

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World

Chapter 381

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 381

My Son

Since Danna was locked up and the Adams family was under surveillance, only the subordinates were watching the child.

Those people are just working for the money. If they see the high rewards offered, they'll surely get swayed. Even if they don't, the neighbors in the area would. With that in mind, Benjamin hoped they'd be able to locate the child soon.

However, it was an uphill task to find a child in a sea of people.

If the child was registered in the household registration system, there was still hope of finding him. However, they didn't know if he was registered.

Besides, if he was registered, they would've registered him when he was born. The only way they could find him was to screen through all the children who were of the same age. By doing that, it'd take a long time because it'd be like searching for a needle in a haystack.

Hence, Benjamin hoped they could get an advantage by relaunching the advertisement they advertised earlier.

Upon hearing what Benjamin said, Arissa got even more worried.

She couldn't imagine what her missing son was going through.

When Benjamin saw how concerned she was, he comforted her, "Don't worry! We'll find him."

Although he said that to her, he was pretty worried as well.

Arissa gazed at him and nodded. "Thank you!"

With a glint in his eye, Benjamin answered, "What are you thanking me for? He's also my son!"

Indeed, if it wasn't for him, their son wouldn't have gone missing.

Arissa pouted in response.

"Stop frowning. The kids might get worried if they see you like this!" Benjamin cajoled her calmly.

Due to the fact that Arissa was extremely worried about her missing son, she didn't notice how much Benjamin had changed. Where are you, Sweetheart?

The four boys outside the room furrowed their brows as they were wondering about why their parents were worked up.

"What are Mommy and Daddy worried about?" Jasper frowned and asked.

Swiveling his eyes around, Zachary saw the surveillance cameras in the study room. "Gavin, do the surveillance cameras in the study room have a voice recording feature?" he asked softly.

Gavin threw a glance at the cameras and shook his head. "No. They only record visuals!"

Since they were so far from their parents, Zachary couldn't see their lips when they talked. Otherwise, he could still take a guess by reading their lips.

"Well, I guess we'd have to ask Mommy!" Since they couldn't hear anything, Oliver heaved a sigh and was about to leave after turning around.

Jasper was still lying on his stomach while focusing on the movements in the study room.

Suddenly, Zachary's eyes brightened up. He held Gavin excitedly and said softly, "Mr. Graham was on the phone just now. We can find out who did he call and stalk that person."

Gavin's eyes lit up as well. Right. Daddy must've instructed someone to do something just now.

After that, the four boys ran back into the house.

Edwin was stumped when he saw them running into the house. "Hey, why haven't you guys changed?"

All this while, the kids would always change out of their school uniforms upon arriving home.

That was why Edwin was surprised when he saw them unchanged.

"Mr. Whitley, we're going to get changed now!" Zachary exclaimed while leading the rest of the boys upstairs. Jesse picked up her school bag and followed behind when she saw them running past her.

A short while later, the five of them got into the room and locked the door.

Zachary took out his laptop and started typing lines and lines of commands.

Gavin was stunned. "You're amazing, Zachary!"

A boastful look appeared on Zachary's face before he said, "It's going to get even more amazing in a while. Just watch!"

Gavin's eyes gleamed with excitement as he watched intently.

Unlike Gavin, Oliver, Jasper, and Jesse were well aware of Zachary's capabilities. Hence, they sat quietly at the side because they could tell he was onto something.

The moment Arissa got out of the study room, the first thing she did was to look for the children.

After seeing no sign of them in the living room, she found out from Edwin that the kids had gone upstairs. Hence, she walked up the stairs and went to the kids' room.

When she turned the doorknob, she found that it was locked.

When the kids heard the doorknob moving, they immediately turned their heads toward the door.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 382

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 382

Left Out

Arissa was dumbfounded. "Sweethearts, why did you guys lock the door?"

Are they hiding away to play games? "Hey, open the door at once!" Arissa ordered.

Inside the room, the kids looked at each other in response. Zachary quickly turned off his laptop and told the others to open the door.

Jesse diligently ran toward the door and opened it. She poked her head out and greeted, "Hi, Mommy!"

When Arissa saw Jesse beaming, she gently tapped her forehead and asked, "Did you guys lock the door to do something naughty?"

Jesse shook her head. "No! We were just changing." She looked extremely innocent as she blinked her eyes at her mother. In fact, she could be very persuasive when needed.

Arissa picked her up and walked into the room. Indeed, the boys were halfway getting changed.

"Why are you guys only changing now?" Arissa's gaze swept across the room. Didn't they get back from school a while ago?

"Mommy, we were playing around just now. Only now do we have the time to change!" Jasper chuckled joyfully and got changed swiftly.

Arissa flashed a smile and didn't think too much about it. She then took a set of clothes and helped Jesse get changed.

She was wearing the same clothes as her brothers.

When Gavin saw the others wearing the clothes, he looked slightly dismayed.

Once Arissa was done getting her daughter changed, she noticed the boy standing next to her.

"What's the matter, Sweetheart?" she asked.

Gavin shook his head while his eyes were still fixated on his siblings.

Arissa threw a glance at the other kids, and something popped up in her mind. Immediately, she knew what was troubling Gavin.

"Sweetheart, do you want to wear the same clothes as them?" she asked.

Gavin's eyes lit up, and he smiled bashfully. "Well, we're siblings!"

Arissa kissed him on the cheek after smiling tenderly at him. "Yes. I'll buy a set of those clothes for you too, Sweetheart. Okay?"

A look of anticipation crossed Gavin's face as he looked sheepishly at Arissa.

Arissa's heart ached at the sight of that. She hugged him tightly and uttered, "I'll do that. You're my sweetheart too! It's just that I didn't get to buy for you prior to this. From now onward, whatever your siblings have, you'll have it too! After dinner, we'll go out and buy, okay?"

“Yes!” Gavin was over the moon.

Jesse clapped happily and exclaimed, “We get to go shopping tonight!”

Even Zachary, Oliver, and Jasper, who were never fond of shopping, were overjoyed.

“Gavin, I have an identical set of clothes. I’ve worn it before, though. But if you don’t mind, I can lend it to you!” Zachary offered generously when he saw how Gavin kept looking at their clothes.

“I have a set as well! Do you want mine?” Oliver smiled brightly and asked.

Jasper chimed in, “Yes! I have a set too! However, the patterns on it are different.”

Not wanting to be left out, Jesse offered generously, “Gavin, me too. Do you want mine?”

Upon hearing all that, Gavin was delighted. “Thank you! I’ll wear Zachary’s!”

Zachary immediately went to take his clothes and gave them to Gavin.

After that, Gavin took off his pants and shirt and changed into them.

Arissa was gladdened when she saw the affectionate interaction among the siblings.

“You look so handsome, Sweetheart!” she praised.

Gavin blushed upon hearing that.

Arissa smiled. My son is so cute when he’s embarrassed.

“Gavin is blushing!” Jesse giggled. Her glistening eyes were curved into two beautiful crescents.

At that point, Gavin was blushing uncontrollably.

Zachary, Oliver, and Jasper found his embarrassment amusing.

“Gavin, you look like us now! So dashing!” Jasper exclaimed.

“Gavin, the clothes are comfortable, right?” Oliver added.

“Indeed!” Gavin nodded.

Zachary tapped on Gavin’s shoulder. “Luckily we’re of identical figures! You look great!”

Jasper and Oliver giggled as well. "Gavin has the same figure as us!"

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 383

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 383

Will Not Tell Mommy Our Secret

Zachary shot a look of disdain at Jasper. "You're so chubby!

Jasper was left speechless while Arissa burst out laughing.

Actually, Jasper was not that chubby. His cheeks were slightly rounder, so he looked fatter than his brothers.

Jesse was the one who was actually chubby.

"I'm chubby!" Jesse patted her stomach.

"Sweethearts, do you want to go downstairs or play upstairs?" asked Arissa.

"We'll go wherever you go, Mommy!" The five of them surrounded her

As Arissa gazed at their adorable faces, her heart melted.

She pulled all of them into her arms and pecked them on their cheeks.

"Then, why don't you go downstairs to cook with me?"

"Aren't you feeling unwell, Mommy? Just let Mr. Whitley cook instead!"

Gavin stared at her worriedly.

"Yeah! If you're feeling uncomfortable, don't work so much! Rest more."

Zachary refused to let her cook too. The other three opposed as well.

Arissa was touched. "I've already recovered, so I can cook!"

The five of them stared at her fixedly. Amused, she reassured them, "I've really recovered!"

"Mommy, are you hiding something from us?" asked Zachary all of a sudden, catching Arissa off guard.

“What?” She stared at the five children in confusion.

Meeting her gaze, the five of them asked simultaneously, “You’ve gotta answer that! What did you talk to Mr. Graham about in the study room?”

Arisa was stunned, not expecting them to be so observant.

“I was discussing some matters with him, but that concerns the adults! It’s better if you kids don’t know about it.”

Since Arisa had not found the other child, she did not want to tell them and make them worry as well.

When she had gone back to look for Gavin, she did not tell the kids either.

The five children sighed. “Since you’re unwilling to tell me your secret, we won’t tell you anything when we have secrets!”

They snuck a glance at her as they tried to provoke her on purpose.

Arisa was amused by their actions. “I’ll tell you after a while, okay?” She stroked their heads before turning around and heading downstairs.

The kids followed her down.

“What are you planning to cook, Mommy?” asked Jesse hungrily as she grabbed Arisa’s finger.

Arisa looked down at her daughter and asked with a smile, “What do you want to eat?”

Jesse’s eyes crinkled into crescents as she smiled and told Arisa what she wanted to eat.

Her brothers did the same too.

When Arisa noticed that Gavin was still silent, she laughed and asked, “What do you want to eat, Gavin?”

“I’ll eat whatever my brothers want to eat!” He was a very thoughtful boy.

Stroking his head, Arisa insisted, “No! You need to tell me something that you like to eat!”

After thinking about it, Gavin said, “I want to eat some prawns, Mommy!”

“Sure! I’ll see if we have the ingredients first. If not, I’ll go out and buy them,” said Arissa as she walked toward the kitchen.

“Are we going to the supermarket, Mommy?”

Jasper, who loved to eat, immediately became excited.

Arissa glanced at him in amusement. “Who said that I’m going to the supermarket?”

Jasper stuck out his tongue and mumbled, “Aren’t you going to the supermarket if you run out of ingredients?”

“Yeah, but I’m not going personally. I can ask Edwin to go!” said Arissa teasingly.

Gavin chuckled.

“It’s okay! We can buy them with the butler,” said Zachary with an excited grin.

Oliver nodded and chimed in, “We’ll buy the ingredients and Mommy will cook!”

“We can buy so much yummy food at the supermarket!”

Jesse’s mind was already filled with the delicious snacks in the supermarket.

Looking at how eager the kids were, even Arissa felt like going to the supermarket.

She went to look at the fridge while the kids followed her.

Soon, she turned around. Still smiling, she revealed some bad news to them, “Sweetheart, all the ingredients we need are in the fridge! You won’t be able to go to the supermarket anymore.”

The kids were stunned.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 384

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 384

My Eyes Are Red Not Because Of Your Father

They refused to believe her, thinking that she was merely tricking them.

However, when they rushed to the fridge and took a look, they were speechless.

Arissa was amused by how disappointed the kids looked.

"If you want to go to the supermarket, I'll bring you there after eating!" She could not bear to see them so disappointed.

"Wow! That's great!" cheered the five kids happily. Even Gavin smiled as well.

"I love you, Mommy!"

Arissa did not know what to say.

"So you don't love me if I don't bring you to the supermarket?"

"We still do! But if you bring us to the supermarket, we'll love you more, Mommy!" Jesse knew how to flatter someone. Her adorable voice immediately made Arissa's mood improve.

Smiling, Arissa instructed the kids, "Ask your daddy what he wants to eat!"

However, the five kids shrunk back, none of them wanting to go.

"Huh?" Arissa glanced at them.

"Since Daddy bullied you, I'm not going!" declared Zachary defiantly.

His siblings chimed in, "We aren't going either!"

Stunned, Arissa looked at Gavin who was also pouting indignantly.

"You can just cook yummy food for us, Mommy. No need to care about him!"

Arissa sighed. Why are the kids rejecting Benjamin all of a sudden again?

"He didn't bully me! What are you doing?"

"Mommy, stop lying to us. Your eyes are already red from crying!" scoffed Jasper as he pointed at her eyes.

Arissa was stunned, not knowing that the kids were so observant. Since they had misunderstood, she quickly explained, "My eyes are red not because your daddy bullied me. This has nothing to do with him!"

Their eyes lit up as they asked, "Why, then?"

Meeting their worried gazes, Arissa felt moved.

"It's because of something else!"

She stroked their heads and walked toward the study, deliberately avoiding their question.

The kids exchanged a look with each other.

Mommy didn't fall for the trick. What secret is she hiding from us?

Arissa came to the study and knocked on the door, reminding the man inside.

Benjamin raised his head. "Come in!"

When Arissa met his gaze, her heart skipped a beat.

"What do you want to eat for dinner?"

He frowned. "Are you cooking tonight?"

Arissa nodded. "Yeah!"

"Don't! Let Edwin do it," instructed Benjamin solemnly.

Thinking that he was afraid of her cooking something weird again, she cleared her throat.

"I won't cook anything inedible. What do you want to eat?" she asked again.

"You still haven't recovered. If you're too bored, play with the kids instead. Edwin can cook dinner!" repeated Benjamin before resuming his work.

Arissa felt touched. "I've already recovered."

When he ignored her, she pouted and headed to the kitchen.

Upon noticing that she wanted to cook, Edwin stopped her and chased her out.

However, since Arissa insisted on staying, he had no choice but to let her cook while he helped out.

"Ms. York, let me handle these ingredients! You can just do the cooking later."

"Let's do it together. I'm free, anyway!"

Arissa stayed in the kitchen instead of leaving. Just like that, she spent more than an hour preparing five dishes and a soup.

They were all the kids' favorite. Since Benjamin did not specify what he wanted to eat, she did not cook anything else.

"Sweethearts, dinner's ready!" yelled Arissa in the direction of the living room. The five kids immediately tossed their toys aside and ran over.

Looking at the table filled with delicious food, they gulped.

"Wow! There's so much yummy food!"

"Wash your hands! It's about time for dinner," ordered Arissa before calling Benjamin over to eat.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 385

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 385

None Of Them Is For Him

As Benjamin was calling someone on the balcony facing the garden, she waited at the door for a while.

She felt touched when she saw how busy he was, answering calls after another.

Is he held back from work because he was accompanying me at the hospital in the morning?

Feeling someone's gaze on him, Benjamin turned around and saw her standing at the entrance. She was in deep thought.

"What's the matter?" Although he was still on the call, he moved his phone aside and asked.

Arissa was pulled back to her senses.

"Okay! Eat with the kids first. I need to settle some things," said Benjamin.

Arissa nodded. After urging him to hurry up, she returned to the dining room.

The kids had already washed their hands. She carried them to their seats and reminded them, "Wait for a while! Your daddy isn't here yet."

They nodded and waited at the dining table obediently, none of them making the move first to start eating.

Edwin smiled when he saw that.

"Ms. York, since Mr. Graham isn't here yet, you can drink some soup first and wait for him to come."

"It's fine! Let's wait for him first," replied Arissa as she snuck a glance at the five kids, who were drooling as they stared at the food.

Laughing, she asked, "Would you like some fruits?"

The five kids stared at her. Arissa stroked their heads before leaving to get some fruits for them.

Meanwhile, Edwin poured soup for them.

"Ms. York, drink some soup first! We don't know when Mr. Graham will be ready. The kids should not go hungry!"

Edwin poured a bowl of soup for Arissa before placing another bowl at Benjamin's seat.

"Thank you, Edwin!" said Arissa.

She then reminded the kids, "Drink the soup first! Be careful, it's hot."

"Okay!" They nodded. "You too, Mommy."

"Sure!" replied Arissa with a smile before drinking her soup.

Edwin stared at them before going to the study and hurrying Benjamin.

"Mr. Graham, go to eat quickly! Ms. York and the kids are all waiting for you."

"Got it!" replied Benjamin. Didn't I ask her to eat with the kids first?

He placed his work aside, got up, and went to the dining room.

When Arissa saw him, she said, "Come and eat!"

"Okay."

Benjamin shot a glance at her before pulling the chair out.

The five kids stared at him and greeted, "Hello, Mr. Graham!"

Benjamin's eyes gleamed as he scanned the kids. "Hello!"

They continued drinking the soup. While Benjamin sipped on his soup, he glanced at the dishes on the table. They look quite delicious!

“Did you cook everything?”

Stunned, Arissa nodded. “Yeah! Why?”

Benjamin cut out a piece of steak and tasted it. “It’s not bad!”

“Thanks!” Arissa returned his gaze. She was quite confident in her culinary skills.

Benjamin shot a meaningful gaze at her. “How did you know that I like to eat this?”

Arissa and the kids were stunned.

Gavin could not help but dash his hopes.

“Don’t be shameless! Zachary likes to eat this, so Mommy cooked it for him.”

Raising his eyebrows, Benjamin looked at his son, then back at Arissa.

“You prepared this for the kids?”

Arissa laughed embarrassedly. “You didn’t say what you wanted to eat when I asked you, so I only cooked what the kids wanted.”

Benjamin snorted softly. Edwin laughed secretly when he saw how displeased Benjamin was.

“Mr. Graham, Ms. York prepared this soup specially for you. There’s quite a lot left. Would you like to have another bowl of soup?”

Benjamin glanced at Arissa suspiciously, not believing that she had cooked it.

Arissa did not expect Edwin to credit her for it. Meeting Benjamin’s suspicious gaze, she became even more embarrassed.

“Edwin prepared this for you, not me!”

Benjamin’s face fell. He turned around and glared at Edwin. “You may leave now!”

“Okay!” Edwin quickly left.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 386

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 386

You Only Know How To Scold Mommy

Arisa was speechless when she saw that Benjamin had lost his temper.

“Edwin spent a lot of effort making this soup!” She could not bear watching Edwin being scolded.

“Don’t speak when we eat!” interrupted Benjamin as he continued drinking his soup.

The corners of Arissa’s lips twitched.

After they were done drinking the soup, she prepared some pasta for the kids and herself.

Benjamin passed his plate to her the moment she sat down.

Arisa shot him a glance, but still took his plate and put some pasta on it.

When she placed the plate down in front of him, he frowned. “Is there still any pasta left?”

He glanced over.

Arisa replied, “Yeah!”

“Why didn’t you give me more?” scoffed Benjamin.

She was at a loss for words. Feeling guilty, she averted her gaze and focused on eating.

“If you think that it’s too little, why can’t you get it yourself? All you know what to do is to scold Mommy!” protested Gavin when he saw Benjamin scolding Arissa again.

Benjamin looked over and met Gavin’s furious gaze. The other four kids were equally angry too.

Feeling delighted, Arissa glanced at them and coaxed gently, “It’s fine. Eat up, sweethearts! We’re still going out later!”

When they heard that, they immediately averted their hostile gaze from Benjamin and continued eating attentively.

Benjamin swept his gaze across Arissa and the kids.

"Where are you going later?"

Still chewing her food, Arissa mumbled, "We're going shopping!"

Just when Benjamin wanted to tell her to stop going out before she fully recovered, he noticed that there was some pasta stuck on her lips.

It moved as she chewed, making her look adorable and funny.

A look of amusement crept into his eyes.

Feeling his eyes on her, Arissa turned around and met his teasing gaze.

Benjamin raised his hand and wiped the pasta away from her lips. He chided, "You eat like a child!"

Arissa and the five kids were stunned.

Sensing that everyone was now looking at her, Arissa blushed.

She wiped her mouth and continued eating the pasta.

Although she seemed calm on the surface, she was dying from embarrassment inside, especially when Benjamin glanced over occasionally.

After eating, Arissa was about to leave with the kids when Benjamin followed them out.

While she stared at him, he opened the car doors. "Get into the car!"

"Are you going too?" she asked carefully.

Benjamin raised his eyebrows domineeringly. "Why? Am I not allowed to go out?"

Arissa pursed her lips. "No. I'm just asking because you seem busy."

Since he's not worried about work, why am I still asking about it?

Arissa lamented silently before bending down and getting into the car.

The five kids were already inside the car. When they saw Benjamin driving, they were surprised.

Zachary asked, "Mr. Graham, are you going shopping with us?"

"Yeah. Since your mommy can't possibly look after all of you, I'll join too," replied Benjamin as he turned around and glanced at him.

The corners of Zachary's lips twitched. He makes us sound like mischievous kids! We won't run around wildly.

Arissa was equally speechless at Benjamin's excuse.

Although the kids did not say anything else, they were quite happy to see Benjamin together with them.

Arissa smiled as she looked at the kids.

"Where are you going shopping?" asked Benjamin as he turned his head around.

He started the engine and drove out of the Graham residence.

"The shopping mall is fine!" replied Arissa.

Benjamin nodded and drove to the shopping mall.

With Arissa and the five kids, he went to a mall that was owned by him.

When Arissa saw that famous shopping mall, she was speechless.

This is a paradise for people to spend money on.

"Sweethearts, let's go in!" She called the five kids as they scrambled down the car.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 387

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 387

Boys Do Not Look Good In Pink

When the kids were all gathered there, Arissa saw Benjamin walking over.

"If you're busy, you don't have to shop with us. We'll go home after buying the stuff!"

"Just go in."

Benjamin raised his chin and led the rest into the shopping mall.

"Wow! This is so big!" exclaimed Jesse in wonder.

Benjamin carried her affectionately and pinched her cheek.

"If you want to buy something, just tell me."

Jesse stared at him and blinked adorably.

"Gavin wants to buy some clothes!"

Benjamin glanced at Gavin. "We have a lot of clothes at home right? Why are you buying more clothes?"

Gavin snorted.

Stroking his head, Arissa held his hand and called the other three boys over, "Come on! Let's go to the children's clothing section!"

Arissa brought the kids over so they could choose their own clothes.

Benjamin had no choice but to follow them while carrying Jesse.

"Mr. Graham, can you put me down?" asked Jesse in an adorable voice in his arms, her cheeks looking very rosy.

Benjamin lamented silently. If only Jesse is a girl...

"It's crowded here, so I'll carry you!"

Benjamin just wanted to carry her for a little while longer.

Left with no choice but to let him carry her, Jesse snuggled back into his arms. She was quite happy too since she was high enough to look far into the distance.

When the people in the shopping mall saw Benjamin and Arissa with the five kids, their attention was immediately drawn to them.

Since the family was so good-looking, the crowd was awed.

"That man is so handsome! Who is he?"

"He's even carrying his child. How sweet!"

"Can those five kids be quintuplets? They look like they are of the same age and similar to each other too..."

"I'm so envious of that woman! Not only are her kids so good-looking, but her husband is also so handsome!"

Arissa felt embarrassed when she heard that.

Benjamin glanced at her face. A slight blush had spread across her cheeks, making her look extremely alluring.

A passionate look crept into his eyes.

“Mommy, what about this shirt?” Jasper ran toward her with a shirt.

Returning to her sense, Arissa glanced at it and thought that it looked quite cool.

“Sure!”

Jasper ran over and told his brothers, “Mommy says that it’s okay!”

“Should we buy this, then?” Gavin looked at the rest, afraid that they would not like it.

“Yeah!” Zachary nodded. Oliver and Jasper liked it too.

The four of them chose different designs.

“Which one do you want, Jesse?” Oliver asked Jesse, who was still being carried by Benjamin.

“I want that pink one over there!” Jesse glanced at the shirts and chose one with a design that she liked.

However, Benjamin frowned. Boys shouldn’t like pink.

“Boys don’t look good in pink. Choose another one!”

Looking back at him, Jesse flailed her arms around, trying to get down.

Benjamin had no choice but to place her on the ground.

Jesse ran over and hugged the pink shirt. “I want this one!”

“Okay!” Arissa laughed and asked the staff to pack five shirts.

Benjamin frowned. Why is she letting our son wear pink?

“That’ll be a total of seventy-five thousand!”

The shirts were extremely expensive. However, upon thinking that the money would be spent on the kids, Arissa kept her complaints to herself.

“Let me.” Not letting her pay, Benjamin passed a black card over.

However, Arissa quickly took his card back. “No, I’m buying this for Gavin and the rest.”

Benjamin’s brows knitted together. “Is it different when I pay?”

“Of course! It’s different depending on who buys it! I promised Gavin.”

Arissa still made the staff use her card.

Meanwhile, Benjamin sighed. Is there a need to make the distinction so clear?

Arissa continued shopping with the kids and bought quite a lot of clothes for them.

Since Benjamin also bought some for them, the number of shopping bags in his hands increased quickly.

Pleased that she did not have to carry so much, Arissa continued shopping with the kids.

After they were almost done shopping, they went to the supermarket in the basement.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World

Chapter 388

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 388

Accompanying The Kids

When they reached the entrance of the supermarket, Zachary, Oliver, Jasper, and Jesse ran to push the trolleys.

Since Gavin had never gone there before, he was unsure of what to do.

Noticing it, Arissa stroked his head. “Let’s wait for them to push the trolleys out first. If you want to buy anything, just put it inside the trolley!”

Gavin’s eyes lit up as he raised his head and looked at Alyssa. “Is this trolley meant to carry things, Mommy?”

Arissa nodded and whispered, “Yeah! Children can sit inside too.”

Coincidentally, Gavin saw a parent at the side carry a kid into the trolley.

He laughed shyly. “Let’s let Jesse sit inside! We can push her... him!”

“Okay!” Arissa caressed his head again.

Although Benjamin was at the side taking a call, he was constantly staring at the kids and ensuring that no one would bump into them.

The four kids pushed the trolley out excitedly.

"Is one enough, Mommy?"

Arissa chuckled. "Of course! Are you planning to move the entire supermarket back home?"

The kids laughed as well.

With Gavin walking beside her, Arissa said, "Let's go in and shop!"

"Haha! We'll push the trolley!" Jasper quickly pushed the trolley.

"Let Jesse sit inside!" said Gavin as he followed the rest.

Zachary nodded and greed, "Jesse, sit inside the trolley."

"Okay!"

Excited, Jesse turned her head around and glanced at Arissa.

Smiling, she walked over, carried Jesse, and placed her inside the trolley.

"Gavin, do you want to sit inside too?" asked Arissa gently upon noticing Gavin's envious gaze.

"Yeah! You haven't sat in a trolley before, right? Give it a try!" urged Oliver, wanting him to try it out too.

"Gavin, go inside! We'll push you." Zachary tried to convince him too.

"Just let Jesse sit inside. I'm good!" Gavin blushed, feeling a bit embarrassed.

Knowing that he was simply being shy, Arissa bent down and carried him into the trolley.

"Just sit inside for a while. If you don't like it, you can always come down!"

"It's really comfortable here, Gavin!" Jesse said to Gavin.

After he sat down, she hugged his arm.

“Okay!” As Gavin had never experienced this before, his expression was quite stiff. However, it did feel quite comfortable.

“Let’s go!” yelled Jasper.

With Zachary and Oliver following him, they pushed the trolley into the supermarket.

“Slow down! Don’t bump into anyone,” reminded Arissa as she followed them with a grin.

“Okay, Mommy!” Zachary made an ‘okay’ sign with his fingers.

There were quite a lot of people in the supermarket at that hour. When they saw the five adorable kids, they all glanced over. They could not tear their eyes away from the kids.

“These children are so pretty!”

“How adorable!”

Jesse was even grinning at everyone cutely, winning their favor all at once.

“Gavin, they’re all saying that I’m pretty!” bragged Jesse to Gavin.

“Yeah!” He blushed.

Initially, he could not get used to sitting in the trolley. However, he started to find it super fun.

“Zachary, Oliver, Jasper, would you like to sit here too?”

Zachary laughed. “If we go in, who’ll push you?”

“I can!”

Having enjoyed his ride, Gavin wanted his brothers to enjoy it too.

“It’s fine. We’ve sat inside before, so you should enjoy it to your heart’s content today!”

Sometimes, Zachary pitied Gavin for having not experienced such fun before.

“Thanks!” Gavin beamed.

When Benjamin glanced at the wide smile on Gavin’s face, a gentle look crept into his eyes. It’s rare to see this little guy so happy!

Staring at the kids, Arissa offered, “Sweethearts, take anything that you want to eat.”

“Anything?”

Zachary’s eyes sparkled as he turned around and looked at Arissa.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 389

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 389

My Sons Will Grow Up To Be Macho

Arissa glanced at him. “Nothing fried.”

Zachary stuck his tongue out. However, they still pushed the trolley to the snacks section and happily chose some.

Following them closely, Arissa said, “I’ll give you five minutes to choose.”

The kids exclaimed in shock, “Gavin, Jesse, quickly come down and take some snacks! Otherwise, Mommy won’t buy them for us.”

After Jesse scrambled to her feet, Jasper and Oliver quickly carried her out of the trolley.

Gavin also came down anxiously.

Afraid that he would fall, Zachary held his arm.

Arissa went forward to carry him out directly.

Immediately, the five kids ran to grab some snacks.

While Arissa grinned, Benjamin frowned. “Are you letting them each such unhealthy food?”

When she turned around to look at him, she saw him staring at him with a picky expression.

“It’s fine if they only eat it occasionally.”

What’s important is that the kids are happy. It’s nice to bring them shopping once in a while.

Benjamin’s brows knitted together. Within a short while, the trolley was filled with snacks.

While pushing the trolley, the kids snatched any snacks that they saw.

As Benjamin did not have a chance to speak to her about the kids' clothing, he raised it up to Arissa now, "Jesse's a boy. Is it appropriate to let him wear pink clothes? He's not a girl!"

Stunned, Arissa stared at him for a while before averting her gaze. Her lips twitched as she suppressed her laughter.

I'll not tell him that Jesse's actually a girl.

"What matters more is whether the kids like it or not!"

When Benjamin heard that, he frowned and said solemnly, "If the kids are still ignorant, they need to be guided by adults. Do you want your kids to be girly in the future?"

Arissa did not expect him to think so far ahead.

She declared confidently, "Don't worry! My sons will definitely not be girly after they grow up! They'll definitely be macho."

Looking at how unbothered she was, Benjamin pursed his lips furiously.

Meanwhile, Arissa caught up with the kids to pick her favorite snacks too.

"Mommy, didn't you say that we cannot buy any fried foods? Why are you taking them?" When Oliver noticed her, he stared at her intently behind his glasses.

"I suddenly want to eat them. It's not you who's eating them, anyway!" Arissa flashed a grin at him before selecting the other snacks.

Oliver shot a glance at her before turning around and taking his favorite snacks.

When Benjamin saw Arissa being as excited as a child while she picked out her snacks, he sighed in exasperation.

"Don't just stand there! Push the trolley for us!" ordered Arissa directly as she glanced at him.

Benjamin frowned, feeling unhappy. However, he still walked forward to push the trolley.

Others felt envious upon witnessing this scene.

"Look at how thoughtful her husband is! He knows how to help them push the trolley, but look at you! All you know is to look at your phone! Others might think that I'm bringing my adult son out."

“That man is so handsome and sweet. If I bought so many snacks with my children, my husband will definitely nag at me. But he didn’t even say a word...”

“The entire family is so good-looking! Are they celebrities? That man is even more famous than a star. Look at his height and figure...”

Arissa rolled her eyes when she heard all those praises for Benjamin.

He’s that amazing?

She turned around and cast a glance over her shoulder at Benjamin.

When he met her gaze, a grim look crept into his eyes.

What’s up with her gaze? Does she have a problem with me?

Arissa averted her gaze and saw that the kids were still busy snatching the snacks.

“Time’s almost up! Is there anything else that you want to buy?”

“Yes! Yes!”

“Time isn’t up yet! You’re lying, Mommy!” exclaimed the five kids. They tossed the snacks into the trolley before running away to grab more stuff.

When Benjamin saw the kids behaving like that in public, he frowned.

“Slow down!”

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 390

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 390

Benjamin Made Jesse Cry

“If you’re any slower, Mommy won’t buy it for us anymore!”

Jesse huffed and turned around to run off. She did not even put the things into the cart properly, so they fell to the ground.

Benjamin then hunched over to pick up the things to put inside the cart, but the moment he saw the cart full of junk food, he halted in his tracks.

In the next second, he put what he had picked up back onto the shelf.

When the girl came back and saw what Benjamin did, she turned anxious.

“Mr. Graham, why did you take my stuff out of the cart?”

When he looked into her red eyes, he found himself stumped.

“Mommy, Mr. Graham took my things out of the cart!” the girl immediately tattled to her mother.

The moment she realized her daughter was about to cry, Arissa hastily consoled, “Mommy will take it back for you, okay?”

Jesse pouted as tears welled up in her eyes. She looked like the epitome of misery.

Left without a choice, Benjamin took back the things from the shelf and softened his tone.

His head was starting to ache, and he realized he could not stand to watch Jesse’s tears.

Doesn’t the little one cry a lot? Jesse is so different from the boys.

“Here, I took them back for you.”

“Jesse, help yourself. I won’t take your stuff out of the cart anymore.”

“Hmph!”

Jesse huffed before pouting.

Arissa then shot Benjamin a glare and chided, “What’s the matter with you? Why did you have to take them all out?”

Benjamin was speechless at that.

“Sweetheart, you still have time, so hurry and get something you like to eat,” Arissa said to Jesse as she ruffled her hair.

Immediately, Jesse’s eyes lit up, and some of her tears went away. “Really?”

“Yes,” Arissa affirmed.

“Hurry now, or your brothers are going to get them all.”

“Okay!”

The girl then wiped her tears and sniffled before running off for her snacks.

When Arissa turned to look at Benjamin, she noticed the guilty look on his face.

He then explained, "There are too many junk foods in here, so I was thinking of taking some out."

Arissa rolled her eyes at him and whispered, "Don't you know how to be discreet? If you want to take it out, you can't let the kids see you."

Benjamin pursed his lips. I did do it discreetly. Who knew the kid was going to come back so quickly?

Right then, Gavin, Zachary, Oliver, and Jasper rushed back to them.

"Mr. Graham, how can you do this? Did you take our snacks out too?"

Benjamin did not know how to reply to the children's questions.

"I didn't take yours out; I just took out Jesse's," he explained, but the four boys refused to believe him.

Jasper and Oliver then dug through the food in the cart.

A beat later, they huffed, "No wonder the things in the cart are getting lesser and lesser even though we've been taking so many snacks!"

Benjamin blinked in silence.

"I don't want you to push the cart anymore! We'll do it ourselves."

With that said, Gavin pushed the cart away, not trusting Benjamin to help out anymore.

"Hmph! I don't want you to push this anymore either," said Zachary with a scoff before helping Gavin push the cart. Both hurried away for more snacks.

Meanwhile, Arissa was watching Benjamin with a gleeful look on her face, thinking, You did this to yourself.

Benjamin narrowed his eyes and whipped his head around to look at her.

At that, Arissa quickly looked away. Once the children were done choosing their snacks, she brought them away to the other aisles.

The five children were joyous throughout the shopping trip.

An hour later, they went to pay for the cart full of food.

After all, the butler was in charge of purchasing household necessities, so Arissa did not need to buy them at all.

Benjamin trailed behind them. When they reached the counter, he took out his card.

Arissa noticed it, but she did not stop him from paying for the food.

As they had bought too many things, they needed a few bags to pack them all in.

When Arissa pushed the shopping cart out, Benjamin pulled her away and said, "I'll do it."

She did not reject him as she stepped aside and leisurely watched the man busy away.

"Put them inside the cart before pushing it out."

"Okay."

Once Benjamin placed all the bags into the cart, he began pushing it toward the outside.

"Sweethearts, let's go!" Arissa called out to the five children. Once they were by her side, the family of seven left the supermarket together.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 391

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 391

Mistress

Benjamin asked the bodyguard to drive the car to the entrance of the mall.

Once they came out of the building, the bodyguard swiftly took their things and placed them into the car.

"Mr. Graham, let us."

"Hop in." After Benjamin opened the car door, he carried the children into the car.

Arissa did the same as well.

After buckling their seatbelts, Benjamin closed the car door.

Without needing Benjamin to urge her, Arissa went into the car, closed the door, and buckled her seatbelt.

Benjamin then took the car keys from his bodyguard and strode to the other side to enter the car.

Soon, they drove off.

When Miranda York saw Arissa, her eyes went wide.

When did she come back?

Once she noticed the man with Arissa, her eyes widened even more.

He's so handsome! Moreover, he's definitely a rich man! How can this b*tch Arissa get everything good? Who's that man?

Miranda gritted her teeth in jealousy as she stared at the expensive car and the bodyguards' car following Arissa's car.

Instantly, she called home.

"Mom, I saw Arissa just now. She's still alive, and she's with a man. She must be someone's sugar baby! She even pretended not to know me when I called out to her."

Miranda refused to believe that Arissa had a proper relationship with the man, so she deliberately twisted the truth and spun an outrageous tale.

Soon, Regan York, Arissa's father, heard Miranda's words.

Livid, he slammed his palm onto the coffee table and bellowed, "Outrageous! Why didn't she come home to see us if she was still alive? Does she still think of us as her family?"

"Don't be mad. Issa probably just came back. She might come and visit you tomorrow. There's also a possibility that Miranda saw the wrong person..." Heather Lane consoled Regan, portraying herself to be the kind mother standing up for Arissa.

"How can she possibly have gotten the wrong person? How can Miranda not recognize her own sister?" Regan fumed. "Despicable girl! She went missing and made me clean up after her mess, and now, she's shamelessly become someone's mistress! Even if she's shameless, I'm not! Call her right now and have her come back here right away. I'm going to break her legs!"

Heather was secretly delighted at how enraged Regan was.

"I-I don't have her number," Heather said cautiously to Regan.

Regan furrowed his brows.

That's right. She's been missing for such a long time. We don't even have her number now.

"Call her old number."

Left without a choice, Heather dialed Arissa's old number, but the call did not go through. "The call won't go through."

"D*mn it!"

Regan threw the television remote in a fit of fury.

Nevertheless, Arissa had no idea how much the Yorks are cursing at her.

After she and Benjamin returned to the Graham residence, she brought the five children upstairs for their showers.

After shopping for the entire night, the children were exhausted. Once they were done with their showers, they all obediently went to bed to sleep.

Arissa only left to take her shower after the children were asleep.

Just as she closed the door behind her, four of the children sat upright on their beds.

The next thing they did was take out their laptops and began using them.

The only one who remained asleep was Jesse.

Gavin said, "We've got to be extra careful. Benjamin's hacker is really skillful."

Zachary gave him a confident grin and replied, "This is nothing to me."

Oliver nodded. "Don't worry, Gavin. We're equally skillful."

Jasper urged, "Let's hurry up then."

Thus, the four children rapidly typed away.

In less than a minute, the content that Benjamin had asked his men to work on appeared.

Once the children realized what it was about, their eyes widened, and their jaws went slack.

Then, they turned to look at each other, baffled.

Jasper was the first to speak. "We're all here, so why is he still looking for the children?"

"Yes, it's strange."

Zachary frowned, as confused as his brother.

Oliver then said, "Who really is Mr. Graham looking for? Why is he using Gavin's photo?"

Right then, a glint flashed past Gavin's eyes, and he whispered, "Could it be that... we have more brothers?"

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 392

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 392

Another Brother

Meanwhile, when Arissa went back into her room, she called Bradley.

"Bradley, do you have any news about the kid yet?"

"No," Bradley replied as he continued analyzing the data on his computer. "Boss, I've received a part of the data. I'm still sorting it through. When I'm done, we'll comb the cities one by one."

Hearing that, Arissa drew her brows together.

This is tough, but this is the only way to find my child. No matter how hard this is, I won't give up.

"Send me a copy." A second later, a thought popped into Arissa's mind. "Say, where do you think Danna might have sent the kid to? Could she have arranged for them to be with friends or family?"

"Boss, you're so smart! Why didn't I think about this earlier? This is very likely! If that woman stole the kid away to stop Benjamin from getting the kid, she'll surely want to stay involved. If she's not going to have her family or friends raising the kid, then she must have sent the kid somewhere. We'll still be able to find clues to the kid's whereabouts. I'm going to check her connections right now. I'll go through each and everyone she knows. Then, I'll pretend to get close to them and look into them," Bradley exclaimed.

Arisa thought that was a good plan. At the very least, it was a better plan than going through all of the children of a specific age in the country.

"Check both sides," was what Arissa instructed him, for she did not want to let any clues slip past her at all.

"Yes, Boss."

After a moment of silence, Bradley consoled, "Boss, stay calm. We'll find the kid without further delay, but this is going to take a while. You'll have to ready yourself for the likelihood that we won't be finding the kid so soon."

"I know. Send me the data in a while. Remember to take breaks too," Arissa said to Bradley before ending the call and heading off to the bathroom.

Just as she entered the bathroom, the four children, who were by the door, ran back to their room.

No one realized they had been there a moment ago.

Gavin looked at Jasper, Oliver, and Zachary.

He then said in a solemn tone, "Mommy's looking for this kid too."

Zachary's brows were drawn together as he nodded and said, "It seems like Mommy had another kid."

Right then, Jasper and Oliver shared a look.

Oliver suggested, "Why don't we ask Mommy about it?"

Instantly, the others whipped their heads over to look at him. Jasper frowned and sat down on the couch.

"We've asked her things a few times before, but Mommy never tells us anything. Will she really give us an answer if we ask her like this?"

"Mommy must be scared of us being worried, and that's why she's refusing to tell us about it," Zachary said determinedly before turning to Gavin. "It's just like Gavin. We didn't know about him when we were overseas too."

"Mommy's hiding things from us! She won't tell us anything!" Oliver huffed.

A moment later, Gavin blinked. "If Mommy doesn't want us to know about it, we'll pretend not to know about it."

Zachary glanced at him before expressing his agreement.

“Sure, we can pretend not to know anything, but we can also secretly look for that kid.”

At that, Zachary looked at Oliver and Jasper.

His two younger brothers had nothing to say to that, for they were planning to just heed their older brothers’ words.

“How are we going to start looking for them?”

Jasper was baffled.

Not even his mother and father had a clue where the child was.

Upon hearing Jasper’s question, the four brothers fell into a stumped silence.

“Let’s start looking by searching how the kid disappeared. I’m sure we’d be able to find something from there, right?” Oliver blurted out.

That was something Gavin and Zachary thought of as well.

“Danna snatch me away back then, so naturally, our brother must have been taken by her as well.”

“We’ll start from Danna.”

A sly glint flashed past Zachary’s eyes.

Oliver and Jasper turned to their brother, “Zachary, did you come up with a plan?”

Zachary motioned for them to come closer to him before he whispered, “We’ll look into Danna’s whereabouts five years ago.”

Immediately, Oliver, Jasper, and Gavin’s eyes lit up.

That’s a good idea!

“How do we do this?” Jasper asked.

“How silly!” Zachary smacked his brother on his head. “By checking through the surveillance footage!”

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 393

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 393

Busted

Oliver glanced at Zachary and reminded him, "Not everywhere has a surveillance camera five years ago."

"That's right, but it's still a chance. Maybe we'll find a clue or two," Zachary confidently said before turning to Gavin.

"Gavin, do you still remember how old you were when you were sent back to Mr. Graham?"

Gavin nodded. Even though he himself did not remember it, his family had talked about it before.

"I think I was sent back a few days after I was born. We have a surveillance camera by the doorway, so we'll be able to check the time as well!"

With that said, Gavin quickly looked for the surveillance footage. Soon, the four boys were tapping away to check the house surveillance camera.

Meanwhile, Benjamin was in his study when the alarms of the system suddenly rang. A wary look flickered in his eyes.

Benjamin did not intercept the intruder. Instead, he looked into the intruder's information instead.

"Mr. Graham, someone has hacked into Yaleview's surveillance system," the butler, Edwin, quickly reported to Benjamin after receiving the news from the bodyguard.

"I understand. You can leave it be."

After staring at the dot that they had tracked down, Benjamin stood up and left the study.

"We don't need to do anything about it?" Edwin asked, perplexed.

"Go rest," was all Benjamin told him before he went upstairs.

When Edwin noticed that Benjamin seemed unfazed by the news, he had no choice but to ignore the matter as per instructed.

All of the sudden, Benjamin abruptly opened the door to the children's room and stared right into the four boys' panicking eyes.

Busted.

Looks of fear and anxiety flashed past the four boys' faces. They were scared that Benjamin would lose his temper.

At the same time, Gavin quickly turned off his laptop.

"What are you doing?" Benjamin asked in a low voice, his grave expression a petrifying one.

Gavin then quickly stood in front of his younger brothers before looking at Benjamin. "We're playing a game!"

Benjamin raised a brow and stared at the lying boy.

In the next second, he pressed his lips tightly together.

"Gavin, when have you started telling lies?"

It's only been a few days, but he's already lying like her.

Gavin glared at Benjamin.

When Benjamin saw the stubborn look on his son's face, he felt a sudden headache.

"Why did you hack into the house's surveillance camera?"

As he spoke, he swept his gaze across the four children.

Instantly, the boys looked guilty. After all, they were only children; they would panic when they were caught red-handed.

Finally, Zachary mustered up the courage and said to Benjamin, "We're just checking something."

Benjamin narrowed his eyes at the way the brothers were protecting each other.

"What were you checking?"

Benjamin was surprised when he traced the hacker's location to the children's room earlier.

He thought it would be Arissa behind the hacking, but it turned out to be the boys.

The boys continued pursing their lips.

In the meantime, once Arissa was done with her shower, she came out to hear voices outside.

Curious, she stepped out of the bedroom, only to see Benjamin interrogating the boys.

At the same time, the boys had their heads lowered, looking as if they were getting berated for something they had done wrong.

“What’s the matter?”

Arissa turned to look at the serious man.

Benjamin glanced to the side before his eyes darkened.

Arissa had just come out of the shower, and she was wearing a lace nightgown. Her skin was particularly fair against the fabric, and he could even catch a whiff of fragrance from her direction.

Benjamin swallowed.

“You’ll have to ask them about it.”

Arissa averted her eyes from the man’s burning gaze and turned to look at the children instead.

“What’s the matter? Why aren’t you asleep?”

She remembered clearly that she had waited until they had fallen asleep before heading to her showers.

Yet, not only were they not asleep, but they were even getting interrogated by Benjamin.

Arissa was puzzled.

Gavin only pursed his lips in silence.

After a glance at Gavin, Zachary decided to come clean.

“Mommy, we wanted to look into something, so we hacked into Mr. Graham’s house’s surveillance system.”

Arissa gasped. “What for?”

The kids’ been rowdy recently! Why did they do this?

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World

Chapter 394

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 394

Hacking His Phone

Afraid that Benjamin would be angry, Arissa stole a glance at the man and was greeted by the sight of Benjamin's serious expression

A large part of her confidence fled her, and Arissa half-whispered, "They didn't destroy your surveillance system, did they?"

Benjamin shot her a look.

She fell silent.

"Mommy, we didn't! We just went into the system for the surveillance footage," Jasper hastily said.

"That's right. We didn't do anything. We just took a peek at the information we wanted," Oliver chimed in.

That made Arissa even more curious. She walked over to her children and crouched down.

"Tell Mommy what were you looking for."

Promptly, the boys clamped their mouths shut and looked at her guiltily.

Arissa raised a brow.

They're acting strangely, she thought.

Thus, she lowered her voice and instructed, "Be honest."

Hearing that, they looked at her before sneaking a glance at Benjamin.

"We just wanted to find out when Danna had brought me back?" Gavin finally whispered.

A shudder wracked Arissa's body. "Why are you looking into this?"

Benjamin was as confused as she was as he looked at the boys.

After peeking at Arissa, Gavin began worrying his lips.

He then lowered his head and muttered, "We want to help to look for our other brother."

Brother?

For a moment, Arissa could not decipher what he was talking about.

Zachary then clarified Gavin's words by saying, "Mommy, we're just hoping to find that other brother of ours a little faster."

Arissa stiffened. She was astounded and confounded about how they had found out about it.

Benjamin found it peculiar as well. He turned to Arissa and asked, "Did you tell them about it?"

"No!" Arissa blurted out.

She then ruffled their hair and queried, "How did you find out about this?"

Again, the boys fell silent.

After all, they had found out about it themselves.

"Did you overhear our conversation?"

Benjamin narrowed his eyes at the boys.

"No way!"

Zachary shot him a glare.

"We found out after hacking into your phone," Gavin confessed as he looked right at Benjamin.

Benjamin raised a brow, thinking, The little punk's gutsy. I can't believe he's hacking into my phone now.

Arissa looked at Benjamin from the corner of her eyes. When she realized that the man had frightened the children, she quickly hugged them.

At the same time, she reminded them, "You can't hack into people's phones like this the next time, got it?"

If Arissa had to be honest, sometimes she found the children a little too smart to handle.

The boys nodded. "Okay."

"Mommy, we were just worried about you. We wanted to know why you were crying," Oliver quickly explained to Arissa, not wanting to get a scolding from her.

Arissa was relieved by his response.

Ultimately, she was the one at fault.

"Mommy didn't want to tell you about it because I was scared you'd be overthinking things."

At that, Zachary's eyes lit up. "Mommy, did you really have another baby?"

Staring at the enthusiastic boys, Arissa nodded.

"But he's not your baby brother; he's your older brother."

The corner of Zachary's lips twitched at that.

An older brother? I'm going to be even further down the line?

"Mommy, is he my older brother too?" Gavin quickly asked.

Arissa turned to Gavin and sighed. "I've forgotten. I don't know who's older and who's younger."

Arissa had not even seen her children before they brought her babies away.

"Mommy, why didn't you tell us about this? Why did you hide this from us? Gavin too!" Oliver complained.

Arissa gave him an apologetic smile. "I didn't want you to worry."

Right then, Gavin excitedly asked, "Mommy, does that mean there are six of us?"

Arissa nodded. That was something she was certain of.

"I gave birth to six of you back then."

The boys chuckled, but in the next second, they sighed.

Where is the brother whom we haven't met?

"The few of you shouldn't make things worse. Daddy will find him," Benjamin warned the children.

"We'll be able to find him quicker with more help," Zachary insisted.

He did not think that they were making things worse.

"That's right. You hid this from us, but we still found out it all by ourselves. This is how capable we are!" Jasper pointed out confidently.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 395

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 395

We Will Find Him

There was nothing Benjamin could say to refute.

After all, the children had managed to hack into his phone, which was not something normal hackers were capable of doing.

Once again, Benjamin was taken aback by how skillful they were.

When Arissa realized that Benjamin had been stunned by the children's intellect, a chuckle escaped her.

Simultaneously, she was proud of the children's wits.

Nevertheless, that did not mean she could let them off.

"Let the adults find your brother, so don't intervene in this anymore. If anything goes wrong, your daddy will be distracted because he'll have to deal with another matter."

The boys pouted in response.

Jasper then grumbled under his breath, "Maybe we'll end up finding him before you do."

Arissa patted his head.

"Mommy's just worried that you'll accidentally ruin someone's system. This isn't safe."

"Mommy, we'll be careful!" Oliver insisted.

With a smile, Arissa gently tapped his nose.

"All right. Hurry to your beds. It's late now."

They were sleeping just now. I can't believe they climbed out of their beds to do this.

Zachary cheekily giggled. "Mommy, it's all because you didn't tell us about this."

"So I'm to blame?"

Arissa shot him a look.

Just then, Gavin abruptly hugged Arissa, who froze in response.

"What's the matter, Sweetheart?"

"Mommy, don't worry. We'll surely find my little brother."

Touched by his words, Arissa patted the boy's back and hummed with a smile, "Alright."

Zachary then glimpsed at Gavin and said, "Little brother? Gavin, he might be your big brother!"

Gavin turned to him. "Yes, he might be my big brother."

Zachary sighed. "I might no longer be the second in line!"

Arissa let out an amused chuckle.

Jasper then giggled at Oliver. "That means I've even younger now."

"You're all the same age. It's just that one came out before another," Arissa consoled before urging them to go to sleep again.

"Hurry to your bed now. It's late. You'll wake the young one," Benjamin urged as well when he saw Jesse turned in the bed.

The boys spared him a glance before giving Arissa a cheek and climbing into their beds.

"Good night, Mommy!"

"Good night, Sweethearts." Arissa then tucked them in.

"Good night, Mr. Graham!" Jasper cried out to Benjamin.

Benjamin's lips curled. "Good night."

Zachary and Oliver then did the same. On the other hand, Gavin was angry with Benjamin, so he turned away and refused to wish him good night.

Benjamin furrowed his brows. Once the children were all asleep, he asked Arissa to go to his room.

Arissa left the night lamp on before leaving the room and closing the door behind her.

She then glanced in the direction of Benjamin's room and hesitated.

However, a certain person was nowhere to be found when she entered the room.

Instead, she could hear the sounds of running water from the bathroom.

Arissa was speechless for a moment.

What? He called me here, but he went to take a shower instead?

Right as she was about to return to the guest room, the man's voice traveled out of the bathroom.

"Give me a moment. I'll be right there."

Arissa's eyes flicked toward the bathroom, a little startled.

Can he see through walls? How did he know that I'm here?

Still, there was nothing Arissa could do but wait in the room for him.

A few minutes later, Benjamin finally emerged from the bathroom.

When he came out, Arissa had been looking at the decorations in his room. Upon hearing the sound of the door opening, she spun around to look at him.

At that moment, her eyes met the man's muscular physique.

It was a sight that stunned her a little.

Arissa gulped.

A glint flashed past Benjamin's eyes, and he strode toward her.

Immediately, the man's unique scent rushed toward her and enveloped her.

Arissa's heart began thumping loudly as a blush crept upon her face.

"Are you enjoying the view?"

"What?"

Arisa's heart skipped a beat, and her hand shook. Immediately, the piece of decoration she was holding in her hands fell.

A man of swift response, Benjamin leaned over and caught it in time.

"Do you know how much this thing costs?" he questioned, a dangerous glint in his eyes.

Arisa swallowed again, shocked.

A beat later, she squeezed out, "How much?"

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 396

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 396

Hacking Their Surveillance Cameras

Benjamin glanced at Arisa and said indifferently, "Even selling you won't be enough to cover the compensation."

Arisa was bursting with fury. "If it weren't for you... I wouldn't have dropped it!"

"What did I do?" Benjamin raised his eyebrows intimidatingly.

Arisa froze for a moment.

She pushed him away furiously and went to stand at the side. At the same time, she was angry with herself.

How could I let myself be distracted by his good looks?

Benjamin looked at her indignant expression from the corner of his eyes. His eyes glinted with amusement.

Then, he put the ornament back to its position.

"Why did you call me here?" Arisa reminded Benjamin when she saw him arranging his things with no inclination to speak.

Benjamin turned to her. "Did you teach Zachary and the other children hacking skills?"

Arisa was stunned for a moment. She didn't expect him to bring this up.

"Yes!" She nodded in response.

Her children followed her around since they were little and learned by observing what she did. Furthermore, they liked programming, so she taught them.

To her surprise, her children showed superb talent in it, and their skills now surpassed hers.

Since Benjamin found out about their hacking skills, there was no point hiding them from him.

"You taught them well!" Benjamin praised suddenly, prompting Arissa to look at him in shock.

However, he began criticizing her right after that. "It is right to teach some skills, but it is wrong to teach them bad behaviors!"

Arissa knew that he was blaming her. She thought he was accusing her of allowing the children to hack into his surveillance cameras.

"I didn't know the children hacked into your surveillance cameras." Arissa felt indignant about his wrongful accusation. "Furthermore, they are your children, so isn't this their home too? What's wrong with hacking into the surveillance cameras in their home to find something? Is that against the law?"

Benjamin remained calm as he looked at Arissa's furious expression.

He liked that she called this place 'home.'

"I didn't say that they broke the law. They can check the surveillance records any time they want," Benjamin answered without a hint of anger.

Arissa was stunned before asking, "What were you talking about then?"

Benjamin looked at her with an ambiguous smile. "Why are you agitated?"

Arissa replied indignantly, "Weren't you blaming me for misguiding the children?"

How dare he denies it now?

Benjamin answered, "What I wanted to say was you should not lie before the children. Now, Gavin learned to lie too!"

Arissa had a stunned expression.

After a moment, she glared at Benjamin and retorted, "When did I lie before the children?"

Benjamin furrowed his brow. Does this mean that she only lied before me?

Arisa became stern as she glared at Benjamin. "Even if I said something wrong, it was for the sake of our children."

Benjamin's expression turned solemn. "You lied to me many times!"

Arisa was rendered speechless. He is bringing this up again.

"Is there anyone who has never told a lie? Have you never lied before? Do you dare to swear that you have never told a lie?" Arissa replied.

Her answer rendered him speechless.

"What lie did Gavin say? Why are you finding fault with me? Since he grew up with you, doesn't that mean he learned to lie from you?" Arissa continued furiously.

Benjamin raised Gavin, so Gavin shared the same mannerism and character as him. I didn't spend much time with Gavin, so how can I influence him? Even if he learned to lie, I don't find anything wrong with that. Sometimes, a lie doesn't hurt anyone but lessens the potential damage.

"I caught them red-handed, but they still denied that they did it!" Benjamin groaned softly.

Arisa glanced at him and could not resist rolling her eyes. "The children were scared because you were too strict. Who would dare to tell the truth in their position? Didn't they all tell the truth after I asked them?"

Benjamin frowned at her response.

Is she happy that the children listened to her?

"Isn't it wrong for the children to lie?" Benjamin replied unhappily.

Arisa did not wish to continue arguing with him. "It is wrong for the children to lie!"

Benjamin was stumped.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 397

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 397

What Is Your Relationship With Bradley

Benjamin did not expect her to agree with him.

Therefore, he smirked and said, "So?"

So what?

Arissa pursed her lips. "Do you have anything else to say? If not, I'm going to bed!"

Benjamin looked at her with a stunned expression. Since he did not say anything, Arissa turned around and left.

At the door, she glanced at him and reminded him, "Remember to take your medicine!"

A glint flashed across Benjamin's eyes, and he grunted in response.

Arissa returned to the guest room and lay on the bed. She could not calm down for a long time.

A tall and sturdy masculine figure kept appearing in her mind. Furthermore, he had just come out of a bath and was wrapped only in a towel.

Arissa turned in her bed and covered her face with a blanket. After a while, she finally emerged from it with a flushed face.

She suddenly remembered about the child and sat on the bed. Then, she checked her phone.

Bradley had sent her something.

Therefore, Arissa went to get her laptop and turned it on. She opened the email and began focusing on the investigation.

If the child has been registered on the census, the registration date should be close to the child's birth date...

Arissa narrowed the search to children registered within a few months. It reduced the number of children tremendously.

Then, Arissa kept searching through the records for a long time.

Benjamin came out of his study at one o'clock in the morning and went upstairs. As he was about to return to his bedroom, he noticed the light under Arissa's door.

He paused his step and went toward her door.

Then, he knocked on the door, but there was no response.

Did she fall asleep and forget to turn off the light?

Benjamin opened the door and saw the bed, but it was empty.

His eyes flickered.

Then, he glanced around and noticed Arissa sitting at the coffee table. She was busy working before her laptop.

Thus, he went to her and asked, "What are you doing? Why aren't you in bed?"

Arissa jumped at the sudden voice.

She glared at Benjamin and complained, "You scared me!"

Is he a ghost? How did he appear without making a noise?

Benjamin raised his eyebrows and explained, "I knocked just now!"

"Really?" Arissa looked at him with a confused expression. She did not hear anything just now.

Benjamin narrowed his eyes when he saw children's registration records on her computer screen. "Did you find these?"

Arissa looked at the screen. "Bradley found them. I'm sorting through the data. Many of these children are now in kindergarten, so we should be able to find their photos in the kindergartens' records. Then, we should be able to find the child soon."

Suddenly, Benjamin became gloomy, causing the atmosphere in the room to turn tense.

Arissa could sense the sudden change in his mood and turned to him. However, her heart skipped when she saw his handsome but stern expression.

"What's wrong?" she asked.

Benjamin had an intimidating gaze.

His eyes were cold and contained a hint of anger.

"What is your relationship with Bradley?" Benjamin felt indignant when he remembered Bradley bringing her to the prison that morning.

Arissa was stunned before answering, "Isn't it obvious? He called me 'Boss,' so I treated him as a younger brother!"

Benjamin frowned and remained unhappy.

They seem close!

Benjamin's expression darkened at that thought.

Arisa could not understand what was wrong with him.

She looked away and continued with her investigation.

Suddenly, Benjamin sat beside her and took her laptop from her.

Arisa was stunned.

"Go to sleep. I will search for the child!" Benjamin sent out Gavin's photo and used software to scan the data.

Arisa was dazzled by his skills.

Benjamin glared at Arisa when he noticed she still had not gone to bed. "You should go to sleep now!"

Arisa pursed her lips and said, "Shouldn't you sleep too?"

Benjamin's eyes flashed, and he leaned closer to her.

He gave an ambiguous smirk. "Do you want me to accompany you?"

Arisa felt his hot breath against her skin and began to blush.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 398

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 398

Benjamin Looks For Danna

She looked down and uttered, "That's not true!"

When her computer was taken away by him, Arisa had no choice but to go to bed.

Benjamin carried on looking through the data.

Arisa glanced at his profile and added, "You should sleep early too. We'll look for it tomorrow."

Benjamin glanced at her and said, "Okay."

Very soon, he had finished checking the list of children who had enrolled in the kindergarten, but he found nothing.

Benjamin frowned.

Logically, a five-year-old child should be attending a kindergarten by then.

Some children even started attending much earlier when they were two or three years of age. How is it that I can't find this child?

Perhaps, the child has never even been to school before.

Benjamin considered all the possibilities.

He sent the information to Ethen before shutting down the computer.

After taking a look at the woman who was sleeping, he turned off the light in the room and left.

Benjamin returned to his room and made a phone call.

"Look for children who aren't attending schools, in particular the countryside areas."

"Yes, Mr. Graham," answered Ethen sleepily.

He had just laid down to rest when he received Benjamin's phone call.

Benjamin told Ethen that he would send him the data for him to look through. After that, Benjamin hung up the phone.

The following day.

Ethen did not sleep the entire night. The next morning, he came to the Graham residence and reported to Benjamin.

"Mr. Graham, I can't locate the child among the children who have enrolled in the kindergartens. I have checked once and also got a few others to look through, but we just can't find him."

They had all looked through the data without the use of any software.

Ethen was still shocked after he found out that Benjamin had another child.

Ms. York sure knows how to give birth!

Benjamin acknowledged him with a grunt and said nothing more.

Ethen saw that his boss was frowning deeply and asked, "Mr. Graham, do you really have another son?"

Benjamin looked up at him and raised his voice, "They said there are six babies!"

They?

Ethen was taken aback. Is he referring to Ms. York and Ms. Adams?

"Mr. Graham, it takes too much time and effort to search for him this way. Why don't you just ask Ms. Adams directly?"

"No!"

Arisa just got up. When she heard Ethen's suggestion, she objected immediately.

She walked into the study with her eyes on them.

"Even if we have to ask her, it will be me. Danna has warned me not to tell you!"

Benjamin frowned and reminded her in a deep voice, "Don't go and see her anymore!"

He then turned to Ethen and ordered, "Arrange for a meeting. I want to see her!"

"Yes, Mr. Graham." With that, Ethen left and got to work.

"Benjamin!"

Arisa was worried that Danna might become desperate.

"Don't worry. I will make sure everything is all right and won't let her leak out any information."

A look of viciousness flashed across Benjamin's eyes.

Ethen and the others had been investigating during the entire night, but there was no news. He had no idea when the child could be found.

The longer that dragged on, the more dangerous it would be for the child. The fastest way would be to ask Danna directly.

Arisa believed that Benjamin had the ability to do that, so in the end, she agreed.

"Mr. Graham, we are ready. Shall we get on?" reported Ethen.

Benjamin nodded and got up to leave the study.

Arissa had no choice but to take the children for breakfast before sending them to school.

When Benjamin arrived at the prison, it was not time for visitation yet.

However, the prison wardens had received their instructions earlier on, so they had already brought Danna out.

“Is Arissa here?”

Danna was very excited. That woman must have caved in.

No one answered her question.

Danna waited and waited, but there was no sign of Arissa.

“Why isn’t she here yet?”

Is it really Arissa?

Will Arissa come so early to see me?

It doesn’t seem to be visitation hours yet.

When the time got closer, Danna started to get anxious. She had a feeling that her visitor might be Benjamin.

The moment Benjamin appeared, Danna was both horrified and happy.

“Benjamin, are you here to get me out? I know I’m wrong. Please forgive me!”

Benjamin looked at her coldly without any emotion.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 399

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 399

I Do Not Know Where The Child Is

“You want me to get you out of here?” he ridiculed.

"You have hidden my son somewhere. What makes you think I'm going to get you out of here?"

Danna's face turned pale instantly. She looked at Benjamin with fear. He knows. He knows.

That bloody Arissa! I can't believe she told Benjamin.

"I don't know what you are talking about!"

Danna regained her composure very quickly and denied the accusation.

Benjamin narrowed his eyes.

"Benjamin, don't listen to what that woman has told you. She's lying to you!"

Danna was trying to smear Arissa.

In the past, her attempt might have worked. However, Benjamin knew her true colors by now.

He scoffed, "Danna! You better tell me the truth! I'm running out of patience!"

There was panic in Danna's eyes. "Benjamin, can you please get me out of here? A-As long as you let me out, I-I will tell you!"

She's trying to bargain with me!

A murderous aura flashed across Benjamin's eyes.

Recalling all the times when he had been duped by Danna, Benjamin became furious. He reached out with one hand and strangled her.

He was squeezing her neck so hard that the veins on his hand were popping out.

When Danna saw how infuriated Benjamin was, her terrified face turned red and then purple.

"Let... Help..."

There was no one else in the interrogation room except for Benjamin and her.

Even if Danna could scream, no one would come and rescue her.

Benjamin really wanted to strangle her to death, but the thought of his missing son changed his mind. At the very last moment, he released his hand.

Danna fell straight to the ground and looked extremely pathetic.

It was only after a long while before her breathing resumed to normalcy. Benjamin had nearly killed her.

Danna cowered in a corner of the room in terror.

She was trembling badly and eyed Benjamin with caution.

Benjamin took out a handkerchief and wiped his hand clean before throwing it aside.

The way he despised and hated her made Danna very upset.

However, at that moment, her fear outweighed her heartbrokenness.

In that instant, Benjamin was as horrifying as Hades.

He loomed over her and stared at her with contempt.

“I will only give you one chance. Even if you don’t say it, I will still find that child. But when that happens, don’t hope to live on. Or are you thinking that the Adams family will be able to fight against me?”

When Danna saw that he had become so heartless unlike the old days, her face turned paler.

That was her only chance to beg Benjamin to let her out of that awful place.

“Benjamin, if you let me out of here, I’ll tell you where the child is! I didn’t hurt him. I swear! Please believe me!”

Benjamin sneered.

Danna is good. During a time like this, she still wants to play games with me.

“You dare to set me up. What makes you think I will believe you?”

As far as he was concerned, if Danna had the guts to abuse Gavin, he wondered what she would have done to the other child.

Benjamin’s handsome face turned grim when that thought crossed his mind.

“If you hurt him, I won’t let you go. Tell me!”

Danna shivered in fear.

That child is already dead. How will I know where he is?

But, if Benjamin finds out, I'll die a horrible death for sure!

Danna shuddered at the thought of it.

Benjamin lost his patience and took out his phone. "Take over Adams Group!"

Danna's eyes widened in fear, and she crawled all the way to Benjamin. She held on to his legs and begged him.

"Benjamin, please don't do this to me... Please spare my family!"

Benjamin kicked her aside, and Danna slammed hard against the wall. With one cough, she spat out blood.

"Benjamin, please let my family off. I'll tell you. I'll tell you."

Benjamin narrowed his eyes and looked at her icily.

"I don't know where that child is..."

Danna noticed the dangerous glint in Benjamin's eyes, and with a shudder, she continued, "I'm so sorry! I lost him. It's true. Originally, there were two of them. When I returned after buying something, one of them disappeared. No matter how bold I am, I won't dare to hide your son. If I have brought both of them to you, you would have been happier."

Benjamin looked as if he was going to annihilate her right there and then.

Danna continued to hover in fear at the corner.

Read Novel You More Than Anything In The World Chapter 400

You More than Anything in the World Chapter 400

Crazy Woman

"How dare you still try to fool me!"

Benjamin's bloodshot eyes made her hair stand.

Danna was freaking out when she saw the murderous look in his eyes.

“No, I didn’t. I’m telling you the truth.”

Danna shook her head vigorously, and she was trembling so badly that her voice quavered.

“B-Benjamin, please don’t kill me...”

Danna was so frightened that she passed out.

Benjamin glanced at her with utter disdain before walking away.

He genuinely wanted to kill her, but it was not time yet.

“Mr. Graham, did you manage to get any information?” asked Ethen the moment he saw Benjamin walk out.

“Keep an eye on them!” instructed Benjamin. He then left the prison.

“Yes, Sir!”

Ethen followed him out and immediately arranged for people to keep a close watch on Danna and the Adams family.

Meanwhile, Arissa was sending the children to school.

“Mommy, will you be fetching us later?”

Jesse was clinging on to her.

Arissa got down on her knees and adjusted Jesse’s clothes. “Yes, I’ll be fetching all of you today!”

I broke my promise yesterday. I must make it up to them.

She tidied the clothes for the rest of her children too.

“Go on!”

“Mommy, bye bye!”

Gavin waved to Arissa with a smile, and so did his siblings.

“Mommy, bye bye!”

“Bye, Sweethearts!”

Arissa smiled lovingly as she waved goodbye to her children.

The five of them then held hands and walked into the school together.

She got into her car only after she was sure that they had gone in safely. Arissa then made a call to Benjamin.

The call was answered the moment it got through.

“Hello.”

The deep, familiar voice rang out in her ears.

“Benjamin, how did it go?”

Benjamin paused before answering, “I didn’t manage to find out anything!”

Arissa sank into her seat, and worry appeared on her face.

Even when Benjamin went personally to ask, he still failed to get the answer from Danna.

“Benjamin, why don’t you release her?”

As the days went by with no sign of the child, Arissa simply could not be at ease.

The thought of the child suffering somewhere made her clench with worry.

“It’s useless even if we release her!”

Benjamin lowered his voice before continuing, “Go home first. I’ll arrange for more people and expand the area of the search.”

Arissa bit on her lips nervously.

After she hung up the phone, the images of the child being abused filled her mind.

No, I can’t just sit around and wait. I have to go and find him.

Arissa calmed herself down and told the chauffeur to drive along the streets while she tried looking for the child.

When she saw some children playing at the playground, she got down from the car.

Arissa became more panicky when she saw that none of the children was her son.

“Sweetheart...”

Suddenly, she saw a child that resembled him. She rushed over and turned the child around. When she saw that it was not him, her heart fell.

That child got so frightened that he broke out in tears.

“What are you doing? Stop touching my child! Crazy woman!”

The parent of the boy berated her before quickly picking up the boy and walking away.

When Arissa’s bodyguard saw her worried expression, he advised her, “Ms. York, let’s go back home first. This isn’t a good way to look for anyone!”

“No. I have to find him as soon as possible. If not, he will be abused!”

Arissa teared up, and the dreaded feeling washed over her again.

When her bodyguard saw her like that, he informed Benjamin, “Mr. Graham, Ms. York refuses to go home. She’s looking for the child all over the streets...”

By the time Benjamin got to them, Arissa was acting like a mad woman.

She was looking for the child aimlessly.

He strode over to her and pulled her toward the car.

“Come back with me!”

“Let go of me! I want to find my child!”

Arissa struggled.

Maybe, my sweetheart is walking on the streets.

When she saw a few young beggars, she struggled even harder.

Arissa’s hand slipped out of Benjamin’s hand, and she rushed over to the young beggars.

One by one, she looked at them carefully.

No, no...

“Have you seen a child that looks like this one?”

She took out her phone and showed the young beggars the photo of her five children.

They shook their heads.

Arissa's eyes reddened.

Where is my sweetheart?