

Y. Goddess 195

Chapter 195 Plan to do DOT

Kraakk...

My fast footsteps have brought me to my private bedroom which is already crowded.

Thanks to the work done by my father earlier, several important documents have been separated between those that are useful as main weapons or as weapons for blackmail.

My presence after finishing breakfast was greeted by Mio who seemed to have provided a new table and chair for me to sit on. Mio who had disappeared after Monika took me to meet Mama for breakfast had made Mio advance the work schedule to suit my circumstances.

"Lily-sama, would you like to drink some tea suitable for an important situation like this?" asked Mio while placing some small snacks that are suitable to be eaten after breakfast.

"Unn!!" I answered her by giving a nod and immediately sat on the chair that Mio had provided.

My private bedroom is now even narrower with the presence of another Black Maid unit. They seem busy doing something related to the attack from behind the shadows.

The large map that Sebastian had prepared beforehand had received some updates with wooden boards that gave a clear sign of movement before my eyes.

Even for me who had never studied my Father's military tactics, I could read the precautionary measures that my Father would take before the official war invitation between the noble territories came to our Main Mansion.

My gaze, observing the position of the large map mark that Sebastian was changing caught a little attention from Alice and Alyssa who were waking up from their deep sleep.

Sraakk...

Krraakkk...

The sound of the squeaking of the wooden boards on the large map was very noisy, that's what caused Alice and Alyssa to wake up from their deep sleep and cast their gazes at me who was ready to do this activity.

"Onnee-samaa... Uhhh..."

"Lily-neee... Guuhh..."

My twin sisters seemed too cute when they woke up at the same time like that.

Is that what twins often to do?

A cuteness that was done simultaneously and made me smile when I saw it.

Alice and Alyssa who were awake coincided with my gaze who was watching the changes in the large map that Sebastian was fiddling with. Several wooden signs began to shift along with new reports given by the increasingly crowded Black Maid unit in my private bedroom.

"Marquess Rommel, we have confirmed that this noble family has formed a union to issue an official war invitation after getting approval from the King and Queen of the Aurora Kingdom. However, because Princess Anastasia held an internal emergency meeting to discuss something, they postponed it to review the reason for the war," said one of the Black Maid units that was heard in my ears.

With the state of the world becoming increasingly chaotic by the emergence of the seventy-two cursed swords, of course it would be better to postpone a war between nobles aimed at seizing territory.

With the intelligence that Princess Anastasia has, she will clearly reject all war activities between nobles in conditions that are currently chaotic like this.

Taakk...

"Lily-sama, please enjoy this warm tea," said Mio who had prepared a cup of warm tea to drink.

My hand immediately took the cup of warm tea and immediately drank it.

The warm tea and the calming aroma of the tea made me almost forget that a hard job was waiting for me after this.

"Onee-same..." I could hear a small whisper from Alice who was moving away after she woke up from sleep and was pulled by her Exclusive Maid to take a bath immediately.

"Uuuuh ... Lily-nee ..." along with a small whisper from Alyssa, I also saw Alyssa who was being pulled out by her Exclusive Maid to take a bath too.

Krraaakkk ...

Braaakkk ...

The movements of their Exclusive Maid seemed to have become accustomed to carrying their bodies that had difficulty waking up in the morning.

"Mio, you've never done that to me. Can we try it sometime?" I asked Mio after seeing the behavior of my twin sister together with their Exclusive Maid who seemed to understand each other's habits.

"Lily-sama, please don't do something that will make me work hard in the morning like that. Carrying Lily-sama like that will make me end up on Lily-sama's bed with my shabby work uniform all messed up."

It seemed like I heard a reply that had an ambiguous meaning in every word from Mio's mouth.

"But it was quite fun to do, wasn't it?" my little urge to do something like that another day.

"Oh! What will happen to the expedition that will be carried out soon after knowing that my twin sisters have difficulty waking up like that?" I asked further while putting down the cup of tea that I had been enjoying.

"Should I pour cold water on their bodies to wake them up immediately or give them a kiss to make them wake up faster?" I continued while thinking of another way so that this expedition would not be delayed by Alice and Alyssa who had difficulty waking up in the morning.

"Haha..." Hearing my unclear words, my father just laughed after hearing it.

"They will wake up after being forced to wake up, Lily," continued my father who seemed to know something and a surefire way to wake my twin sisters in the morning.

"Their previous Exclusive Maid had managed to wake them up and they preferred to sleep again after their noses inhaled the smell of your sweat stored in the pillow. Isn't it funny..." With a smile given by my father and his eyes still reading the important documents in his hands, my father seemed to understand what was happening around him without looking away.

A talent that felt hard to do with my focus that was easily swayed by other things like this.

"Y-Yes, that's very funny," I replied to my father's words that embarrassed me after my secret fetish of twin sisters was found out by my father.

"It was also embarrassing for me to hear it," I replied in a small tone and made sure no one else heard.

While enjoying a cup of warm tea given by Mio, now my hand was filled with an important document that I had read earlier.

Different from the information about the disgusting scandal of the noble family, this was information that was given specifically to study the reincarnators owned by the noble family.

My eyes read the part where our family had gone on a family vacation and left no traces that would allow us to be tracked. Even for Princess Anastasia who was known to be clever and a genius, she was successfully played by Noel who made false traces.

"Heh, this is interesting. They started after we went on a family vacation?" My small mutter unexpectedly attracted several gazes from the Black Maid unit towards me.

"Whether this is a loser or a clever move, their timing to move and prepare is perfect," I commented a little while reading the important document in my hand.

Because the information obtained by the Black Maid unit was limited, they only stole a few mutters that came out of my father's mouth and Sebastian's hand movements that continued to provide the latest information on the large map that indicated the entirety of the noble power around our Main Mansion.

"Like a fish trapped in a magpie eel's nest, we will only experience defeat if there is an official war that has been approved by the King and Queen after becoming a neutral noble family huh?" with this small mutter, I seemed to give a picture of this family who was preparing to fight an unavoidable war.

A war that would defend the honor of the Marquess Rommel family.

It was truly unavoidable after getting the approval of the King and Queen of the Aurora Kingdom.

"I don't think that analogy is right, it's like we're gambling by winning the war to get all the loot or losing the war with inevitable destruction."

"Somehow, I feel like gambling with the fate that my family will go through. But with the fate that has been deceived until victory comes to our family."

I, who was talking to myself seemed to give a hope of a sense of pleasure and destruction. A picture of gambling fate that would make this family bigger or destroyed by the pressure of the opposition nobles who officially challenged us from behind the scenes.

"This makes me a little annoyed and want to do something immediately like giving them a warning."

"Yes, a warning to other noble families about the price to be paid when attacking a neutral noble family who loves peace like us."

Taaakkk ...

After finishing a cup of warm tea, I started to glance at Momo who was floating on the ceiling of my private bedroom.

"Father, it seems like we need to do something about the border that directly relates to this opposition noble faction. Seeing their disgusting behavior makes me want to give them a warm greeting as a warning," I said in a calm tone to my father.

"Hmm? Warm greetings to them?" My father stopped his gaze from reading the important document in his hand and looked at me.

Returning his gaze that was looking at me, I gave a small code to my father to immediately look at the large map that had been updated by Sebastian.

My father immediately turned and looked at the large map that had been updated.

"I don't know if they're full of confidence or what, but surrounding us from various directions seems quite troublesome in a peaceful situation like this," commented my father who seemed to understand the source of the warning I was going to give to this opposition noble faction.

"So, what are you going to give them as a warning?" asked my father while giving his small blinking gaze towards me.

"A simple way like stopping the flow of their river with a natural disaster that suddenly destroys their river flow," I gave an answer that made my father raise his gaze to the large map that was filled with various signs from the wooden board.

"I think that's an interesting idea, a natural disaster that destroys the river is unavoidable though," replied my father who seemed to have understood the meaning of my words.

Forgive me for taking your little idea, Alyssa.

I have to do this before they do something weird and launch a legal invasion on our family that is being besieged by them.

To destroy the potential attack that they will do, it is better to make them suffer slowly without making a big fuss.

"Is this a sign that we have to move right now?" I asked my father to make sure of this one thing.

"Isn't it much better to move quickly before it's too late," said my father with his gaze returning to reading the important document in his hand.

It seems that I have a permit and a green light to do damage that can manipulate the flow of the river.

Cttaakk ...

After finishing the cup of tea that Mio had given me, I immediately looked at her with a smile.

"Want to accompany me for a short walk, Mio?" I asked Mio who seemed to realize that this situation could not be avoided after getting my father's approval.

"I can't refuse a request from Marquess Rommel and my own Master," muttered Mio who agreed after getting this unusual order.

"Momo..." With my call, Momo flew down towards my grasp.