

Y. Goddess 123

Chapter 123 New Magic Tools

To my surprise reaction, the Goddess Aurora had become one of the Goddesses who became the developers of the Yurification System blessing, I could hear my Goddess suddenly becoming very annoyed at the Goddess Aurora.

[Aurora! What did you just do by becoming one of the permanent developers of my Yurification System blessing?]

[Eh? I was just giving Lily-chan a hand to develop her talent in controlling my Saintess who was starting to move out of my control.]

[Don't make up ridiculous excuses! You just want to get closer to my Saintess, right?!]

[N-No way! Why should I do that when I already have my own Saintess who represents humanity? As the original Saintess who received my holy blessing, Hana has taken on the responsibility of being a Saintess who is under the protection of my holy blessing!]

[Uhuh? What do you mean by becoming one of the developers of the blessing that I created for Lily-chan? You don't want to bribe her by adding new items to the Yurification Shop, do you?]

[What's wrong with adding new items that will be useful in the role-play that Lily-chan is doing? Wouldn't it be cooler when Lily-chan acts like a leader who controls the course of the battle with victory already in her grasp?]

[...]

[...]

In that little argument, I started to feel the silence from my Goddess who was previously annoyed at Goddess Aurora.

[It makes sense, I like that little idea.]

Eh? My Goddess? Why are you suddenly acting so soft like this?

[How about you give Lily-chan some of the new items that are in the Yurification Shop right now?]

[Can we do it later? I haven't even touched on the new updates for Lily-chan's blessings.]

[Just do it now for a test drive. Just think of it as a treat for Lily-chan who seems to be working hard to help your Saintess who is a troubled Obsessive Yandere.]

[Urk, don't force me to use my Goddess' power to give blessings directly to Lily-chan. If my Saintess finds out, I'll be in danger because I'm emotionally close to Lily-chan.]

[That was very difficult reason to refute, is there a suitable alibi to escape from your own Saintess' interrogation?]

[Sob! If only I could make an alibi like that. I wouldn't feel inferior after my own Saintess threatened me by spreading my real body statue that has flat breasts like a chopping board.]

[Forgive me, Aurora. I didn't know that humans would be creative when they were in an obsessive and Yandere phase like that. Even Lily-chan seemed to have a little trouble when she realized that one of the girls she managed to conquer her heart had a possessive and obsessive yandere nature.]

It seems like I heard the contents of the conversation that related me to their problems.

Do the Goddesses usually have complicated problems like this with their Saintesses?

Especially with the problem between Saintess Hana and the Goddess Aurora. I don't want to add more burden to the Goddess Aurora. So, for the time being, I will keep Hana busy with the tasks that should be done by the Saintess.

The report paper that was within my reach had been read completely.

Earl Timoti who was standing behind my body seemed to have been working following my instructions to make a list of adventurer parties that would enter the cave and hunt the Golden King Bear herd based on my instructions.

The further sorting that I had done was the final phase before the hunt for the Golden King Bear herd was actually carried out. By separating the adventurer parties that liked to cause trouble from the obedient adventurer parties, their fate in participating in the hunt for the Golden King Bear herd had been determined.

Putting aside the basic skills and advanced skills possessed by some adventurer parties, I prioritized the attitude and tolerance to move in groups.

Following the plan that I had prepared, several stealth slimes would become guides by carrying glowing mushroom that would periodically mark their destination. The operations center that was under my command had determined the number of heads of the Golden King Bear herd that I had determined.

Is determining the number of heads in a hunt an act of cheating?

I don't care about it, it's just that it feels very unfair.

Of course, I'll admit it if it's unfair because all the remaining Golden King Bear herd locations have limited numbers based on the reports from the stealth slime herd.

Just by teaching them how to hunt silently, they became addicted to hunting the remaining Golden King Bear herd by penetrating the cave maze where they lived.

I don't want to blame this herd of stealth slimes for being too active in hunting.

However, the adventurers seemed more eager to aim for the main prize, the head of the Golden King Bear that was manifesting its magical energy into a walking source of disaster.

The increasing power of magical energy continued along with the report of stealth slime number forty-seven which informed that the Golden King Bear had almost eaten up the magic cores of the King and Queen Slimes.

Time had become our delay and the number of adventurers' forces to ward off the monster that had reached the Calamity Disaster level was more than enough. I could only count the seconds that began to count backward in my mind before the hunt started.

Sooner or later, this hunt would make the adventurers, Marquess Rommel's troops, and Earl Timoti's troops work together to defeat the Golden King Bear.

Staring at the remains of the magic core being eaten by the Golden King Bear through the stealth slime number forty-seven's perspective view, I could feel the incredible tension of this operation that would result in large casualties.

That's why I assigned Ciel, Sia, and Hana to create a talisman containing a special magic formation to teleport their bodies when they receive a serious injury through the instructions given by my mother.

Who would have thought that my mother's hobby of studying magic books and her great obsession with new magic formulas would be useful like this? Even though it sacrificed my birthday party that could no longer be celebrated, it was a price worth the ability of my mother who had understood the concept of magic belonging to the Great Hero.

Uhh, I didn't expect that mother and daughter had such terrifying magic abilities.

Compared to them, maybe I'm just an amateur in creating new magic formations.

[Did I just hear the Magician who was able to use swords as a catalyst for her magic demeaning herself as a magic amateur?]

[You heard it right, Aurora. Unlike the other Saintesses who were confident. My Saintess has low self-confidence in her true abilities.]

"Hmm?" In my little activity almost finished sorting the adventurer participants, my Goddess and Goddess Aurora spoke in my mind.

I almost replied to their words with a voice and it would attract the attention of the people around me.

[Lily-chan, do you still have enough concentration to listen to what I have to say?]

[Don't underestimate my Saintess who has listened to three different voices that entered her mind, Aurora. My Saintess does not have a mentality and mind that is easily shaken like other Saintesses.]

"..." I listened to their conversation while listening to the conversation that took place in the Soul Tame spell chant.

The voices of the conversation from the Goddess, fellow stealth slimes, and around my ears. It was a heavy burden for my mind's concentration but I managed to endure the burden to act calmly in public.

[After considering the tools I will give, I have decided to make the Yurification Shop have new magic tools in the form of magic electronics, Lily-chan.]

The words of the Goddess Aurora have piqued my interest to hear more about her words.

[Rather than using the Soul Tame spell to communicate with the adventurers through the intermediary of the stealth slime swarm. Wouldn't it be more concise and faster to communicate directly?]

[Lily-chan, get ready to listen to the product promotion from the Goddess Aurora. If you can't stand it, you can wave your hand to get help from me.]

"..." As a good listener, I tried not to interrupt the Goddess Aurora who was explaining the new items in the Yurification Shop.

[The tool in Lily-chan's Yurification Shop is the Magic Protofon. A magic communication tool that can communicate with one to several people as long as they use the same magic frequency. A very simple tool that can help Lily-chan control the movement of a large army that will hunt the Golden King Bear.]

Swiipp...

Pooomm...

Through my eyes, a golden flash covered in a wave of holy magic has formed before my eyes can follow it. Like the teleportation magic formations that the Great Heroes generally used freely, I could feel several floating objects coming out of the teleportation magic formation.

A neatly arranged wooden box was in front of my eyes with small writing on it.

[Prototype Magic Protofon handmade by Lily Schwartz De Rommel.]

[Instruction manual of Prototype Magic Protofon.]

Nggingg...

Kiiikk...

My head suddenly felt an incredible pain along with the appearance of the tool given by the Goddess Aurora.

Some knowledge and abilities of the tool called Magic Protofon entered my brain quickly.

Without reading the instruction manual in front of me, I already knew how to use the magic tool that would be useful.

"Ahem! Earl Timoti, immediately distribute this tool along with the instruction manual to each of our adventurer party leaders and our troop leaders who are participating in the Golden King Bear hunt," I ordered Earl Timoti while handing over the sorted information paper.

"Have you finished sorting the final stage, Lily-sama?" replied Earl Timoti while receiving the information paper that would participate in the Golden King Bear hunt.

"Yes, don't forget to distribute this magic tool to every adventurer party leader and high-ranking person in our squad. It will make our communication easier when we're in the cave. Oh! Don't forget to read the instruction manual too!"

While giving that command message, I leaned back on the chair and enjoyed a short, relaxing break.