

Y. Goddess 207

Chapter 207 Rat Attack

With my hand holding the cursed Odachi sheath, I felt several magical gazes identifying me.

My sharp instinct immediately used several objects around me to disrupt the magic eye spell observing me from a distance.

The killing gleam that I gave off, didn't stop them from their actions that were very inappropriate to do to a woman.

"Momo, can you fly back after I throw you to hit someone's head until they faint?" I asked Momo with a small smile from behind my face that had been covered by the scarf.

"My Monarch, your words this time are the opposite of what you said before," replied Momo who seemed to understand what had happened before.

"My Monarch doesn't want to make any suspicious movements but will throw me to make someone faint?"

"Isn't that a little off from the meaning of not wanting to attract attention and letting the stealth slime herd do their job?"

"Urrkk..." I let out a small sigh after understanding Momo's words and slightly teased my unstable decision like that.

By accepting a fact like this, I inevitably had to make an effort so that my actions would not be too suspicious in the military barracks that had been filled with Earl Timoti's pet rats.

"Sirius, I give you the task of silencing people who are trying to peek at my identification," I said in a soft tone on the Soul Tame communication network.

[I will immediately carry out the task, Supreme Commander!]

The reply I received from Sirius was answered quickly.

My body's instincts that felt the gazes that were trying to identify me had slowly disappeared. This fast and alert performance gave me an extra point to give Sirius a great opportunity to speak wholeheartedly in her apology later.

"Good job, Sirius. I give you a three-second reward to kiss my palm as an apology later..." I said in a whisper on the Soul Tame communication channel.

With my mysterious behavior like this and Mio standing silently beside me. I felt that it made the gazes of Earl Timoti's soldiers who were inside the military barracks even more astonished.

Together with my hand holding the cursed Odachi sheath with a vigilant attitude, I had given terror to the rats who had formed a rotten rat nest in a place like this for too long.

Since they were Earl Timoti's pets, I didn't want to do anything to them without a clear reason.

"It looks like this will be a long time to get supplies, Mio," I said to Mio who was standing quietly with a cold expression.

Along with me, Mio also received gazes that made her feel disturbed. The gazes that Mio received were directed at her large breasts that looked ripe with Earl Timoti's tight military uniform.

Unlike me who covered my cleavage and face with a scarf, Mio didn't get any protection which made her vulnerable to getting lewd gazes at her large breasts.

"Yes, my Master," Mio replied in her cold tone, starting to get annoyed with the lewd stares that were being directed at her breasts.

For some obvious reason, Mio seemed to change my address in a conversation that sounded formal like this.

"Are you bored just standing around waiting for Earl Timoti's supplies to be filled?" I asked to create a new topic of conversation to relieve my boredom after my wariness of the magical gazes that were trying to identify me disappeared.

"Yes," still maintaining her cold attitude, Mio gave a reply that made her look like a dangerous aide who didn't want to be questioned by anyone except me.

"If you're bored, can we have a sword technique match in a relaxed way?" I said to break this boredom by doing something that would make Earl Timoti's pet mice stop squeaking.

Just by listening to the squeaking of the mice, I felt nauseous enough and couldn't help but swing my cursed Odachi toward their necks.

Moreover... they were staring lewdly at Mio's breasts that had become mine.

I wanted to make them understand what they were getting into when I provoked my anger.

"A casual swordfight? I'm not sure that would work with the Odachi you're carrying right now, my Master," Mio seemed to reject my little idea of having a casual match that didn't involve drawing weapons from their sheaths.

"Ah, is that so? Too bad..." I just smiled after getting a gentle rejection from Mio and realized that someone had been listening to this conversation.

That made me and Mio become alert after that person walked closer.

I don't know what that one person was thinking, he seemed to be carrying a sword and took off the glove that was suddenly thrown at me.

Sliinggg!!

Slaassh!!

Paaafff!!

With a fast movement and directing an accurate slash, Mio used her tanto to chop the glove that was being thrown at me.

"Eh?!"

Because Mio gave a fast movement and a slash that made his glove shattered into pieces, it made someone who was walking closer to me receive the first warning given by Mio.

"Step any closer and your face will be injured," said Mio in a cold tone and directed the sharp eyes of her tanto towards that person.

The person who was being targeted by Mio's attack was a man wearing the military uniform of Earl Timoti's territory with the rank of Captain on his shoulder.

In contrast to my military uniform which had a military rank far above his, it made the atmosphere in the Military Barracks even more tense.

Earl Timoti who witnessed this incident just patted his face and shook his head.

"Hey! I told you not to cause trouble with the central people!" shouted Earl Timoti from a distance.

Mio's attitude who was still holding her tanto seemed to be threatening not to do anything stupid anymore until my body's instincts that felt a sign of danger were activated.

Swiiisshhh!!

Pwwwiinnggg...

By tilting my head to the side, I managed to avoid the arrow attack from a mouse that seemed to be measuring my fighting ability.

I let out a small sigh after receiving an attack that made me the benchmark for their strength.

"Mio, I'll give you a kiss if you can make these two mice collapse unconscious!" I shouted while giving orders to Mio and stuck the tip of my Odachi sheath into the ground.

By sticking my Odachi sheath into the ground, I started to feel bored and leaned my body against the cursed Odachi sword sheath.

"Sorry for making you like a pole to lean on again, Momo," I muttered softly to Momo who was standing straight like a pole.

"No problem, my Monarch. If you want to sit or lie down, then I will fly and find the right flying angle to make my Monarch feel comfortable," Momo replied in her small voice that she didn't want to be heard by the mice around us.

When I leaned my body against the cursed Odachi sheath, I saw Mio inserting the sharp edge of her tanto into the tanto sheath.

Of course that made the people who saw it laugh and think that Mio couldn't carry out my orders.

Kraakk ...

Kraaakkk ...

However, that was denied by Mio's fingers which began to stretch.

"I didn't want to do this, but you girls started it."

"With all due respect, allow me to punish them, Earl Timoti."

Woosshhh...

Baaaghhh!!

Without waiting for an answer from Earl Timoti who was approaching from a distance, Mio began to launch a surprise attack by disappearing of the people who were looking at her.

The distinctive aroma of cherry blossom petals began to be smelled.

The fragrant and calming aroma made me close my eyes. Enjoying the fragrant aroma carried by the wind blowing around me.

Just listening to the sound of Mio's fast and elegant footsteps, I could guess the direction of the attack she was aiming for, an attack for a mouse that had shot an arrow at me.

Baaamm!!

"Ugaaahhh!!"

A loud crashing sound and a scream began to enter my ears. Based on the direction of the sound, I could guess that the person Mio was targeting was the shooter of the arrow that was flying towards me.

I don't know what stupidity they are doing, it seems like they want to find my main fighting force who looks like someone suspicious in their eyes.

"Hmm..." at this moment, I seem to have an interesting idea to measure their fighting strength as well.

As Earl Timoti said, a rat that is kept can be used to provide false information that will be conveyed to its mother.

It seems like I have to do something about this.

Braaakkk...

Buugghhh...

Drruuukkk...

When I was thinking about this, the sound of someone's body rolling on the ground immediately caught my attention. It came from the person who previously shot an arrow at me.

His face which was full of bruises after being hit by Mio's hard punch immediately turned into a bloody wound after his face rolled on the ground until it hit some gravel.

"Ugh, that must hurt for someone like you," I said with a sarcastic tone to him.

Without saying such a sarcastic remark, it should have embarrassed him enough after losing in one attack.

Baaamm!!

On Mio's second punch, it hit a Captain who almost threw his glove at my face.

For this Captain, I felt a little sorry for him.

Without knowing Mio's ability to move quickly without chanting magic, he had to get a raw punch from Mio's fast-moving hand.

Braakkk...

Brrukkk...

Baaamm....

The body of the Captain who received a direct punch from Mio immediately rolled on the ground following the footsteps of the previous man.

Mio's hard raw punch made the people who were laughing at her fall silent.

Mio calmly returned to me and immediately accepted the reward I had said earlier.

Chuupp...

The kiss given by Mio immediately went to my lips with her face hiding behind the scarf I was wearing.

Chuuppp...

The kiss given by Mio made a sound loud enough to make Earl Timoti's female military troops scream hysterically.

"Kyaaa!! They're doing a passionate kiss again?"

"H-Hey, can we do a kiss like that too, Senpai?"

The moment I received Mio's kiss, I heard some strange words coming from the female soldiers who were part of Earl Timoti's main fighting force.

Those who were restocking supplies so they could return to the Main Mansion had to watch my kiss with Mio happen again.

The kiss given by Mio was quite long, it made me almost lose my breath, and ended up getting breathing assistance from Mio through mouth to mouth.

Sluurrpp...

This shameless kiss made me feel like someone who was giving a reward to her aide who had worked well.

Along with Mio's actions that looked more aggressive like this, she wanted to show that I was under her protection.

"Puuaahh..." When Mio felt that she had enough, she broke the kiss and showed our saliva that was mixed on her lips.

Mio stood back beside me and gave a sweet, seductive smile that made her look like a friendly aide.