

Y. Goddess 218

Chapter 218 - Dinner With Family Vibe

Momo who had returned to my grasp immediately stopped the overflow of her magical energy. The pitch-black magical energy that came from her was a pure power given by the Goddess of Destruction to suppress the positive energy that was slowly being devoured by the negative energy that could spread quickly.

The impact of the damage given by Momo began to be seen, several Maids and Butlers who had previously fainted rose again as if they were more enthusiastic than before.

My gratitude to Earl Timoti was conveyed well and Earl Timoti immediately returned to his seat as the leader of the current generation of the Earl Timoti family.

The presence of Earl Timoti in his leadership seat, made dinner go back to normal. Because the pressure given by Momo still lingered on several Maids and Butlers who had just risen from their fainting, I immediately put Momo beside me.

The cursed Odachi leaned on the chair like a normal weapon, it seemed that I treated the cursed Odachi with a relaxed feeling and didn't bother too much to take care of it.

Of course, it invited some curious gazes after I put Momo who was leaning on the dining chair I was sitting on.

Mio and I who were sitting casually suddenly got a gaze directed at us.

Other than our black military uniforms that attracted attention like this, it seemed like there was nothing else that was worth paying attention to with these curious gazes.

The curious gazes continued until Earl Timoti asked me a question.

"Lily-sama, I heard that my daughter has visited the room that is your private place. Is there a request that has happened between my daughter and Lily-sama?" asked Earl Timoti who began to draw attention towards him.

The question seemed to be directed at his daughter.

Eh? His daughter? Does that mean one of the noble girls is Earl Timoti's daughter?

I feel like this is new information about Earl Timoti who already has a daughter.

I didn't even know that Earl Timoti had a daughter, I thought he only had a son who had bullied me in the past.

"Yes, there are some interesting requests given by your daughter, Earl Timoti," I replied while looking at Earl Timoti who tried to liven up the dinner atmosphere to be more relaxed.

"I'm sorry if I troubled you with my daughter's request, Lily-sama," with a friendly smile to his guest, Earl Timoti seemed to give a friendly attitude that was only intended for guests who were important to him.

"It doesn't bother me. I want to apologize for giving Earl Timoti a difficult request about your own daughter's request," I tried to make this conversation as natural as possible and make it seem comfortable to hear for the members of Earl Timoti's main family who were curious about this.

"Letting your daughter train at night and with an uncertain time limit, must be hard for you as her parents, right?" I continued my words while watching a Maid who was placing a cup of tea in front of me.

"I don't need to worry if it's training given by Lily-sama herself. I'm worried that my daughter can't go through the tough training that is famous among Marquess Rommel's troops. I heard that it's a training that aims to forge mental and ability at the same time."

"That sounds exaggerated but in reality, it's hellish training that makes some of Marquess Rommel's prospective soldiers suffer trauma, hahaha..." I gave a small laugh at this one statement.

I don't know where Earl Timoti got the information from, it seems like I have to be careful not to get involved in an information war with Earl Timoti. The situation that happened during Marquess Rommel's family vacation seems to have been known by Earl Timoti.

What Earl Timoti said was hellish training that happened while Marquess Rommel's family was on vacation. Because Marquess Rommel's vacation area borders on a nest of monsters and wild evil, intense training is often carried out to forge soldiers who are ready to fight monsters or humans.

The mentally draining training caused hundreds of Marquess Rommel's prospective soldiers to suffer mental attacks and severe trauma before recovering into soldiers that Marquess Rommel could rely on.

At my previous remark that chuckled, I could feel some tension and awkwardness from the noble girls who were ready to receive direct training from me.

"That extreme training is at least in line with what the Marquess Rommel family will take. An uncertain path where our enemies are not only monsters but also humans. If not trained carefully, it will make the Marquess Rommel family look like wolves that have lost their fangs," I said while giving additional information to Earl Timoti.

"Has Lily-sama made a direct training plan like this?" asked Earl Timoti who seemed not to want to forbid me from training his daughter directly.

"Yes, there are several important points of this training such as entering an unknown territory and conducting observations to move silently," I replied while giving an overview of the training that would occur to the noble girls.

"However, perhaps this training will focus more on exploring the wilderness and making the right decisions when in the wilderness," I continued to explain the training that I would do to the noble girls.

"That's the standard training that I often use, not much different but it will add more experience to them with a small number of trainees. It will make them military girls who are ready to move anywhere without confusion," said Earl Timoti who saw my training method was very appropriate for what his daughter needed.

"I agree with this kind of training, what do you think?" the question was directed at several adult men and adult women who were in Earl Timoti's perspective.

The question seemed to be directed at military training that required their permission as parents who allowed their daughters to take part in the military training that would be given me.

"Before that, may I ask Lily-sama something first?" said one of the adult women who looked firmly across the dining table.

I immediately looked at the source of the voice and nodded my head to her.

"Is this training just an exploration without improving our daughters' sword techniques?" she asked me with a firm look in her eyes.

That pretty good question made me smile.

"I don't know, it depends on the problems we will face later," I replied with a sarcastic answer that surprised her.

"Besides, if I teach them sword techniques. At least they should be able to deal with my weapon like this," I said, now turning to Momo who was leaning on the dining chair as my cursed Odachi.

"Two different sword techniques, will disrupt their muscle memory in using the sword. Isn't that right, Mio?" I continued, throwing a question to Mio.

Mio, who had been sitting quietly, continued my words about sword techniques that cannot be taught to others carelessly.

"That's right, Lily-sama. Sword techniques are given to one movements that is divided into several levels. If they learn a new sword technique, it will disrupt their body's memory in using the sword. However, it will be different if they learn a different type of weapon. For example, Lily-sama who is currently used to using a weapon that long," said Mio, giving several examples of the conditions that noble girls would experience if they received sword training from me.

"Practicing using a variety of sword techniques may sound good but in practice, it will be very difficult to realize in real combat," continued Mio's words that closed her explanation about me who could not possibly teach sword techniques to the members of Earl Timoti's family.

With that closing question, the adult woman listened attentively.

"I guess that's true, I've also thought about this before and until now I can't master advanced sword techniques because my sword style always changes," she grumbled a little annoyed after knowing that that was the reason she had difficulty learning advanced sword techniques.

"There are several disadvantages and advantages to learning a variety of sword techniques, I think you can use a variety of sword techniques to confuse your enemy with the changes in your sword technique attacks that always change," I added to give my point of view on this one problem.

"Although it doesn't sound efficient at all using different sword techniques can make the enemy unable to anticipate the attacks that will be carried out, I have fought an enemy like that in the past and it ended peacefully," I continued my words while giving the potential advantages of learning a variety of basic sword techniques.

When I said this, several of Earl Timoti's main family members fell into deep thought for a moment as if realizing the training mistakes they had made.

Learning a variety of sword techniques is good, but it disrupts the body's muscle memory and does not have the right response if there are many sword techniques.

Along with this heavy topic of conversation, several dinner dishes were neatly arranged in front of me. The dishes that looked luxurious made me feel the luxury of a dinner from Earl Timoti's family who welcomed my arrival.

"I think, dividing the sword techniques in each branch of the Earl Timoti family is the right decision for now," said Earl Timoti as if thinking about a new future for the Earl Timoti family who was moving in the wrong direction in their sword techniques.

I just listened to this while enjoying a cup of sweet tea together with Mio who seemed relaxed after explaining her thoughts about the variety of troublesome sword techniques to apply in real war.

"I also felt something strange from the many variations of sword techniques that made me feel strange when hunting in the forest of Marquess Rommel's territory," said Earl Timoti which made me want to listen more to his words.

"Too many variations of sword techniques make the fight against monsters always change in an uncertain direction. It feels like my sword is too confused to move to slash in which direction," continued Earl Timoti who was now thinking about something heavy for himself.

I only listened to Earl Timoti's words and began to enjoy the dinner that had been served in front of me. With a dinner that tasted delicious like this and Earl Timoti's complaints, it made this dinner invitation feel even more enjoyable.

"That is the risk of the many variations of sword techniques that you learn, Earl Timoti," I replied with a light sentence while enjoying a mouthful of delicious dinner in my mouth.

Together with the movement of my mouth chewing food with an elegant and graceful attitude, it made me look like a military girl who maintains the dignity of a noble girl too.

Dinner went normally without any problems and I got full permission to do military training.