

Y. Goddess 191

Chapter 191 The Sweet Revenge Plan

My private bedroom filled with important documents.

Well, it did not become an obstacle for me, as I wanted to sleep with my twin sisters.

My two beautiful and cute twin sisters who have a unique personality based on their true nature.

Even to sleep together, my twin sisters gave a hug that warmed each other's bodies.

In the night that had passed midnight, I got a feeling of peace from my twin sisters who hugged my arms tightly to sleep together.

"You girls really think about it hard, huh?" I asked Alice and Alyssa after feeling their hugs on my arms strengthen.

My little question seemed to have reminded them of memories in the past when their biological father was still alive and had to die on the battlefield just to maintain an obligation to defend the territory of his noble family.

"I told you not to worry too much about it," I said to calm their little hearts that seemed heartbroken after realizing the death of their biological father who was a victim of the conflict between the nobles.

Because both of my arms were locked by their tight body hugs, I couldn't give a gentle caress to their hair after realizing the emptiness of their hearts that felt hurt after knowing the important information that the stealth slime herd managed to get.

"We're a little worried about what will happen after this, Onee-sama," Alice muttered softly, seemingly thinking about something else in her head.

"What happens after this? What are you going to do?" I asked in a soft tone in the night that was starting to approach morning.

"I am choosing between destroying their bloodline in part entirety," Alice muttered softly, making my body feel weak after hearing it.

"Huh? What do you mean?" I felt like my ears were mishearing because my private bedroom became quieter when Alice said that.

"I just want to make that one noble family permanently erased from the noble family tree recorded in the history of this Aurora Kingdom, Onee-sama."

With extraordinary calmness, Alice said something frightening that made it difficult for me to respond to her.

I don't know what kind of answer I should give if her mindset is already ingrained to destroy the noble family to its roots.

"I think that's a bit troublesome to do, Alice," I replied while giving another topic that would change Alice's decision to destroy the noble family to the lineage of the noble family that once lived in the Aurora Kingdom.

"If you do that, there will be some noble territories that are not taken care of after the defeat of the war. Do you know that there is a tradition where fellow nobles fight each other over areas of power that support their territories that became their personal territory gain?" with words that are a bit complicated to explain, I tried to change Alice's mindset that only understands total annihilation.

"If that happens, what will Marquess Rommel do after getting unimportant territories like barren deserts and dry mountains like what has happened now?" I continued my words while directing my gaze at the large map left by Sebastian.

Alice who was trying to understand my words seemed to have difficulty and compared my words with the map in front of her.

"That would make it difficult for us to manage land that doesn't produce any profit?" with her small tone muttering that wanted to understand something, Alice with her understanding that was a little slower than Alyssa seemed to be thinking hard about something.

"Isn't it suitable to be a dangerous research lab from residential areas like Mama's magic chant that recently exploded randomly in the basement of this Mansion?" The words given by Alice made me realize something.

A new information that only I had just found out about. Information where the magic core pollution produced magic residue that disrupted the magic chant.

"Ah, maybe it could be used if Mama bothered to go to that place just to test her new magic chant," I replied while covering a magic core pollution that produced magic residue.

I will tell them about magic residue after my little research on a magic circle chant without producing magic core residue is successful. Right now, it's just a random concept that was born from my little thoughts in the middle of the night when I had trouble sleeping.

"That would be a hassle for Mom, but it's much safer than destroying the basement of this Mansion to test a new magic spell, right?" Alice's words were true, it sounded like our Mom was slowly destroying the basement of the Mansion.

"Well, leaving aside the problems that can be solved when that day comes. How do you do something other than destroying this noble family without a trace, Alice?" I asked to return to the original purpose of my question which was to change Alice's mind about destroying that noble family.

"I don't know anything else, maybe a real test of a magic circle spell that can be hit directly on an attack target that is ready mean to be destroyed."

"What does that mean?"

Another idea that Alice thought of made me shiver again when I heard it.

"Onee-sama must know that my magic specialty is a highly destructive power that destroys everything. I don't even know how destructive my magic circle spell can be if it is not used on the right target. By using targets that are ready to be destroyed like them. That makes me want to release my magic power to the maximum limit."

I don't know what was on Alice's mind, it seemed that the desire to destroy that noble family had stuck in her mind.

For now, I will assume that I failed to persuade Alice who could restrain herself from giving great destruction to that noble family.

By turning my gaze to Alyssa who had been lying down while hugging my arm, I asked her a small question.

"Then what about you, Alyssa?"

"Do you want to destroy this noble family to the roots?"

A simple question like this should not get an extreme answer like the one said by Alice.

"Lily-nee..." Alyssa let out a small breath while smelling the scent of the arm that was close to my slightly sweaty armpit.

"Rather than destroying them quickly like Alice would do and making them into practice materials for her magic circle attacks that give a wide damage impact. I prefer to attack them with small damage that slowly enlarges without them realizing it," said Alyssa in a calm tone her eyes still closed.

These two incomprehensible twin sisters of mine seem to have different thoughts and are at odds with each other.

Alice feels that quick and massive destruction must be done when facing that noble family. However, Alyssa feels that slow destruction must be done in order to get something.

Is it just my feeling or is Alyssa hiding a much more terrible attack than Alice?

Yes, I feel that Alyssa is hiding a much more cruel and complex revenge plan than Alice.

It seems that I have to get other information from Alyssa clearly and understand her goal of wanting to attack slowly with such suffering.

"Alyssa, you know that an attack like that must be given patiently and carefully so that the target doesn't find out, right?" I asked by asking another question while digging up other information that Alyssa would give in her still-gray revenge plan.

"That is indeed quite a long plan if it is carried out. It is much better to do it in conditions like this, Lily-nee."

I feel that Alyssa is much smarter in controlling a tactic of attack from behind the scenes like this. An attack that occurs slowly with a big impact without our opponent knowing.

"With the condition of our territory which is still neutral and surrounded by the opposition noble faction, it is indeed worth doing but we have to prepare a backup plan that looks like we are also suffering. That will make us look like victims affected by the attack that occurs slowly," I don't know what I said after my eyes felt a sense of drowsiness.

"If some of our territories suffer from a long drought, we must also appear to suffer from the outside but secretly provide welfare to the residents who have loyally settled in our territory," continued my strange words that didn't know anything.

With my words that just said such a sentence, there was only a small voice from Alyssa who seemed to understand my original sentence like that.

"Lily-nee, you are cunning if you pretend to suffer but get a big advantage from this," said Alyssa which confused me.

"If we don't do it, we'll be the ones who lose."

I didn't know where this conversation was going after my eyes felt sleepy. With my eyelids getting heavier, I couldn't maintain concentration in this bedtime conversation.

"If I leave the task to you. Can you do it properly, Alyssa?" I asked while closing some of my eyelids that were almost asleep.

"Maybe I can do it. But... closing the river flow from the spring is not as easy as planned on paper, Lily-nee..." said Alyssa with her nose moving closer to my armpit.

"I'll do it if Lily-nee asks," continued Alyssa while moving her body to hug my arm even tighter until it approached my armpit which was covered in sweat.

With her small breath and sucking the scent of sweat in my armpit, I felt a little embarrassed about this little fetish that Alyssa had.

I don't know why she always accepts the smell of my sweat in a strange way like this.

"Hmm..." when my mind was distorted by Alyssa's nose movement that was getting closer to my armpit, I realized something.

"Close the river flow from its source directly," I muttered quietly.

That's when I realized that the action that Alyssa was going to take would cause an attack that our enemies would not be aware of.

Reducing the river flow from its source, would limit some water sources and cause drought to crop failure. An attack scheme that would also affect us.

My eyes immediately fell on the large map and saw that there were many rivers scattered around the Marquess Rommel border area.

"This might be a unique expedition because we will create an artificial river channel before closing their river flow," I muttered softly, starting to be unable to hold back the drowsiness in my eyes.

"Together with the help of the alliance of the Elf and Dark Elf races, if they work together to manipulate the contours of nature. It will make the river dry due to natural factors and we will slowly create a new river flow to meet the needs of the people of Marquess Rommel's territory."

With my little mutter, I could hear Alice and Alyssa agreeing to this evil plan before falling asleep soundly.

Hearing the sound of their snores as they slept soundly, I also slowly fell asleep.
