It just so happened that Emmanuel had to attend the birthday banquet with Ashton. He had found himself at a loss on how to tell Mackenzie about it. Roselynn had unknowingly provided him with the perfect excuse.

In the past, he would have just told her about attending the banquet with Ashton. However, their relationship was currently very rocky. He truly did not want to risk another strain on his relationship with Mackenzie over another woman. During the night before, he had wondered if he should skip attending the birthday banquet just to avoid any potential conflict with Mackenzie.

“Alright. I’ll leave it in your hands.”

Mackenzie saw Roselynn as family. Hence, she was invested in the success of Roselynn’s relationship with Julian. This was a crucial point in their relationship!

After securing Mackenzie’s approval for a “leave of absence,” Emmanuel could finally breathe easy as rendezvoused with Roselynn.

The two of them arrived at a renowned medical clinic in Onza known as the Skyrin Medical Clinic.

While they were aware of the clinic’s reputation, they were unsure of the reason behind its grand reputation.

“Roselynn, what’s with you?”

As they walked into the clinic, Emmanuel admired its ancient and elegant architecture. However, he soon noticed Roselynn’s odd behavior as she had stopped to stare in a certain direction.

“It’s that despicable man!”

Roselynn clenched her fists and ground her teeth as she spoke.

Despicable man?

Emmanuel was wondering why Jaxton would be in a place like this. However, when he turned to follow her gaze, he spotted the familiar face she called despicable.

It was Chase, Roselynn's sweetheart during university. He was currently arm in arm with a woman in a pink dress. When Chase noticed them, he swiftly turned to look at them.

A moment later, he tilted his lips up in a faint smirk.

Around six months ago, he had crossed paths with Roselynn at a Quillen family gathering. At that time, he assumed the Lowe siblings were putting on airs just because they were seemingly acquainted with a daughter of an esteemed family in Yeringham.

However, after that gathering, Chase soon married into a prestigious Onza family. Thus, he did not know what transpired in the Lowe family after the event.

He was initially taken aback to see them here. Still, upon closer inspection, he noticed they appeared unchanged. It seemed they had failed to succeed in their attempts to suck up to the privileged.

While the woman in pink was looking away, Chase even flirtatiously winked at Roselynn.

Roselynn recoiled in disgust. With a disdainful scoff, she looked away from him. I don't even want to bother looking at trash like him.

Emmanuel paid Chase no mind and proceeded to talk to the pharmacist with Roselynn. He intended to craft a longevity pill personally for her to bring as a birthday present.

He had come across the recipe in the "Divine Valley Medical Records" early on, and he had longed to experiment with it ever since. However, Yeringham was just a second-tier city. It made it hard for him to source many of the ingredients needed.

Coincidentally, during a previous consultation with Rhea for help with his relationship, she had mentioned this clinic in

Coincidentally, during a previous consultation with Rhea for help with his relationship, she had mentioned this clinic in passing. She had said that the clinic had a vast collection of rare and precious herbs. Hence, Emmanuel decided to check it out.

When he spotted the elusive Royal Blood Grass, his eyes shone with excitement.

Given its unique medicinal properties and niche uses, few pharmacies stocked it.

To his surprise, the herb was also reasonably priced. His glee grew.

Just as he was about to purchase all the Royal Blood Grass the clinic had, the receptionist politely rejected him and stated, "Sir, the Royal Blood Grass is a rare medicinal herb reserved only for our VIP members. It is not for sale to the public. Pardon me for asking, but are you a VIP member of our clinic?"

Surprised by the unusual restriction, Emmanuel responded, "Well, I am not a member yet!"

Usually, such an answer would prompt the salesperson to persuade him to join as a member before proceeding with the sale. He was not short on cash anyway.

Unexpectedly, the receptionist simply gave him an awkward smile before saying, "I'm sorry. I can't sell this herb to you then."

She remained polite and sweet the entire time.

Emmanuel was bewildered. This isn't what usually happens!

Just as he was about to reply to her, he heard mocking laughter coming from beside him.

"Look at that man, darling. He even looks shocked! Does he think Skyrin Medical Clinic is just like the greedy clinics he sees elsewhere? These herbs are specifically collected for the rich and powerful!"

Emmanuel turned to look at the speaker. As he thought, it was the woman hanging off Chase's arm.

The woman exuded an air of refinement with her jewelry. Combined with her sensually slender waist and curvaceous figure, it was clear that she was a woman born into a privileged household who was also the kind to look down on the people around her.

"Darling, please pardon them. They are my friends, and not everyone is as knowledgeable as a daughter of the famed Tanner family," Chase said while projecting an air of chivalrous charm.

Roselynn's stomach churned in disgust upon hearing that. No one knew him better than she did. In her mind, he was even more repulsive than Jaxton in certain respects.

For one, there was his hypocrisy.

During her time in university, she had agreed to date him because the pretentious and hypocritical act he put on had fooled.

her.

He had sworn not to initiate or push her into having sex before marriage. He even acted all self-righteous about that oath.

However, within two days of that promise, she would catch him red-handed cheating on her by walking into the room to find him naked in bed with another woman.

That was the start of her nightmares.

She only found the idea of marriage repulsive because of all the nightmares that spawned from that relationship. It was only through Emmanuel and Mackenzie's encouragement as well as efforts at matchmaking that she allowed herself to respond to the emotions incited by Julian's sincerity. While she did decide to befriend him, she was still very cautious and wary about the relationship.

"Roselynn, how nice to meet you again. How have you been?" Chase asked Roselynn with a smile on his lips.

The smile would have fooled Emmanuel into thinking Chase was actually an attractive and refined gentleman if Emmanuel had not seen through Chase's act early

"My life is good without you," Roselynn sneered at him, unwilling to bother with fake pleasantries.

However, the awkward tension in the air did not affect Chase. Instead, he put on the look he usually like to put on, the kind that implicitly criticized the other person by showing that he was a mature man who would magnanimously tolerate and pardon their immature behavior.

"Darling, who is she?" the woman in pink asked in an agitated voice.

"My ex-girlfriend, Roselynn Lowe. We broke up many years ago," Chase honestly replied.

"Oh, so she's just a woman who helped you on your path to being an experienced man."

The woman in the pink dress did not look jealous at all. With a forgiving expression on her face, she generously held a hand out for Roselynn to shake. "I am Hazel Tanner of Onza's Tanner family and Chase's wife. Thank you for letting him practice on you. You have turned him into a sweet and caring husband for me."

Emmanuel immediately scowled when he heard that. That is incredibly insulting. In fact, it is even more insulting than if she had just cursed and shouted at Roselynn.

"Don't thank me. I should be thanking you for taking in my unwanted trash. You have greatly contributed to keeping Yeringham's environment clean."

Roselyon did not even falter as she responded with a smile of her own.

You're not the only one who knows how to use backhanded compliments. Fear is a word that does not exist in my dictionary anyway.

"You..."

Hazel's face immediately turned bright red. Evidently, she had not expected a mere commoner to argue back. Does she have a death wish?

"Hazel, there's no need for you to debase yourself by talking to Roselynn. Perhaps you two are not meant to be friends."

"Hazel, there's no need for you to debase yourself by talking to Roselynn. Perhaps you two are not meant to be friends."

Chase had spoken as if he was a wise and cultured scholar.

While Roselynn was used to his habit of doing so, she still could not resist the urge to gag. The revulsion she felt had never gone away ever since she found out that Chase was a hypocritical man who only pretended to be a gentleman.

No! The disgust is worse now!

In the past, Chase only used his looks and silver tongue for picking up girls instead of climbing the social ladder. However, he was now clearly using those tricks he learned become a freeloading husband. It felt like she was looking at a servant man talking to his wife.

groveling and sucking up to his mistress instead of “Hazel, why don’t you head into the VIP lounge and enjoy some quality tea to cool down? I’ll joining you shortly after this.”

Chase successfully persuaded her to leave.

“Hmph! Chase is right. You aren’t even worthy of talking to me.”

Hazel then haughtily strutted away.

“What a joke! You act as if I’m here to chat you up. You really are great at thinking highly of yourselves and psyching yourselves up. It’s no wonder that you think you’re actually that great.”

Roselynn always had to have the last word in an argument.

That infuriated Hazel so much that she was fuming while stomping away. However, she had just said Roselynn was unworthy of talking to her. If she argued back, she would be slapping herself in the face.

Emmanuel had no interest in dealing with people like Chase. He was confident that Roselynn would always come out on top in any argument. Thus, when he discovered that obtaining a VIP membership at the clinic would not be an easy task, he decided to walk out so that he could call Rhea.

After all, it was Rhea who had recommended the clinic to him.

“You should have told me earlier if you wanted to buy herbs from Skyrin Medical Clinic. There was no need to go through the trouble of going there yourself.”

Rhea had spoken with a voice that rang with pride, “Oh? That sounds like you can help me obtain a VIP card,” Emmanuel curiously remarked with an implicit question in his words.

According to what he found out from the receptionist, Skyrin Medical Clinic mainly catered to the elite members of society. Thus, while the average customer could purchase the common herbs from the clinic, most of the rare herbs were only sold to their VIP members.

VIP status could not be gained based on one's top-up or consumption; it was entirely determined by one's family background and obtained on a familial basis.

The Tanner family from Onza naturally placed among the VIPs, allowing Chase to brag in front of Roselynn in the name of Hazel.

"Of course! My father is one of the shareholders of Skyrin Medical Clinic! The major shareholder of Skyrin Medical Clinic is my father's senior from many years ago, and he is a foreigner!"

Rhea appeared even more proud; every time she helped Emmanuel, she was overjoyed.

She wasn't sure why!

Perhaps it's just admiration for Emmanuel's medical talent?

"I see. I'll leave it to you then!"

Emmanuel was also astonished. He had long known that Dr. Gomez had made investments in a variety of medical enterprises, as well as being a shareholder in Cloudia Hospital in Yeringham. But he never imagined that such a low-key individual in his personal life would invest in so many ny sectors.

The Skyrin Medical Clinic was clearly powerful as well. Dr. Gomez turned out to be a low-key tycoon.

“Roselynn, why do you need this Royal Blood Grass?”

Chase purposely withdrew from his wife after Emmanuel left to have a private talk with Roselynn.

12:52 Tue, Apr 9

Chapter 1424 Actions Speak Louder Than Words

Roselynn was not someone who pretended to be a lady. She was known as a vulgar Woman in Yeringham, and she was not afraid to express herself!

Chase was not embarrassed either and murmured, “This Royal Blood Grass is a unique medicinal herb with life-saving properties. Is it because someone in your family is critically ill and requires it to save their life?”

Roselynn was slightly taken aback!

Heh. She had no idea why Emmanuel purchased these medicinal herbs, but Chase really had a vivid imagination. His words took her by surprise.

“How about this? If you spend the night with me, I’ll help you buy it and give it to you. That way, you can save a life. How about that?”

He raised an eyebrow and whispered in her ear.

12:52 Tue, Apr 9

Chapter 1424 Actions Speak Louder Than Words

His mischievous expression made her feel nauseous!

“Ah! Ahh!”

The next moment, a horrifying scream echoed through the clinic.

Chase jumped around with a red face and then fell to the ground in pain. His facial expression looked incredibly ugly!

Emmanuel hurried back when he heard the sound and upon seeing Chase’s expression and actions, he knew what his sister had done to Chase!

His sister was really ruthless, using a move to attack a man’s weak spot.

But he also guessed that if Chase hadn’t gone too far, his sister would never have dealt with Chase like this.

“Dear! What’s wrong? Why are you squatting there?”

12:52 Tue, Apr 9 er

Chapter 1424 Actions Speak Louder Than Words

Hazel heard Chase’s scream and ran out of the VIP room again.

Since Hazel and Chase were the clinic’s esteemed clientele, a large number of staff members also congregated around. The staff couldn’t just watch while they were harassed in the clinic!

A group of people surrounded Roselynn in an instant!

“Roselynn... She suddenly hit me!” Chase eventually got to his feet, still acting like he was in pain. “But don’t place too much responsibility on her! She simply said she would spend one night with me and requested me to purchase the Royal Blood Grass for her!

“But how could I do that? Since I’m a married man, I rejected her coldly, which made her upset and ashamed. Alas! It’s all my fault for being too direct and hurting her pride!”

Upon hearing this, Roselynn was truly angry!!

“Is that so, Miss?”

A security guard who looked like a captain came out and asked. He needed to take this seriously and appropriately. If not, it would undoubtedly harm the clinic’s standing..

Roselynn experienced some anxiety since she knew that these individuals would not trust her even if she spoke the truth. After all, she couldn’t actually afford the Royal Blood Grass. If she acted indifferent and claimed not to care, others would see through her lie!

Luckily, she didn’t have to say anything. Emmanuel stepped in and declared, “No way! I’ve already purchased the Royal Blood Grass. Why would my sister need to resort to such measures to obtain it?”

“Did you hear that? It was me who ended things with this man first. Why would I need to be associated with him now when I have the means to buy everything I want? It’s obvious who is lying!”

Roselynn snorted angrily and did not even bother to look at Chase as she trusted that her brother would not betray her.

Everyone’s gaze was fixed on Chase.

“Absurd! They are not VIP customers. How were the Royal Blood Grass acquired? It’s clear who is lying, isn’t it?”

Chase was brimming with confidence and thought Emmanuel was foolish. Making such statements to support his sister would only make their situation worse.

Emmanuel raised his hand.

Upon witnessing this scene, Chase suddenly had a sinking feeling!

As expected, the manager approached Emmanuel swiftly before saying respectfully, “Mr. Lowe, you are a friend of Dr. Gomez. Dr. Gomez has mentioned several times that you are a promising young doctor in front of our boss. Our boss has been looking forward to seeing you for quite some time. Why didn’t you schedule an appointment in advance so we could inform him?”

“You don’t have to bother yourself. I’m just here to purchase some herbs!”

Emmanuel waved his hand casually.

“Thank you!” Emmanuel expressed his gratitude casually.

Shortly after, the medicinal materials were handed over to him.

Chase’s eyes widened in disbelief when he observed this unfold. He realized that Emmanuel, much like himself, had married into a wealthy family and was being supported by them?!

And was his wife the renowned beauty of Yeringham, Mackenzie Quillen?

Chase’s complexion immediately paled. He had just argued that Roselynn was not a VIP and did not have the authority to request the clinic to retrieve surveillance footage

Although Hazel was proud, she was not naive. She witnessed how Roselynn dared to report the incident to the authorities and then saw the expression on her own husband’s face. How could she not deduce who was lying?

Was her husband considering reuniting with his former lover? What did she lack compared to this ordinary woman?

Roselynn felt a sense of satisfaction. How dare he try to deceive her? Today, she would reveal his true nature!

Meanwhile, Emmanuel had no interest in witnessing his embarrassment and departed as soon as the issue was resolved.

The news of the clinic quickly reached the ears of an elderly foreign man with white hair.

“Oh, is it the skilled doctor that Juan mentioned here in Onza? Why is he purchasing Royal Blood Grass?”

The old man’s name was Robert Tiffany. He had resided in Chanaea for numerous years and had adopted a Chanaea homophonic name for convenience, known as Rob!

Recently, he heard Dr. Gomez mention a young man in Yeringham with exceptional medical skills, particularly in the ancient Chanaea medical arts, surpassing Dr. Gomez by a hundredfold. This piqued his curiosity, and he was eager to meet this talented young man.

However, due to living in different cities and his busy schedule, he had not been able to travel to Yeringham. Now that the young man had come to Onza, he was determined to meet the young man at all costs!

On the other side, Emmanuel was unaware of the behind-the-scenes events. After purchasing the rare medicine Royal Blood Grass, he visited several pharmacies with Roselynn. He was busy for a whole morning and finally obtained the necessary herbs.

“Manny, what are you up to?” Roselynn was curious. Although she had long known that Emmanuel inherited the medical skills of the Lowe family, she had never seen him conduct medical experiments before. It seemed as though he was going to make some sort of miracle concoction today. Was this anything for Old Mr. Summerton, perhaps?

“You’ll find out soon enough!” Emmanuel replied with a smile and did not reveal the answer directly.

After all, her record against the Northern Region Wolf Warrior was 17 wins and 0 losses, ranking first in the world!

“All right. Let’s go with this basic equipment!” After an hour of mixing and refining, Emmanuel produced three pills.

“What on earth is this?” Roselynn picked one up and wrinkled her nose at the unpleasant smell.

“Not only does it look like a dung beetle’s masterpiece, but it also smells bad! You really think I’m going to give this to Julian’s Grandpa?” She couldn’t help but comment.

Emmanuel smiled and said, “Roselynn, don’t underestimate these three pills. This is the longevity pill I formulated. Those who know its worth are willing to pay 15 million to buy

This formula belonged to an ancient prescription, only recorded in the Divine Valley lineage, and the Royal Blood Grass was a rare herb that was not easily obtained. No one else knew how the Royal Blood Grass was combined with other herbs to produce a medicinal power that defied modern logic.

In short, these three pills were unique in the world.

“Longevity pill? Can it really make you live to a hundred years old after taking it?”

Roselynn joked as she looked at Emmanuel.

To her surprise, Emmanuel nodded seriously. “It’s not entirely wrong to say that!”

Roselynn was stunned. She knew her brother very well, and he didn’t like to boast. What was happening today?

Could this pill really be a miraculous elixir?

“All right, Roselynn. Trust me, and let’s go! I won’t deceive you!” Emmanuel quickly took out a box and wrapped one of the pills in it, so it didn’t look like a dung beetle’s creation. He also teased her. “What’s wrong? Why are you so concerned about giving gifts? Aren’t you just accompanying Julian for the show? You’re not his girlfriend, so why are you so nervous? It’s not like you!”

Roselynn’s expression changed slightly, and she quickly retorted, “I’m not nervous! I just don’t want to embarrass myself. But you’ve reminded me, though. Who knows what’s inside the fancy gift boxes? Many medicines are just based on hype anyway. Bring it on!”

Emmanuel chuckled. Now that the gift was sorted, it was time to set off.

When the two siblings arrived at the location, they realized that this villa was not just large, it almost rivaled the Quillen residence!

Moreover, this was Old Mr. Summerton’s residence. Julian and his family lived in a villa in the city.

It seemed that the Summerton family’s background was indeed extraordinary. The purported tens of billions in wealth on the surface might be just a facade. Emmanuel felt that a reassessment based on actual circumstances was necessary to determine the true extent of their assets.

Roselynn also thought so, especially since she knew more about the Summerton family's background than Emmanuel. She knew that the Summerton family was backing them, but she dared not imagine how large this family really was.

“Roselynn, you guys are here.”

As soon as the two got out of the car, Julian, who was dressed in a tailcoat, eagerly walked toward Roselynn.

Of course, he didn't want to be a third wheel between Roselynn and Julian, so he followed Ashton.

“Your shield?”

Emmanuel couldn’t help but frown. Why was it this again? Last time, it was Tia, and this time, it was Ashton. He was not a professional in this field, let alone in this occupation!

With so many people here, you might not even get a chance to meet my parents!” Ashton suddenly sounded a bit spoiled. “I’m just annoyed by all these relatives and friends trying to set me up with someone. That’s why I didn’t want to come back to work at Onza!”

She was originally trying to act cool, but she didn’t expect Emmanuel to ask directly, “So why are you willing to come back now?”

Before he could refuse, Ashton suddenly grabbed his arm tightly, like an octopus that wouldn’t let go.

Upon looking up, he saw a few people who seemed to know Ashton approaching.

“Ash? Is that really you? I heard you’re back working at Onza?” A woman in a black fishtail skirt, who was accompanied by a middle-aged man in a black suit, approached Ashton with a smile.

Emmanuel finally understood the meaning of Ashton’s words just now. If he had so many relatives and friends, he would probably be tired of dealing with them!

“Hello, Ash. Is this your boyfriend?”

“He’s quite a talent!”

“Aren’t you going to introduce him?”

The elders sized Emmanuel up as if they were buying seafood at the market. They “Yes. His name is Golden Sanchez, and he’s a doctor!”

Ashton had obviously already figured out what identity to give Emmanuel and responded directly to everyone.

Emmanuel couldn’t be bothered to speak. He was silently playing the role of a qualified shield to avoid Ashton accusing him of betraying her.

But the next moment, a harsh voice rang out.

A woman in her thirties abruptly remarked, “Ash, you excel in every aspect, but why is your choice in men so lacking?”

The woman called Cindy immediately smirked, and her eyes showed contempt.

“Judging by his demeanor, he doesn’t seem like a doctor practicing modern medicine.

He must be a traditional medicine practitioner, right?”

“What’s wrong with traditional medicine?” Emmanuel finally couldn’t help but speak up when he saw the disdainful look on Cindy’s face and his eyes darkened.

“Heh. What’s wrong with traditional medicine? Do you fashion, and it’s declined!” Cindy sneered. “Who goes to see traditional medicine for treatment nowadays? Traditional medicine can only survive in the crevices of modern medicine, and most of those who claim to practice traditional medicine are frauds!”

Upon hearing her words, Emmanuel was naturally upset. After all, traditional medicine was the traditional medical skill of Chanaea. As a Chanaea citizen, how could he not feel disheartened when someone looked down on the medical skill of his Cindy's good friend once pursued Ashton, and Cindy even acted as a matchmaker for them. However, Ashton looked down on him, causing Cindy a lot of embarrassment.

Now, she just wanted to get back at Ashton.

Unfortunately, there were quite a few people present who didn't like the fact that Ashton had a boyfriend. So, with Cindy leading the way, quite a few people were joining in the mockery!

"Enough!" Emmanuel couldn't help but speak up with a stern face, "You can look down on me, but you must never look down on traditional medicine!"

As a warrior from the Northern Region, national and ethnic pride was essential.

Traditional medicine represented the medical skill of Chanaea and was a legacy of national wisdom. How could he tolerate others looking down on it?

12:53 Tue, Apr 9

Chapter 1428 Belittling Traditional Medicine

It shouldn't be looked down upon just because of him, especially by a group of people from Chanaea.

It was really sad!

Ashton looked at his appearance in astonishment and terror. Others were also extremely surprised. They never expected that there would still be someone today who would defend traditional medicine in this way

Emmanuel really wanted to slap her, but he held back because violence wouldn’t solve the problem in this situation.

If it were foreigners looking down on traditional medicine, it might be because they didn’t understand it. But now, if people from Chanaea despised their own heritage, it was a sign that traditional medicine had truly fallen to the fringes. One could even argue that it would face an existential threat!

Emmanuel could educate those who slander traditional medicine, but that Idn’t

By chance, someone suddenly pointed in the direction of the front yard and exclaimed excitedly, "Look, isn't that Dr. Schmidt?"

"Yes. It's him!"

A group of people flocked toward this Schmidt.

Emmanuel also took a glance and realized that he was from Westeria!

He looked quite handsome and energetic, with a hint of stubble. He was the type that of foreign-loving women adored.

His attire was quite upscale, with all foreign brands from head to toe, topped off with a brand-new white coat. In short, his outfit looks worlds apart from the shabby long robes of traditional medicine practitioners! – looked down on traditional medicine. This perception was also an issue.

Fortunately, she was not superficial. She found Emmanuel's traditional medicine very appealing!

"What are you discussing?"

To Emmanuel's surprise, Schmidt inexplicably approached them.

"Dr. Schmidt, you've arrived at the perfect moment!"

Cindy quickly stepped forward and said, "We are debating the merits of traditional medicine versus modern medicine. What are your thoughts?"

This woman was quite cunning. She was deliberately provoking Emmanuel and Schmidt!

Sure enough, Schmidt immediately shrugged and smiled. "Come on! Of course, it's modern medicine. Modern medicine is the mainstream modern medical practice!"

As he spoke, he glanced at Emmanuel casually.

Emmanuel didn't know what that look meant and couldn't be bothered to figure it out.

Since the other party said so, he just happened to ask back, “Does mainstream necessarily mean better? I don’t agree with that viewpoint!”

Schmidt didn’t arrogantly say, “It doesn’t matter if you disagree; facts speak loud words, but took a more assertive approach. “just heard that you practice traditional medicine. If I defeat you with modern medicine, will you admit that traditional medicine is indeed inferior to modern medicine?”

IrEmmanuel was also very surprised. How did this guy seem to know him?

He didn’t know that Schmidt was actually a proud disciple of Rob. Rob deliberately sent Schriddidivover to test his medical skills and see if he was as miraculous and excellent as DGomezesasdid!

Rob was not only an internationally renowned doctor but also a famous modern medical genius in Diaza. The nobles and dignitaries of Onza all scrambled to establish good relations with him, and the Summerton family was no exception. Old Mr. Summerton’s birthday celebration, so he would definitely be invited to attend first! Schmidt’s challenge aroused more people around him.

Ashton knew Emmanuel’s personality and chose not to seek the limelight. Here as a scapegoat. Since he didn’t like attention and didn’t like her, he definitely wouldn’t waste his energy on such things!

This scene sparked a lot of interest once again. *

However, Cindy and others were waiting to see Emmanuel make a fool of himself. How dare a young traditional medicine practitioner challenge a seasoned international doctor of modern medicine? Wasn't he asking for trouble?

Regardless of which side they supported, everyone was full of expectations for the upcoming developments!

“Mr. Sanchez, hello!”

After exchanging pleasantries, Schmidt smiled and went straight to the point. “Our modern medical diagnosis is straightforward and precise. We utilize advanced instruments for testing. For instance, I underwent a comprehensive check-up hospital yesterday, which included an ultrasound, electrocardiogram, and various scans. My heart, liver, spleen, lungs, and kidneys were all examined. Any issues could easily be detected. Can traditional medicine achieve the same level of diagnostic efficiency and accuracy as us modern medical practitioners?”

He had heard about the theories of the human body's energy in traditional medicine, and he knew that Chanaea had a complete set of theories on this medical knowledge.

Unfortunately, the traditional medicine practitioners he had met before were all talk and no action regarding their skills!

Gradually, he began to doubt and even look down upon traditional medicine like the others!

"Sure!"

Emmanuel could see the hint of doubt in Schmidt's eyes, and today was the perfect opportunity for him to experience and break down some of the skepticism and prejudice against traditional medicine.

So, he put on a confident look and said, “I will diagnose you using energy diagnosis. If I make a mistake or miss any of your physical ailments, I will admit defeat then!”

The applause grew louder and louder.

If her grandfather had caught them walking in like that, it would have been

“All right. Let’s leave it at that for now. But you still have to teach me martial arts when you have time!”
