

Y. Goddess 173

Chapter 173 The Most Hated Noble Family

Sebastian came to meet me with his slowlyly steps, paying attention to his respectful attitude towards Princess Anastasia and Hana, who had become important guests of the Marquess Rommel family.

A letter in his hand signified an important matter that had to be conveyed to me immediately because of my status as the Matriarch of the Marquess Rommel family.

The fact that my father refused the command baton that I wanted to return had been known to Sebastian. I don't know what reason my father was hiding, but it seemed that he was taking advantage of this free time to let go of his responsibility in making important decisions that would be made by the Marquess Rommel family.

There were only a few people who knew that I still held the command baton of the Marquess Rommel family and one of them was Sebastian.

"I hope my presence does not bother you, Lily-sama," with his respectful attitude that knew the boundaries between Matriarch and Butler, Sebastian maintained his attitude well in front of me.

"If you are looking for me instead of my father, maybe there is something that requires my consideration, right?" I replied while using a soft tone to make Princess Anastasia and Hana feel comfortable with the relaxed atmosphere of this conversation.

By blinking one of my eyes, I tried to give a small code to Sebastian to be relaxed as long as Princess Anastasia and Hana were beside me.

Sebastian seemed to notice the small blink that made him more relaxed like a Butler who accompanied the daughter of the Master he served while taking a short walk enjoying the scenery inside the Mansion.

"Yes, there are some letters that need your advice, Lily-sama. I don't know if this is an appropriate letter to be delivered to Marquess Rommel or not," said Sebastian while handing over a letter.

Sebastian extended his hand to give a letter covered in gold ink with a wax seal that had the symbol of a noble family.

I accepted the letter given by Sebastian and examined it carefully.

When I received the letter, Hana seemed to have a disgusted expression and didn't want to see it any further.

"Ugh, that disgusting family again?" Hana said while turning her face away after seeing the symbol of the noble family on the wax seal of her letter.

"I can't believe they invited Marquess Rommel's family to their twins' birthday, is it related to Marquess Rommel also having twin daughters, Alice and Alyssa?" Princess Anastasia said while showing an unhappy expression on her face after seeing the symbol of this noble family.

It seemed like they both had the same hatred for this noble family and I needed additional information before deciding what the Marquess Rommel family would do next.

"Is there something wrong with this family?" I asked Princess Anastasia and Hana who seemed to have the same opinion after knowing the symbol of the noble family printed on the wax seal of my letter.

Princess Anastasia and Hana turned their faces away again after hearing my question. An extraordinary hatred had been in their hearts for the behavior of these noble twins who seemed to have done something that made them feel uncomfortable.

"Rather than being troubled, I feel more disgusted by the behavior of the boy in that noble family. Even though he is the same age as me, his perverted nature makes me want to slap his face, but my actions must be restrained because of my dignity as one of the Princesses of the Aurora Kingdom," said Princess Anastasia with her face now filled with a look of hatred for the figure of the boy who was specifically aimed at this noble family.

"That problematic boy also almost defiled the body of a Saintess with his dirty and sinful hands. I was almost touched by his dirty hands and luckily it was thwarted by my heavenly holy dragon spirit who suddenly went berserk with a scream so as not to touch any part of my skin," along with Princess Anastasia's words that felt disgusted by the treatment given by the boy, Hana also gave her very disgusting experience of meeting the boy again.

These two identical testimonies were enough for me to reject the invitation letter from this noble family.

"Turns out it's quite problematic huh?" I replied as I opened the wax seal of the letter and took out the paper containing the writings.

I immediately read the contents of the invitation letter and immediately crumpled it up.

Poomm...

"Sebastian, we will reject the invitation to the birthday party of these noble twins and make sure not to make any contact related to this noble family," I said to Sebastian and threw the invitation letter.

"Oh, don't forget to burn that rude letter," I continued my words in a cold tone while giving Sebastian additional orders.

"I can't believe there are people who are confident enough to send such an invitation letter," I grumbled a little after feeling an insult given by the invitation letter.

What made me annoyed and angry was the writing style of the invitation letter which had looked down on the Marquess Rommel family because we were not included in the two factions that were at odds in the Aurora Kingdom Capital.

Unbeknownst to everyone, we had become an independent neutral noble family with all the needs of our territory well met. Even during our family vacation that cut off contact with anyone, we had created a new trade rule along with an economic cycle that could spin endlessly to fulfill every territory of Marquess Rommel's power with low tax prices.

"Inviting a financially independent noble family with such arrogance, I don't even want to meet them," I continued with a decision.

"I understand, Lily-sama. I will convey this to the Maid in charge of receiving incoming letters and begin an investigation into the noble family that has allied with the noble family that insulted the Marquess Rommel family," Sebastian replied while giving a bow before leaving me.

With that respectful greeting, Sebastian walked away leaving me, and crumpled the invitation letter into a ball that would be burned later.

"I really can't believe there is a noble family with such incredible arrogance," I muttered while watching Sebastian who was leaving to carry out my orders.

"You have no idea how disgusting and troublesome that family is, Lily," Princess Anastasia with her annoyed feelings still showed a hateful gaze when listening to that family.

"I just came back from a family vacation, Princess Anastasia," I replied in a relaxed tone as I continued my steps to inspect the corridors of Marquess Rommel's Mansion to make sure no forest pests were growing.

Along with my relaxed steps walking along the corridors in front of me, the conversation had turned into a curse directed at that noble family. Especially by Hana who felt very tarnished if her eyes accidentally met the gaze of the boy she hated so much.

"If only I wasn't a Saintess, I could order Vasilica to crush their residence with full power," said Hana with her eyes still sharp and full of hatred.

I, who had just returned from a family vacation and was living a relaxed life, was completely unaware of the conflict that had occurred in the Capital of the Aurora Kingdom. It was none of my business at all when the needs of Marquess Rommel's territory had been met to the point that there were no problems that made my father intervene directly in dealing with it.

"If only I wasn't a Princess who was forced to have a great sense of tolerance for one of the subjects who supported the royal family, I would make them a bitter journey while they were nobles in this kingdom," said Princess Anastasia with a gentle but cold smile on her face, it made me who saw it immediately feel an aura of cunning that made Princess Anastasia look like a villain who messed everything up from behind the scenes.

The insults filled with disgust that I heard came from valuable experiences of the behavior of the noble family. Until my ears accidentally heard a suggestion that was quite dangerous if it happened again.

"Lily, how about you take the invitation to the twins' birthday party and curse their entire family like before?" said Hana with a smile without guilt and the intention of seeing the noble family get cursed by Zoe.

I suddenly felt my body sweating after hearing it.

I'm sure that Hana who has become a holy Saintess doesn't have such bad thoughts and this is just a little joke from the bottom of her heart that feels annoyed with the noble family.

"You have a brilliant idea, I never even thought of that. It would be better if Lily cursed their entire family like she did before. That would be a very pleasant sight!" exclaimed Princess Anastasia happily and her sparkling eyes looked at me.

Ehh... that was just a joke, right?

Huuh... you're not serious about this, are you, Princess Anastasia?

Along with Princess Anastasia's sparkling eyes, now Hana is also looking at me with the same gaze!

Ugh, I feel like this is a unity and understanding that arises from the same enemy.

How can I divert these two sparkling gazes with such bad things?

With one small breath from me, I answered the hope that they would change their bad intentions.

"You heard it yourself, right, that I have rejected the invitation letter," I said in a calm tone while my eyes returned to paying attention to the clean hallways in front of me.

Since this inspection took quite a long time, the entire trip was filled with listening to Princess Anastasia and Hana's hatred for that noble family.

I don't know why that noble family's image has worsened.

What is certain is that I will not make contact with that noble family that has become famous for its infamy.

If I think about it further, it seems like that noble family is too confident in the abilities of their son who is a twin with their daughter.

Where does that noble family's confidence come from?

[It seems like I am the source of all the incidents that have happened in the Aurora Kingdom Capital.]

Huh? My Goddess, what are you saying?

While I was muttering about the source of that noble family's confidence, my Goddess suddenly entered my mind's communication channel.

[I told you, I am the source of the problem, Lily-chan!]

[It was my doing that made them reincarnate into this world!]

[You remember my complaints about the human who liked to get himself hit by a truck in another world until he died stupidly?]

I think I've heard this before, but when?

I don't know what my Goddess is thinking, but it seems like this problem will take a long time to be resolved.
