My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1492– Will End Soon

Rosalie was exhausted and would sleep soundly after she got back from work recently.

However, she did not feel sleepy tonight after lying in bed for a long time.

Instead, Byron's passionate and dangerous gaze when they kissed kept appearing in her mind.

Rosalie could not help feeling nervous at the thought of the man sitting downstairs.

Only when she heard the door closing downstairs did she feel relieved.

She got up, looked out the window, and saw Byron enter the car. The car stopped downstairs for a while and then slowly drove out.

Looking at Byron's car driving away, Rosalie walked back to her bed.

In the end, she was so tired that she dozed off.

Rosalie was unsure if it was because Byron massaged her shoulders, but she felt better than a few days ago when she got up.

It was Sunday, and Rosalie did not go to the research institute. She accompanied the kids at home and gave herself a day of break.

After dropping the kids off at school the following day, Rosalie headed to the research institute spiritedly.

As long as the research institute invented the new medicine, she could accompany the kids again.

Meanwhile, Lucille received a call from Wendy again.

"What's the matter with you? It's been a few days, and nothing has happened!"

Wendy could not find that man and did not get the news of Lucille teaching Rosalie a lesson. She felt annoyed as she could not vent her anger.

Lucille felt helpless. "I can't do anything about it. That b*tch has been at home, and I can't enter their residential area."

She spent the whole day yesterday waiting for Rosalie outside the research institute, yet Rosalie was nowhere to be seen.

Wendy demanded coldly, "She should go to work today! I must hear of your success today, or you'll return to where you came from!"

Lucille quickly assured Wendy. "Don't worry. I'll accomplish what you want to see today no matter what!"

Wendy hung up without saying anything.

Lucille did not dare to dawdle and quickly headed out with her coat.

She headed straight to Rosalie's research institute.

Lucille looked around for a long time and finally found Rosalie's car.

She was about to do it but realized there were surveillance cameras around. If she did it here, others would find out it was she who did it when they investigated.

With that in mind, Lucille stopped and pondered for a moment.

A moment later, Lucille headed to the kindergarten instead.

It was Monday. As long as the three little bastards went to kindergarten, Rosalie would need to pick them up.

When the time came, there would be many people in front of the kindergarten. Others would hardly notice what she was up to.

After she left, the few people on the street whispered a few words and followed her calmly.

Rosalie had no idea what was happening outside and was immersed in researching the few new drugs.

"Dr. James, are you busy? Do you need me to pick up the kids and send them home first?"

In the evening, Linda saw that Rosalie was still busy in the lab and asked carefully, not wanting to disturb her.

Rosalie was busy researching, and Linda had been helping her by picking up the kids.

It snapped Rosalie out of her focus. She looked at the time, and it was almost time for the little ones to get off from school.

"It's alright. I'll be done soon."

With that, she quickly put the nishing touches on things, took off her lab coat, and went to pick up the little ones.

The last two days had made her realize how much her little ones lacked her company.

Therefore, as long as there was a chance to accompany them, Rosalie did not want to miss it.
