Wrong Table 1480

Chapter 1480

Nevertheless, these were all her hopeful thoughts. She couldn't confess to anyone now.

for

After resolving the matters, Emmanuel and Mackenzie sent the despondent Alessandra back.

Meanwhile, Roselynn had to return to the store to handle some affairs. As she arrived at the store, she saw a man holding a bouquet of flowers.

"Roselynn, these are for you."

Julian gave the flowers to Roselynn. As a romantic artist, he was us bringing gifts whenever he came to see Roselynn.

"Thank you." Roselynn didn't refuse. Nevertheless, her sadness was evident.

"Roselynn, what's wrong?" Julian approached her as he sensed her sadness.

Before Roselynn could respond, her phone rang.

“Roselynn, do you want to come over and have a talk with Mom? She cried so hard that she just fainted. I’ve administered first aid. Although she regained consciousness, her mood remained subdued. Julian’s death has profoundly impacted her.”

“I see. I’ll come over in a while,” Roselynn agreed. “Isn’t Mackenzie present as well? Shouldn’t Mom be happy when she saw Mackenzie, who’s pregnant?”

Emmanuel responded, “Mackenzie is indeed accompanying Mom. Mom was very happy about it. Due to this reason, her condition doesn’t worsen, but she still longs for you.”

“Are you sure?” Roselynn joked. “I think she likes her daughter-in-law more.”

“Don’t say that, Roselynn.” Emmanuel sighed. “You’re the most important person in Mom’s heart. No one can replace you. Now that Ryder has passed away, while I have my own family and children, Mom is concerned about you the most. She’s curious about your relationship with Julian.”

Julian was standing next to Roselynn. He had remained silent just now as he didn’t want to disturb Roselynn.

However, upon hearing Emmanuel's words, he was agitated as he said, "Is Madam Alessandra sick? Roselynn and I will visit her then."

He had been sulky as he couldn't start a topic with Roselynn, but now the opportunity had come.

After responding, he stared at Roselynn as he was worried that she would Surprisingly, Roselynn didn't decline as she let out a sigh.

She thought it might be good for Alessandra to meet Julian. If she disliked him, she could use this as an excuse to reject his proposal.

However, she realized that it was just her imagination after half an hour.

After seeing Julian, who was energetic, Alessandra immediately rose from her bed. She was extremely satisfied with Julian.

Julian was very well-mannered. Not only did he bring gifts, but he also peeled an apple for Alessandra and chatted with her.

Alessandra was so happy that she almost recovered.

“Julian, do you sincerely want to marry my daughter?” Alessandra aske no one was around.

Julian nodded without hesitation.

Alessandra then said, “I can see that you are sincere toward my daughter. Well, she doesn’t have a good temper. You have to treat her well in the future.”

“Madam Alessandra, I think Roselynn has a great personality. I like everything about her.”

Julian’s response cheered Alessandra up. She patted her chest and said, “That’s good.

As long as you don’t deceive me, I’ll convince Roselynn for you. The Lowe family has encountered various difficulties recently. It’s just the right time to bring some joy.”

“You’re right. Thank you, Madam Alessandra… Thank you, Mom.” Julian quickly changed his address.

On the other hand, Emmanuel and Mackenzie were in the living room the conversation between Alessandra and Julian.

They were delighted to know that Alessandra didn’t stop Julian and Roselynn from dating. However, Mackenzie expressed her worries as she said, “Your sister might be involved in a new battle again.”

Emmanuel understood her meaning. He smiled with mixed feelings.

He knew that the Summerton family held a higher status than the Oatley family, which made it more difficult for Roselynn to be together with Julian. It wasn’t easy for her to overcome all the obstacles.

However, Emmanuel believed that Julian was more reliable than Jaxton. He could protect Roselynn from any harm.

At that moment, Roselynn came out of the kitchen with fruits. Mackenzie raised and walked toward her. She gently held her hand and said, “Let’s have a