

Y. Goddess 236

Chapter 236 - She Not Stupid Anymore?

"Um, what are you doing?" I asked after seeing the woman in front of me suddenly kneel and raise her hands as if surrendering.

Before I could give her an attack that hit her body, it seemed like I had to deal with the fake surrender attack tactic that she was doing.

In a situation that was filled with thick killing intent and fear that was spreading rapidly, I had to deal with one of these kinds of nonsense.

"I-I surrender, my Monarch..." the woman replied with her head lowered.

"..." I could only remain silent after seeing her attitude that suddenly bowed like this.

The cursed sword in the form of a rapier was still in her hand as if she was preparing a surprise attack when I was off guard.

On an occasion like this, I looked like someone who was confused on the battlefield. I didn't know what this woman was planning, I couldn't swallow her words raw like this.

Even with her attitude which looked like she was surrendering, she still maintained a pose that was ready to attack at any time.

I slowly walked closer to her without letting down my guard. With my steps slowly approaching the woman, I whispered to her.

"Do you know what the word surrender means?" I whispered while pointing the cursed Odachi at her neck.

Under the strong magical energy, I could feel that she was struggling to maintain her kneeling position and keep her head bowed.

"I-I have surrendered and admit that you are a messenger directly appointed by the Goddess of Destruction based on these lazy words!" she said in a loud tone while enduring the pressure of the magical energy given by Momo.

"Hmm?" I just tilted my head after hearing her words.

"Hey! Don't just stay silent! Hurry up and speak like before!" the woman grumbled while glancing at her cursed weapon.

At this moment, I felt like I was watching someone who was struggling to get help from a cursed sword.

Along with the pressure of the magical energy I gave her, I could see the woman struggling to beg her cursed sword to speak to me.

The action she was doing looked as pitiful as someone who was being sentenced to death in public.

Even with her neck in contact with the sharp eyes of the cursed Odachi that was covered in magical energy from the blessing of the Goddess of Destruction, she looked weakly calm then panicked.

"Ugh, I'm so lazy when it comes to talking to other people," suddenly a voice echoed around me.

"Oh! My sister, you've woken up from your sleep again?" said Momo who seemed to be talking to her cursed sword sister who was currently in front of me.

At this moment, the battle between me and this woman was on the border of being over or would continue after Momo's conversation with her cursed sword sister ended.

"My sister, I'm too tired to talk right now after my wielder drained all my magical energy like this. If only I had a surge of magical energy left, surely my foolish wielder like this would keep attacking without giving up like this."

"..."

I fell silent again after hearing those words, different from my perception that was too suspicious of the strange actions she was doing. It turned out that it was an action after her magical energy and the cursed sword's magical energy had run out.

If she still had a source of magical energy right now, surely we would still be fighting each other until one of us ran out of strength or magical energy.

For me who relied on Mio's stamina and sword techniques, it made me last longer in terms of physical strength without using magical energy to ward off the attacks given by the woman.

"You're only out of magical energy, right?" I said while giving her my expressionless gaze.

"If only you still had some magic energy left, we would still be fighting at times like this before you suddenly acknowledged me as the representative of the Goddess of Destruction," I continued while moving the sharp eyes of the cursed Odachi to press more on her neck.

Bwwwunngg...

With the pressure of the magic energy given by Momo, I could feel the grip of the cursed Odachi's handle becoming heavy and almost severing the woman's neck if I wasn't holding the burden of heavy magic energy like this.

"Because your stupid brain is one of the members of a cult that deviates from the wishes of the Goddess of Destruction herself. Give a reason why you believe me as the representative of the Goddess of Destruction herself?" I continued by giving my point of view that only considered her as a stupid cult worshiper.

Bwwwwoongg!!

The pressure of magical energy given by Momo became even greater when the woman tried to raise her head to look at me.

"Keep your head down in front of the Monarch of Holy Destruction!" said Momo with a heavy and harsh emphasis on her words.

"Oh, Monarch of Holy Destruction, please forgive my stupid holder like this. Unlike other girls who use their brains to think, she uses her brain to fight and justifies any means to win," replied the cursed sword whose name I still don't know.

"..." I was silent for a moment before continuing my words for her.

Glancing at the scenery around me, several stealth slimes on duty seemed to have colored the fast-flowing river with blood-red stains.

The report given by Aiko and Sirius has shown their progress in cleaning up the mess caused by this cult that worships the Goddess of Destruction.

"Hey, I'll tell you one thing," I said in a whisper to the woman and her cursed sword.

"The Goddess of Destruction doesn't want to return to this world anymore and my goal this time is to fulfill her request as her trusted right hand. Unlike other perverted Goddesses who give me tasks that are not far away to fulfill her perverted needs, at least I can still do the Goddess of Destruction's tasks," I continued, teasing my perverted Goddess.

[For the umpteenth time, I'm not a perverted Goddess!]

[Was it a mistake when I wanted to see Lily-chan seduce a woman wearing only a naked apron?]

[That's not a mistake but an art that must be preserved by the people living in this world.]

[An art that must remain even when the world is heading towards an uncertain future from the thread of fate that continues to run!]

As usual, I heard the chatter of my Goddess who seemed to disagree with my previous words.

Even my Goddess still denied the fact that she was a perverted Goddess who made me have to sexually tease other women after growing into a teenage girl like this.

[Lily-chan, this is what is called the freedom of youth filled with passion and fiery desire!]

Ignoring what my Goddess said, I began to pay attention to the behavior of the woman in front of me.

"Do you understand the words I said?" I asked while watching her every movement.

"Uhh, I think I understand some of the words," she replied with her stupid face that seemed to not understand anything.

"Haaahhh..." I let out a long sigh filled with regret when I saw someone who was stupid and had difficulty understanding my simple words.

I don't know what this cursed sect has done, it seems like they like to collect stupid people who only rely on their numbers and fighting skills.

Slaasshh!!

Baaanng!!

Yes, even in the fight against the hidden stealth slime herd, they often direct magic attacks in the wrong direction.

"If you understand, then you know what you're going to do," I said while pulling the handle of the cursed Odachi which was starting to feel heavy in my grip.

For several minutes, I had been holding the heavy weight of the cursed Odachi that was covered in magical energy.

After my hand pulled the handle of the cursed Odachi to get out of my sweet intimidation that was touched on her neck, it made the woman breathe a sigh of relief after she changed sides.

I don't know what her cursed sword said, at least it has made her a reliable ally for a while.

For that, I immediately asked her a question to clarify her identity as an ally or an enemy.

"You know what you're going to do now, right?" I asked without giving her any hints.

"Momo, give some of your magic energy to your sister," I continued to say to Momo.

"Eh? Why?!" Momo sounded confused but began to share some of her magic energy with her cursed sword sister.

Under my status as the Monarch of Holy Destruction who was carrying out the orders of the Goddess of Destruction who did not want to return to this world, I gave some of that noble task to the woman in front of me.

Swiipp...

Swiipp...

Momo's overflowing magical energy was slowly being sucked up by her cursed sword sister. By getting the magical energy intake from Momo, I could see the woman who was still kneeling in front of me become cheerful again after feeling the turbulent magical energy flowing through her body.

"Is this the power of the sacred magical energy of destruction that comes from the Monarch of Holy Destruction who was directly appointed by the Goddess of Destruction?" muttered the woman who seemed to have knowledge my identity.

Even though I thought that she was an idiot who didn't understand anything, it seemed that I had to rearrange that thinking after seeing her understand the current situation.

"Is it possible... all this time the Goddess of Destruction's sect has been moving in the wrong direction?" continued the woman muttering while showing her thinking ability which suddenly changed to being smart after getting seeing fact in front of her face directly.

"..." I fell silent again after seeing her sudden change to being smart like this. Unlike before, she looked like a stupid woman who only relied on fighting to solve problems, this time she looked like a woman who could be talked to peacefully.

Swoopp...

After Momo finished giving some of her magical energy to her cursed sword sister, I could see a big change in the woman in front of me at this time.

Like a woman who had just received divine enlightenment from above the sky, I saw her start to kneel while using her hand position as she prayed.

"Oh, the Goddess of Destruction, thank you for giving me a guide that made me return to the right path like this," she said while feeling Momo's magical energy slowly seeping into her body.

"Hey, Momo, is it my fault for making someone go crazy like this after previously being a fanatic who worshiped the Goddess of Destruction?" I whispered to Momo after seeing someone who changed three hundred and sixty degrees after feeling the magical energy given by Momo.

"I don't think it's your fault, my Monarch. Any individual who is astray like this deserves a hard slap from reality before she can believe anything," Momo said sarcastically.