Love at the Wrong Table Emmanuel Lowe Chapter 1432[751 words]

Chapter 1432

Roselynn made a request, and Julian respected her wishes. The advantage was that she would not intentionally avoid him.

However, the downside was quite apparent, as many female guests at the event noticed Julian and would approach him for a chat. Almost everyone would inquire, “Mr. Summerton, is this your girlfriend?”

“No!”

Julian replied once again to a stunning woman in a revealing outfit.

To his surprise, this stunning woman did not walk away like the others.

Instead, she boldly moved closer to Julian while showcasing her curves and whispered in his ear playfully, “Mr. Summerton, it’s been a while since you took some beautiful photos for me. When will you do it again? This time, I won’t be wearing stockings. I’ll be completely bare for you to capture. What do you say?”

Upon hearing this, Roselynn shot Julian a fierce look.

Julian felt uneasy and promptly declined. “Mina, please don’t joke around! I am a professional photographer. How could I take such photos? Besides, I've been busy lately!"

"All right. I'll keep asking until you find the time!"

This woman was shameless and continued to tease Julian.

Julian was at a loss. Just as he was about to push her away, he noticed Roselynn standing up and leaving the venue!

"Roselynn! Roselynn!"

He disregarded etiquette at that moment by swiftly pushing aside the bold and stunning woman and followed Roselynn out of the banquet hall.

The whole scene was witnessed by Emmanuel, who had just arrived.

Emmanuel was somewhat pleased. Roselynn didn't look angry, but she was unhappy with Julian being surrounded by women, especially since she wasn't his girlfriend and had no right to express her displeasure.

As someone with experience, he sensed that she was on the brink of emotional turmoil.

Just then, the phone rang, and it was Alessandra.

"Emmanuel, how are Roselynn and Julian faring?" She inquired as soon as she spoke.

She was currently residing in Yeringham with Ryder, so she didn't feel lonely even without her children by her side.

However, she always fretted about her children, particularly Roselynn's emotional state. Now that Ryder and Emmanuel's marriages were settled, her focus naturally shifted to Roselynn!

"Mom, there's no need to rush. Let Roselynn take her time to decide whether she wants to be with Julian or not!" Emmanuel advised.

"Alas. I've asked you and Mackenzie before. Both of you have said that Julian is a good person. I just hope Roselynn seizes the opportunity. Otherwise, if she rejects him too many times, he might move on or be taken by another woman. Then, she will regret it forever!" Alessandra's words, though not what Emmanuel wanted to hear, made sense! Who would have thought that even from afar, she knew that Julian was in demand?

"Mom, Mackenzie and I will do our best to facilitate their relationship, but the final decision rests with Roselynn. Let's not pressure her!"

Emmanuel was concerned that his mother's impatience might lead to unintended consequences by pressuring Roselynn.

Fortunately, Alessandra understood the situation and sighed softly. "So, how are things with Mackenzie now? You've been married for almost half a year. Why hasn't she shown any signs of pregnancy yet?"

Here it comes again!

The elders were always preoccupied with this, especially Alessandra, who was eagerly anticipating becoming a grandmother. She was worried that Mackenzie might have difficulty conceiving and wondered if Mackenzie had any health issues.

“Mom, it takes time!”

Emmanuel tried to convince Alessandra, but this time, she refused to listen.

and immediately retorted, “I’ve given you enough time! Remember when you visited Anchortown last time, and her grandfather made you drink Miracle Water? Did you really make an effort or not?”

He was left speechless.

He had indeed consumed Miracle Water and made an effort, but could such a thing really be achieved through effort alone?

No! Something was amiss!

Just as Emmanuel was about to reply to Alessandra, a series of images suddenly flashed through his mind.

Mackenzie had been unusually fatigued recently. She had been experiencing significant mood swings and heightened sensitivity and even displaying signs of mild depression...

All these symptoms suggested that she might already be expecting.

“Emmanuel, why are you silent?”
