Chapter 100: The joining of 100 new members

"I'm exhausted..."

"Where did you find finished cement?"

Kuang Xin and Dai Lian, each having put down a 50-kilogram bag of cement, looked somewhat puzzled.

This stuff couldn't possibly have grown out of the ground, could it? Or was it bought?

Gong Yan, with a smile, said, "I tricked them out of it. Those NPCs are so dumb."

Zhou Wenjie stood to the side without saying a word. He was there when it happened. To say the NPCs were dumb was indeed true, but this sister's response was the most impressive.

Wen Jie knew everything, he just chose not to speak.

"Alright, alright, no matter where it came from, it was given by the NPCs for free, why not take it?" Dai Lian clapped the dust off his hands, looking at Gong Yan with some admiration, "Yanzi is smart, making them leave the goods far away, so we can carry them over without exposing our base's location."

As he spoke, Dai Lian looked in the direction of the distant barracks, "Now... we just have to wait for him to come and check."

Adding the day the entire barracks went out to battle the Bug Race, it had almost been three days since they last saw their boss.

Not knowing if he was dead on the battlefield.

It seemed like those NPCs would receive a prompt when a task was delivered, it was nearly noon, hopefully, he would come...

If he couldn't, that would be troublesome.

Having finally clung to a strong leg, to lose it just like that.

Dai Lian's mind was filled with these thoughts...

Zhou Wenjie, looking toward the direction he was looking, noticed everyone's silence and finally couldn't resist asking out loud, "Who exactly is the boss you guys keep talking about?"

Gong Yan pushed away some stray hairs beside her ear and explained with a smile, "Didn't I tell you before that the three of us joined an NPC organization inside the game? The highest-ranking person we've met in the organization is our boss."

"Organization?" Zhou Wenjie's eyes lit up.

If it's an organization, there must be many precious learning materials, right?

Others may love slaughtering left and right in the game, but he loves exploring the physics laws that are completely different from reality in this game.

Ordinary people can hardly learn advanced knowledge, but in an organization... maybe he could learn something?

Thinking this, Zhou Wenjie asked with some excitement, "Can I join?"

"You..." Gong Yan hesitated slightly, "That's not certain, we all joined only after at least completing a mission he posted and gained a certain level of trust."

"Ah..."

Seeing Zhou Wenjie's somewhat disappointed expression, Gong Yan laughed and comforted him, "But it's okay, when our boss comes later, we can ask for you. If it really doesn't work, you can join us in completing a mission for a couple of days and then join."

"...Alright, thank you, sister."

"No problem~" Gong Yan cheerfully patted Wen Jie's head.

At noon, a figure in a black uniform arrived on time, walking steadily. Seeing that figure from afar, Dai Lian's heart lifted with joy.

He's here!

"Boss, have you returned in triumph?" Gong Yan was the first to greet him, beaming with a smile.

"Failed, got chased back by the bugs," Bai E casually waved his hand, then squinted his eyes at the unfamiliar Zhou Wenjie, asking with curiosity, "He is...?"

"Boss, don't get me wrong, he's also our friend," Dai Lian quickly stepped forward to explain.

"Friend?"

"Yes, boss! He has heard of the mission we are undertaking and is eager to join us," Dai Lian assured.

Another player?

Hmm... not bad. Having just obtained a new assignment distribution qualification, he could get another player to work for him, as he was originally planning to post a task anyway.

Now they've found a companion on their own, it's like a pillow coming just as one feels sleepy.

Bai E's scrutinizing gaze slowly swept over Zhou Wenjie, "Since he is a friend introduced by you, he should be trustworthy. Have they told you about our organization's mission?"

"Of course," Zhou Wenjie glanced at Gong Yan, and said solemnly, "But I think our organization shouldn't consist only of fighting and killing."

Bai E raised his eyebrows slightly, "Oh?"

It seems this new player is not an easy character to deal with.

Smiling gently, Bai E asked, "What are your thoughts?"

The kind treatment made Zhou Wenjie feel as if he had found a kindred spirit.

"Actually... I just wanted to ask if the organization has any... learning materials," Wen Jie said with some excitement, his face flushed with exhilaration.

"..." Bai E looked at the slight figure of the boy, his gaze somewhat inscrutable.

What kind of learning materials are you talking about? I don't have the kind of dull and fixed learning materials you mean, meow...

Bai E spoke calmly, "Learning in this world is a luxury, most people don't have the heart to immerse in it, and if it's just a spur-of-the-moment impulse, I think you may not endure the loneliness."

"Not at all, not at all!" Zhou Wenjie shook his head repeatedly, "What could be more fun than learning in this world? The rules of this world... the rules of your world are too fascinating. I'm only worried I won't have enough time to use."

Where did this study maniac come from?

Bai E frowned, slightly worried.

Even if it were serious learning materials, he didn't have any.

As for joining the military... that would ruin his mystery in the eyes of the players, making them rebellious, which was not advisable.

"Boss..." Zhou Wenjie watched Bai E's serene face with a touch of apprehension, "Is it very troublesome?"

"Not exactly troublesome..." Bai E pondered his tone, as if considering a more profound plan, "You are aware of our mission, aren't you?"

Zhou Wenjie glanced at Gong Yan and nodded repeatedly, "I have been told."

"Good... since you've been told, then maybe you can also take on some responsibilities while learning," Bai E continued.

"Responsibilities?" Zhou Wenjie looked puzzled.

"For instance... infiltrating other forces?"

The organization really is too poor to afford you... Bai E thought.

Bai E looked sincerely at him, "Your identity is now clean, without any hint of us, so others can't see where you come from. You can blend into any force. In fact, many in our organization do just that; we can be in any dangerous place, as long as we remember what we are fighting for in our hearts."

"Do you mean..." Zhou Wenjie started.

"I mean... you are free to pursue your dreams. The organization won't restrict you in any way. However, in order not to expose you, the organization can hardly pave the way for you. If you really have the determination and ability to change humanity through learning, then you'll easily find opportunities for advancement."

Bai E looked towards the towering grey-black city walls in the distance, "Go to the inner city. That's where you'll find everything you want."
