Chapter 110 Stealth Slime Operation

Plooommm...

SpIIlssh...

With one sneaking and silent movement, I could observe the movements of the stealth slime who had become experts in carrying out silent surprise attacks.

My guideline was to clog the bear monster's head with a slime body filled with disgusting mucus and then continue with a basic magic spell attack, Water Cut.

Plooommm...

SpIIaassh...

Crraasshhh...

The tactics they used may have good developed, but some stealth slimes had difficulty carrying out the fast silent attack tactic. I used an attack rotation system so that the small stealth slime magic core would not run out quickly.

Dividing the main and reserve troops on the battlefield was a basic tactic taught by Earl Timoti. Because the wheels of battle tend to move in an uncertain direction, all preparations must be made, including planning another attack pattern when the tactic being used leaves a trace of failure.

Pllloommm...

Spllaashh...

Spllaasshhh...

Daaanngg...

Craasshhh...

On my watch, I saw two stealth slimes working together to defeat a thick-scaled bear. Even the clash of the stealth slime's water-cut magic spell made a clear sound inside my Soul Tame network.

"Uhh, that bear must be have a heavy body," I said while looking at one of the stealth slime's perspectives.

"A thick-scaled bear, huh? It's troublesome when you meet them in the wild," said Earl Timoti while looking at the movement of the thick-scaled bear that was now lying down with its head separated from its body.

Brraakkk...

Baamm...

The sound of its body covered in thick scales created a shockwave of sound that showed its body weight was no joke.

"It must be really heavy if you hear it from the soundwave alone," I commented while watching the other stealth slime's perspective as it moved through their dark cave.

"Commander Lily, they are one of the heavy monster species that are very tempting when their scale pieces are given to the blacksmith. Just looking at one piece of their scale, I can already see the overflowing expression on their faces of happiness and wanting to buy it at a price that matches scale quality. If Commander Lily wants to get a high selling price, I suggest not to hurt their bodies too much," in between the fast and silent stealth slime battle, Earl Timoti gave his wise advice and a serious look.

I, who was enjoying the stealth slime battle, gave the order to minimize the damage to the organs of the bears that fell inside the dark cave. Because of the dark conditions, I was completely unaware of the existence of the bear monster and the existence of the stealth slime.

The only lighting in the cave came from the reflection of the moonlight that penetrated through the top of the cave and the plants that emitted light in the darkness.

If I were in that cave, I would rely more on my body instincts that were able to sense danger than on lighting like this. My night vision may have improved when Mio and Noel's Yurification System blessings worked together.

For maximum benefit, I had to make sure the stealth slimes didn't damage the bear monster's corpse too much.

"Thank you for your advice, Earl Timoti," with a small nod, I accepted Earl Timoti's advice.

"Ahem! To all stealth slime assault units, from now on you are only allowed to silence the enemy's head and behead them with the water-cut magic chant. Anyone who hits the bear monster's body with the water-cut magic chant will be punished without exception!" I said to give a coercive and difficult order to the stealth slime swarm.

My Soul Tame network was immediately filled with the sounds of the stealth slimes answering my command.

Booingg... Booinggg...

"I am ready to accept your command with all my strength, Commander!"

Pooinggg... Pooingggg...

"I will immediately fulfill your command!"

Booiingg...

"Please guide us to become stronger and quieter, Commander!"

Pooingg...

"Can we have a quick battle so we can save the Slime King and Queen who are being held hostage by the Golden King Bear?"

The reply given by one of the stealth slimes made the other stealth slimes fall silent.

The Soul Tame communication network that I had created suddenly became quieter.

I immediately spoke to one of the stealth slimes privately within the Soul Tame communication network.

"Hey, slime number forty-seven, can we talk for a moment for a more confidential discussion?" I said while drawing a one-way communication magic formation with the Soul Tame magic chant.

Swiiiiirlll...

A magic circle formation was immediately created in front of me along with the connected stealth slime.

The corner of my eye immediately glanced at the perspective of the three stealth slimes that acted as my eyes that were with them. A small dot of the magic formation had been seen from behind the crowd of stealth slimes that were hiding on the roof of the cave.

Pooingg... Poiingg...

"Hiyyaaa!! C-Commander!" after the secret communication channel from the Soul Tame magic chant was created, I could hear the stealth slime's screams, and its body falling from the roof of the cave was caught in the eyes of my slime supervisor.

"Don't panic too much, that will makes you fall like that. Immediately take cover between the rocks of the cave so that your body is not spotted by enemies!" I shouted while giving that stealth slime orders.

Pooiingg... Pooiingg...

"I-I understand, Commander! Immediately carry out the highest order from the Commander!"

Whether it was just my feeling or not, I could see the figure of a soldier who was awkward when meeting one of the military leaders directly.

"If what you said is true, is there a possibility for the Slime King and Queen to survive this Golden King Bear attack?" I asked the stealth slime without further ado because the conditions on the battlefield were tense due to the stealth slime's silent movements.

"I-I'm sorry, Commander! I-I don't know because the signal for help they sent was very weak!"

"Signal for help?" I muttered after hearing the answer given by the stealth slime.

"Do monsters also use signals for help, Earl Timoti?" because I was confused by that answer, I immediately asked Earl Timoti who was working in silence.

His agile hand movements in staring at the wooden block depicting the course of the battle immediately stopped because of my question.

"Signal for help? Some monsters have it, Commander Lily."

"For example, like the wolf monster howling to inform its position to its surrounding comrades. It is one of the common signals for help used by monsters with high intelligence."

"In hunting monsters that can use signals for help, we often use group attack tactics and guerrilla movements to create a wide distance."

"Does this answer your question, Commander Lily?" With a friendly smile on his face, Earl Timoti waited for my further orders.

I immediately nodded to indicate that I understood his short explanation.

I immediately made a secret communication with one of the stealth slimes that was still hiding and carried out my orders with full obedience.

"Hey, Slime forty-seven, can you feel their signal for help with your body?" I asked the stealth slime that was looking for a gap in the rocks to hide in.

"I-I can do it, Commander! My instincts and magical abilities are more than adequate to carry out your orders in infiltration and silence!" the stealth slime replied confidently.

The view in front of me suddenly changed to display information given directly by the stealth slime in the Soul Tame communication network.

=====

I read a little information about this stealth slime quickly.

Seeing the active and passive magic that the stealth slime could use, I asked that stealth slime with a simple question.

"Do all stealth slimes have the same abilities as you?" I asked curiously.

After that question came out of my mouth, I could see various information statuses owned by other stealth slimes.

I once felt like this world was always joking about something.

Among the humans born in this world, some humans had talents in swordsmanship and magic.

And that also happened to monsters.

Among the hundreds of monsters under Soul Tame's control, I could feel that this individual stealth slime monster had extraordinary magical talents in infiltration and silence.

If there was a hide-and-seek match between stealth slimes, this one slime would come out on top winner.

From all the information about stealth slimes that appeared before my eyes, I could conclude that the main ability of stealth slimes was to use Visual Camouflage to hide their bodies.

But for this particular stealth slime.

"I understand," I nodded after understanding the information about it.

"You want to use the Mana Detection Skill to find the Slime King and Queen?" I asked the stealth slime in a cold tone.

"Y-Yes! Commander!" the stealth slime replied in a trembling tone.

"Can you do it alone?" I said to pressure that stealth slime further more.

"T-That's..."

An answer filled with hesitation was heard.

As a strict, disciplined, and cruel military girl. I must show my dominance as their controller in this Soul Tame magic network!

"I don't need that hesitant answer!"

"Are you willing to do it or not?!" I snapped at the stealth slime.

"I will do it, Commander!" a confident answer was heard.

With a smile filled with satisfaction, I praised that stealth slime courageous determination.

"Go and bring me good news!"

"Yes, Commander!"

The secret communication was cut off along with the movement of one of the most stealth slimes.
