My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1531—What's The Reason

After breakfast, Benedict bid goodbye, then got up and left. Presumably, he must have gone to look for Melody.

The three little ones were still eating, and Rosalie was with them.

“Whatever Grandma Melody says in the future, try not to talk back. Try to make Grandma Melody like you.”

She tried to communicate with the little ones.

However, with that said, Rosalie felt that her requests seemed a little unrealistic.

Some of Melody’s words were too harsh even for her. How could she ask the two little boys to accept it?

“We understand,” Lucian nodded obediently, ‘Don’t worry, Mommy. Nox felt what Grandma Melody said earlier was too much, he couldn’t help but refute it. Moreover, what he said was not wrong.”

Nox nodded boldly to echo his brother standing up for him. “Grandma Melody doesn’t like us calling her that, so we’ll stop calling her that!”

Little Estie also nodded along seriously, expressing her support for her brothers.

Rosalie smiled helplessly at how outspoken her kids were, then sternly looked at Estie.

“Estie, your brothers can stop calling her grandma, but you can’t do that.”

The little girl obediently agreed.

Rosalie knew that the little ones had done nothing wrong, so she did not say anything more. They continued to eat breakfast.

Byron’s phone call came in suddenly.

Rosalie took out her phone and looked at the caller ID, then subconsciously glanced at the three little ones.

The little ones immediately shut their mouths knowingly, and ate by themselves, pretending to not hear a thing.

Seeing this, Rosalie could not avoid the little ones anymore and answered the phone in front of them.

“Are you up?”

On the other end, Byron’s voice was caring with a hint of warmth.

Rosalie blushed slightly, but she forced herself to remain calm in front of the kids.
“Yeah, I’m having breakfast now.”

Byron sighed deeply. “Forgive me. I initially wanted to accompany you in the morning, but there’s an emergency in the company, so I had to be here.”

Then, he became concerned about Rosalie. “How do you feel? Any discomfort?”

Rosalie bit the bullet. Nope, I feel pretty good!” ‘How could I tell him that my back was so sore that it was about to snap in front of the kids?’

Byron seemed a little disappointed. “Hmm, really? Looks like I need to work harder.”

Rosalie quickly lowered the volume of the phone and straighten up in a proper tone. “If there is nothing else, we’ll talk soon. The kids haven’t finished eating yet.”

Byron chuckled knowingly. “I just want to confirm, what are your thoughts after last night? Will you sneak home while I am away?”

Last night, he restrained himself in every possible way, fearing that he would scare the little woman, and make her shrink back into her shell.

Today, Byron was still worried when he arrived at the office. As soon as the meeting was over, he hurriedly called her.

When he brought up this matter, Rosalie hesitated. “I...I wanted to go back, but it wasn’t because of what happened last night.”

At first, Byron frowned. Then he pondered the next half of Rosalie’s sentence and felt relieved. So, he asked in puzzlement, “Then, what’s the reason?”

Rosalie glanced at Lucian and Nox. Then, she got up and walked to the living room, and whispered, “Auntie doesn’t like Lucian and Nox very much. If I’m here, she will have even more conflict with them. I still hope that they will have a good relationship, so, it’s not suitable for me to stay in the manor anymore.”

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1532—Byron's eyes flashed with distress when he heard the woman's concerns. He tried to gently calm her down.

"You don't have to worry about this. I have already discussed with them, and they will go back soon."

Rosalie was surprised. "When? How did you tell them?"

Byron did not give a straight answer. "They've always lived in the old mansion; it'll be more comfortable for them back there. If they insist on living with us, they are just asking for more discomfort."

Rosalie did not ask further seeing that he was not going to explain.

Somehow, she still felt uneasy about it. "However, I'm the outsider after all.

If uncle and auntie go back because of me..." "As long as you agree to my marriage proposal, we will be a family." Byron interrupted her, "As for my parents, you don't have to worry about them being dissatisfied with you, I'll handle it."

Rosalie shrank back as he brought up the proposal. "I believe you..."

Then, she looked up at the time and sheepishly said, "It's getting late, I have to go to the research institute. Have a great day at work, okay?"

Byron did not force her, just agreed and waited for her to hang up the phone.

Looking at the blacked-out phone screen, Rosalie breathed a sigh of relief. She made arrangements with Mrs. Zora to take care of the little ones, then she got dressed and rushed to the research institute.

After her research with Xander yesterday, the development of the new drug was left with the final procedure.

It can be completed today.

Work helped Rosalie to forget all the unhappiness earlier that morning.

At the research institute, she found that Xander was already waiting in the laboratory.

"Young Master Xander."

During this time, Xander's attitude towards her was constantly changing, yet Rosalie completely regarded him as a project partner.

In addition, this project is considered to be led by Lancer Corporation. Technically, Xander can be regarded as Rosalie's superior to a certain extent.

Therefore, Rosalie felt somewhat guilty about being caught late by him.

At a glance, Xander saw the faint hickey on her neck and his eyes darkened abruptly. He still managed to suppress his jealousy to greet and smile at her.

"Miss Jacobs! You've been working overtime during this period. You must be exhausted, good that you've gotten more rest."

Then, he said nonchalantly, "Since you're here, let's hurry up to the last step. I hope we can succeed in one fell swoop."

Rosalie nodded in agreement. She quickly adjusted her mental state, put on a lab coat, and walked into the laboratory.

The two were busy with their own tasks. After a whole day, Rosalie finally achieved results.

"I think...it worked."

Success was hard-won for this project. There were too many failures in the verification stage during the research process. This time, Rosalie was highly cautious about the results.

Xander soon got the news and came out from the next door.

The two took Rosalie's results to test the efficacy of the medicine.

After taking the new drug developed by Rosalie, the results showed the cancer cell activity in the mice dropped significantly!

"It really worked!"

Xander grabbed Rosalie's shoulder and patted her hard. "Sure enough, I knew I was right about you! I knew you could do it!"

At the same time, he was secretly more determined than ever. He must have Rosalie!

'Such a medical genius was born for the Lancer family!

'Only in the Lancer family can her potential be maximized!' No matter what, Xander will never hand her over to anyone!

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1533– Securing Alliance

Rosalie felt averse to his sudden touch, and the joy on her face froze. She looked down and took a step back, avoiding his hand calmly.

Aware of her resistance, Xander frowned. Then, he quickly withdrew his hand as if nothing had happened.

"The success of the new drug development was all thanks to the research institute's efforts. How about this, let me treat everyone to a good meal. This month, I will give everyone a bonus in my name, anyone who has a part in the project will have a share!"

He declared as if he has a close relationship with the research institute.

Rosalie felt that Xander went a bit too far and was about to refuse. However, the employees had already cheered, and Rosalie could not disappoint them.

"How generous of you, Young Master Xander!" "Thank you, Young Master Xander, we will do our best in the future!"

Everyone expressed their praises to him.

Rosalie felt a little uncomfortable watching their admiration for Xander.

"Then please do me a favor and show up. Let's all carpool together and set off now!"

Xander also smiled happily, looking extremely enthusiastic.

After that, he stretched out his hand to grab Rosalie's arm. "If Miss Jacobs doesn't mind, let's go there together in my car!"

Rosalie dodged slightly to avoid him. She had a tense smile on her face. 'I think, we should discuss the future profit distribution first.'

Xander raised his eyebrows indifferently. "Why are you in a hurry? This is not the first time we have worked together, you still don't trust me? After all, your research institute will not suffer. Today is such a happy day. Forget about business, everyone! Let's go out and relax!"

While speaking, many employees were already leaving.

Rosalie felt helpless, yet she could only agree. "Alright then, I can drive by myself. If I drive an extra car, I can also fetch a few more people."

With that said, she called out a few employees who were not driving and walked out with them.

Xander's eyes turned gloomy. He looked at her from the back, then at his hand, which she dodged and rejected, twice.

At noon, the group arrived at the hotel reserved by Xander.

"Young Master Xander is really rich and powerful. He just casually booked the best hotel in Coast City for our celebration."

Someone laughed and complimented him.

Xander walked with Rosalie. When he heard this, he smiled and waved his hands. "Everyone is vital in this project. A great hotel for celebration is well deserved. Don't be shy, just have fun."

Xander had already arranged a banquet on the top floor of the hotel. The place was decked with great food and wine, along with soothing music that sets off the atmosphere.

This was a first-time experience for many employees, and they were thoroughly excited.

One after another, people came over with wine to thank Xander for his hospitality. After toasting Xander, they turned to Rosalie.

Rosalie refused on the pretext of feeling unwell.

"Please enjoy yourselves! Today is the first of many celebrations. In the future, both of us will continue to work together. I assure you, when the cooperation gets better in the future, the way we celebrate will get better as well!"

Xander raised his glass and announced to everyone.

After the voice fell, there was another round of cheers.

Rosalie watched from the side. The drug was finally developed, and she should have been happy being here to celebrate. However, she could not bring herself to be happy about Xander's behavior.

Currently, Xander does not seem to be celebrating at all, more like securing an alliance.

Those who did not know may think that Xander is the person in charge of the research institute.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1534—Can't Wait Any Longer

"What's the matter? I don't think you had even a drop of wine?"

Xander looked at her with a concerned attitude. "Are you feeling unwell?"

What's going on? Do you want me to take your pulse?"

Then, he reached out to grab Rosalie's wrist.

Rosalie pursed her lips and smiled. "I'm good. I just didn't sleep well last night, now I'm little sleepy. Go ahead and enjoy yourselves, I'll step out for some air."

Avoiding Xander's touch, she backed away calmly, nodded, then left.

Once again, Xander was displeased as he watched her walked away.

'The reason Rosalie didn't sleep well last night. That hickey explains everything!

'I can't wait any longer!'

Rosalie came out of the banquet hall and into the tearoom. She had a cup of tea to feel better.

Recently, Xander's attitude made her uncomfortable.

Coincidentally, Byron sent a text to show concern.

[Hey, how are you feeling? If you can't take it, go back and rest. Don't rush the research."]

Rosalie's heart warmed slightly from the man's concerns. When she replied, there was a hint of a complaint in her text, largely due to her annoyance with Xander's behavior.

[Ah, so you knew that I am very tired today...but fortunately, the drug development was successful, we're out celebrating now.]

Byron frowned slightly when he read the text.

[Xander's there, too?]

Rosalie was even more upset at the mention of Xander.

[He was the one who proposed to celebrate. The research staff were so excited, I couldn't refuse.]

She almost blurted her dissatisfaction with Xander.

Byron's attention was elsewhere.

[Did you drink?]

Rosalie had a sullen face.

[The rest are drinking. I'm not in the mood.]

As soon as the message was sent, Byron's phone call came in.

Rosalie picked it up.

"What's the matter? Are you feeling unwell? Do you want me to pick you up?

Byron's voice was deeply concern.

Rosalie sighed lightly. "I was a little uncomfortable in the morning, but I'm almost better now."

Hearing this, Byron frowned in puzzlement. "What happened? Was it my mother? What did she say to you again?"

Rosalie quickly explained. "No, it's because of Xander..."

Speaking of this matter, Rosalie could not help but feel bad about herself.

'I am the person in charge of the research institute, but now I let an outsider get so close to my team of employees. I seem to have lost my prestige.'

All this felt like an embarrassment if she said it aloud.

When Byron's learned from the little woman that Xander had affected her mood, he became slightly upset.

"What did that Lancer guy do again? Ignore him. I can tell that he cares about you, but I'm not sure whether his intentions are pure or not."

Rosalie still felt discouraged, and hesitantly asked Byron, "Am I not very good at management? It seems that after Yves is gone, the research institute is in a mess."

She reflected on herself while sipping tea just now.

'I already joined the team late in the first place. Then, I was more focused on my own research and didn't bother with interpersonal relationships.'

Previously, Yves was the one who helped maintain her relationship with the employees. After he was arrested, she was obviously alienated from the employees.

This was also the reason why Xander was able to win them over so easily.

Hearing what she said, Byron's face turned serious. "Why do you say that?"

The words were hard for Rosalie to say, but Byron was the listener, so she confided in him.

"During this time, I kept feeling that the employees were closer to Xander than me, as if Xander is their person in charge..."
