for its skin turning sapphire with its beak and claws made of thick ice that can endlessly regenerate.

There's a huge castle within the glaciers, and this is where the ice elements of the south region live. At this moment, Leng Jun arrived in the area, flying in the sky above the ice castle. The south only has ice, and there is nothing else but ice, That's why there are almost no mutated animals in this place.

But for some reason, a part of the water in this place remained liquid. It's just that its temperature is below zero. If a human jumped in it, they would instantly freeze to ice. Only ice elementals can swim in this ice-cold pool, unaffected by the iciness.

Leng Jun mumbles, "Is this the south region? Why is it completely different from the other territories of the Elemental Kings?" as he watches the festivity of those penguin-shaped ice elementals childishly playing around on the glaciers.

They would slide down on the edges of the glaciers like children playing in a playground or jump off from the high places as if one were jumping into a swimming pool. Compared to the eerie ice forest, the foggy ice mountains, and the dead sea, this place looks like an amusement ice park with pools.

"How can there still be a happy place in this Frozen Apocalypse? Right, only elementals can become happy in such a hellish place. I need to get the energy core of the Elemental King as soon as possible. To save Chuchu, this is the only way." Leng Jun mumbled as he didn't even notice how his former sentimental self had become this cold-hearted.

Now he is willing to kill anyone just to get what he wants.

Under his control, the power of gluttony within his body had been once again summoned. It's a huge black dragon in shape, like before. It dives down from the sky with its mouth open, eating everything on its path.

CRUNCHED!

The sound of something being munched loudly echoes in the area, mixing with the frightened and angered screams of the low-tier elementals in the shape of the penguin. The happy scene had turned gruesome and full of tragedy. Even so, Leng Jun watched the situation with dull eyes and an expressionless face. Aside from the well-being of his Chuchu, the rest doesn't matter.

Leng Jun's arrival had caused too much commotion. Adding the tragic scenes under his feet, the monarch that lives inside the ice castle had finally come out. It's an Emperor Penguin with an ice crown on its head and a cape drape over his back. Following behind him are also penguins with a white beard, a monocle, and other accessories that differentiate them from the other ice elemental penguins.

This scene alone, when converted with humans in it, was like the arrival of the emperor and his officials, who came to see who was making a scene in their territory.

The Ice Elemental Penguin King lifts one of his flippers as if pointing at Leng Jun in the sky. It was puffing in rage, as if it would explode in anger at any time.

[Human? NO...! You're really a hybrid and not a human!? If so, you cannot become this king's servant.]

[How dare you kill the people of my harem!?! Such blasphemy! This king will fight you to death!]

Under the eyes of Leng Jun, the small emperor penguin grew in size. It grew bigger and stronger. It only stops growing when it's almost as big as the Snowman God at the center of this star. This ice elemental penguin king doesn't seem to be an ordinary elemental king.

[Die, you damn brat!]

The current size of the Ice Elemental Penguin King had made Leng Jun speechless. He was stunned enough that he had forgotten to dodge that incoming flipper of the Ice Elemental Penguin King and directly slapped him to the ground. Thankfully, his transformation into a half-elemental protected his life from such a heavy impact.

BOOM!

Gasp! Cough. Cough. Puke!

Leng Jun took a direct hit from the gigantic penguin and puked blood with a bit of flesh. There is pain all over his body, but his transformation into a hybrid also increased the intensity of his pain tolerance.

He didn't feel much pain except for the throbbing feeling coming from his injured internal organs and fractured bone. But he only needs to breathe in elemental qi in the area to instantly heal himself, though would the enraged Ice Elemental Penguin King allow him that kind of breathing time?

The Ice Elemental Penguin King wanted to stomp him to death this time. It was even shouting in anger.

[How dare you kill people of my harem!? You killed my wives and made a move against the royal family. Your punishment can only be death!]

Leng Jun is calmly staring at the enormous webbed foot of the big penguin despite the massive shadow that has appeared above his head. The only thing he can do to avoid the foot above him is to unfurl and reconstruct his damaged wings. After all, he did not want to turn into a pancake humanoid.

Chapter 1397 Second Red Star - An Elemental King who sides with humans.

The enraged Ice Elemental Penguin King had gone rampage in its own territory. It even forgot where it was and destroyed everything in its path just to chase after Leng Jun, who is the source of his rage. Leng Jun, who was smaller and could fly, moved faster compared to the Giant Penguin King.

The magnificent ice castle from before was kicked away, as were the slides and pools, which seem like a mini-ice amusement park, which were partially destroyed. As for the little elementals, most of them were eaten by the power of gluttony Leng Jun had released. In such a short time, the whole place was in ruin. Most of it was destroyed by that penguin, though.

Now in the south territory, there's a huge penguin going rampage, a big black dragon slithering under the ice pool, and a hybrid fire elemental flying around. Leng Jun was merciless, and since this Elemental King was the first one to attack him, he also fought back. He controlled all the fire elements in his body and added a few attributes of gluttony to them.

This is his first attempt to mix fire elements with the power of gluttony. The red fire in his hands slowly changed color, and a tint of purple and black was added to make the fire glow with a shade of magenta. Leng Jun was covered in cold sweat, and it shows how hard it is to control such a weird-colored fire.

He nonchalantly threw this small, strange-colored fireball towards the big target, the Penguin King, who looked at him with disdain.

[What can such a small fireball do to this king!?!]

The arrogant Ice Elemental Penguin King showed a contemptuous look at such a small flame flying towards him. He chose to ignore it and proudly stood before Leng Jun, showing disdain and mirth at the depths of its eyes. With a smirk on its face, he let the small flame hit its chest without any intention of blocking.

Despite the arrogance of the Elemental King, Leng Jun watched with a pair of expressionless eyes, ignoring the contempt that fell on him.

Everyone watched as the small, colored fire fell on the chest of the Ice Elemental Penguin King. Unlike the expectations of the Ice Elemental Penguin King, who thought that the fire would be ineffective for him, the fire that landed on its chest felt like it was alive. A small hole instantly increased in size as the burn spread.

At first, the feeling was only a small ant biting his skin, but the moment it spread and the hole got larger, the feeling of being gnawed by endless burning ants spread from his chest.

At a certain point of pain, the Ice Elemental Penguin King finally screamed. It sounds agonizing and pitiful.

[AHHH! It hurts! It's painful, and it's hot! It's unbearably itchy! What the hell have you done to me!?!]

The gigantic emperor penguin started flailing its hands while wanting to run around. It fails to stand on the ice properly, slipping and falling on its back. It even fell on the ice pool and almost sat on the hiding black dragon under the pool. The icy water extinguished the flame, yet the hole in his chest had gotten so big that it exposed half of his heart inside.

The Ice Elemental King didn't expect this kind of injury at all and was finally terrified of that small flame that landed on its heart. Seating inside the ice pool slightly eased the pain, yet the wounds were terrible to look at. Upon seeing the hole in its chest, the former arrogant penguin started crying, which left Leng Jun dumbfounded.

[Hole... on my... chest. Sobs~ Wuaa~ I'm going to die~]

The Ice Elemental Penguin King, who was seemingly arrogant before, became a crybaby. His cries resound throughout the whole southern territory, making those who are hiding within the glaciers come out. The Penguin King also shrinks and returns to its original form as a normal penguin. There is still that hole in his chest, though, even after shrinking.

Leng Jun had no choice but to look at the crying little penguin.

[Father! I'm in pain. Wuwu~]

Upon hearing an Ice Elemental King crying for its father, Leng Jun's face is indescribable, but his guard had risen. The father of an elemental king could mean a more powerful being than the one in front of him. All of a sudden, the glaciers trembled, and the sound of machines could be heard.

A certain manhole-like door appeared on the glaciers, and when it opened, a middle-aged man came out of it, looking worried as he saw the situation of the Ice Elemental Penguin King. It was a human male who wore a zookeeper uniform.

The human zookeeper checked on the little elemental king. He wasn't surprised to see the hole, which is a lot smaller than before, as the elemental qi in the area had been sucked in by this elemental king to heal itself. Under their eyes, the hole has completely closed up, yet the little elemental penguin king is still crying.

The Ice Elemental Penguin King complained. [Wuwu~, I'm ugly now. There's a hole in my chest. Sobs~ father, it hurts~]

"Think again? Does it still hurt?" The human zookeeper who was called father of the penguin asked.

The Ice Elemental Penguin King still wanted to say it hurt, but when he tried to feel it, there was no more pain.

[Ah re?]

He looked down and saw no hole in his chest. It was smoother than before, and not even a scar was left.

[No more pain? Father, I'm healed! Hehe~]

Leng Jun was dumbfounded. He knew that the wounds of the Elementals could indeed heal fast, but it wasn't as defying as the healing ability of this Penguin King. He himself would have never believed it if not for seeing the wound on this silly penguin close up in just a few minutes.

The human zookeeper finally sighed in relief and patted the little penguin king. "Thank God that you are alright!"

This middle-aged man is a zookeeper near this area, and he is the one who looked after this penguin before it transformed into an Elemental King. Because of the attachment of the little penguin to him and to the other humans who took care of it, it doesn't hate humans as much as the other elementals. The feeling he inherited from nature wasn't hate for humans, but caring for them instead.

But most elements born on this planet all abhor humans. Even though this little penguin is different, those other elementals not born on it would always hunt for humans. To protect them, this Penguin King made a few huge glaciers and let the humans hide inside. The interior was hollowed out, and there is even a machine that controls the temperature inside.

This allowed humans to hide from other elements while under the protection of the Ice Elemental Penguin King.

All the humans that were under the protection of the Penguin King came out and surrounded it. They wanted to hide their little penguin king from Leng Jun, who looks like an elemental yet a human at the same time. As expected, when the zookeeper looked at Leng Jun in the sky, his face turned serious and unfriendly.

They had witnessed Leng Jun attacking their territory first, and the little penguin king had to fight back to protect the territory.

At first, they thought that the other regions' elements were attacking them again, especially when they saw that huge black snake that came from the sky and started eating the elements in the south region from the monitor connected to the satellite above their place. But when they saw Leng Jun's appearance, apparently one of the people from their place recognized him and identified him.

Though they are unsure if Leng Jun is thoroughly human or not, at least they have verified that he used to be a human. So, when the little penguin king was injured, they decided to come out.

The human zookeeper spoke, "It's nice meeting Sir Leng Jun of the Special Force. Would you please come down from the sky?"

Leng Jun thought for a moment and decided to come down. Before he descended, he called back the power of glutton to his body and descended from the sky. His wing didn't directly disappear but folded on its back. He looked at the uncle who spoke just now.

He said, "If you know my name, it means you have someone from the military. Call him out for me."

The zookeeper's uncle agreed to his words and asked one of his comrades to bring the man who recognized him. It was one of his former subordinates when he was still with the force.

"Captain! How come you became so young again!? Also, this appearance... what happened to you?" The former special forces agent asked with excitement in his eyes. Obviously delighted to see his leader still alive in the apocalypse like him.

Leng Jun said, "Some things happened. It's not something bad."

Suddenly, an adorable little boy's words were heard: [You bad man. You've merged with my kind and inherited his powers. Now you are no longer a human but a hybrid elemental with a king's bloodline like me. You came here for my energy core, as Grandpa Fox told me in my dream!]

As soon as these words were spoken by the little penguin, the humans in its vicinity turned vigilant towards Leng Jun, yet the latter didn't care much and focused his gaze on the little elemental king.

"To the Fox King, he told you just that. Did he say something else?" Leng Jun asked.

"Stay where you are! Don't approach!"

He didn't dare to approach, as he could see that the humans surrounding the penguin were all here to protect him. Even his former subordinate had intentionally blocked the closest route for him to reach the little elemental king.

Regardless of whether he is a human or a hybrid elemental, his existence is considered a danger to the Ice Elemental Penguin King, who seems to be not only silly but also young.

The little penguin king tilted his head to one side, but because his neck was quite thick, it didn't bend as expected, and his whole body tilted to one side as he thought of something. Everyone was waiting for him to speak.

[I remember! Grandpa Fox said you would not be interested in my energy core, so I should bring you to that place!]

Leng Jun asked, "Which place?"

[That place gave me the power to become an elemental. But that place is extremely dangerous; aside from me, all will turn into ice, no matter if they are human or elemental,] as the Penguin King said.

The zookeeper and the other humans frowned. They already knew which place the little penguin was talking about when he mentioned where he was transformed into an elemental. Like he said, that place is a danger zone that even elementals never venture inside.

But maybe because that's the place he was transformed, the Ice Elemental Penguin King wasn't affected by the chill of that location and could enter and exit such a dangerous place without any worries.

Leng Jun, of course, noticed the sudden changes in the expressions of everyone around him. It seems that they also knew what kind of dangerous place the little penguin king was talking about.

"Does something matter?" Leng Jun asked his former subordinate.

The soldier responded, "Captain, are you really going there? You shouldn't go. Everyone who went to that place never came out alive!"

[Didn't I come out of that place alive?] The confused little penguin king said:.

The zookeeper's uncle pats his penguin son. He is the one who took care of this little emperor penguin when it was transferred to the zoo, where he worked when he was only a child. This little one had been quite sickly when it was young, and he had to accompany it almost every day just to make sure it would survive.

This is also the reason why the little penguin called him father after being able to speak.

"My little king is different. You are an amazing one to come in and out of that place," the zookeeper's uncle said.

[Yes, this king is amazing!]

Leng Jun said, "I'm sorry, but can you bring me there? If that place is indeed as special as you said, I will not come for him anymore." He pointed to the little penguin king as he mentioned 'him'.

The zookeeper's uncle said, "I don't know what you are trying to do, but as long as you promise not to harm him anymore, I will tell you the location."

"I promise. If I truly wanted to take him away, you would not be able to do anything. Only he can fight against me. Like he said, I am no longer a human but a half-elemental. As for why I am gathering the energy core of the Elemental Kings, it's for personal reasons. That's why I can't tell you," Leng Jun said.

The zookeeper uncle nodded his head and gave him the former address of the zoo they used to work in. It seems that something special had landed on that place.

Unexpectedly, the little Ice Elemental Penguin King said, [I can show you the way!]

The others didn't agree to the little penguin king's words, but he can hardly change his mind. They knew that this little one treated that place as his personal secret place, so it was not surprising that he would show the way to this little hybrid who just came to their place.

The zookeeper's uncle said, "Then I shall accompany you. I won't go in, but I will go with this little one."

"I don't mind. Shall we go?" said Leng Jun.

Chapter 1398 Second Red Star - Mysterious Spring

At the former largest zoo in the south...

The former zoo where the little penguin was born is not in ruins. The gate is covered in ice walls, and the interior is worse than beyond the gates. The cages that house animals had all been forcibly destroyed from the inside, and most walls and pillars had fallen down. Like the other places in the Federation Star, this location is covered in ice and snow.

The ice elemental penguin king treats this place as his other home, so he covered this ruin site with ice walls, preventing one from going inside. But these ice walls mutated from their original state. Now, even if the Ice Elemental Penguin King tried to break it down, it is almost impossible.

Leng Jun followed the slow-walking penguin with enough patience towards the tottering little one. He brought the two of them to the back entrance, where people had to crawl to be able to go inside. The zookeeper uncle's lips twitch as he stares at the obvious dog hole. On the other hand, Leng Jun remained expressionless and was ready to crawl under as necessary.

The zookeeper uncle asked, "Little King, are we going through there? Can we find a bigger hole or make one instead?"

[Yes. There are, but the aura of ice elements is so powerful that you guys can't pass through there. It is also impossible to break it down. The ice element from within is stronger than mine," the little penguin king said.

Leng Jun couldn't understand why there would be something stronger than an elemental king. After all, aside from the Ice God at the center of this star, there was nothing stronger than the Elemental King. They are considered Demigods of this star after all. Meanwhile, the zookeeper uncle can understand what his little penguin meant.

After all, he was one of the early witnesses who saw what fell from outer space. Though that thing was eaten already, its remnant aura that was left behind in the zoo still lingers.

As if seeing the confusion in Leng Jun's eyes, the zookeeper uncle said to him. "Once you see that place, you will understand what his words meant. For now, let's go inside first."

Without any other choice, the little penguin and two human adult male crawl through the dog hole, with the little elemental king leading the way. As soon as the two people raised their heads, they couldn't believe what they were seeing. There is a bluish aurora inside the enclosed space of the ruined zoo, which left them speechless.

"How can this place be this beautiful? It changed a lot from how I remember it," the Zookeeper Uncle exclaimed.

On the other hand, Leng Jun couldn't move his eyes away from a corner of the place that looked like it was stomped on. Almost half of the zoo was flattened and this crater is now filled with glowing water. This water seems to be the source of the gorgeous aurora above their heads. For some reason, as a fire elemental, Leng Jun felt fear coming from that pool of glowing water.

[Come. Come. This is the place. You see that little spring? That's the one I'm talking about. A place filled with ice element.

But except for elemental kings, almost everything that touches it will turn to ice.]

The zookeeper uncle picked up a stone and glanced at Leng Jun. "You see it for yourself."

He threw the stone towards the small spring covered with aurora. The moment the stone went past the aura, it was instantly covered in ice and broke into pieces. As if the iced stone had completely transformed into ice, the moment it fragmented, there was only water drop left to merge with the glowing spring below the aurora.

The little elemental king fidgets and said, [I... I didn't lie, right? This place had more energy than my core. So, please don't eat me~]

Seeing how interested Leng Jun is about the strange spring that he didn't even hear the little one's voice, the zookeeper uncle pats his penguin son's head in comfort.

"Don't be afraid, little king. It seems that he is no longer interested in you. Let's go home," said the zookeeper uncle.

[We don't need to wait for him, father?]

"No need. Let's go. There are still a lot of things that need to be moved. The south is no longer safe, we should go somewhere else." The zookeeper uncle said.

[Okay. Let's go home, father.]

The pair of human father and penguin son took their leave. They chose not to say goodbye to Leng Jun, as they completed their task by bringing him here. Now they no longer have any responsibility towards one another. They quietly took their leave while Leng Jun was still dazed.

Leng Jun was stunned, he didn't expect to witness just a scene of something changing into another matter. Just as he was thinking how to devour the whole thing, he was not surprised to not see the father and son as he turned around. He knew that his image of him is not that good for suddenly attacking their territory.

In his heart, he felt indebted to the two for sending him to this place filled with energy.

Leng Jun mumbles, "If there is a chance in the future. I should repay them at that time."

Unexpectedly, the voice of that Evil god once again appeared in Leng Jun's mind, and this time this being seems to be greatly interested in the glowing spring in front of him.

{Hm? This energy! Haha~ to think you will hit a jackpot this time. This is a real thing. It's much more powerful than all the energy cores of all elemental kings on this planet combined. Unfortunately, the core is gone.

With it, you could have become on the spot. How unfortunate~}

Leng Jun frowned as he heard his words. It seems that this spring is indeed powerful as he expected, but he is a bit confused by its meaning. Why did he mention a core? Is there something else that should be here?

"What do you mean?" Leng Jun asked.

{Whatever had fallen in here is the cause of why your world had been frozen. It's a fragment of an absolute element that has gone berserk somewhere in outer space and landed on your planet. It's the source of all ice elements in this world.}

Leng Jun asked, "What do you mean by Absolute Element? There is something out there that is stronger than the Ice Elemental Snowman Emperor? Something stronger than a God?"

{Hehe~ Of course, there are. God had hierarchy, you know. Above God there is a High God, then God King, a Mythical God, a Celestial God, an Immortal God and the strongest, which is a Sovereign God (Overlord Immortals). Among these Gods, the Sovereign God can only be counted by hands. As for Absolute Elements, they are special existences.

They are above all elements of their attributes and their existences are everlasting. Most of these Absolute Elements choose only one master and the master of the absolute element of Ice is a Sovereign God.}

Leng Jun was panting as he tried to hold back the rage in his heart and asked, "Are you trying to tell me that someone above God intentionally froze our world? For what reason?!"

{Hahaha~ you think it's too big! Why would high-tier gods care for the lower realms? What affected your planet was a little leak of their powers. Your planet is just far too weak to withhold such leaking aura. Have you ever thought of ants as you live in this world? The existence of lower realm worlds is similar to that of an ant in their eyes.

They would care much about small stars that scattered like colorful pebbles in the space they are in.}

Leng Jun's mood turned sour, and he mumbled, "So, I can't take revenge?!"

{Yes, since it is impossible to do so. But there is another way for you to revive your little element. The Absolute Element of Fire can allow it to enter rebirth.}

"But didn't you say that only a Sovereign God can control an Absolute Element!?" Leng Jun said.

{You are quite lucky. The Sovereign God that owns the Absolute Element of Fire had descended in this galaxy as a mortal. If you can meet him and ask him for help, then you will get what you want. But you must bring him into this world. This way this star would protect you, as you are one of his beloved children.}

Bewildered, Leng Jun asked, "Why would a God from an upper realm descend to the lower realm worlds?"

{Some gods, when bored, would descend from the Upper Realm to play as mortals. There is nothing surprising about that. Even me came over for fun. There is no reason for the other gods not to do so as well.}

Leng Jun believed this person's words for now, but he had an inkling that the descent of the Gods would not be simple. Obviously, this evil god is planning something and was going to use him for him. His sudden appearance and his reason for lending his help to him as well as guiding him to get stronger, all of this must be for another reason.

Leng Jun can only pretend not to read deeper into this situation and focus on his Chuchu's situation first.

"I see. What should be done about this spring? You are going to tell me to drink, do you? I will be frozen alive once I touch those auroras," Leng Jun said.

{There is no need for you to come over. Just use the power I give you. I cannot eat it as fast as eating elementals, but with this level of energy, I could definitely devour this aura.}

Leng Jun had once again summoned the purplish-black, which took the shape of a dragon. As soon as it materialized, it drooled at the sight of the spring, but it didn't foolishly approach it. It crawled slowly within the perimeter of the glowing spring and tried to slip in its tail inside the spring. But as expected, the tail froze and broke down.

The purplish-black aura extends once again, reshaping , reaching out and breaking to pieces. This cycle lasted for a while and as if the purplish-black aura got stronger at each destruction, it finally slowly adapted.

Now the extended aura was only covered in frost but didn't completely fragment as it turned into ice. When the tail of the black dragon entered the glowing spring, it shrieked in pain while smiling. I was clearly delighted by how potent the aura of this spring is.

Stunned, Leng Jun mumbles, "Did it adapt to it?" He continues to observe as the purplish-black dragon aura finally entered the spring. It feels asleep while covered in frost, like a hibernating dragon.

{Brat, if you don't want to die, meditate.}

Leng Jun said, "Huh?"

All of a sudden, he was bleeding in his seven orifices and felt an uncontrollable dizziness he never experienced before. He fell to the ground powerlessly as he held his head. A sudden surge of power in his body ended. There is indeed a certain connection between him and the dragon sleeping in the spring.

His thoughts at the moment were, 'It seems that whatever he eats, a part of it would be passed on to me.'

Sitting on the ground with crossed legs, Leng Jun closed his eyes and focused on meditation. He needs to circulate the energy that appears in his body to enhance his strength. The energy was passed to Chuchu's soul as first priority and the rest was merged in Leng Jun's body and soul. Unknown to him, his body and soul are being transformed by this energy, slowly slaying his shell as a mortal.

Tun Shizhe, who was watching from some unknown space, murmured, "Get stronger. The stronger you get, the more powerful my next clone shall be~."

Beside him, Lord Chaos, who was looking at the scene with a bored look, said, "Actually, there is something you should check. I sense the power of Chaos that should have been gone."

"The power of chaos!? Is it real? Where had you sensed it?" asked Tun Shizhe urgently.

In his mind, anything that involved Chaos had something to do with his Hunluan. He believes that this man before him wouldn't lie. He is the strongest soul fragment of the God of Destruction. Though he didn't have any traces of Hunluan on him, being able to sense something like the power of Chaos is still possible.

Lord Chaos pointed in the direction where the Beast Planet is located, "Somewhere there. It keeps fluctuating, so I am a bit... unsure."

Before he could complete his words, Tun Shizhe had longed to disappear before him, and the dimension they were in rippled with the sudden departure of someone. Lord Chaos didn't care much about what that man planned to do, but he was feeling mischievous and wanted to get involved in this farce he was planning.

He looked at the hybrid elemental and the slumbering elemental soul inside the body of this hybrid.

With a slight curl at the corner of his lips, Lord Chaos sends a bit of his divinity towards the slumbering soul and mumbles, "I'm a bit bored, so I will give you a little push. I wonder if you could still save your beloved for the third time. If your so called love is strong you might survive."

Chapter 1399 Second Red Star - Mo Clan's Origins

The sudden changes in the movement of the beast race had reached the people of the Hive Star especially those planets near the Beast Star were greatly affected by the invasion of the Beast people. Those who survived the attacks said that the Beastmen had gone crazy. They weren't invading them for the resources of their planet.

Those beasts merely want to fight, want to kill, and start wars for no reason. Some surrendered and pleaded to be spared, but the beast race, as if they've gone insane, went on killing, wanting to exterminate those who were on the planet they invaded.

Because of this event, the visitors of the Hive Star had all gone home to prepare. They spoke to the Zerg King Cid Warlock and signed an alliance with them. So, when the Beast Race came closer to their planets, they would protect each other and fight together. Zerg King Cid Warlock agreed to these terms, as it was already expected that this war against the Beast Race would be his responsibility.

As for the Zerg Emperor and the Zerg Empress, they would only get involved if the Hive Star is truly in danger. The hive already had many king-ranked Zergs and they should be enough against the beast race. With Marquess Silver and Colonel Bailey watching over the young generation, there shouldn't be much issue against this war with the Beast Race.

At the Imperial Palace Garden...

The Zerg Emperor, Augustus Kaiser, and his Zerg Empress, Titania Ambrosia, were having lunch with Marquess Silver and Colonel Bailey. The two systems, Zhi Yang and Zhi Yue, were also with them, eating together after serving the food.

Emperor Augustus Kaiser asked, "The people had gone crazy? What do you mean?"

"According to the reports of our spies, their invasion of the nearby planet was unprepared. But because they caught the races of the other planet off guard, their invasion was successful. They don't attack planets for resources and even kill all the warriors of each star. After invading one planet, they would go to the next one," Marquess Silver said.

Colonel Bailey commented, "Killing only the warriors? Just what are these beastmen thinking about?"

"I want to see the state of these beastmen. Do you have a recording of them, Chief Warden?" Empress Titania said.

Marquess Silver nods his head and takes out a recording from one of the planets that was invaded by the Beastmen. This video had been shared with everyone in the alliance, and it was provided by the allies of the Hive.

"It's here, Lord Hei. Please take a look," Marquess Silver said as he passed the video to the Empress's terminal.

The Zerg Empress played the video for all of the four of them to see. The scene of the beastmen's spaceship forcibly landing on the planet was something no one could stop. Those who live on the planet that was being invaded tried to shoot down the spaceship, but the thick exterior barely made a dent in the spacecraft.

Once it landed on the ground, a fierce-looking Beastmen warrior came out and started killing. The video was under the control of Empress Titania. He suddenly paused the video when one of the beastmen was looking directly at the camera.

Emperor Augustus asked, "Is there something wrong with this beastman, Baby?"

The Zerg Empress didn't answer; instead, they watched him zoom the video closer for them to see the clear face of the beastman. There was only one weird thing about this beastman: his eyes were slightly glowing with grayish shades, but their irises wasn't silver in color. Everyone was startled for a moment.

Zhi Yue mumbles, "This is the shade of Lord Hei's eyes when he is angry!"

"Are you sure, Yue'er?" Zhi Yang asked as their eyes landed on Yue the moment he said those words.

Zhi Yue nodded his head and said, "I'm sure. When Lord Hei is angry, his eyes would glow in this shade; sometimes it would mix with black or crimson."

"Baby, is this..." Emperor Augustus thought of one thing, but he wasn't sure. Like Zhi Yue, he also had seen this kind of eye on his wife, but instead of a murky gray shade like this, it is more like a silvery moonlight hue.

Empress Titania said, "This is the power of chaos. A quiet, pure one with how light the gray shade is. It seems that I will need to get a personality in the Beast Star. The power of chaos indulges distortion, destruction, and war. Those who were affected by it would get a mindset of creating chaos, endless fighting, and endless thirst for destruction. It's a power no mortal can control."

"Do you think that its source is found on the beast planet?" Emperor Augustus asked.

Empress Titania nods, "Maybe, I don't know if the Beastmen were the first carriers, but once it spread further, this galaxy. I will need to purge it before it's too late. The Power of Chaos must never spread. Not only the upper realm will be affected, everything in existence will."

"Will it be the same as when the World Eater existed?" Emperor Augustus asked.

Empress Titania said, "No. It's worse than that. The World Eater is only one being and he is a divine one born with reason and emotions. That's why at that time the only one affected was the Origin Planet. Because even though he had gone mad, he was still able to hold back until he was killed. Moreover, the power of gluttony is just a kind of Chaos's sub-ability.

Chaos is disorder itself. So, most negativity is born from its gluttony. Destruction is another. That's why I have the ability of destruction as I also have the power of chaos."

"What would happen to the mortals who had been affected by the power of chaos?" Marquess Silver asked.

Empress Titania said, "As you can see, never-ending wars, killing, and madness. They wouldn't stop until their bodies died. It was still okay if it was a mortal who got the power of chaos; if it's a god, he might be reborn as a new world eater."

Silence descended in the area. A new world eater means that a menace of all realms and all gods would have to fight it again. The last time it was born, the God of Chaos sacrificed itself to kill it. Now that the God of Chaos is gone, only Lord Hei and Lord Ye might be capable of stopping such a distorted being.

Empress Titania stood up, preparing to leave. "This thing can't wait. If I take it away, I can refine that power and make it mine so others won't get affected by it."

"Would you be okay, Lord Hei? Isn't that a power that makes even gods mad?" Zhi Yue asked worriedly.

The God of destruction smiled and patted Zhi Yue's head. "The power of chaos may cause others to go mad, but I am different. The Mo Clan is born from the remnant soul of the Chaos God. Only our race would never get affected by it as we are born from Chaos itself. This is the real origin of the Mo Clan.

We are being born from Chaos itself; that's why we are able to exist in all timelines and gain immortality at birth."

No one knows the origin of the Mo Clan. They just suddenly appeared in Vearth and mixed with the other gods that came to live in it. If not for sovereign God Shen Siwang noticing the uniqueness of Mo Baojun, no one would notice the Mo Clan and their peculiarities. Only now did they learn that the God of Chaos had not only created the World Eater when he was alive but also the Mo Family.

Colonel Cyril Bailey asked, "Then Master, you aren't... you aren't the God of Chaos?"

"I am the God of Winter, Destruction, and Chaos, but I am not Hunluan. He is our origin, and I have a piece of his power, but I can never be him as his soul fragmented into thousands of pieces after his death. Some merged with the galaxies and bore stars. Some merged with stars and gave birth to its creation, and some merged with gods, giving them divinity.

You and the rest that exist in this world also have a wisp of this power. Mortals had it more; this gave them emotions and allowed them to live as they are. This is now what they called life." The God of Destruction explained.

Everyone finally understood what his words meant. All this time, they had thought that their Lord Hei was the incarnation of the former God of Chaos, Xue Hunluan. But now it seems that it was wrong; he might be his successor, but he is not God Hunluan itself.

The God of Void said, "Hunluan is gone. But it seems some of his chaotic power remains that can give birth to another world eater, and if that truly happens, a new menace will be born, and we would have to fight against it that time. Baby, are you going to the Beast Planet now? I will go with you."

"Okay." The God of Destruction agreed.

The Zerg Emperor looked at their subordinates and said, "Stay here and prepare for war. Those beasts would definitely not stop unless we took away the force of their power. You two shall handle the rest while we are gone."

"A'Yang, stay here. We will bring Yue'er with us. Just in case something happens, contact us through him. Only you two have a direct connection," the Zerg Empress said.

Zhi Yang said, "Please take care, Master."

The Zerg Empress and Zerg Emperor took their leave. They didn't choose to use spacecraft, as their newly evolved physical body is much stronger than before. The Zerg race is one of the few races in this universe that can transverse in space with their original body.

The departure of the emperor and empress of the Insect race had caused so much confusion that Cid Warlock immediately looked for Marquess Silver and Colonel Bailey to learn the reason for their departure.

In the Imperial Garden, Cid Warlock who ran out of the throne hall, appeared before Marquess Silver and Colonel Bailey. Following behind him are some officials and nobles who were helping him plan the war preparations.

Zerg King Warlock asked, "Teachers, what happened? Why did Masters leave the hive?"

"The Empress was bored and wanted to fly outside for a while. The Emperor left to accompany him. Don't worry, they should be back soon with souvenirs," said Marquess Silver.

The Zergs in front of them smiled with helplessness ever since the evolution of the Zerg Empress, who had become completely playful and hated boredom the most. He would sometimes beat soldiers while sparring to pass time.

Now that there is a way looming over the hive, the empress couldn't just beat the soldiers for fun. It's no wonder he was so bored that he left the hive for a bit. No one questioned more about the situation and these bugs collectively believe the words of the Marquess.

Moreover, it's not like they could complain. The Zerg Empress is the strongest female Zerg in the hive and the only one who can stop him is the Zerg Emperor. But their emperor is a loving husband and would always spoil his empress to the heavens and they got no words to complain about. After all, as long they have them, the Hive is undefeatable.

Cid Warlock said, "This is better. After all, if Master Titania is bored, I'm the one who gets beaten up. Hahaha~"

Upon hearing these words, the other bug felt sympathy towards their Zerg King Warlock, but one spoke to save him. As those beating are training for him to increase his combat strength, it was for his own good. It was said that those who had undergone beatings under the Zerg Empress had become warriors who are now famous for their close combat techniques and a lot of Zergs admire them for it.

Chapter 1400 Second Red Star - Awake Chuchu and the Beast Planet.

In the Federation Star,

South Region, at the Mysterious Spring...

After releasing the energy of gluttony, Leng Jun had been meditating. Now, it is attempting to consume the energy from an enigmatic spring, which not only emits a chilling temperature that can instantly turn a person into ice but also has the ability to harm this odd aura. Simply put, it took a lot of labor to refine the energy they obtained from the spring.

Leng Jun would have been frozen by this energy if it were not for the power of gluttony, which enabled him to transform the yin, primarily the purest form of ice elemental energy that makes up the aura from the spring, into pure qi.

The resting soul of Chuchu, the Fire Elemental Viper King, rests deep within Leng Jun's body. Without divinity to refill Chuchu's soul, it is said to be impossible to awaken it. Tun Shizhe informed Leng Jun that in order to obtain a strand of divinity, he would have to fight the sole Elemental Emperor. However, the majority of the strand would be consumed by the power of gluttony.

Who would have thought that Chuchu would get a great deal of divinity from Lord Chaos, the strongest soul fragment of the God of Destruction, in order to aid in his awakening? Chuchu had awakened up at this very time, even though he was meant to be in deep sleep. He was startled to sense a malevolent aura emanating from his master's physique.

Chuchu's thoughts: {Hmm... Why is there such an evil energy inside A'Jun's body?! Ah, this is that evil aura I felt before. I didn't completely expel it. I must push it out!}

Suddenly, a powerful surge of elemental energy had appeared inside Leng Jun's body, which was felt by the power of gluttony. Unfortunately for the power of gluttony, not only was his original master currently away, his current host had more trust from the one who is pushing him out of the current host body. Moreover, he can't abruptly leave this mysterious spring.

He needed to focus hard on devouring this absolute elemental qi and being distracted meant he would get frozen and destroyed. He had no choice but to let himself get pushed out.

The moment the connection of Leng Jun and the power of gluttony was cut off, Leng Jun woke up abruptly and saw his Chuchu materializing his soul in reality. It was in a completely solid state, except for not having a physical body, Chuchu had also matured a lot. A divine aura from a Sovereign God was enough for his soul not only to heal but also to mature.

He is now a huge red-orange fire elemental Viper King wrapping its body around Leng Jun.

"Chuchu...?"

Chuchu said, {A'Jun use your wings. We need to escape from here!}

ROAAAR~

Leng Jun, who was still in a state of shock, just followed what he was told and unfurled his elemental wings. With a huge red viper with wings following after him, they left the south region and headed to the north. Fortunately, the power of gluttony, which couldn't separate itself from the mysterious spring, didn't chase after them.

He can't leave the spring until he devours all the energy within it. It can only roar in anger, but wasn't able to do anything against the fleeing pair.

At the Beast Star,

Deep Cliff in the rainforest...

At the most dangerous forest region on the beast planet, a deep whose end cannot be peered upon. The crevice was so deep that one could only see endless darkness under the cliff. At the wall of the cliff was a cluster of small flowers with budding colors of white, purple and blue. The flower itself looks ordinary and so small that it blends into the grass at the cliff.

Who would have thought that these flowers had the ability to make one go crazy?

A small bird landed on this cluster of starflowers and started picking on the small bugs that were feasting on it. There's a small praying mantis living with these starflowers when a bird invaded its territory. The bird teased the praying mantis, thinking it was its prey who would have thought that this praying mantis was not like others.

It swung its blade towards the bird with such speed that it caught the small bird off guard and got itself beheaded.

The little praying mantis drags its newly attained prey. At the hidden center of this beautiful cluster of chaos flowers is a small pile of little animals' remnant bones. Obviously, I was eaten by this little praying mantis, which is not different from an ordinary insect except that its eyes had turned gray instead of black.

Outside the Beast Planet

Tun Shizhe had arrived. He tried to peer into this small star, trying to sense chaotic energy. If there is a way for him to become as powerful as the original World Eater, feeding on chaos energy is the best choice, as his power was born from it.

"Hm, I can't feel anything! That brat isn't lying to me, right? Tsk! I should check just for sure," mumbles Tun Shizhe as he enters the Beast Star and descends to that world.

Because of his breaking the law by entering this lower-class realm, the Heavenly Laws of the Beast Planet intended to impose prohibitions on him. Tun Shizhe had been encircled by innumerable golden-colored chains from his neck to his ankles as soon as he had stepped foot in the Beast Star's sky. The chains even sealed his ability of gluttony.

The star as a whole is within the jurisdiction of the heavenly rules of this area, despite the immense disparity in strength. It is reckless to oppose the will of the world within one's own domain. Furthermore, Tun Shizhe would find it challenging to fight it at this point because of his injuries.

He was therefore forced to let the majority of his strength be sealed while he was on this planet of the lower realm. Tun Shizhe was only allowed to land on the Beast Planet by the Heavenly Laws when they sensed that he was not resisting his limitations.

As soon as Tun Shizhe landed on the land, a crater appeared under his feet. Due to the restraint on him, he felt that his body was heavier in this star than in space.

Tun Shizhe said, "If I can't find what I came for, this world I shall destroy." As soon as he said that, thunder fell onto him from the sky, but it was eaten by him.

Rumbles~ Crackles!

That was a tribulation lightning used by the heavens to give divine punishment in this world, but as expected, it had no effect on existence beyond this world, like Tun Shizhe and the Foreign Gods. A few more lightnings kept falling on Tun Shizhe, but the heavenly laws gave up as it didn't work on him at all. He chooses to ignore this bastard instead.

Tun Shizhe looked around the planet, yet he couldn't even find a trace of the Chaos power that Lord Chaos had mentioned. He was about to get crazy in anger. He should have known. The aura of chaos can only be felt by those who were born with it.

Lord Chaos, being a soul fragment of the God of Destruction, is capable of sensing it, but he who is born from the remnant of the World Eater couldn't feel it at all.

Even though the original World Eater was born from chaos itself, Tun Shizhe, as a mere fragment of it, couldn't sense the raw chaos energy. Chaos energy is born from nature and the origin itself, and only those who are born from the origin can feel it. He is born from gluttony, and even though this power is a branch of chaos energy, it is different all together.

Tun Shizhe spent days, weeks, and months on the Beast Planet, even roaming around this star, but still couldn't find the chaos energy he came for.

"I should have brought Chaos with me. But based on his personality, he definitely wouldn't make a move unless it was something he can't take away. He already knew I wouldn't find it on my own and that he can't take it away, but still told me just to make fun of me! That damn brat!" Tun Shizhe is so pissed just thinking about how Chaos would have reacted after he fell for his trap.

"He must be laughing his ass out now. Tsk! Whatever, since I can't take it away, it's better to just destroy it all."

Tun Shizhe wanted to devour the world qi of this world to make it slowly die due to a lack of qi. The wills of the heavens seem to feel his thoughts, and the chain of restriction on him has gotten stronger, as if it wanted to use all the laws of this small star to seal him in here. This was actually a battle of time.

If Tun Shizhe devours enough world qi from this world before he is imprisoned, he will win. If he failed, nothing would happen to him, as he can still devour the energy of this world, albeit slower. That means he would stay in this world for a while and trick aborigines to find the chaos energy for him.

Who would have thought that just as they were about to clash with one another, new presences arrived at the boundaries of this star? Tun Shizhe immediately noticed who the new presences were. They are the God of Destruction, Hei Anjing, and the God of Void, Ye Xiajie. Both are using a mortal vessel enhanced to house their god soul.

Tun Shizhe smirked and said, "It's him. If he is here, that means there is really a source of chaos energy in this world. That brat Chaos didn't lie to me. Haha~" The space around Tun Shizhe rippled, and his power of gluttony had been completely sealed. He had also hidden most of his aura, and right now, he is no different from a mortal like others.

Not far from him, he saw a group of halflings that were imprisoned in a cell by the Beastmen before they left the planet. These are the slaves the beast race possesses in this world. After suddenly disappearing from the eyes of the heavens, Tun Shizhe chose to blend with these mortals, observe the two who just arrived, and help him find the chaos energy for himself.

Outside the Beast Planet

The Zerg Empress and the Zerg Emperor stood above the star, their wings flapping on their backs. Zhi Yue was no longer in his humanoid form, but in his avatar form, a small moon. The two gods were observing the Beast Planet, which looked desolated at first as most of its residents had gone away somewhere else.

Emperor Augustus Kaiser asked, "How is it, baby? Is it in this world? This should be the beast star that those Beastmen live into."

"Hm. It's here, but..." Empress Titania peered down into the world and saw something odd, but he was unable to identify it precisely for some reason. Nevertheless, he could not help but smile at the unknown, like though he had discovered something fascinating.

The God of Void held his wife's hand and said, "Don't worry. No matter what happens, I will protect you."

Such a serious vow, even though he had heard this promise multiple times in his life, the God of Destruction still feels delighted in his heart. He grips the hand that held his and smiles, "I know. I believe you, A'Xia."

The couple looked at each other with love and tenderness. They held each other's hands as if they only had each other. System Yue, who felt like a glowing light bulb, couldn't help but comment.

[I don't mind the Lord flirting, as always, but... Should we go in for now?]

The couple couldn't help but turn their heads at the silly moon, who couldn't read the mood. In the end, the God of Destruction grabbed him with a smirk and threw him directly inside the Beast Star without any hesitation.

"Go. Update this star's database and allow our entrance," said the Zerg Empress.

System Yue, who is now falling into the Beast Star like a shooting star, shouted back, [There is no need to throw me in like you are fucking pitching! AAAHHH!!!]
